Ford plant's future at risk

■ Cancellation of LS could cost 300 Wixom jobs

By Phil Foley

SPECIAL TO THE NOVI NEWS

The mood at Ford's sprawling assembly complex here is not good. Sept. 2 hourly employees at the plant got written notice that production on the Lincoln LS will end in May 2006, and the plant's union bargaining committee has no reason to believe the plant's long-term prospects are good.

A month ago Wixom City Manager Michael Dorman was saying his contacts at Ford had assured him the company was looking for replacement products for the half-century old plant. This week Dorman's assistant, Tony Nowicki, said the city's heard nothing new.

Mark Mitchell, a member of

UAW Local 36's Bargaining Committee, said a retiring Ford vice president all but told him at Ford's annual joint conference with the UAW in Pittsburgh late last month that the plant is slated for closure.

"Roman Krygier told me, 'Wixom didn't do anything wrong; you're just tooled for the wrong platform, and you're out of the game,'" said Mitchell. Krygier is Ford's group vice president for Global Manufacturing.

In June Ford ended production of the Thunderbird with the loss of 150 jobs at the plant. Cancellation of the LS could cost nearly 300 more jobs at the plant, though UAW Local 36 President Dave Berry said no official word has come from the company, and the final cuts will depend on production and line speed for the main plant's last product, the Lincoln Town Car.

Ford's supercar, the Ford GT, is built in a separate building on the 320-acre complex by a relative handful of workers.

The end of the LS came as no surprise to anyone. Introduced midway through 1999 as a 2000 model, last year's full year's sales were actually lower than its introductory year.

Novi to get $175 more per pupil

■ Governor and legislators agree to state budget

By Ramez Khuri

STAFF WRITER

Jim Koster received some good news Friday. No, he didn't save any money by switching car insurance companies.

The assistant superintendent of business and finance for Novi schools did, however, learn that the budget Gov. Jennifer Granholm and legislative leaders came to an agreement on is going to help public school districts throughout Michigan by allowing them to receive $175 more per pupil this school year.

Koster originally budgeted $150 per student. With the increase, it means additional money to the district this school year totaling $152,000.

"This is going to help us," Koster said. "It maintains all our existing programs in this district for the 2005-06 school year. In 2006-07, hopefully the economy will be such where we can get a similar or like increase and get things back to normal so we can continually plan for the future."

The Novi Community School District's 2005-06 budget total amount, which was finalized July 1, is $62,650,000. The district received $33.4 million from the state last year and is going to receive $34.6 million this year. 51 percent of its revenue comes from the state. Koster budgeted for 6,250 students in the district this year, but it appears as though there will be more.

Greg Bird, director of communications for the state budget office, explained that the minimum foundation allowance for school districts is currently $5,700. That number will increase by $175 per pupil, and

"It maintains all our existing programs in this district for the 2005-06 school year."

Jim Koster
Assistant Superintendent of Business and Finance, Novi
Community Schools

higher education will receive an overall increase as well. In addition, no college or university will receive a cut.

"This is a very good budget for the future of education in Michigan," Bird said. "We recently found out at the latest revenue esti-imating conference there was some additional money that would be available to Michigan in the next fiscal year. Also, the budget makes a number of assumptions in terms of revenue for the coming year from the sale of state property to additional tax enforcement that the state will undertake."

Bird said that there will be some cuts in the budget as well as state departments across the board will be making reductions. Human and health care services for families and children are also going to be protected under the budget agreement.

"Despite the difficult economic times that Michigan has faced, we've been able to put a budget like this together that gives additional money to education, protects human services and does all of that without raising taxes," Bird said.

Cassis drops out of race

■ She'll run instead for state senate

By Pam Fleming
STAFF WRITER

Nancy Cassis labored over a big decision over the Labor Day Weekend.

Novi's state senator has dropped out of the Michigan governor's race.

Her energies will now go toward running for re-election as a state senator in 2006.

She'll support Dick DeVos, a wealthy businessman from Grand Rapids, as the Republican candidate for governor this year.

DeVos is former president of Amway/Alticore, based in Ada, Mich.

"I made the decision when I was in Connecticut with my daughter's family and my new little granddaughter, Ellie," she said Monday. Cassis said she was overwhelmed and inspired by the people she met across the state during her brief run for the Republican nomination to the top government spot in the state.

"This has been an incredible journey over the last seven months," she said. "I will continue to speak up, and out on the issues and principles so important to our citizens regarding bringing and restoring economic health to Michigan."

She said she learned a lot during her bid for the Republican nomination.

20 years and still loving it

■ Receptionist is a jack-of-all-trades at CC

By Ramez Khuri

She's there from 6:30 a.m. until 3:15 p.m. Monday through Friday and is busy that whole time.

She takes attendance, she greets the public, sorts the mail, helps visitors out, keeps track of health records for every student, and, oh yeah, answers the phones.

With a job like that, one would think the 73-year-old Donna Redford, receptionist/secretary at Catholic Central High School, would be slowing down. But boy, would they be wrong.

Redford started her job in 1986. She originally said she would do it for five years, but almost 20 years later, she still loves it.

"I was called in on an emergency," she said. "The secretary at the time came in on Easter Sunday and said she was leaving in two days. I received a call and was asked if I would come in until they found somebody."

That was in April. In May, Redford approached the principal at the time and asked if she could have the job, to which he replied, "yes." The school just celebrated its grand opening at its new campus in Novi on Sunday.

City council earmarks more forfeiture monies

■ Debt, range to be funded

By Pam Fleming
STAFF WRITER

The late Novi Police Chief Doug Shoenberger must have been smiling down from heaven during Monday night's city council meeting.

He would have most likely approved council members' decision on the use of federal forfeiture funds in the police department.

Council members agreed in a 5-2 vote to earmark $1.2 million of federal forfeiture funds to help pay off the department's building fund debt and another $1 million for a firearms range.

The council approved the expenditures in its second round of discussions on how to spend about $7 million the department will receive from the Department of Justice' Drug Enforcement Agency.

The money comes to the department following a nationwide two-year investigation of a large drug cartel.

The investigation began after Novi and Northville police found $4.8 million in drug-related money at the Studio Plus hotel in Novi and a rented home in Northville in March 2004.

Council agreed earlier to purchase equipment to facilitate the implementation of an 800 MHz radio system at a cost of $203,000. These funds will be used to purchase additional equipment for the police dispatch center.

The new radio system is being installed countywide. The creation of the new 800 MHz radio system stemmed from major deficiencies of the current patchwork radio systems operated on 150 MHz, 420 MHz and 800 MHz frequencies by public safety agencies throughout the county.

Novi will receive free of charge three 800 MHz dispatchable radios, 127 portable radios and 58 mobile vehicle radios for Novi police and fire departments to use. The system should be implemented within the next six months.

The city must also remove the old radios and buy and install a new structured light control head that will operate independently of the radio system. This will cost an additional $31,530, which the council approved.

Council also approved first-year costs for two new police officers. The two additional uniformed patrol officers will cost the department $172,000 for one year.

Funding was also approved for laptop enhancements in patrol cars at a cost of $17,411.

The payoff of the police department building debt bonds will result in about $300,000 in annual benefit to the city's general fund for 11 years, beginning in 2008 through 2019.

"This means that the city will receive about $3.3 million added to its general fund over this time period," said Acting Chief of Police David Mallory.

Another $2.4 million is expected to come from the Department of Treasury in the next few months.

"It's a luxury to talk about spending $7 million," said Council Member Lynne Paul.

Showplace gets tasty

■ Tickets on sale for NFL's Feb. 4 event

By Pam Fleming
STAFF WRITER

Still reeling from the well-attended grand opening of the Rock Financial Showplace, Blair Bowman has another big event on the horizon.

The Showplace has been selected as the site of the Super Bowl Taste of the NFL on Feb. 4, 2006, the night before the Super Bowl. The NFL-sanctioned event is a strolling food and wine extravaganza.

"We're very excited that we were able to provide a location for this event that I think is going to be the best for them and a great event for us," said Bowman, owner of the Showplace.

"It's a huge event and all for a great cause. It should be a very cool thing for the community along with the Super Bowl, and it will give us a chance to introduce our new facility to the local community as well as the nation."

James B. Little, event director for Taste of the NFL, said the event is called "The Party with a Purpose."

"We're a destination event, and the brand new facility was perfect with the 120,000 square feet that we need for the event," Little said.

The event should draw about 3,000 people, according to Little. "We expect an exciting and fun-filled event this year," he added.

The sole mission of the Taste of the NFL is to address the needs of Local celebrity Chef Brian Polcyn, of the Five Lakes Grill in Milford, pictured with his wife, Julia, left, and Miss America 2005 Deirdre Downs at last year's Taste of the NFL event in Jacksonville, Fla. the hungry and the homeless by raising awareness and dollars through events and programs.

The Taste of the NFL started 1992 in Minneapolis. "We're celebrating our 15th anniversary in Novi this year," Little said.

"We've been able to donate in that time period more than $6 million, primarily to the American Second Harvest Food Bank affiliates across the nation."

Tickets available now
Patrons have a choice of three different ticket purchases. These include a $400 ticket, which offers a 7 p.m. entry, this provides a strolling dinner with 34 different food stations representing each NFL city and conversation with an NFL alumni or current player. A $600 VIP ticket provides a 6 p.m. entry into the event for an hour more of food, football and fun. A $6,000 corporate table seating 10 also offers a 6 p.m. entry time as well as some additional amenities, such as a restaurant guide. The guide is actually a cookbook featuring all of the different dishes to be served at the event. The guide can be purchased individually for $19.95 per copy.

Local celebrity Chef Brian Polcyn, of the Five Lakes Grill in Milford, will represent the Detroit Lions at his food station. James Hunter, former defensive back for the Lions and number one draft choice in 1976, will be the player representing the local team at the event.

In addition to the 32 NFL teams, the Pro Bowl and the Hall of Fame will have food stations. The food festivities end at 9:45 p.m., which will be followed by nationally-known entertainers, which will be announced soon.

Local beneficiaries of the event are the Gleaners Community Food Bank serving southeast Michigan and Hugobert Harvest. Little said the event will sell out before the middle of January 2006. Tickets are available now.

For more information, visit www.tasteofthenfl.com or call (952) 835-7621. A portion of ticket purchases to Taste of the NFL events are tax deductible.

Tri-county funds will help Novi

By Pam Fleming
STAFF WRITER

Hugh Crawford said Oakland County officials are taking steps to help Novi residents in its proposed budget.

"We put in some additional tri-county funds, which will help Novi," said county commissioner Crawford of Novi.

Tri-county funds include monies from the Road Commission for Oakland County, Oakland County and individual cities each contribute money to a community project.

"We also earmarked some funds for West Nile virus prevention if any communities need those," Crawford added.

He noted that the county also presents a balanced budget without having to raise taxes.

"We did have to make some cuts," however.

The county's budget task force cut funding in all departments from the Sheriff's Office to the Prosecutor's Office.

One thing Crawford wanted to fund is what he calls "green shirts" — employees who supervise prisoners from the Sheriff's Department out in the field.

Crawford said there were four of these positions funded in the Sheriff's Department last year, with two of them covered by grants.

"The grants went away, and they were not able to find the funding for these positions. So, unfortunately, a couple of these people's positions are going to be eliminated. This loss will affect every community."

The proposed budget goes to the Board of County Commissioners for approval today.

The final budget must be approved by the end of September. The next fiscal year starts Oct. 1.

"Everybody in the county got a 2-percent raise, including commissioners," Crawford said.

"That doesn't cover the cost of living, so there may be a couple of commissioners who won't vote to approve the budget because of the 2-percent raise. The 2 percent is probably eaten up with the increase in gas prices."

Crawford added that commissioners' raises won't take effect until January, although other county employees will start enjoying their raises in October.

The commissioner said despite the low salary increase, the financial outlook for the county looks bright.

"We do a two-year rolling budget, so we're looking at expenditures for the next fiscal year in 2007, too," Crawford said.

Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson submitted Oakland County's Fiscal Year 2005-2006 Biennial Budget Recommendation July 1.

The county is Michigan's most economically dynamic county and the second largest in the state by population.

The two-year projection is now subject to an annual approval process. Patterson's Budget Task Force and the Departments of Management and Budget and Human Resources were instrumental in developing his recommendation.

Council approves Brooktown development

ADCO Group plan to include live-work units

By Pam Fleming
STAFF WRITER

Novi developer Adamo Pecunia must have slept like a baby after Monday night's city council meeting.

Pecunia, owner of ADCO Group LLC, in Novi, probably had sweet dreams after learning that city council gave their blessing to his Brooktown development.

The ADCO Group requested approval of a Special Development Option Concept Plan in the Gateway East District along Grand River Avenue.

The property consists of seven parcels totaling 26.54 acres on the south side of Grand River Avenue just west of Meadowbrook Road. The proposed $55 million development would be across from the Gateway Village development between Frontman Walk Apartments and the O'Brien Sullivan Funeral Home.

The plan includes a total of 225 condominiums, 24,771 square feet of retail, 4,965 square feet for restaurants and 40,692 square feet of office space.

The five-unit live-work townhouses will include a work/retail area on the main floor with residential space on the top two floors.

Although a variety of uses are proposed, the development does not qualify as a "mixed use" development.

This is because each proposed use, such as retail, office and residential, does not occupy a minimum of 10 percent of the total floor space or lot area of the development.

Brooktown at a glance

- one restaurant/retail building
- two nine-unit live-work townhouse buildings

The most pressing concern raised at Monday night's meeting involved the developer's plans for about a half-acre of city-regulated wetlands on the site.

The developer agreed to perform on-site wetlands mitigation instead of off-site mitigation.

The 225 condominiums with two-car garages would cost about $200,000 each, according to Matt Quinn, attorney for the ADCO Group.

He said the nine live-work units represent a concept that many communities, such as Royal Oak, are adopting.

"This is something that Novi doesn't have right now," Quinn said. He added that Walled Lake recently completed a group of live-work units which sold quickly.

The development would also feature walking trails, a clubhouse and swimming pool.

Parking is planned along Grand River for patrons frequently retail and restaurant establishments.

A gazebo and water feature with a sitting area would be open to the public, as would the walking trails.

"This development will have a significant impact on the city's tax base," Quinn added.

CELLIAC DISEASE

Celiac disease (CD) is often confused with a food allergy because many of the same grains and wheat cause symptoms of both conditions. CD is not an allergy, however, but a digestive system disorder that interferes with the absorption of nutrients and causes damage to the small intestine. The small intestine's surface is damaged by an immunologically toxic reaction to the ingestion of gluten, a protein found in all forms of wheat and many other grains. Common foods that contain gluten include brown rice, rye, flour or cereal products, milk or milk-flavored and soy sauce. A telltale sign of CD is dermatitis herpetiformis, a severely itchy skin rash or small dark spots that develop on the arms, legs, and torso.

If you think you may have an allergic condition, it is best to seek medical advice from your allergist. If you would like further information about today's celiac, or require care for your allergy or asthma condition, contact the ALLERGY AND ASTHMA

A hole-in-one for Katrina donations

Golfers help hurricane victims

By Tracy Mishler
STAFF WRITER

Todd Gerhart is giving golfers a chance to get some bang for their buck.

As part of the Hurricane Katrina disaster fund, Gerhart, owner of Maples Country Club in Novi, decided it was time to help out.

Every Friday, for the entire month of September, Gerhart will be donating all the course greens fees and 10 percent of the gross revenue from the country club's restaurant to the American Red Cross.

"This is a chance for people to get out and enjoy their donation on the golf course," Gerhart said. "They're not just throwing their money into a jar, but getting out and golfing while doing something good for others."

Gerhart is hoping to raise between $10,000 and $20,000 and is encouraging everyone play a round of golf.

Maples, a primarily private club, has over 400 members. However, during September and October, the course is open to the public at $8 for 9-holes.

Donations from the restaurant include food and beverage sales, and although the campaign started Sept. 6, Gerhart said so far things are going good.

"We're trying to let as many people as possible know about our donation efforts," he said.

The city of Novi has taken interest in the country club's efforts and decided to have lunch there Wednesday afternoon.

"It's a wonderful thing for a Novi business to do something like this," said Cindy Uglow, neighborhood services coordinator for the city of Novi. "Whenever there is something we can do as a group, we do it."

Uglow, along with 20 other city officials, enjoyed food and drinks while a portion of their tab went to aid hurricane victims.

"The Novi businesses are community oriented in their outreach programs," Uglow said. "They are just a charitable and giving group."

Cindy Chulick is happy to see so many residents caring about the people in the south.

Although she didn't lose her home, Chulick said she did have an large amount of wind damage.

"When I got up here, I told my fiancé that we needed to donate to the Red Cross," Chulick said. "And my fiancé said 'Honey, we are the Red Cross.'"

Chulick didn't know how long her family would be in Michigan, but she said she was definitely going to eat at the country club to contribute.

"Anything we can do to help," she said. "We just want to go home."

Foster Farmhouse needs funds

By Pam Fleming
STAFF WRITER

Were she alive today, Dr. Sarah Banks would be happy to know her childhood home is in such good hands.

The late physician and early women's rights activist grew up in the Commerce Township/Walled Lake area. Her childhood home, which was moved to Walled Lake, is known as the Foster Farmhouse.

The home will be the beneficiary of a fund-raising event from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday at the Walled Lake Event Field, 1499 E. West Maple.

Proceeds from a community-wide rummage sale organized by the Friends of the Foster Farmhouse, a nonprofit organization committed to restoring and maintaining the house as a local museum, will go toward restoration of the house.

"At this point, we're not turning anything away," said Darlene Williams of Walled Lake, a member of the Friends of the Foster Farmhouse.

Any items not sold Saturday will be donated to the Salvation Army, according to Williams. A tax receipt is available upon request.

Area residents are encouraged to look through their basements, garages and attics to see if they have any items they would like to donate to the event.

Citizens can drop items by the event field from 7-9 a.m. Saturday. A "Members' Preview" of rummage sale items will take place from 9-10 a.m. Those who drop off donated goods that morning, however, are welcome to purchase items at that time.

Laura Hartlep, president, Friends of the Foster Farmhouse, said the house needs $200,000-$250,000 in renovations. Once the update is completed, the house, located on Common Street at Riley Park in Walled Lake, will be turned into a museum honoring Banks and a public gathering place.

Banks also has a middle school named after her on Cramer Street in Walled Lake.

The official name of the home is the Banks-Dobson-Bradley-Foster Farmhouse. The Banks family built the house, but is known today by its last owner, Ruth Bradley Foster.

The home was once a stopping point on the Underground Railroad, which helped slaves escape from southern states to the north during the Civil War.

Joe Novitsky, president and owner of JSN Design Inc., an architectural firm in Bingham Farms, is in charge of the renovation project on the house.

"It's a typic structure, which is primarily a wooden frame structure," Novitsky said. "But it has a balloon frame, which is very unusual. This means that the walls are built continuously from the foundation to the roof in the two-story building.

Novitsky's plan is to renovate the house to a degree that it's historically correct on a federal level and yet economically achieved within the fair market value.

"It's very difficult to do a historically correct renovation on a budget," he said. "But, that's what we'll do."

There are very few buildings that are that old around here. The house dates from the 1830s, he said.

Novitsky said that besides organizing various fund-raisers for the project, the Friends of the Foster Farmhouse are applying for federal grants to help pay for the renovation.

To learn more about the event, the history of Banks, volunteer opportunities and the restoration progress, call (248) 624-5727 or visit www.walledlake.com and click on "Related Links."

Although the house can't be on the National Register of Historic Places because it was moved from its original site about a quarter of a mile away in Walled Lake, it does have national recognition.

"This is worth saving. There's nothing else like it," Novitsky said.

Novi Library finishes interior renovations

■ Adult, children areas separated

By Pam Fleming
STAFF WRITER

Novi Library director said those who haven't visited the Novi Public Library lately can look forward to a new adventure.

The library closed Aug. 22-24 for renovation and is now divided into "age-specific" areas, with all of the youth selections on one side and most of the adult selections on the other.

Evans, library director, said the new arrangement of services at the library on 45245 10 Mile Road stemmed from advice from members of the community-based Strategic Planning Task Force.

Their recommendations in a five-year strategic plan included a redesign of the interior space.

Realizing that the current library is undersized for Novi's growing community, the task force advised that the library board should address both long-term and short-term space needs.

The library plans to eventually expand from 23,000 square feet to 60,000 square feet with the help of fund-raising efforts and a millage proposal next year.

Evans noted that library board members approved the renovation project realizing that the reallocation of floor space had to be cost-effective in regard to future expansion plans.

"One of their first recommendations was to address the space needs of the library," Evans said. "Whatever we did now had to be consistent with our long-range plans."

The library used to divide resources by function, with research and homework on one side and recreational reading on the other side. Now, it's by age level.

"We like the reconfigured space," Evans said. "What we've found is that the children's area has a stronger appeal and identity by having all the materials grouped together."

Evans said area children are also responding favorably to the Cyberzone, the new computer area specifically designed for kids.

"We're getting much younger children using the computers now by having them over on the west side," Evans said. "I think when we had them on the east side, we would find older children, like fourth-graders and fifth-graders, using the computers. But, now that they're over by an information desk on the west side, very young children, such as 3- and 4-year-olds, are using the computers in a very interactive way. We're pleased with the outcome."

Shown of knocking out walls, the makeover will hopefully enhance the library experience for area residents.

"We haven't had any complaints," Evans said. Rick Smith, chair of the library board, said a new building plan has been approved by the board, and residents can look forward to an update soon on fund-raising efforts to match the $1 Million Walker Building Fund.

Mervyn's store closings leave thousands without jobs

■ Retail chain to close all 15 Michigan stores, including Novi

By Tracy Mishler
STAFF WRITER

Sharon Welch was shocked to hear the Mervyn's store in the Novi Town Center plaza will soon be shutting its doors for good.

"I've always shopped at Mervyn's," said Welch, 39, of Milford. "My parents shopped here, and we still shop here now for whatever we need. I've shopped here all my life."

Although Welch and many other loyal Novi Mervyn's customers are going to be sad to see the store go, the San Francisco-based clothing giant will be closing all 15 stores in Michigan by the end of January 2006. About 1,100 jobs, nearly 900 of them part-time will be eliminated in the state, and the retailer is closing another 47 other stores.

By the end of February, Mervyn's will have exited the Michigan and Oklahoma markets, along with parts of Colorado, Louisiana and Texas.

Mervyn's Executive Director of Operations Beryl Bukey, said the store closings will only make things better for Mervyn's in the future.

"We're making some difficult, but necessary changes that will enable us to concentrate our resources on Mervyn's core markets and make investments that allow us to better serve our customers," Bukey said. "While we are sad to say good-bye to our associates that have served customers in the communities we are leaving, we are confident that these decisions are right for Mervyn's future."

Although the Novi store still has advertisements to hire employees, the store's manager Jocelyn was unable to comment on the future closing.

Mervyn's plan for becoming stronger and more profitable leads the company to focus on its west and southwestern markets.

According to the company's Web site, approximately 1,200 full-time and 3,600 part-time positions will be affected by the closings.

The stores that Mervyn's will be closing have not been profitable in several years. According to the company, they comprise 25 percent of all Mervyn's stores, representing only 17 percent of its total sales.

Although there are currently no signs labeling a closure in the Novi location, drastic markdowns throughout the store show otherwise.

"We always have sales going on," said one employee at the store's jewelry counter.

Alberta Willis, 50, of Detroit, is said to see the store go.

"Mervyn's is one of my favorite stores," said Willis, who travels to the Novi location quite often. "I heard the news when I went to pay my account balance. I was shocked."

"It's sad, but I guess I'm going to have to shop somewhere else now."

Mervyn's employees will continue to work during the closing process, and the company will offer severance pay and outplacement services to eligible employees.

The company will also work with other retailers in the areas where the stores are closing in providing similar employment elsewhere.

"I've followed Mervyn's closely over the years, and am proud of the fact that it is still synonymous with providing good value, giving back to the community and continuing to be a great place to shop," said Mervyn Morris, founder of Mervyn's in a statement. "The company is in good hands with bright, talented professionals who really know the retail business, and I look forward to watching it grow."

Mervyn's back-to-school shopping spree

Mervyn's, in partnership with Oakland County Youth Assistance, recently provided a shopping spree in the amount of $230 per child and a backpack for all participating children. The annual event took place in early August at the Mervyn's in the Novi Town Center. The day started at 7 a.m. when 20 kids and over 30 volunteers enjoyed breakfast donated by Leon's Restaurant of Wixom. The kids were matched with a volunteer who helped them pick out school clothes and other necessities. After two hours of shopping, the children were all given backpacks filled with school supplies. Donations from the Novi Police Department added a few extra goodies in each child's backpack. Here, Bruce Dyer, Novi Youth Assistance Mentor and Spree volunteer, shops with Kendrick Scherer.

Schoolcraft Community College Culinary Arts Program student Ashley Walters chops up some vegetables to begin making a soup on a recent Tuesday afternoon. The school will host its annual fundraising Culinary Extravaganza on Sept. 25.

Schoolcraft expanding Culinary Extravaganza

By Pam Fleming
STAFF WRITER

John Walsh said guests will have a little more elbow room at this year's Schoolcraft College's Culinary Extravaganza.

This year, the largest fund-raising event for the Schoolcraft Foundation will take place from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 25, in the VistaTech Center.

Walsh, executive director of development, said more floor space will be provided throughout the entire building for this year's festivities.

"In past years, the event has been confined to the Dipmo Room," Walsh said. "But, this year, we will expand the event throughout the entire VistaTech Center."

"Usually, it's sort of a stand-and-nibble. But this year, we will be able to provide some seating for our guests. And, we're adding some restaurants, too."

"This will also permit the college to have more quality items in the event's live auction and silent auction."

"We're trying to add more to the event," Walsh said.

Patrons can tour the Schoolcraft College Culinary Arts instructional kitchens or stop in at free wine-tasting seminars from 3 to 3:30 p.m.

"We hope to raise $100,000," Walsh said.

Sponsors range from $300-$5,000, according to Walsh.

Donations to the silent auction may be tax deductible.

Proceeds from the annual event support student scholarships and the college's world-renowned Culinary Arts Program.

"We just sent seven students this year to Paris for training at restaurants. While there, they visited the famous Cordon Bleu culinary school," Walsh said.

"They had a great time, learned a lot, and when they returned, they prepared some of the French dishes they learned while in Paris," he added.

The school expects about 1,000 area residents to attend the fund-raiser. Reservations are recommended by calling Lynch or by dropping by the college's development office in the VistaTech Center.

The Foundation currently has a $10 million fund balance. Earnings from the balance are used to fund scholarships and grants totaling more than $500,000 in 2004.

"About 500 students received scholarships through the Foundation last year," Walsh said.

Working hard, still going

■ Seniors continue to work, even after retirement

By Tracy Mishler
STAFF WRITER

Louis Greka was getting bored sitting around, so he went out and got a job.

The 78-year-old Novi resident may have retired in 1992, but in 2005 he's working part-time at General RV in Wixom.

Greka, along with other seniors, is not going to let age stop him from putting in a hard day's work.

"My goal is to work until my 80th birthday," Greka said. "It all depends on how I

Financial reasons drive Greka's motivation to keep working.

"Your dollar only goes so far, and I've worked all my life," he said. "I enjoy working, but I think for me to carry on the lifestyle I've had all my life, I have to work."

This is the case for many seniors, said Sue Koivula, senior adult services coordinator for the Northville Senior Community Center.

"A lot of seniors look for jobs for financial reasons, and others to keep busy," Koivula said. "They can learn different skills, and I think seniors in the future will work a lot longer than they have in the past."

The Senior Alliance, American Association of Retired Persons and the Senior Community Service Employment Program serve as resources to help the elderly find jobs.

The Senior Community Service Employment Program provides job training and placement for people with limited financial resources.

Tanya Kurtz, elder-worker employment coordinator for the Area Agency on Aging I-B in Oakland County, said the Older Worker program is good for those with financial troubles.

As part of the Senior Community Services Employment Program, the Area Agency on Aging I-B works with seniors, providing services for them in their homes and in the work force.

To be in the program, older adults must be at least 55 years-old and have an annual income no higher than $11,638 a year.

"More and more older adults are having to go back to work," Kurtz said. "Some may have never worked and are starting for the first time."

Funded by the Department of Labor, the agency places seniors with non-profit organizations to gain experience for future employment.

Paid at $5.15 per hour; for no more than 18.5 hours a week, seniors can build a resume and find permanent employment once they feel they've gained enough experience.

"Seniors these days are still active and involved," Kurtz said. "Whether it's a want or a need, they still have so much to contribute. When they retire, they wonder what they can do with all the abilities they still have."

Still working in Northville

Ken Morley wasn't ready to retire the first time when he was 60, and he sure wasn't ready the second time at 66.

Now, the 68-year-old

Northville resident is driving the senior bus at the Northville Senior Community Center and loving every minute.

"I went back to work after retiring the first time because I wanted to continue health insurance for my family," Morley said. "I was a bus driver for the Northville School District. It was good, because I got my summers off."

"After six years driving a school bus, I decided it was time to give back to the community."

Morley works as a part-time driver for the center, and he said he would continue to work as long as his health lasts.

"It keeps me active and gets me out of the house," Morley said. "I drive the bus once or twice a week, and the rest of the time I travel with my wife. I enjoy meeting the seniors. I like where I'm at. I love it."

Hard-working seniors

Rachel Zagaroli, seniors services manager for the Novi Senior Center, said she loves to work with seniors.

"Seniors work hard at most any position they're in," Zagaroli said. "Their standards are very high, and when they go to work, they do their job. They are more capable of doing most jobs because of their lifetime experiences. I really makes them dedicated workers."

Zagaroli said generations to come will be much different.

"Our biggest population will soon be seniors," she said. "They are going to keep working, and for the most part, many enjoy it and wouldn't have it any other way."

"Seniors don't just sit in the rocking chair anymore and rock."

Seniors earn green thumbs at Fox Run

Residents garden to keep themselves busy

By Tracy Mishler
STAFF WRITER

Faye Burton and several residents at Fox Run are earning their green thumbs in the community garden.

"This is a nice feature that Fox Run gave to us," said the 80-year-old resident.

Fox Run has been open for two years, and residents took it upon themselves to keep a little bit of the achome feel to their community.

Started in 2004, residents pay $5 a season for gardening supplies and are given the opportunity to garden their own 5-foot plots to their liking.

"People grow all sort of things," Burton said. "I have an assortment of annuals. Other people grow just flowers, and some also grow vegetables."

Fox Run has two gardens available for residents, the upper garden and the lower garden.

"There are no differences in the garden," said Eve Boicourt, 83, "just location and the amount of plots available."

Each resident is allowed to garden one 8-foot square plot. There are 20 plots available in the upper garden and 38 lower garden plots.

Boicourt serves as the coordinator for the garden club at Fox Run. She coordinates the garden activities, including assignment of plots and collecting annual dues that cover supplies.

"We're at the time in the season where the gardens have faded a little since they were in their prime," Boicourt said. "But we still enjoy coming up here and taking care of our own."

Kay Birmingham grows both flowers and vegetables. As one of the first residents able to choose a plot for his garden, Birmingham decided on the lower garden.

"I like being right next to the tool shed," said the 70-year-old resident. "It's very handy and convenient."

Working in the gardens is no cost to the residents, and many of the gardeners feel the colorful displays are good for the community.

"People have enjoyed looking at our garden," Boicourt said. "People come through and sit on the benches or in their wheel-

Alternating between the Novi Civic Center and the Northville Public Library, gardeners in both cities can earn their green thumbs as members of the Michigan Garden Club. Future events include, Monday, Oct. 10, "Finishing off the garden" featuring Mary Ann Fare and Dan Brighton of Burdine Nursery, and Saturday, Nov. 19 Holiday Fresh Greens centerpiece workshop and decorating presentation.

For more information, call (248) 348-1946 or visit www.gardenersnorthville-novi.org.

chairs and take it all in. It's really beautiful during prime season."

Keeping active

Many of the gardeners at Fox Run have taken up gardening to keep active.

"My husband and her husband, Ernie, former voice of the Detroit Tigers, come to the garden two or three times a week."

"My husband goes up and waters my flowers, and I'm up there maintaining them," said Harwell, 86. "I have a variety of roses. Roses are my favorite."

Harwell said being able to garden gives her exercise and enjoyment.

"I can't live without being able to grow a garden," she said.

The "Friendship Garden" was dedicated to the residents with a plaque in the spring, and Kathy Shaffer, public relations manager for Fox Run, said the "Friendship Garden" is a lovely garden.

"All the residents really appreciate the garden," Shaffer said. "They are just a great aspect to have here for the residents."

Resident gardeners are expected to keep their gardens up each season and to keep track of and return all supplies when they're done.

"It's pretty laid back," Boicourt said. "But it's like we're all at home again."

Manor of Novi staff honors retiring nurse

She's enjoyed 40 years in field

By Pam Fleming
STAFF WRITER

Eighty-three-year-old nurse Ina Kilbourne would like to have gone to New Orleans to help the victims of the recent Hurricane Katrina.

"But, I would have just been in the way," she said.

That's the type of selfless attitude that has led staff and residents to admire and respect Kilbourne, who recently retired as a nurse at Manor of Novi health care center.

Kilbourne was recognized for her more than 40 years in nursing with a special luncheon at Manor of Novi on Sept. 8.

She also received a cake, a dozen red roses, a framed "Employee Spotlight" write-up and a marble-and-glass service award for her 17 years of service to Manor of Novi.

"Her ability has taken her all over the world, and she has touched many people in the span of her lifetime," read the tribute.

"Ina attributes her devotion to the relationships she has with the residents and staff. Ina describes herself as a people person not a machine person and believes relationships and human interaction is essential to the success of a nurse."

Kilbourne is leaving the area to live in San Diego near her son, Gary, who lives in Huntington Beach, Calif. She's looking forward to setting up some hummingbird feeders and teaching Bible study.

Kilbourne lived in a log cabin in Missouri until her family moved to Michigan when she was 9. She graduated from high school in 1939 and became a nurse in 1944. Her grandmother's interest in nursing led her to the career.

"My mother's mother wanted to be a nurse, but her husband died when their children were little, and she had to take care of her children," Kilbourne said.

"Even when I was a little girl, I liked to play 'hospital,'" she said. "But, I got tired of it, because I wanted the real thing. I liked my dolls, but I wanted to take care of real people."

Kilbourne received her training at Hurley Hospital in Flint. Shortly after becoming a nurse, she married John Kilbourne and had four sons. Kilbourne traveled to England, France and Germany serving her country for two years as a nurse in the United States Army during World War II.

She has given money, clothing, eyeglasses, Bibles and teaching material to the poor in Nigeria.

Kilbourne has also given the majority of her salary to a Nigerian church.

Kilbourne, who has nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, taught a Bible study class at Manor of Novi and at her local church.

"I hope to be able to start another Bible study group when I get out to California," she said.

She worked mostly as a medical-surgical nurse in her career. But, she also worked as an emergency department nurse at Saginaw General Hospital.

"I like nursing because I like being able to talk to people...to know them personally," she said. "I like getting to know people — who they are on the inside."

She believes a caring nurse can even enhance the healing process. "I know that healing doesn't come just from pills," she said. "It comes through relationships," she said.

Kilbourne said she's looking forward to doing some good things with her life when she moves to San Diego.

"I don't think I'm going to sit in a rocking chair. The Lord opened the door, and I walked through it."

WHERE WE STAND

Prostate Cancer Awareness Month: Men, don't wait to be checked

It is the second leading cause of cancer-related deaths among American men, yet many will continue to ignore this fact and will not be screened for prostate cancer.

And even though thousands of males will be diagnosed with the disease -- and many will die from it -- most could survive if they receive proper treatment.

In fact, according to the National Prostate Cancer Coalition, there is a 99-percent survival rate if caught early enough.

Regardless of that statistic, only about half of men over age 50 will get screened.

Two tests are commonly used to detect prostate cancer: a blood test, the Prostate Specific Antigen (PSA) test and a physical exam, the Digital Rectal Exam (DRE). They are usually administered by your regular doctor. Men should get a PSA test at age 40 and 45, and start yearly testing at 50. Men with one or more high risk factors should start yearly testing at 45 or earlier.

If prostate cancer is detected, many options are available -- surgery, radiation, hormone therapy, a combination of these methods, or waiting for signs of the disease's progression.

Over $400 million will be invested in this country in prostate cancer research this year as scientists work on ways to prevent the disease as well as ways to detect it earlier.

We encourage men to discuss with their doctors the risk of prostate cancer and begin regular screenings. It can be beat.

Didn't ask? Don't complain

Just about every week, you can pick up this paper and there will be a letter to the editor from a reader harping on city council and/or the mayor. That's fine -- the letters offer a perfect forum for residents to voice their opinions.

But I hope those same individuals who take the time to gripe are also taking the time to look at the candidates who will be on the November 8 election ballot.

Three of the six seats on city council will be open as will the mayoral seat.

Incumbent councilman Kim Capello is seeking re-election for a four-year term, and he will be facing Justin Fischer, Terry Margolis, Andrew Mutch, Lowell Sprague and David Staudt.

Councilman David Landry is running for mayor against Keith Kuhn for the two-year seat.

On Tuesday, Oct. 1, the Novi News and SWOCC (SouthWest Oakland Civic Commission) will present a live candidates forum on Channel 13. The council debate will be from 6-7:30 p.m., followed by the mayoral debate from 8-9 p.m. SWOCC will rebroadcast the event periodically prior to the election.

Now everyone has plenty of time to take those questions they've been dying to ask the candidates and submit them for consideration. I already have a fair list going, but you may know of an issue that would offer valuable insight to the candidates.

Road work, sidewalks, tree removal, public safety personnel, city employee salaries/benefits, retail, housing developments, and on and on -- there's so much going on in Novi. And I'm soliciting your help in determining who the next leaders of this city will be.

Please mail your questions to Novi News, Candidate Questions, 104 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167; fax them to (248) 349-9832, or e-mail them to cstone@gannett.com.

Be an active participant in the election process and speak up now.

Proposed institute sounds like a win-win for hospital and city

Rob Caslou is looking forward to a new neighbor possibly moving in next door to Providence Park Hospital in Novi.

The hospital president, as well as city planners and council, supports the development of a religious institute that wants to make its new home on property next to the hospital.

The Pontifical Institute for Foreign Missions won approval Monday night from council for an "Unlisted Use Determination" under a newly approved zoning ordinance section.

The section allows city council, after recommendation from the planning commission, to determine the appropriate zoning district when a proposed use is not mentioned in the ordinance.

The new section also allows council to make a determination if the planning department questions the appropriateness of a use.

In the case of the PIME, the planning department feels the proposed facility should be treated similar to the way the ordinance treats churches.

The PIME facility would have a chapel, plus temporary and permanent residences for priests as well as a large office component.

Planning commission members, gave their unanimous support of the proposed facility to city council at their Aug. 10 meeting.

The facility, which would have to be deemed a Special Land Use in the district, and would still have to go through that process and the normal site plan review process.

PIME is a Roman Catholic missionary group with missions in third world countries. The new facility would be the Institute's North American headquarters.

The Institute is currently in Detroit, but institute officials are looking to relocate. The chapel could accommodate 60-70 people. There would also be church meeting rooms, residential quarters for priests and other required rooms. It would not have a regular weekly congregation.

The Institute's impact on the roads would be a lot less than a typical church, as there would be daily services attended only by priests and workers, according to John Burns, the Detroit attorney for PIME.

Occasionally, there would be special services, such as weddings, baptisms, funerals and a monthly prayer group with 20-25 people.

The building would be located on 20 acres west of Beck Road on the north side of 11 Mile Road next to the International Transmission power lines that cross 11 Mile Road.

Providence Park Hospital is to the north of the property. The northern acres of the PIME parcel would not be developed, according to Burns.

"Providence is developing a cancer program and hospice, which will utilize a holistic approach to treatment," Caslou said. "PIME, a Catholic missionary organization, will make available spiritual counseling and pastoral ministry, which are an important part of this program."

He noted that these resources will be available at no cost to the hospital or the community.

Caslou also said that since the Institute does not need all the land described in its application to the city, this will give Providence Hospital an option to purchase about 10 acres. This will add to the permanent buffer the hospital wants around its campus.

PIME officials have also agreed to maintain this land in its current natural state until the hospital exercises this option.

"We expect that the PIME parcel will be incorporated into the nature trails project rather than developed," Caslou said.

Planner Timothy Schmitt said that the proposed project is unique in that it's not a church, it's not a residential facility.

"It's actually a little bit of each. That's what the new section in the zoning ordinance was designed for -- when there are questions about where a unique use would fit in the city," Schmitt said.

This proposed Institute sounds like a win-win for both Providence Hospital and the city.

The facility is closely compatible with the hospital's plans, and it could be a resource for both Providence Park Hospital and the community.

Ring road needed

It has come to my attention that there is some debate going on with the Novi City Council over whether to build the ring road in the north-west quadrant of Grand River and Novi Road.

The Mayor of Novi has recently been quoted in the Detroit Free Press as to the necessity of same. I owned a business on Grand River for several years and have been following this matter for years. I find this incredulous that anyone would doubt the necessity of this road. The voters and residents of Novi have supported this project in prior bond issues and this road was always part of an overall traffic master plan. The engineering has been on the shelf and the city has invested over $1,000,000 on this project. I believe that same grant could easily be obtained. The City of Novi already has most of the right-of-way and with the recent Supreme Court ruling the troublesome piece is now attainable.

We either do this project now or the residents of the future will pay the price. The opening of the new Rock Financial Showplace has moved the traffic impact south of the Big Boy to the Grand River/Novi Road intersection. The new signs tell you where to go. Wouldn't it be nice if the Novi City Council could use basic logic and figure out the traffic dynamics. Wouldn't it be nice if we could turn right at the Big Boy on your way home from work and take advantage of the new 5 lane Grand River? Wouldn't it be nice if all the additional traffic now headed to the Rock Financial Showplace could bypass the Novi Road/Grand River intersection so Novi residents could deal with less traffic? Wouldn't it be nice to get a grant for this project? Wouldn't it be nice if this city council had enough vision to understand the impact and importance of this project? Wouldn't it be nice if our Mayor could lead this project in the obvious direction it needs to take? Wouldn't it be nice?

Candidate clues

City elections are only a few months away and the candidates are working hard to get their names out. When I consider who I will vote for, I look for the candidates that can manage the growth that is taking place in the city, to make sure that quality of life issues are not overlooked. I look for the candidates who do not see it as an either/or situation. We can and should have growth in Novi, however, we do need to keep a balance and respect the citizens in Novi who speak up for the quality of life issues. It is fun to take part in the events the candidates put on, and to see how they are promoting their campaigns. However, when it comes time to actually vote, the hype and the campaigns mean nothing to me. It is the decisions they will make when in office that count.

Angela Bruder

Interchange option

I just read in last week's paper about the interchange/bridge over I-96 at Beck Road. It's called a "single point intersection" and "benefits" include that one set of traffic lights can control all the traffic. Well, I drive through there daily, and at my count there are 30 lights hanging and at least seven more on poles. I heard another one of the benefits was that this was would have much less impact on the land surrounding the interchange. I still think the state could have saved $14 million and just put in one more ramp ... and it would have been done by now.

Katrina relief is on the way

United Methodist diverting health kits to Louisiana

By Ramez Khuri
STAFF WRITER

The United Methodist Church of Novi is stepping up to the plate to help victims of Hurricane Katrina. Now the church is asking for help from the Novi community.

"For the next two weeks we're going to be collecting health kits from the United Methodist Committee on Relief," said Tom Darling, relief coordinator at the church. "I'm hoping to collect enough to send a container or two."

Every spring, the Detroit Conference of the United Methodist Church, which consists of 425 churches, meets to send kits to Haiti and Liberia. The different kits consist of supplies for school, health, and sewing, among others.

"We've been sending these to Haiti and Liberia, and now all of a sudden we need them right here in our own country," Darling said. "The containers are 40 feet long, eight feet high and eight feet wide, and they're filled right up with kits. We will take them down to Mississippi and Louisiana instead this year."

The deadline to turn in items or kits to the United Methodist Church is Sunday, Sept. 25. There is always somebody at the church between 9 a.m. and noon to take items. Other times can be worked out by calling (248) 349-2652. The church is located at 41671 W. 10 Mile Road.

"Everyone would like to do something to help with this disaster, and this is an avenue where the public can do that," Darling said. "People can bring in hand-

- One large tube of toothpaste (4.5 ounces or larger, expiration date must be six months or longer in advance of the date of shipment)
- Six adhesive plastic strip sterile bandages towels, wash cloths, combs, toothbrushes or whatever to our church, and we'll put them in kit form. If people want to put a kit together, that's fine too."

Youth Chorus performs inaugural concert

By Ramez Khuri
STAFF WRITER

The Meadowbrook Congregational Church in Novi was the hot spot on Sunday night as the Northville Novi Youth Chorus performed its inaugural concert, "Salute to America."

A select chorus, made up of eight boys and 22 girls in fifth through eighth grade from mostly Northville and Novi, took the stage to present patriotic songs with narration on backgrounds and origin.

According to Sue Hoenschmeyer, choir director, the songs acknowledged God's presence and direction in the founding of our country and our gratitude for his continual presence in our lives.

"I was the music director at the Northville Methodist Church for seven years, and I was at a church in Livonia before that, so I know a lot of kids already," Hoenschmeyer said. "I invited more than 100 kids to audition. They came over in August, auditioned, and I put together this group of kids."

As a community choir, participants must pay a fee. It is not affiliated with the church in any way. The choir did a few selections from the concert at St. James Catholic Church on Saturday night.

Hoenschmeyer explained that the concert is a balanced politically. During the presentation, the choir acknowledges that others love their countries as much as Americans love the U.S.

"Hearing children sing about our country in harmony is awesome," she said. "People should bring Kleenex."

With a logo that sports Northville's and Novi's skyline, the NYNC will further try to put its name on the map when it auditions to perform before the Rockettes at the FOX Theater in Detroit.

"They invite choirs to audition, and we're using a couple of our patriotic songs to audition for that," Hoenschmeyer said. "I've accompanied other choirs that have made the audition, and I think these kids are better. It's going to be awesome."

Novi pastor heads Katrina relief effort

Truck-load of supplies to leave Monday

By Ramez Khuri
STAFF WRITER

A message to Louisiana and Mississippi: Help is on the way! One of Novi's own pastors, Rev. Karen Henry of the Church of the Holy Cross, has just been appointed coordinator of the Michigan Katrina relief efforts for the Michigan Episcopal Diocese.

As such, she is in the process of setting up several different task force groups to tend to specific needs. The goal is to have a truck-load of supplies ready to leave south by Monday.

"I'm counting on many hands and much generosity to make this work," Henry said. "The Diocese down there are providing us with their needs list. Right now we're trying to get a truck filled with cleaning supplies, which is the most dire need they have right now besides baby food and canned food."

The Diocese from Louisiana has asked for notes for people who have been displaced, with phrases like, "You're in our thoughts and prayers."

"It doesn't sound like much, but for somebody who has lost everything, it certainly can make a big difference," Henry said.

The group is also working on sending down construction teams once the areas report that they're ready to start rebuilding. Also, several volunteers, who are affiliated with other relief agencies like Red Cross, or other larger companies have already gone down.

Henry explained that, the best way for anyone to help out would be to send an e-mail to khuri@hmail.com, expressing their interests.

Volunteers are needed to do just about everything imaginable, such as collecting items that are on the supplies needs list, helping load trucks, helping construction groups, writing notes, sending books bags with school supplies for over 10,000 students and helping relocation and resettlement of evacuees.

"I know that there are over 100 evacuees at the Ramada Inn in Southfield, but that's short-term," Henry said. "We need more long-term goals if they're going to resettle their communities."

Though there is only one location taking items to be sent down right now, the Christ Church in Dearborn, at least three more are in the process of being established in Lansing, Ann Arbor and Novi.

But Henry advised that none of the locations will be collecting clothing at this time because of the over abundance that has been

Celebrate Motor City muscle

■ 1965 and 2005 GTOs to be raffled

By Ramez Khuri
STAFF WRITER

The Woodward Dream Cruise may be over, but that doesn't mean folks in Novi have to wait until next year to see some classic cars.

94.7 WCSX, Detroit's Classic Rock Station, will be bringing its Classic Rock Cruiser Show & Shine to Novi on Sunday and Monday, Sept. 18 and 19. Sunday's event will be held at Twelve Oaks Mall from 10 a.m.-1 p.m., while Monday's show will be at Community Financial from 6-8 p.m.

The events are open to the public and according to Jennifer Williams, the radio station's marketing director, they're very casual.

"We give away fun trophies, and it's more about getting people together with common interests and passion for classic rock and classic cars," Williams said. "It's to show your car off and enjoy some classic rock."

The radio station has a group of listeners who call themselves "The Classic Rock Cruisers." Each member pays a one time fee of $9.47, which goes to the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan. When they bring their rebuilt cars to the events, they can be judged and win prizes. However, one doesn't have to be a club member to participate.

"Anyone can show their car, but only club members get to be judged and potentially win trophies," Williams said. "Our whole goal here is just to have fun and raise money for charity. There is no administrative cost involved."

Those interested in the club can sign up at the shows, or they can download a club entry form and mail it in from www.WCSX.com. Club members also get dash plaques at every show.

The big attraction at the Novi shows, however, will be the raffling off of two Pontiac GTO cars. It's the station's third year doing it, where listeners rebuild classic cars to raffle off.

The first year, one lucky winner received a rebuilt 1965 Ford Mustang. Last year it was a 1970 Plymouth Road Runner with a Hemi engine, and this year it will be a 1965 convertible Pontiac GTO, which will be on display at Monday's event.

Thanks to General Motors, this year's raffle winner will receive a 2005 GTO as well, because the company thought it would be pretty tough to drive the 1965 model during the winter.

"They gave us a 2005 GTO for when the weather is not good," Williams said. "So, now the winner is going to get two cars. It's something that can only be done in the Motor City. And the unique thing is, it's 100 percent donated by the listeners because they build everything from the ground up, and it takes about eight months to do. It all ends up with a raffling off of the car to benefit Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan."

Raffle tickets will be on sale during both Novi shows and are $25 each. The drawing will be held on Thursday, Sept. 22 at the JJ & Lynne Stone Soup event at the Wintergarden inside the Renaissance Center in Detroit.

For more information, visit www.wcsx.com or call the station's front desk at (248) 398-9470.

B1 Novi News

Quick Hits

There's a new sport in town

The Novi Wildcats are always looking to expand their horizons in the world of sports. Most recently, the athletics department announced roller hockey as the newest member of the sports family. Tryouts will be announced soon.

Next Level Athletes

Deep thinker

If all goes well then Pritchard is looking to be the team's "DS" for their games — including on the road. College terms are always fancy, so "DS" is deep snapper, or long snapper as we like to call them at the prep level.

Scoring frenzy

Can't find the score you're looking for? Check page 2B.

This fall the Novi News is introducing a feature that ran in both the winter and spring seasons last year: The scoreboard. Every week it will most likely run on page 2B and will feature game highlights from nearly all the sports. Scores, stats and quotes will usually be found there while feature stories on athletes will be the mainstay of the sports section from here on out.

Any story ideas that would make a good feature? E-mail sports writer Sam Eggleston at seggleston@gannett.com with your ideas.

Correction

Who is this Brandon Cocke fellow that keeps getting mentioned in the Novi News?

Sports writer Sam Eggleston just has to remember that B. Cocke on the stat sheet isn't Brandon, who graduated from Novi High School already — it's Brett.

So, it isn't Brandon who is expected to make an impact this year or who caught a touchdown against Pinckney, but rather Brett.

Fun stuff

It's all about fun, right? Then the Novi Wildcats fans should have a great time tomorrow night at 7 p.m. when their football team takes on the Lakeland Eagles. Not only is Tab Kellepourey and his team 3-0 on the year, they are in the hunt for their third-straight KVC title.

Singing for his supper

Favorite feasts on big hits and big plays

Novi standout John Favorite may not sing his own praises, but that doesn't stop him from belting out a tune or two.

Beyond his athletic endeavors, Favorite sings for his church and even does a solo for the annual musical, which is hosted at Novi High School.

The Wildcats senior won't be singing the National Anthem any time soon, though — he's too busy participating in three sports.

"I'm going to let them sing the National Anthem, and I'm going to play," he said with a laugh.

Couches in football, wrestling and lacrosse are happy he's decided to take to the field of play. In football he's an All-Conference and All-Area player, and in wrestling he took second place in the state. As a lacrosse player, he's one of the best in the state.

It's hard to believe he hasn't decided to specialize in one sport.

"I feel all three sports complement each other in a way," he said. "Each one is physical, and each works different body parts and strengthens them. It all complements each other."

Though Favorite is known as a tough player in all three of his sports, he's got a softer side.

Beyond the singing he makes a part of his life, Favorite also likes to sit down and get lost in a good book.

Currently, his favorite author is Dan Brown, of "The Da Vinci Code" fame.

"I just can't put a book down once I start," he said. "On the way out to Howell I started reading a book. It was lame."

Favorite may have thought the book to be lame, but it's hardly a word people use when describing his playing ability.

The hard-hitting senior has drawn some college attention and said he'd like to weigh his options before deciding what his collegiate future holds.

"I'm definitely looking at academics first, and then I'll find out if they have a team," he said. "I'm not sure what I want to do yet, but I'm thinking I might want to play lacrosse."

The Novi Wildcats have benefited from the ability and the intelligence of Favorite over the past four years. The senior, who has had only one B on his report card throughout all of high school, almost missed out on being a Wildcat.

His father, John, was hired by Enron and was expecting to move his family to Chicago in Favorite's eighth grade year.

"We were right about to sell our house and were just days away from moving," he said. "Then my dad was laid off just before the huge scandal."

Moving wouldn't have been new for Favorite. He was born in Houston, moved to Pennsylvania and then to Indiana. Just 10 years ago, the family moved to Novi.

"There are so many things I've learned here and friendships I've made," Favorite said. "It's weird thinking about (almost moving). One little thing could have changed my entire life. I don't even know if they have a lacrosse team out there."

And lacrosse and Favorite have been fast friends since the first time he played the game in sixth grade. Even a ruptured spleen couldn't keep him away.

Wildcats edge Howell in KVC action

By Sam Eggleston
SPORTS WRITER

No wonder they call it "special teams."

The Novi Wildcats football team used two huge special teams plays to boost themselves to a 16-15 victory over the Howell Highlanders last Friday in a Kensington Valley Conference showdown.

"Special teams definitely came through for us," Tab Kellepourey said after the game. "That (extra point) block by Bobby Duquette was great. It really helped boost this team."

And that's not taking anything away from another solid point-after block by Eric Zhao.

The Novi Wildcats' special teams plays were enough to shake up the Howell kicker for the final Highlander play of the game with just 11 seconds left in the game.

The ball was snapped, set up perfectly by the holder and the kick sailed just left of the uprights, securing the one-point victory and 3-0 record for the Novi Wildcats.

It was a completely different scene just a minute and a half earlier when it was Novi kicker Pat Sijan in the same position. His eyes glanced up at the uprights, then down the holder. The ball sailed through for the victory with 1:49 left in the game.

"It was great beating Howell at Howell," said senior John Favorite. "That's never an easy game. We're glad we won it." The Wildcats ended the contest by taking a knee to run the remainder of the clock out.

The game was definitely one for the kickers. In the end, it was Howell's who just couldn't split the uprights for the win.

Wildcats upend Pirates

The Novi Wildcats girls cross-country team started their season off with an impressive victory over the Pinckney Pirates in KVC action.

The girls, coached by Marsha Reid, ran to first place with a 21-37 victory over their league rivals. "It was extremely hot, but as a team we ran competitively," said Reid.

Meghan Koutz led the way for the Wildcats, while Andrea Kramer finished right on her heels. "Not far behind was Emily Barton and Erin Haynes while freshman Kelli Brown took fifth. "Not having coached cross-country before, I was a little concerned because three of our top 12 were out for various reasons," said Reid. "I am really excited to see where this team goes from here when we get everyone healthy."

Cross Country

The Novi boys cross-country team couldn't keep up with the Pirates last week as they fell, 17-43.

The race was close for much of the run, but the Pirates pulled away by the end. Mike Wheat was the first Wildcat to finish followed by Alex Ptasak, Kenny MacDonough, Josh Luntley and Luke Barnes.

Golf swinging well

The Novi golf team is playing some impressive golf as they earned a 157-182 victory over Pinckney last week as well as a close 156-161 loss against Howell. Against Pinckney, the Wildcats were led by Alex Lyall, who shot a 37 followed by Brent Neville, Tom Cavenilla and James Kim.

Golf

Against Howell, Lyall once again led the way, followed by Neville with a 40. Scott Czajka, who has been playing very well this year, shot a 41 along with Kim.

Soccer gets another victory

The Novi Wildcats soccer team earned a 4-1 victory over the Lakeland Eagles despite having just a 1-0 lead at the end of the first half.

The Wildcats earned their first goal of the night on a header by David Deighton on a throw-in by Matt Crawford.

Moments like this

■ Nicole Stephen enjoys her time on the court

By Courtney Ratkowiak
SPORTS INTERN

For the Novi Wildcats, anticipation quickly turned to motivation during a Pinckney pregame show.

As the Pirates stormed through an inflatable tunnel to the wild cheers of the home crowd, the game took on a new meaning. Vindication came four quarters later in the form of a 49-42 Novi win.

Nicole Stephen plays basketball for moments like these. Stephen began playing in the sixth grade and made Novi High School's varsity team as a sophomore. The following year, as a starter, she was named to the All-Area team and earned All-KVC Honorable Mention status. As a senior and co-captain, she is looking to make first or second-team All-KVC while improving her personal game and becoming a more vocal leader on the court.

"I've learned a lot from the responsibility of being a captain," she said. "You're a leader on the team and people look up to you, and you don't really realize that at first. Your actions affect all of the girls."

Varsity coach Bill Kelp added that Stephen has already improved her leadership and communication skills this season, accomplishments that will complement her strong technical abilities.

"I think that sometimes she doesn't realize how good she can be," he said. "She's always going to do some scoring and rebounding, she's solid every game. Then, there's games where she just blows up and really dominates the court. She has the ability to carry the team."

Stephen said that her goals for the team include winning KVC's and districts. "We're a good team and we can do as well as we want to do," she said. "Sometimes, we don't come to play, but sometimes we'll just be amazing and blow everyone out. We can definitely win a lot if we play our best."

Next year, Stephen hopes to go to Michigan State University for business and hotel management. Although teams have expressed interest, she does not see a college varsity basketball career in her future.

"I don't want to play (varsity) in college," she said. "I'll still play intramurals and keep basketball in my life, but I just think that I'm ready to move on and concentrate on a degree."

For now, she simply wants to enjoy her last year of high school basketball. "I definitely want to have an awesome senior year," she said. "I don't want to worry about what I'm doing wrong, I just want to lay it all out there because it's the last time I'll be playing. I just want to make sure that it's fun."

Novi cheerleaders Georgia Katopolis, Candice Pistolesi and Annie Hammill aren't just members of the team, they're captains too.

It's all in the attitude

Like many sports, the Novi Wildcats cheerleaders know it takes the right kind of attitude to be at the top of their game.

But, unlike many sports, they have to make sure they're always smiling while they do it.

"You have to always be positive," said captain Annie Hammill. "That's the attitude you have to have. Plus, you've got to smile all the time."

As a fall sport, the Novi cheerleaders are responsible for several aspects of a football game. They keep school spirit up, entertain, make post-game snacks, signs for lockers, attend team dinners and lead the crowd in cheers throughout the game.

A lot more than the typical "duty" cheerleaders are supposed to do, right?

"I think cheerleaders deserve more credit," said captain Georgia Katopolis. "I don't think they realize what we do and how hard we work at it."

Cheerleaders at Novi put in two and a half hours of practice per day — not including their extra work with the snacks and other football-related activities. Not to mention they carry as high of a team grade-point average as most sports at the school.

To add to their daily practices, each cheerleader gets assigned three football players that they make signs for and snacks and other football-related activities. Not to mention they carry as high of a team grade-point average as most sports at the school.

Once a week they have gymnastics training to help them with difficult stunts and flips. Some, like Hammill, even practice being tossed in the air and caught.

"It can be scary, especially at the beginning of the season," Hammill said. "I've been dropped before, but that was mostly in my freshman year."

It's not uncommon to see cheerleaders with wrist braces and other joint injuries. They flip forward and backward and are responsible for hoisting their fellow Wildcats in the air.

If only other athletes, especially those who scoff at the "cheerleading" squad, could try to do what they did — even for a single practice.

"I'd like to see them try some of our flips," Katopolis said. "I don't think they know what it takes to get those."

The cheerleaders most likely wouldn't scoff at any one else trying to do what they do best. They might giggle, sure, but scoff?

By nature, most of the members of the cheerleading squad, coached by Emily Parker, are friendly and outgoing. They usually make quick friends, are eager to meet new people and are a good barometer of the overall attitude at Novi High School.

It's all part of the game, said Hammill. "We're out there to keep everyone motivated," she said. "That's before the game even starts. I love being a cheerleader. It's been a huge part of my life."

And the Novi Wildcats cheerleaders have been a big part of the Novi football season too. That's why they're invited to every team dinner the football teams hosts. "They always say thank you," said

SPORTS SHORTS

Hockey golf outing

The Novi Wildcats hockey team will be raising funds by holding the Third Annual Novi Wildcat Hockey Golf Outing at Tanglewood Golf Club on Friday, Sept. 30 at 8:30 a.m. with registration at 7:30 a.m. The funds raised by the outing help defray the cost for student wanting to play high school hockey. High school hockey is "pay to play" sport and this fundraiser helps to lessen the costs for players who otherwise might not play.

There are some openings left for teams (toursomes) that wish to participate and/or for groups wishing to be hole sponsors.

For additional information, interested parties can contact Kevin Finnerty at (248) 361-7989 or K.Finnerty@sprynet.com, or Robert Eberline at (248) 390-5664 or roberteb@pobox.com.

The Kensington Valley Baseball Softball Association (KVBSA) is accepting applications for travel baseball and softball teams for the 2006 season. There are currently openings in all age brackets in both baseball and softball. Baseball will have divisions for U9 through U18 and softball will have divisions for U12 through U18.

For more information contact Jeff David at (586) 206-7646 or e-mail at jeff.david@kvbsa.com. You can also visit the website www.kvbsa.com.

Adult hockey leagues

Suburban Ice Farmington Hills will offer separate Beginner Adult Developmental Hockey Leagues presented by Labatt for men and women during the fall/winter season.

Both leagues will run once per week for 25 weeks and will have similar structures. The first six weeks will consist of an instructional training camp before dividing players into teams. Once teams have been formed, there will be two practices prior to the beginning of games. The remainder of the season will consist of three games and one practice per month.

Included in the league fees is the cost of jerseys and instructors, who will also serve as referees during games and teams during the play on the bench and in between periods. As a bonus, all players in the BAAHL will get a free membership to the SIFF Fitness Club from September to March, as well as the opportunity to purchase a RBK 5K Modano pattern hockey stick for just $75 (retail is $150) courtesy of RBK Hockey.

The women's league will run 6:30 and 7:30 p.m., Sept. 11, 2005-March 26, 2006 (no sessions on Nov. 27, Dec. 25, Jan. 1, or Feb. 5). The men's league will run 8:30 and 9:30 p.m., Sept. 19, 2005-March 20, 2006 (no sessions Oct. 31 or Dec. 26).

Novi ready for Lakeland Eagles

In the Kensington Valley Conference, it's all about who's more ready to play smash-mouth football on any given Friday night. Tomorrow night, it's going to be the Novi Wildcats who are looking to smash anyone trying to score in their house.

Novi (3-0 overall, 2-0 KVC) will play host to the Lakeland Eagles (0-3, 0-2) tomorrow night at 7 p.m. and will be looking to make the best out of their first home game of the year.

"The student body is going to be eager for this game," Novi coach Tab Kelleppoury said. "If you're coming to this game, you better arrive early."

And what's stopping anyone who cheers for the Wildcats from coming out? Lakeland has been a favorite target of KVC teams for the past handful of years and most recently fell to the Milford Mavericks in a 33-7 shelling.

The Novi Wildcats will be looking to come off of their 16-15 victory over the Howell Highlanders last week and make it known that they aren't the kind of team that can only win by a point or two.

Expect this game to be in Novi's favor, heavily. "We want to play every game with the same intensity," Kelleppoury said. "It's nice getting back to playing at home though. There's nothing more exciting than playing in front of an energized student body."

The student body won't be the only element energized. Expect to see the Wildcats score frequently in this contest.

Novi News prediction: Novi 37, Lakeland 7.

Highlanders fall to Wildcats

Novi first earned points on a 31-yard field goal by Sijan for a 3-0 lead with 11 minutes left on the clock in the second quarter. The Highlanders answered 10 minutes later, scoring on a two-yard run before their extra point was blocked by Duquette.

Novi marched down in just 1:07 and added three more points on a 36-yard boot by Sijan to tie the game.

"That was huge for us," said Kelleppoury. "Being able to tie the game before halftime made the difference. We knew the score, we knew how conditioned our team was and we knew it was going to be one heck of a second half of football."

"It was a great football game," Kelleppoury said. "Give

And the Wildcats didn't disappoint the green and white faithful. Despite a 32-yard field goal by Howell in the third quarter to take a 9-6 lead, the Wildcats found their feet and jumped back into the lead on a seven-yard pass from senior Steve Hart to Favorite. Sijan tackled on the extra point for a 13-9 lead with just 10:52 remaining in the game.

The Highlanders weren't finished though, especially on their home turf, and answered back five minutes later on an eight-yard run for a score. Zhao blocked the extra point to keep Howell's lead at 15-13 before Sijan tacked on his field goal to win the contest.

BOBCATS FOOTBALL

Varsity Bobcats

The Novi Varsity Bobcats opened their season against the Walled Lake Braves last Saturday on a beautiful afternoon in Michigan. Unfortunately, the Braves did not cooperate like the weather as they handed the Bobcats a 28-14 loss.

The game started as a great defensive battle with neither team scoring on their first two possessions. The Bobcats (0-1) defense was led by strong efforts from Nick Littleton, John Robinson, Matt Bonnell, Adam Trober, Tim Kolis and T.J. Karasiz. The defensive highlight of the first half was when John Robinson forced a fumble that was recovered by Tim Kolis. The Braves (1-0) broke the goal line just before half to take an 8-0 lead into halftime. In the second half, both teams offenses warmed up. The Bobcats got rolling when Dakota Budde (80 yards passing) hit Justin Hopton on a 30 yard touchdown pass in the right corner of the end zone.

The Bobcats ground game got into the act led by Brady

Sheldon, Jeremy Mims and Alex Engbreton. The trio moved the ball effectively in the second half and generated a touchdown on a 6 yard run by Sheldon. Sheldon ended the day with 62 total yards, Engbreton 36 total yards, and Mims 70 total yards.

The Bobcats drove down to the Braves 10 yard line late in the game on a 45 yard screen pass from Budde to Mims. Unfortunately, they were unable to score due to penalties and turned the ball over on downs to end the game.

The Bobcats next game is Sunday, September 18 against the Livonia Orioles at the Novi Middle School.

Helping small business lift America

Once again, America is shaken by disaster. As the devastation from Hurricane Katrina is revealed, we grieve for our fellow citizens and their immeasurable loss. And at the same time, we reach deep into our national resolve and instinctively calculate the ways to assist those in need.

Small-business owners, whose irrepressible optimism and entrepreneurial spirit have made this nation the economic powerhouse that it is today, will once again step to the forefront of relief efforts to aid others who are unable to help themselves in the face of widespread destruction.

As Congress returns to work after a summer recess, the debates that have already begun to emerge in the news will take center stage on Capitol Hill. While it is the role of lawmakers to address grave issues that have arisen from this disaster, let us hope that the political atmosphere will not be further poisoned by the "blame games" that appear all too often following events of this nature.

Small-business owners expect congressional leaders to view the damage this storm has inflicted on our national economy in a constructive light. Now is the time to link arms and help restore the livelihoods and homes of those affected, but it should also be a time to avoid enacting measures that will harm one of the key sectors of the economy—small business—that has the potential to stabilize that economy more quickly than any government mandate can.

Hurricane Katrina has robbed the nation of hundreds of thousands of jobs. It will take a long time to make those places of employment viable again. Unfortunately there are some members of Congress who, historically, have ignored the fragile nature of our economy and insist on pushing ill-conceived ideas. Hiking the minimum wage is an example.

A proposal to raise the federally mandated minimum wage to $7.25 an hour was a bad idea even before the storm ravaged the Gulf Coast of the United States. Enactment of a higher minimum wage at a time when so many are suffering the loss of employment can only ensure that their plight will worsen and the survivability of millions of small businesses will be threatened.

When terrorists struck on Sept. 11, 2001, a labor union leader observed that the attack was about more than the financial loss suffered by businesses; it was also that countless jobs had been destroyed. The union members he represented needed jobs, not higher wages; to raise the minimum wage would make their re-employment even more difficult. History has proven that government manipulation of the starting wage has failed to help those who are in the direst need of employment.

In dealing with the aftermath brought by Hurricane Katrina, America will, once again, help its people rebuild their lives. The greatest contribution Congress can make is to ensure that the laws it passes address the long-term needs of citizens. Helping small businesses continue to create jobs is one of the best ways to accomplish that goal.

Adelson Eye & Laser Center

Expands practice to offer patients world-class care

The Adelson Eye & Laser Center recently expanded its staff and equipment at its office in downtown Northville to offer its patients world-class eye care. Dr. Howard Adelson and his staff moved his practice from Novi in 2004.

"We expanded our staff and office to better serve our patients and the community," said Dr. Adelson. "We strive to provide our patients with the best medical and surgical eye care available today."

And from the looks of things, Dr. Adelson is doing just that. The Adelson Eye & Laser Center offers services and procedures available from very few ophthalmologists in the state. Most of his abilities can be attributed to his unique training in advanced cataract and vision correction surgery.

Dr. Adelson possesses a broad educational background from the University of Michigan, Des Moines University, Stanford University and Michigan State University. Dr. Adelson is actively involved in training other doctors in the art of eye surgery and has been a national lecturer on many different subjects involving ophthalmology. He also has been featured live on Fox News regarding eye surgery.

Dr. Adelson specializes in the latest techniques for cataract, glaucoma and laser eye surgery. His practice also accepts new patients for general eye exams and treatment of eye diseases as well as emergency eye care.

"It's important for patients to understand all of their vision correction options thoroughly," Dr. Adelson said. "We make sure our patients understand all the options available to them and are completely comfortable with the procedure of their choice."

Dr. Adelson is one of the first doctors in Michigan to implant the new AcrySof ReSTOR intraocular lens. This technology is designed to allow patients to see clearly at all distances without bifocals or reading glasses.

Many people have to wear bifocals or reading glasses to compensate for the natural aging of the eyes, a condition called presbyopia. It eventually affects everyone including people who are nearsighted, farsighted, have cataracts or had perfect vision most of their lives.

The AcrySof lens is the most commonly used intraocular lens in the world with more than 21 million implanted in the past 10 years. The new ReSTOR lens provides a full range of vision without glasses. Research shows that 80 percent of patients receiving ReSTOR lenses reported that they no longer needed to wear glasses.

"Not everyone is a candidate for vision correction surgery and a thorough screening is important to determine which patients qualify," said Dr. Adelson.

He provides the examination and tests required to determine if a patient is a candidate and for which surgery. Spending an abundant amount of time with each patient before and after any surgery, he makes sure they get satisfactory results.

"Our main concern is that we get perfect results for our patients," Dr. Adelson said.

One procedure, CustomVue LASIK, tailors a distinct correction treatment for each patient determined by the unique characteristics of their eyes, Dr. Adelson explained. He has performed thousands of laser correction procedures during his career.

The CustomVue system uses WaveScan, a new technology that captures unique imperfections in each person's vision. This new level of measurement provides 25 times more precision than measurements used in standard methods for reading glasses and contact lenses.

He also can treat farsightedness without using a laser or scalpel with a noninvasive technique, Conductive Keratoplasty (known as CK). It can eliminate or greatly reduce the need for glasses, bifocals or contacts without invasive surgery.

The entire CK procedure takes less than five minutes per eye and often can be performed in the doctor's office. The procedure is painless and provides almost immediate results. Most people can resume their normal activities, such as driving and working, within 24 hours after having the CK procedure.

What separates Dr. Adelson from other ophthalmologists in the area is that he had an additional year of training with a fellowship focusing on the intricacies of laser vision correction. Dr.

Adelson is more likely to identify poor candidates and exclude them from surgery before they ever have it.

In fact, at Adelson Eye & Laser Center, "we often see patients after they have had evaluations at those $299 an eye places and help educate them on the truth about laser eye surgery," Dr. Adelson explained. "There is no such thing as high definition laser vision correction for $299 per eye."

Indeed, Dr. Adelson warns patients about many of the low-cost offers for laser vision correction surgery. Such offers often include obsolete lasers and minimal correction only where patients are charged more for the upgraded lasers, astigmatism and touch up or other services.

"Good medicine should never allow slick and unethical bait and switch games such as this" says

Dr. Adelson. At his office, he employs only the most up to date technology and equipment available.

Dr. Adelson is a leader in laser vision correction surgery. All procedures are performed in surgical facilities or local hospitals where he is on staff. He also is actively involved in training other physicians in the art of eye surgery.

Not all patients require vision correction surgery. Dr. Adelson diagnoses each patient and provides the appropriate treatment for their eye health.

The practice also offers new treatment options for people suffering from dry eyes, a condition where not enough tears or insufficient quality of tears are produced to keep the eye healthy and comfortable. As an ophthalmologist, Dr. Adelson, can diagnose dry eyes utilizing special techniques and can then prescribe the best treatment for it.

Dr. Adelson believes that continuing his medical education in the vision field is crucial to offering his patients the best care and treatment available. He is one of a few ophthalmologists in the state to complete a prestigious one-year fellowship in cataract and laser surgery techniques through the Grand Rapids Eye Institute and Michigan State University.

The Adelson Eye & Laser Center is a state-of-the-art facility with the latest equipment available to assure the best treatment of its patients. The practice offers flexible scheduling and same-day emergency appointments.
