Council approves permanent alcohol policy

Consumption allowed at civic center, library, township hall

BY NATHAN MUELLER STAFF WRITER

Following a successful six-month trial period, alcohol can now be consumed in three prominent Novi venues on a permanent basis.

The Novi City Council adopted the policy by a slim 4-3 margin Monday night to allow consumption of alcohol at the Novi Civic Center, Novi Township Hall and the Novi Public Library.

Council member Kathy Crawford and Mayor Pro-tem Bob Gatt have opposed the idea from the beginning, saying it does not belong in those facilities.

"I do believe the majority of civic center events and programs are designed for families and youth. And I think having alcohol consumption in one room, next door to a scout meeting or youth theater, just delivers the wrong message from the city," she said. "And it seems like what small amount of money we make is not worth the liability."

The city council passed a trial version of the policy in March. Since then, three events have taken place - two at the civic center and one at the library. Revenues totaled approximately $2,000.

There were no issues at any of the events, and the people who organized them said the ability to have alcohol was a determining factor in choosing the site.

Gatt said he does not feel the three parties in six months was enough to "judge what could happen or what potentially could happen in the future." Council member Andrew Mutch, who was in favor of the trial policy, jumped to the other side after township hall was added.

He sided with Gatt who said the building was located too close to Novi High School. The facilities share the same parking lot, despite having a Ten Mile Road address and thus allowing it to meet the 500-foot distance rule needed to possibly secure a liquor license.

Mutch also didn't like that the township hall was not staffed like the library and civic center.

"It makes monitoring and policing that kind of use at the building more difficult, and I would not be comfortable with that usage in that location," he said.

Council member Terry Margolis voted in favor of the policy saying she did not see the policy as being a money issue but "as allowing people to use the facilities that are paid for.'

Some of the rules associated with using the facilities include:

· Serving alcohol at the library is at the discretion of the library board and limited to after-hours events, and both facilities include requiring a $500 deposit that guarantees compliance with the rules.

* No alcohol consumption at any city facility between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Monday through Friday.

· No alcohol can be taken from the facility; alcohol service is limited to beer, wine and champagne.

· Hard liquor and beer kegs are not allowed among other stipulations. A trained bartender is required for any licensed event or private party over 25 people, and insurance and a hold harmless agreement are needed.

Mapping portal gives interactive, intimate access to the city

Physically heading to the Novi Civic Center for information about property taxes, ordinance requirements, school district boundaries, voting precincts and more could soon be a thing of the past.

All that information is now just a mouse-click away thanks to the city's upgraded Internet Mapping Portal. Chris Blough, geographic information services manager, said people were getting tired of the static maps and wanted to have a way to assemble the pieces themselves.

The interactive mapping resource years later, is vastly improved and provides more benefits for the city, residents and current and future

"We see it as an evolving resource, a dynamic and engaging one that people can relate with," Blough said. There are currently eight interactive maps — land records information, economic development information, voting information, community development, ordinance information, parks and recreation information, Novi aerial photo history and educational service areas. The maps allow users to make specific searches and

The new platform also allows the city options. to keep the maps constantly upgraded and also saves the city money. "We have assembled what we think are logically related packets of map information," Blough said. "And it gives us a great mechanism to deliver that information."

Through the various maps, users can find such information as land assessing records, how ordinance requirements apply to specific businesses or residences, where local pathways and sidewalks are located, address locations, school district boundaries, polling places and available pieces of property that are for

Blough said while the No. 1 purpose of the portal is serving residents, it also is key in attracting businesses to Novi. "We are trying to market Novi internationally and if an investor can look at this information and make business decisions from across the country, that puts Novi in a better position," he said. Ara Topouzian, economic development director, said in his dealings with businesses, the days of asking for paperwork are gone.

"If you are going to do business attraction and go after international businesses you have to have the latest and greatest in technology because you don't know who is looking for your community," he said. "You have to give them all the information they are looking for."

There is no cost to access the maps and they can be found on www.cityofnovi.org under the "Community" tab. Blough said he expects the maps to continue to evolve and is currently working on one that details the road construction taking place in the city. "I look at this as one of the greatest resources I have ever been a part of to

Parkview first-graders learn how to be 'highly effective people'

BY NATHAN MUELLER STAFF WRITER

The three first grade classes at Parkview Elementary have been learning new habits since the school year started. Motivated by Stephen R. Covey's book "The Seven Habits of Highly Effective People," the first-grade teachers and principal at the school took the students on a miniretreat last Thursday to help the students learn how to incorporate those habits into their everyday lives. "We are teaching children to take responsibility for their own lives and actions," said teacher Bridget Zahradnik. "But the bigger theme around it is to help them become leaders in their own way and find their own voice." The seven habits touched on by Covey are: be proactive, begin with the end in mind, put first things first, think "When you are a leader and win-win, seek first to underyou can think about problems stand and then to be under-

"We have seen humongous gains in the first three weeks of school by teaching this," she said. "We always are teaching students to take control of their actions, but this does it in a way that helps them understand the principles you need."

Parkview Elementary first grader Isabelle Kouzmanov laughs as she tries to team up with teacher Jenny Kramer to bring themselves upright after locking arms behind their backs. The exercise was one of the 'Seven Habits of Highly

DIA program brings museum to Northville, Novi

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN CORRESPONDENT

Art lovers have one more reason to visit downtown Northville and the Novi Public Library through Nov. 30.

online at hometownlife.com

The Detroit Institute of Arts is celebrating its 125th anniversary by displaying reproductions of paintings not only outside the library, but Dancing Eye Gallery in Northville and Andiamo - Novi. The waterproof works are part of the DIA Inside/Out program and installed on brick walls or placed on posts. "The Recitation," an impressionistic painting by American artist Thomas Dewing, is a welcome addition to the patio area outside of the new Novi library. The library opened June 1 with its own art collection. A brochure lists 1,600 ceramic tiles by local artist. Connie Lunski, as well as 15 glass apples by internationally known artist Richard Ritter.

"We have a new patio on our new building that people can sit and enjoy," said Library Director Julie Farkas. "It's almost like going into the DIA, and there's a little bit of information alongside. The painting is very beautiful with lighter colors of two women in a field. Patrons can walk up. They're very surprised and love the fact that they could see it from our location."

The Novi Library is just one of 40 locations in Oakland, Wayne, Macomb and Washtenaw counties displaying art. The works were curated by Larry Branski and installed the week before Labor Day.

"It's community outreach," said Michelle Hauske, the DIA's Inside/Out location manager. Hauske met with representatives of the cities and building owners to coordinate the program.

John Singer Sargent's 'Mosquito Nets' is on display at the front entrance to Andiamo-Novi restaurant, 42705 Grand River Avenue. "We wanted to do something found on the website at www. dia.org or visit https://sites. outside of museum walls to share our collection. Farrell named Super

Clay Farrell, a Novi resident, has been named to the 2010 Michigan Super Lawyers list. The list identifies and recognizes the most respected lawyers in the state of Michigan. Farrell practices law at Southfield, Michiganbased Collins, Einhorn, Farrell & Ulanoff, P.C. Farrell concentrates his practice on multi-including litigation in the areas of environmental torts, product liability, toxic torts and emerging claims. The University of Detroit Mercy School of Law dumnus's trial experience pans more than three decades and includes approximately 100 cases to verdict.

The attorneys featured in Michigan Super Lawyers magazine are selected though a multi-step process. Candidates are nominated through a survey of more than 30,000 attorneys, direct contact with law firms and by reviewing trade journals, periodicals, databases and online sources. A blue ribbon panel of the top attorneys in each respective practice area evaluates the candidates. The final selection is then made by dividing the candidates by their firm size and selecting the top

Cassis honored as Guardian of Small Business

State Sen. Nancy Cassis has been honored by the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) for her record in support of Michigan's small businesses According to the NFIB's 2009-2010 Session Small Business Voting Record, Cassis scored a perfect 100-percent score on small business issues, earning her distinction as a Guardian of Small Business.

"I am honored to be recognized for my efforts on behalf of small business," said

Cassis, R-Novi, "As chair of the Senate Finance Committee, I continue to advocate and be a strong voice for our local and small businesses, which create more than 70 percent of Michigan jobs. Revitalizing our economy will start with small businesses thriving, expanding and creating jobs right here in Michigan." NFIB State Director Charlie Owens said, "We are honored and delighted to recognize Senator Cassis. She understands that small business plays a significant role in providing jobs and spurring economic development in Michigan." The NFIB's Small Business Vote Record

Stranger danger

Keeping kids safe is everyone's job

Here's reminder to families in Novi and Northville about "stranger danger": Parents, guardians and neighbors need to be vigilant in keeping kids, of all ages, in these communities safe. At home, it starts with talking to kids — telling them what to do if someone they do not know approaches them at the bus stop or on the walk home from school. This is important because children, even teenagers, have a false vision of "strangers" as being creepy, ugly, scary people who typically say things like, "Hey, little girl, do you want some candy?" An ill-intentioned person can be a nice looking man, a woman, even a young adult who is dressed really cool. Kids can't predict Some would argue that the motives of others today's society is overreacting - they think and live and being overly paranoid in the present moment. • They should avoid people they do not know. • They should not respond to or accept offers or requests made by strangers. This includes comments like, "Can you help me find my dog?" or "I'm lost, can you tell me which street I'm on?" Remember, adults wouldn't normally ask a child for directions.

• They should immediately report to their school, family and the police any suspicious approach made to them by a stranger.

• They should go directly home from school and check in with parents.

• They should walk in groups and not engage in conversations with strangers.

· Parents and guardians should not let their child dress in clothing that has his or her name on it — for example, a jersey with the child's first name on the back; or a name on the child's backpack. When kids are called by name, they tend to let their guard down.

 Parents and guardians should teach their children that it is OK to run away or to scream if someone is making him or her do something they don't want to do. Tell them they can run to a neighbor's house and knock on the door if they need help. • Establish a family "code word" and teach children to ask for it, if they're approached by someone they do not know. Some would argue that today's society is overreacting and being overly paranoid and it's causing children to grow up in fear and in sheltered environments. We do encourage kids in neighborhoods to walk to school - but only if they're taught to avoid contact with people they do not know.

They need adults to teach them that strangers who have ill intentions are tricky - they can contrive stories and scenarios that could easily sway a child in their direction. We need parents, grandparents, guardians and neighbors to be the eyes and ears in our neighborhoods. It's unfortunate that we have to keep our guards up, but consider the consequences the one time that we do not. Obviously, a child's life isn't worth that risk.

Replying to anti-Bush letter

In the Sept. 16 letter box, there appeared a letter spewing anti-Bush and anti-Republican ideas that are completely false or very close to it. I'd like to respond:

· "... memos were presented months in advance (9/11) attack that Bin Laden was "determined" to attack the U.S. by flying airplanes into

This is part of the discredited conspiracy theory nonsense that President Bush knew about the attack in advance. The only problem with this theory is that it's not true. • "We invaded Iraq on the basis of lies spread by the Bush/Cheney administration."

Senior Iraqi officials have admitted that Saddam Hussein was actively trying to create a belief that Iraq possessed weapons of mass destruction. They said that it was because Hussein wanted Iran to believe it. Unfortunately, the west believed it as well. Democrats in congress had access to the same information and intelligence reports as the president and came to the same conclusion, enthusiastically voting to invade Iraq. If Bush lied, so did Teddy Kennedy, Hillary Clinton, Nance Pelosi, and other top Democrats. Plainly and simply, saying that Bush

If this were true, why is Nancy Pelosi now pondering over whether Congress should continue the tax cuts for "middle-class" Americans. The tax cuts covered just about everyone who was working. "Because regulators were lunching (and actually sleeping) with Wall Street bank executives ..." Bush gave assistance to "Wall Street bank executives" the same as President Obama's administration. Both lowered interest rates for banks (actually, President Obama's rates are/were lower than President Bush. You must decide if both efforts are good, or both are bad. You can't applaud one and boo the other.

 "Home values also went into the toilet and home foreclosures hit all-time highs."

The primary cause for the housing debacle occurred during the Clinton administration when the feds ordered banks to loan money to lowincome people who obviously couldn't afford to buy homes. The blame for that should be squarely on Democrat shoulders with ensuing help from the Republicans.

• "We were losing 700,000 jobs a month." We have lost more jobs during the past year and a half than at any time in our history and still haven't lost an average of 700,000 jobs a month. That's a figure pulled out of thin air. It's simply

To all on Nov. 2

VOTERS: Register and vote in the crucial election Nov. 2. Don't be disgusted, depressed and disgruntled with politics! Be part of the solution in helping solve serious problems in the state and nation. Be aware of money and agendas supporting each major political party. Educate yourselves about judges and be sure to vote on the opposite side of the ballot.

DEMOCRATS: Reclaim from Republican "newspeak" and reown the language of Democratic tenets. Examples include family values for all Americans, liberal, fiscal responsibility, fair regulation, equitable taxation, diversity, human, working class and women's rights, separation of church and state, patriotism, a living, not static U.S. Constitution. Democrats, adhere to Thomas Jefferson's words: "the real friends of the Constitution in its federal form, if they wish it to be immortal, should make it keep pace with the advance of age." Language has been hijacked and Repeat the unity, moderation, courage, energy, mobilization, success displayed in the 2000 election. Disregard and do not be intimidated by polls and biases of commentators and media. Be proud of and give voice to accomplishments of President Obama's administration.

Keep Carl Levin and Debbie Stabenow in Washington to continue their proven advocacy for Michigan.

Re-elect Rep. Gary Peters in the 9th Congressional District and Rep. Lisa Brown in the 39th Michigan District. They have listened to and served Michigan constituents admirably. Support Virg Bernero for governor and his running mate, Brenda Lawrence. Both are successful mayors who have balanced budgets without increasing taxes and have supported businesses. They represent Main Street vs. Wall Street.

Elect Natalie Mosher for representative in the 11th Congressional District. She, like most Democrats, fights for equal pay and reproductive rights for women. Support Pam Jackson, candidate for Michigan State Senate District 15. Ms. Jackson's expertise in education and business will benefit Michigan. Help Jocelyn Benson become Michigan's secretary of state. She has been active in promoting responsive, accountable, accessible government.

REPUBLICANS: Return your party to moderation. Do not be threatened by extreme fringe groups and commentators who display anger, negativity, antagonism, criticism without creating plans and policies for improving conditions.

INDEPENDENTS: Contrast events and results from Republican and Democratic leadership. During Republican administrations, there was abuse of presidential power; an illegal war was waged under false pretenses; the wealthy enjoyed tax cuts; and human rights violations occurred. These historic benefits became law under Democratic presidents – Social Security in 1935, Voters' Rights and Medicare in 1965, Health Care Reform in 2010. The federal budget was balanced during the 1990s and there was relative peace in

ALL: Be suspicious and skeptical of persons and groups using religion and patriotism for political purposes. The words of writer Sinclair Lewis (1885-1951) are valid and pertinent today: "When fascism comes to America it will be wrapped in a flag and carrying a cross."

Hannah Provence Donigan

End squabbling

The squabble over political parties is getting out of control. People are worrying more about what party they believe in than who the representative is or what he/she plans to do about the issues of our nation. People get so wrapped up in their need to generalize that they don't try to see both sides of the argument. This causes the lack of nationalism that is critical for a recovering

I was reading the Opinion page in last week's edition of the Novi News, and I noticed that the Letters portion of the page was almost completely filled with people complaining about other parties doing the wrong thing for the country. The first letter had the right idea in saying, "... voters are acting as if though they have amnesia ..". but then it went downhill when it started to blame the Republican Party for the economic failure. The next letter did the exact same thing, but against the Democratic Party. The proving words were, "Come November, vote Republican." Each of these letters has its focus set on the economy. but blames an entire party for what both sides have done and not done.

Now I'm not trying to say that anyone with a complaint is evil or misquided. That would rule out the entire human race. I'm saying that people should focus their criticism on the actual people and leave the rest of the party up for judgment. Maybe we as a nation should just rid ourselves of political parties entirely. President George Washington, in his farewell speech, specifically stated that the two things the United States should not do were form political parties and form alliances. He believed that political parties would divide the nation, which it has. Also, President Abraham Lincoln said, "A house divided cannot stand." I believe that these two great historical minds have wisdom that is still applicable

Novi, Northville superintendents say consolidation not the answer

BY NATHAN MUELLER

More and more the word 'consolidation" is being used by legislators and most notably Gov. Jennifer Granholm as a possible way to help public school districts save money. The goal would be to shrink the state's 549 public school districts down to under 100 countywide districts, and as a result, save as much as $612 million statewide, according to a recent Michigan State University study.

But two local school district superintendents don't believe full consolidation of every school district is the answer - especially for their communities.

Novi only scored in two quarters, but it was two quarters more than South Lyon East scored in, as the Wildcats rolled to a 27-0 victory over their coach's former team.

Coach Todd Pennycuff's Wildcats (3-2, 3-0 KLAA Central) were dominant in the win, allowing just 19 total yards to the Cougars (1-4, 0-3 Central), a team Pennycuff coached through its first few years of existence until last December.

"Bittersweet. I love Novi Novi's home, but because I coached some of those kids, you're torn a little bit. It was a little difficult. They have a lot of different emotions, too," Pennycuff said. "I thought our kids played well. I had to remind our kids that they came over to beat a Novi team, not a coach. The (Novi) kids play with a lot of heart. They all made some good plays." The game was far from a perfect performance for Novi, however, as the Wildcats had two interceptions and five fumbles, but only lost one, on their first snap of the game.

"We're still working on our fumbles, our passing game's got to improve," Pennycuff said, not-

Pennycuff played for South Lyon and is a former offensive coordinator for the program, so he said the game would be nearly as emotional as last week's game against South Lyon East.

Shamrocks beat DeLaSalle in annual Boys Bowl

BY SAM EGGLESTON

Want to know how to gather 125 yards of offense on a single drive that lasts 11 full minutes? Well, first you start with a team that can seemingly get first downs at will and then you throw in a few penalties.

Catholic Central put together a drive tha took 11:07 before it reached the end zone in the third quarter, allowing the De La Salle Pilots to only have the ball for 53 seconds in that stanza. That was the type of statement the Shamrocks made throughout the contest and throughout this season as they walked away from the annual Boys' Bowl with a 27-7 victory to stay undefeated Catholic Central had jumped out to a 21-0 lead in the first half before receiving the ball in the beginning of the third quarter and viciously controlling the clock. The Shamrocks committed a trio of penalties on the drive, including two for holding and one for illegal procedure. That, of course, didn't stop them from coninuing their march.

"That was a great effort on our line and backs' part," said Catholic Central coach fom Mach, who said he hadn't seen a drive like that during the span of his three-decade coaching career. "We had 125 yards on that drive, I think, with penalties. The drive eventually ended with a one-yard sports writer for the Northville Record and Novi News.

The Shamrocks are on the road this week when they travel to University of Detroit Jesuit for a conference match-up. The Cubs are 2-3 on the season and have not had much luck in th Catholic High School League, taking losses to Detroit Country Day, 28-21, Orchard Lake St. Mary's, 28-19, and Brother Rice, 21-0. They have wins over Grosse Pointe South, 43-36, and Ferndale, 16-13.

run for a touchdown by Anthony Darkangelo to put the Shamrocks up, 27-0. Darkangelo carried the ball 11 times for 63 yards and two scores. Never to be to be outdone, running back Justin Messner added 93 yards on 10 carries and scored on a 46-yard jaunt in the first quarter while Justin D'Agostino had 17 carries for 82 yards. Shamrock quarterback Mike Birney added the team's other touchdown, scampering 22 yards in the first half

While De La Salle wasn't able to get a win, they did manage to do what most teams can't muster against the Shamrocks--score. The Pilots put the ball into the end zone on a sixvard run with just under two minutes left to play as Damorria Lilly found some daylight and pushed his way across the goal line. Catholic Central is now 5-0 on the season and needs just one more win to guarantee a playoff berth. De La Salle fell to 4-1 overall Sam Eggleston is a freelance writer and former staff

The Wildcats improved to 14-2-1 (2-0 KLAA Central) with a 25-12, 25-12, 25-22 victory over visiting South Lyon (0-2 Central) last Thursday. Senior Erica Robb led the way with 11 kills and three blocks, while senior Laura Subject amounted 21 assists and two aces. Senior Erin Hoomaian was strong with 17 digs, 20 serve returns and two aces.

The 'Cats were scheduled to host South Lyon East () last Tuesday before visiting Northville (17-6-4, 1-1 Central) tonight and then hosting Plymouth Salem (9-4-0, 2-0 Central) Tuesday and Livonia Stevenson (9-4-3, 1-1 Central) next Thursday. Both matches are at 7 p.m.

There's a reason the Detroit Catholic Central Shamrocks are ranked No. 1 in the state right now--they are the defending Division I state champions and they keep running like they intend on winning it again.

The squad hosted the Catholic Central Invitational last week at Cass Benton in mostly-cloudy, 68-degree weather. They ran to a convincing finish, taking the top four spots individually and the first-place overall as a team with 21 points. Taking second was Northville, which had 73 points while Farmington took third with 102. In total, there were 11 teams

Nissan honors Cooper Standard

Nissan North America, Inc. recently honored Cooper Standard with two quality awards: the 2010 Most Improved Supplier Quality Award and the Zero Defects Certificate. The honors were presented by Nissan's Catherine Perez, vice president of Purchasing; Kevin Martin, vice president of Quality; and Bill Krueger, senior vice president of Manufacturing, Purchasing, Supply Chain Management and Total Customer Satisfaction, to Cooper Standard's Edward Hasler, president, and Lyle Otremba, vice president of sales and engineering, during an awards ceremony in Franklin, Tenn. Cooper Standard - which has supplied

Nissan for 14 years - was the only supplier to receive the Most Improved Supplier Quality Award in 2010 for its continuous quality improvements. The Zero Defects Certificate was awarded to the global automotive supplier for its exceptional defect rate. Cooper Standard provides products and systems for body sealng, anti-vibration, fuel, brake and emissions, and thermal management for various Nissan vehicles in all major regions of the world.

"At Cooper Standard, we believe that customer satisfaction is the foundation for our sustained success," said Hasler. "The Nissan quality awards are just another indication that Cooper Standard has the infrastructure and culture in place to excel as a leading, global supplier in the competitive automotive market

Cooper Standard, headquartered in Novi, is a global supplier of systems and components for the automotive industry. Products include body sealing systems, fluid handling systems and anti-vibration systems. Cooper Standard employs approximately 16,000 people globally and operates in 18 countries around the world. Are state's film credits worth $193,000 per job?

Agency report again raises serious questions about the effectiveness of Michigan's film credits. As part of our legislative oversight responsibly, the Senate Finance Committee heard from agency officials about their issue paper on the film credits, which are estimated to cost taxpayers more than $193,000 per direct job created

A serious - yet not surprising - finding by SFA economist David Zin, was that the state "will never be able to make the credit 'pay for itself' from a state revenue standpoint."

At a time when Michigan lost more than 240,000 jobs, I believe that it was inadvisable that the state spent $68.7 million in film credits in 2009 to create only 355 full-time employees. According to the report's data, the film credits are less effective than previously thought. It was originally believed that the state would generate 17 cents in tax

But the report says the state is only getting back 11 cents for each dollar given away in credits. That type of spending is simply unsustainable. It is also astounding that nearly half of the private-sector spending resulting from the credits went out-of-state. 47.4 percent of the expenditures qualified for the Media Production Credit in 2008 did not affect the Michigan econ-ing create jobs in Michigan Nancy Cassis for Michigan workers. That is why I have introduced legislation that would require movie productions to hire Michigan

The most unbelievable findings in the fiscal agency paper are that in 2008, under the film credits. Michigan taxpayers subsidized 216 full-time iobs at a cost of $189,519 per job and this cost per job increased in 2009 to more than $193,000 per position. It abundantly clear that our legislative responsibility to all taxpayers depends on transparency and disclosure. Lawmakers need accurate and evaluating the effectiveness of programs, like the film credits. As chair of the Senate Finance Committee, I am also announcing that we will be having a further hearing on this topic with the Michigan Film Office in the next 4-6 weeks.
