Differing Opinions

Reporters Sometimes Overzealous

by Carol Balzarini

It may not be particularly kosher for one reporter to criticize his colleagues or to applaud an individual who criticizes them, but maybe it's time someone did.

When Olympic skater Beth Heiden told reporters she skated to satisfy herself and not the press, she was right. She felt they had put undue pressure on her prior to the Olympics just by the big buildup they gave her and her speedskating ability. Why should she feel obliged to provide them with a few extra column inches? She told them bluntly to get lost.

Consider a recent case where some overzealous representatives of the media nearly jeopardized the safe outcome of a kidnapping by being "on the spot" when the ransom was delivered. Would it have been worth having the first story on television or the newsstand if the child had been killed because of this interference?

What about the situation time and time again when the television cameras and crew crowd into a small home while a bleeding heart reporter asks the family of a murder victim how they feel about the killer. Do we really have to know whether they are praying for his soul or wishing him eternal damnation? Do we really want to know?

Consider the war in Viet Nam. Was it fought in that tiny country or on your television screen? Consider the mass suicides in Guyana brought to you in living color by your weekly news magazine.

It is becoming difficult to obtain fair trials for accused felons these days because potential jurors have been treated to thorough and graphic coverage of the case prior to its coming to trial. Remember the good old days when you had to read between the lines and guess at the lurid details? No one had to tell you it was a gruesome crime, you just knew it was!

Where does the individual's right to privacy leave off and the public's right to know begin? How many details of a crime is it necessary to reveal? Is a reporter obliged to penetrate every thought, every emotion, and then pass it on to his readers?

If a reporter could look at himself objectively, would he ever be embarrassed by the inane questions he sometimes asks? Is he so pressured by his superiors for a new angle, a lurid photograph, that he loses all sense of propriety? Where has the concept of good taste gone?

Reporters Not Scapegoats

by Mike Wilcox

I'm getting rather tired of reporters having to play the role of scapegoats.

It seems to happen every day now. Beth Heiden blames the media for putting too much pressure on her thus depriving her of the trio of medals she was expected to win in Olympic speedskating. Sounds like a copout to me. In fact she seemed to relish the publicity earlier in the year while training.

Billy Martin, new Oakland "A's" manager has a history of blaming the press for printing "untruths". How come, however, most of those "untruths" always seem to be proven amazingly accurate later on?

The press was blamed for fighting the Viet Nam War on the T.V. screen. But without that extended coverage, Americans would never have learned how ridiculous that war was.

Many people abhor the graphic recreations of the Guyana massacres that were found in most newspapers and on T.V. But without the investigative efforts of reporters, the People's Temple cult would probably still be in business today altering the minds and lifestyles of vulnerable Americans.

What's even more objectionable is the ever popular portrayal of the snooty, obnoxious reporter, television and movies love to characterize in their productions.

Not all reporters are like that. Most are hardworking and wonderfully caring people. We need more T.V. characterizations like Lou Grant--his is a lifelike role.

I fear the day, inquisitive reporters stop asking embarrassing questions or digging into places and situations where they don't belong.

The media is the watchdog of our society. We have to give the public as much information as we can find. To do otherwise would be censorship.

Why Not Ask Carolyn?

Dear Carolyn,

I'm so bitter and so angry I could just scream. My husband and I separated a few months ago. I have the two children with me, my son is 10 and my daughter is 14. I'm working for a large department store and earning peanuts while he goes off to his fancy office everyday. When we were first married, I worked so he could finish his education. When we had children, I stayed home with the kids. I understand there is a new term for women like me; displaced housewife. Well, finding a job after being home for 15 years is really tough. I will go nuts if I have to work very long where I am. I'd like to be able to sue him for alimony along with child support for all the years of my life that I gave him. I really don't have a question, I just wanted to have my say.

Bitter

Dear Bitter,

You probably could win your case for temporary alimony, in the form of paid tuition so you could upgrade your skills. There are many cases on record where a former husband pays for schooling so a woman can become qualified for a better job.

As for your bitterness, whose choice was it that you stay home and be a housewife and mother? If you choose that freely then you can't blame your husband for those being years out of the job market. You were doing what you choose to do.

Now you have to find another full-time job outside the home. Men, in their careers, sometimes face the same problem of having to change jobs and/or careers. If they are fired, if their company goes bankrupt, they must also begin again.

Stop feeling sorry for yourself, sit down and make some plans on how you want to spend your future years. Then get yourself in gear. Take one day at a time, one hour at a time, and if necessary, one minute at a time. Count your blessings; focus on positives. In your situation, your attitude will make most of the difference.

Thoughtfully,

Carolyn

Clarkston Clinic Will Fold Without Office

The area's going to lose a valuable service, if someone doesn't come forth with some office space. That's the word from John Scharfenkamp, a psychiatrist, who has operated a community mental health clinic at Independence Center since 1974.

Since the Center's closing last fall, Scharfenkamp along with psychiatric social worker Mary Ann Hennig have worked out of an office on the second floor of the new senior citizen center. But because the second floor is not barrier free, it is illegal according to the federal grant under which the center was renovated, to use the second floor. Thus, February 29 was to be Scharfenkamp's last day in that office.

Scharfenkamp said he has searched extensively for an office but "everybody says they just don't have the space".

What's needed is simply a single office available for the clinic's use four days a week from 9-5. "We just need a place where a couple of people can sit down to talk," added Scharfenkamp.

If they get their office, Scharfenkamp promised the service they will provide "will be very valuable".

"Ours is the one service that makes psychiatric treatment available on a non-cost basis," he added. Clients are charged by their ability to pay. No one is refused treatment because they can't afford it.

The clinic offers a full range of psychiatric services for those 16 years and older. And clients, according to Scharfenkamp, range from chronically ill persons released from the state hospital to persons who just need to talk to someone.

The Clarkston clinic is actually a branch of the Pontiac General Hospital clinic. Other branches are in Lake Orion and Rochester. If the Clarkston branch closes, those wanting psychiatric services in this area will have to travel to Pontiac.

And claims Scharfenkamp, that would be inconvenient for a lot of people. "We've had very active clientele," he said. "We have continuous appointments all day long in Clarkston."

But Scharfenkamp fears these services will be lost if an office can't be found soon. If anyone knows of an available office, call Scharfenkamp at 857-7570.

HOW CAN ONE FACE THEM?

Having failed to attend a friend's funeral service, one may experience great difficulty in facing members of the bereaved family without embarrassment.

So, too, may members of the deceased's family find it hard to face someone who did not pay their respects at the funeral service, the wake or other form of visitation.

To avoid such embarrassment, a person who could not attend the service ought to make a personal condolence call afterwards. He should also explain to the family why he could not attend.

Although one must make these decisions individually, as the situation requires, it must be pointed out that funeral attendance and condolence calls are social responsibilities. We occasionally observe this "loss of friendship" when a simple phone call might have prevented the hurt feelings.

If you are not clear about visitation etiquette or duties, feel free to call on us for assistance. We will be pleased to help you at any time.

Let's Hear From You

Should the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission purchase Pine Knob?

Facts and Figures Behind Proposed Pine Knob Purchase

by Carol Balzarini

The Oakland County Commissioners and the Parks and Recreation Commission met in an informal luncheon session last week at White Lake Oaks to hear the findings of a preliminary study drawn up to determine the financial feasibility of purchasing the Pine Knob resort complex. The study was prepared by the county's Department of Management and Budget and presented by its head James Brennan.

Also presented to the commissioners and other county principals, including Executive Daniel Murphy, was a timetable drawn up by Parks and Recreation people showing events as they had occurred beginning with Pine Knob's offer to sell last November and future dates they would like to see realized up to and including a request for $20 million in general obligation or revenue bonds to purchase Pine Knob appearing on the May 20 Presidential Primary ballot.

The commission has yet to make its recommendations regarding the possible acquisition of the 340-acre complex which includes the music theatre, golf course, country club, and ski lodge. That recommendation will have to come soon, however, to meet the suggested timetable.

The feasibility study stated the proposed county purchase would have no effect on the music theatre operating under the terms of a fifty-five year contract entered into in 1972 and giving an 80%-20% division of profits between the landlord and the operator respectively with a minimum annual rental charge of $60,000.

Also with the music theatre purchase would come a concession agreement with Ogden Confection Corporation which expires in 1987 and gives Ogden control of not only the dispensing and sale of food and beverages but control of the parking operation as well.

The study briefly outlined the development of the ski area from its beginnings in 1961 to the present including the improvement of the existing facilities and eventual upgrading since its purchase by Pine Knob Investment Company in 1971. Here, too, is a concession agreement with Ogden expiring in 1987.

The Mansion, built in 1928 and recently renovated, serves as the clubhouse of the golf and country club and has recently been opened to the public. It includes a main dining room, two smaller ones, a cocktail lounge, locker and work-out rooms for both men and women. The 18-hole golf course has a halfway house providing food and beverages between the ninth and tenth fairways. There is also a pro shop, swimming pool, tennis courts, and a spring-fed lake.

Using an income approach analysis, the Department of Management and Budget has put a value on Pine Knob at just under $18 million. This approach deals with the present value of projected income generated, as compared to the cost approach which analyzes the actual physical value of the complex.

The cost approach takes the cost of duplicating the existing structures on the property and adds to that the value of the land itself. This figure comes to about $20 million and a half million.

A third figure available comes from an appraisal commissioned by Pine Knob Investments who put a value on the complex of just over $21 million using the income approach.

The primary difference between the county's $18 million and the appraiser's $21 million lies in the capitalization rates used. The county's was more conservative, according to the report, indicating a higher potential risk factor attached to future earnings.

Also included in the report was a detailed financial history of each component of the Pine Knob complex necessary to determine the relationship between revenue and expenses. To be self-sustaining, revenues must cover costs. Basically, Parks and Recreation operates on a voted 1/4 mill tax levy.

Conclusions reached in the report show the annual break-even point for the total complex, including the bond payment, is just over $7 million and just under 800,000 patrons. Using an adjusted 1979 level of activity, the level for the entire complex would have had to decline 17 percent to reach the break-even point.

The activity levels for the separate components of Pine Knob show the music theatre would have had to decline 44 percent to reach the break-even point, the ski area would have had to increase 16 percent, while the golf course would have had to increase 273 percent.

The report concluded the key to ultimate financial success of the proposed purchase was the music theatre.

Another factor used in determining the purchase price was the estimated $800,000 required to turn the complex into a publicly owned and operated facility. This capital outlay included additional paving and parking plus fencing and a maintenance building.

A negotiated price range of $17-19 million was recommended as economically feasible.

As previously mentioned, there are two major alternatives available for financing this project: revenue bonds and general obligation bonds.

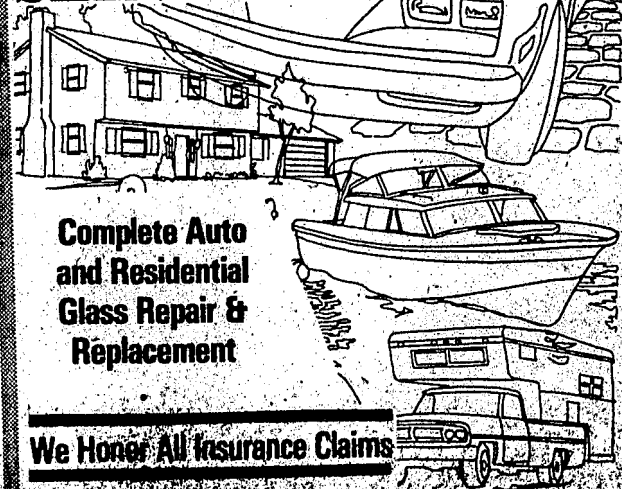

Revenue bonds, paid with money generated by Pine Knob's recreational activities, do not involve the "pledging of the full faith and credit" of the county tax base and, therefore, carry a higher risk factor. That risk could make the bonds unmarketable in these times of tight credit. All things considered, it was concluded revenue bonds were not the best way to finance the purchase.

General obligation bonds do require the county's full faith and credit and, therefore, require a vote of the people under the Headlee Amendment. The report also concluded that, because of the magnitude of the proposal, voter endorsement or denial may be advisable.

A vote approving these general obligation bonds would not necessarily result in an additional tax levy, the report stated. It would only if the complex could not generate sufficient revenue to cover operating expenses and to retire the debt and no other sources of funds were available to meet obligations. The potential risk of the proposed purchase would be "substantially reduced" with this method of financing and it was recommended as the one to use.

Overall, current Pine Knob revenues can support the annual principal and interest payment on a 30-year, $20 million bond issue representing the total resources available for acquisition of the property, according to the feasibility study.

Reye's Syndrome...Be Alert, But Don't Panic

by Carol Balzarini

Elementary children in the Clarkston School District have been provided with information about Reye's Syndrome, not a disease but a collection of non-contagious symptoms that attack children from infancy to adolescence.

Although there have been no reported cases of Reye's in the area, at least one older child has been checked for it in the past week. He was taken to a local doctor for flu-like symptoms and immediately referred to the pediatric department of a nearby hospital for blood tests. The outcome was favorable, he did not have Reye's Syndrome.

What he did have, however, were symptoms of the syndrome. Persistent vomiting may not always be the primary symptom to look for. Since the liver can be one of the affected organs, pain in the upper right side may also be an indication of the problem.

Reye's attacks mainly young people, male and female equally, usually following a viral illness such as the flu, chicken pox, or mononucleosis. If not caught in time it can be fatal as it has been in several cases in Michigan so far this winter.

The primary problem with Reye's is that it may come on suddenly and/or exhibit symptoms similar to other diseases or conditions. Behavior problems such as lethargy, disorientation or changes in behavior can also be related to drug usage in older children. Vomiting is also a symptom of the flu. Irritability in children is not uncommon, sometimes they are just simply irritable.

The most important things for parents to remember is be alert, do not panic, and know the symptoms of Reye's Syndrome which generally follow a pattern starting with a viral disorder on through to a comatose state. Contact your doctor or hospital immediately if Reye's is suspected.

THE STAGES OF REYE'S SYNDROME

VIRAL DISORDER--The majority of Reye's Syndrome

cases are preceded by a viral disorder such as the flu or chicken pox, the effects of which last from a few days to one week. In some rare cases, Reye's is not preceded by a virus infection, but starts abruptly.

RECOVERY PERIOD--There is a brief period of recovery from the original viral disorder lasting from a few hours to several days. During this time, the child is not usually sick but not well either.

VOMITING--Violent, relentless vomiting is almost always the first serious sign of Reye's except in infants. The hands and feet may be cold and clammy. Temperature may be normal or even subnormal. The pupils may be dilated, that is, the dark part of the eye remains expanded even in bright light.

BEHAVIOR CHANGE--The child becomes irritable and negative, wanting to be left alone, and is unusually annoyed if someone speaks to him or touches him. He may want to sleep all the time, feeling very fatigued or simply "washed-out." He may be glassy-eyed with prolonged staring. Many parents describe a hostile look on their child's face and often they do become combative. During this period the child may also develop twitching and jerking movements (seizures).

DISORIENTATION--The child becomes generally confused, seemingly lost in time and space. For example, he may find his way into the bathroom but will not find his way out. He is able to carry out simple requests, such as "brush your teeth," only with the most deliberate and basic step-by-step instructions. This period can last a few minutes or several hours.

HOSTILITY--The child becomes generally hostile and unable to recognize family members and familiar surroundings. He is frequently combative and aggressive, kicking, lashing out and biting. He may moan and scream incessantly and abnormally, and no measure of reassurance will quiet him. He may demonstrate unusual strength. It may take several adults to restrain him.

COMA--The child enters the semi-comatose state, responding sluggishly and only after vigorous prodding. Soon, deep coma develops with no response. Death, if it is to occur, follows usually as a result of swelling brain tissue, and this can occur the first day or as long as several weeks later.

Average time from the period of vomiting to death is three to five days. The above symptoms are the usual progression in cases of Reye's. However, symptoms, time intervals and sequence may vary. Reye's Syndrome can only be determined by proper blood tests. It may be far safer to assume your child does have Reye's than to assume he does not.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters Focus on Strengthening Home Life

by Kathy Rush

There is in Oakland County a program that has as its goal the strengthening of home life of one-parent families by focusing professional and volunteer services on the needs of children from those families in order to help them achieve self-sufficiency. Yet many families to whom this program could be extremely beneficial in the area of self-sufficiency and well-being, are completely unaware of its existence. What, you ask, is the name of this program? It's called Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Inc.

This agency was started in the Oakland County area in 1974. Presently, the program is under the direction of Bernard Mullen, who in turn is backed up by a professional staff. The service, as previously mentioned, is directed to children from one-parent families.

In most cases, these families are headed by women who are often themselves victims of educational, occupational and social discrimination. Children from one-parent families form a disproportionate number of school drop-outs, adjudicated delinquents, and later in life unemployed persons and imprisoned criminals. The profile of a typical gang member begins with, "He is from a one-parent family."

When a parent leaves, oftentimes after protracted conflicts and deteriorating family relationships, the child's natural fear of abandonment is intensified. Guilt, grief, depression and feelings of rejection result. This leads to deterioration in the child's functioning as characterized by poor adult-child relationships, poor peer and sibling relationships and decreased academic achievement. The child is three times as prone to come to police and juvenile court attention.

This is where Big Brothers/Big Sisters enters the picture. The service, being both preventive and remedial in nature, deals with both beginning problems and with established patterns of problem behavior. With such a tremendous success record, the agency is continually exploring new concepts to let the public know their services are available.

As ironic as it may seem, in the Big Brother division,

Big Sister Ellen McCartney with Shelley Ledogar.

the agency has experienced a significant number of Little Brother referrals yet a scarcity of Big Brother volunteers.

Just the opposite occurs in the Big Sister area. There are a substantial number of Big Sister volunteers yet a need for Little Sister referrals.

For the latter part this is caused by, "The lack of knowledge of the existence of the program offered to the girls," says Cassandra Goulding, social worker for the northern part of Oakland County. "Generally the focus is on the boys and I think, oftentimes, the girls in the family may have a greater need for our services than the boys."

According to Mullen, what Big Brothers/Big Sisters seek in volunteers -- and there is a tremendous need for volunteers -- are, "Mature adults who have a sensitivity toward children and who are able to appreciate the stresses involved in growing up. The volunteer doesn't really take a parental role but does support the values and expectations of the parent of the child. Therefore, we are looking for people with the ability to be supportive of the parent, and are mature enough to handle the responsibilities assumed by being involved in a child's growth process. That means being able to guide, give advice and give appropriate modeling, support and encouragement." Ms. Goulding further added, "The volunteer's role is to help the child develop self-esteem and confidence."

Some of the more specific requirements of a Big Brother or Big Sister volunteer are a minimum age of 18, a good driving record, a stable lifestyle, the ability to give a long term commitment to the program. Three character references are also required of every applicant.

The prerequisites for a child referral to the program are, belonging to a one-parent family, age limits between 8 and 16 years and possibly most important, a willingness to take part in the program. One point the representatives did stress was their refusal to work with children or parents who are resistive to the program. This rarely happens though, since the referrals do come from the parents on a purely volunteer system.

Clarkston resident, Ellen McCartney, a Big Sister involved in the program for over a year now, expressed much enthusiasm for the Big Brother/Big Sister services. A decision that took nearly a year to make, Ellen is extremely happy that she made the commitment to become a Big Sister volunteer. Her Little Sister, Shelley Ledogar also a Clarkston resident expressed her approval of the program saying, "We go out and have a blast!" Ellen and Shelley get together often and when they do, they do things ranging from rollerskating to washing Ellen's car.

If you feel you have an interest in this program, whether it be a Big Brother, Big Sister, Little Brother or Little Sister, please contact them at Big Brothers/Big Sisters, 50 Wayne Street, Suite 202, Pontiac 338-9281 or more conveniently at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, 8211 Big Lake Road, Clarkston, Friday only.

WHAT TRANSPIRES AT A SCEANCE
by Eileen Corey Norwood

It was in the spiritualist camp of Lilly Dale, in the State of New York, about twenty years ago. There was a sceance taking place by one of the nationally known mediums. This sceance being held at 8 p.m., there were about 23 persons attending. It was a beautiful summer evening, the lake being calm and the grove beautiful. Just a perfect evening for a materialization.

We never know how the people are going to react, who are not trained in the work, but everyone was accepted that particular evening. We were placed in certain chairs, a gentleman, then a lady, etc. in the circle, (positive and negative), until the room was filled.

Next to me sat a man, his present wife sat next to him. The room was darkened, except for the light of materialization for the spirit return. We began to see the flow of ectoplasm into the room, it was exciting. Formations appeared up from the floor and in from the doorway, each going toward their own loved ones.

There were several communications of an authentic nature taking place, then the man sitting next to me, his dead wife appeared, saying, "It's Mary, John, it is so nice to be here, I know you did not expect me, but I wanted to come through."

He then asked, "Is there anything you want to tell me," she replied, "There is so much to say, but it can wait."

She went on to say, "Things will be different for you, we send good thought." The present wife got hostile, cutting Mary off during the conversation, she said, "I don't know why she had to come through to you?" The man tried to calm her down, but she continued to make an issue of it. We all left the sceance room very disturbed.

The following morning after the sceance room episode, "John got up and began dressing, they told us, as he bent over to tie his shoes, John fell over dead."

GRANDMA TELL IT AS IT WAS

Some folks talk of the good old days
When Grandma was a lass
They tell us things were better then
And they're sad to see them pass.

Well, I made jelly, and canned the corn
Spent hours at the churn
Fed the hired hands, baked the pies
And at weeding took my turn.

I carried out the chamber pots

Plucked feathers for my bed
Scrubbed all the clothes upon a board
Stoked fires and made the beds.

I fed the ducks and chickens
Picked berries in the bag
My only entertainment was
The Sears Roebuck catalogue.

I made the scrapple, knot and soap
And served all the children's togs
Then if there was time to spare
I helped butcher the hogs.

I raised a pack of drooling kids
Was doctor, farmhand and wife
There was no respite from the chores
It was a grueling life.

The children walked three miles thru snow
Before they reached the school
I often went to bring them home
Upon the old grey mule.

I scraped and scoured from morn till night
And to make my day complete
I hopped into an icy bed
With hot bricks at my feet.

I milked the cows twice a day
And often chopped some wood
If these were the Good Old Days
I'm glad they've gone for good.

GM Tells County Orion Only Possible Site

by Sue Stephens

At the Oakland County Board of Commissioners meeting February 28, a representative from General Motors Corporation addressed the board on the issue of purchasing 441 acres from the county for the proposed front-wheel drive passenger car assembly plant to be built in Orion Township. Also on hand were a number of county residents both opposed to and in favor of the new plant.

In its report, General Motors stated the Orion Township location is the only possible site in the area because:

1. it is near the 7000 employees of the 55 year-old Pontiac Assembly and Fisher Body plants to be phased out.
2. it is close to existing suppliers.
3. it is relatively isolated from residential areas and within reasonable distance of the main line of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad.
4. energy, municipal water and sewer services are critical to the construction and operation of the new plant.
5. it is convenient to I-75 and M-24.
6. it meets topographic conditions.

According to the report, advantages of the new plant include improved air quality in the township, relieved tax pressures and bonded indebtedness pressures, a General Motors information center to be located in the township and the economy of the entire region is expected to benefit by General Motors' investment in the township.

Although public hearings will be held at a later date, public comments were heard by county commissioners. Concerned about the 7000 jobs which could be taken out of the state, one Pontiac resident said "we may all be relocating, if General Motors doesn't relocate to Orion Township."

A resident of the Indianwood Lake area stated that not all residents of the subdivision are opposed to the new plant as previously reported in the Oakland Press.

Those opposed to the new plant expressed concern over road improvements, sewers, water, increased traffic, police and fire protection and wanted to know who was going to pay for the additional costs generated by the new plant.

A representative of ACRE (Area Citizens for a Rural Environment) said "I feel we have the right to an alternative lifestyle" and condemned the new plant because of its impact on the rural environment and wildlife.

Another citizen requested an economic report and an environmental impact study of the proposed facility.

Mat Danaskiss, county commissioner for Orion Township said petition drives for both sides represent 85% support for and 15% opposition to the new plant. Danaskiss' address to the commissioners requested "assurances that the quality of life the residents now enjoy will not be adversely affected."

Stating that he has been "in favor of the new plant from day one," Danaskiss said two issues remain unresolved: the land will have to be rezoned and the effects of the plant upon the water table are still

Wint Re-Elected Parks Chairman

The Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission has reelected its officers and two Commissioners have received reappointments.

Along with the reappointment to the Commission, Lewis E. Wint of Clarkston has been reelected chairman for a third term. A member of the Commission since 1974, Wint has also served as vice chairman and secretary.

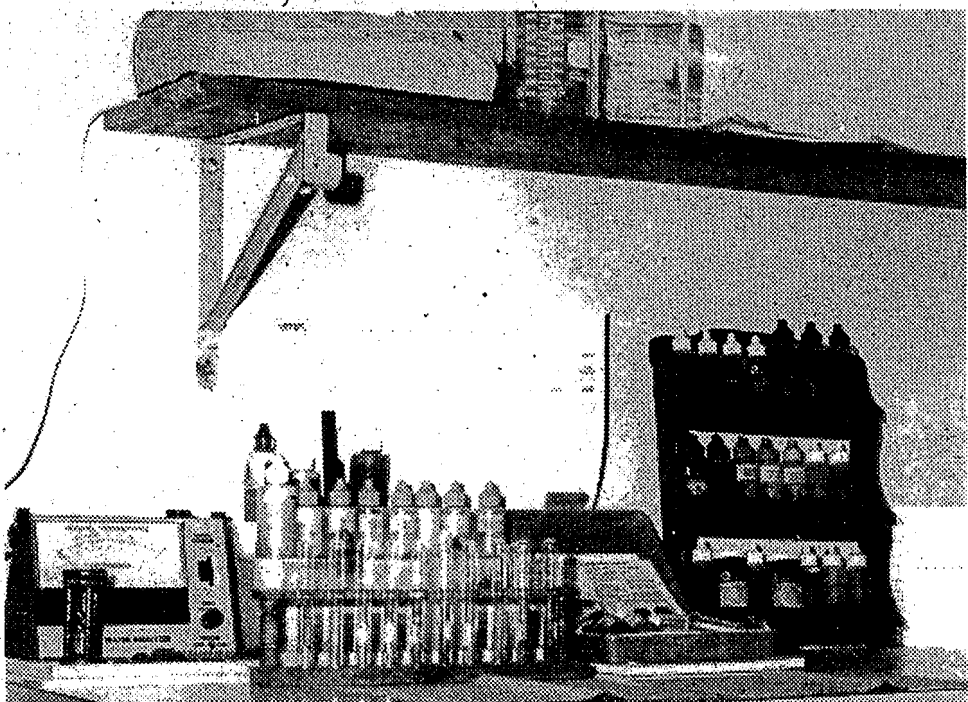

Also reelected were Marjorie M. Walker, named to her third term as vice chairman, and Velma Austin elected to a second term as secretary.

Walker, a Birmingham resident, has been a Commission member for five years. She is a member of the Michigan Recreation and Parks Association board of directors and serves as a representative for Michigan's board members to the National Recreation and Park Association.

Austin is serving her second term during her current appointment. A charter member of the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission, the Royal Oak resident served as vice chairman during her previous appointment.

In addition to the reelections, Don Deni has been reappointed to his second term on the Parks and Recreation Commission. The three-year appointments are made by the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

Danaskiss said the plant will be "a real plus factor for our entire area" and will provide needed road improvements on M-24. He went on to say the relocation may also solve the sanitary landfill problem of the township. Act 641 prohibits the operation of a sanitary landfill within 2000 feet of an airport. This is the only protection the township has had from the location of a sanitary landfill operation directly opposite the proposed General Motors site. With the loss of the airport, the protection of Act 641 is also lost. However, Danaskiss said he plans to encourage General Motors officials to perhaps purchase the adjacent property for private investment or possibly a parking structure.

He added that "our decision at the county level is minor, and that the major decisions regarding zoning and assurances for quality of life standards rest with the Orion Township Board.

Public hearings will be held at a later date

Coupon "Bible" Published

"The Supermarket Shopper's" 1980 Guide to Coupons and Refunds can save consumers over $200. The book, written by nationally-syndicated "Supermarket Shopper" columnist Martin Sloane, is being published in March as a Bantam paperback original.

Sloane's new book includes in its pages refund offers on everything from pet and baby food to poultry, socks and shampoo, which total over $200 in savings.

"The Supermarket Shopper's" 1980 Guide, the "bible" of couponing and refunding, shows every type of refund form, and explains every facet of this lucrative pastime. It not only answers hundreds of the most-asked questions about coupons and refunds, it also provides an easy-to-follow system for those who'd like to begin saving or improve their own techniques.

In addition, "The Supermarket Shopper's" 1980 Guide to Coupons and Refunds, gives tips on:

*"Double-play" and "triple-play" combined supermarket and manufacturer discounts that can save any shopper 50-90% on products they use every day.

*A listing of most manufacturers' "proof of purchase" requirements, so shoppers need not save entire packages to cash in.

Clarkston Has Great Chance to Go All The Way

Gary Nustad's 1980 GOAL championship team, which is also the number one rated Class A team in the state, has a great chance to win the Michigan High School basketball championships this March.

Their undefeated regular season record has created much excitement in the normally frigid, drab Clarkston winters. Anyone attending a recent home game or even their Silverdome debut, realizes what "Wolfpack Fever" is all about.

The businesspeople who have sponsored this special salute, also know about "Wolfpack Fever". Supporting the community has always been a major thrust of many area merchants, and by producing this salute, they are doing their part in generating even more excitement and support for our great team.

What makes this team so outstanding? And can they really go all the way?

This year's Wolfpack plays more as a team than the 1978-79 version that was bumped in the district finals by perennial power Pontiac Central. That team revolved exclusively around McCormick who averaged nearly 30 points that year. This year McKoin, Sheldon and Haddad are all capable of scoring between 12-20 points a game. McKoin also rebounds well, Sheldon is a superb playmaker and Haddad a defensive specialist.

Secondly, the Wolfpack possesses great bench strength. Nicolai, in particular, can generate a lot of excitement coming off the bench. Clarkston also has good height with a front line when Nicolai is in, of 6'10½", 6'5", and 6'4".

Another superior feature of the Wolfpack is their tenacious defense. They've limited many of their opponents to under 50 points this year.

But, there are some weaknesses, that may derail the "Wolfpack Express". They still have a tendency at times to force the ball into McCormick. And their speed is somewhat suspect—especially against run-and-gun teams, of which they may see along the tournament trail.

Probably one of the major criticisms of the Wolves however, isn't their own doing. Critics call their GOAL schedule soft and if you take a look at Clarkston's point spreads, you'll see nary a close game with most being won by 30 or 40 points. In the tournament, competition will be considerably tougher.

Any team can conceivably win the championships but with the exception of Clarkston, Lansing Eastern and Detroit Catholic Central, anyone outside the Saginaw Valley Conference or Detroit City League, has as much chance of going "all the way" as the Detroit Pistons have to win the NBA title.

Clarkston will have to fight off Saginaw, Flint Northern and Flint Central from the Valley. Any of the Detroit City teams are capable of winning it all. Eastern is traditionally tough and Catholic Central might well have their best team ever.

It won't be easy, but Clarkston has come a long way since losing a close contest to Pontiac Central a year ago. Frankly, I think they've got the skill and character to win it all. But even if they don't, they've still provided this town with more excitement than it's seen in years.

For that Wolfpack, we say thanks!
