Archbishop Szoka Dedicates New St. Daniels Church

by Denise Fox Luczki

Work went on down to the wire to have St. Daniels new church ready for last Sunday's Dedication Mass. Builders were waiting on wood for trim on the doors, registers had to be installed and the chandeliers connected. Parishioners were busy vacuuming the pews and dusting the pulpit. All the while, Father Charles Cushing actively oversaw the developments, confident the church would be ready for Saturday's mass.

Church construction began last year in October after dreams of a new church since 1978. The church, Father Cushing explained, "combines both the traditional and the contemporary converged into a functional building of beauty and dignity."

Above the 721-seat auditorium is a salvation history motif; depicting biblical history in stained glass, from the sacrifice of Isaac by Abraham all the way around the auditorium to the infinity circle. Stained glass images of Joseph and Mary decorate each side of the altar.

The narthex is glassed off from the auditorium, cutting down the noise level inside the church and providing a nice point of social gathering after services.

Because the pews are cushioned Father Cushing expects to need to "raise a little caine to keep people awake in these pews."

Saturday's Mass consecrated the church to be used solely for liturgical rites. Arch Bishop Edmund B. Szoka performed the Mass.

"We have a fine spirit at this parish," Father Cushing said. In November for three Saturdays in a row, 75-100 parishioners volunteered their services to lay sod at the church-quite a turn out. The parishioners' enthusiasm for getting the final clean-up done by Saturday was impressive.

Rosemary Smith, Holcomb Road, and parishioner for 11 years, described her efforts as "very exciting. It's been a good experience working with everyone. It's been a real honor."

Oscar Chapaton, general contractor, looked pleased as things took shape. "We had an extreme winter last year and lost considerable time. We've had to put on extra men to have it completed by Saturday."

St. Daniels is the twenty-third Catholic Church Chapaton has built and as usual he will attend the Dedication Mass.

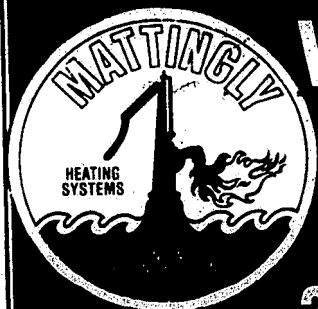

The mission built in 1964 has been used as a temporary church since 1969. As the congregation grew so did the need for a new church. The old building will still be used as a social hall for special dinners and bazaars and will provide catechism classrooms. St. Daniel's already has an active religious program coordinated by Sister John Marie and Mrs. Diana Trechette.

Sister John Marie stopped vacuuming long enough to say she was glad it's "shaping up and falling into place."

Father Charles Cushing gets help preparing the church for the Dedication Mass held on Saturday from 7-year-old parishioner, Sarah Hubbach and his shepherd/collie mix, Trooper.

NOTICE OF RIGHT TO REFERENDUM ON BECOMING A CHARTER TOWNSHIP

Official certification has been received from the Michigan Secretary of State indicating that the Township of Springfield has attained a population of 5,000 or more and the Township Board has the right to exercise one of three options concerning status as a charter township under the provisions of Act 359, Public Acts of 1947, as amended:

1. Adopt by majority vote a resolution opposed to incorporation as a charter township.
2. Adopt by majority vote a resolution of intent to approve incorporation as a charter township.
3. Adopt by majority vote a resolution to place before the electorate at the next regular or special Township election the question of incorporation as a charter township.

In the event option 2 is adopted by the Township Board, the citizens of the Township have the right to file a "Right to Referendum Petition." This petition must be filed within the 60 days which must lapse between passage of a resolution of intent to incorporate and final passage of the resolution to incorporate as a charter township.

The petition will follow, in general form the nominating petition form as prescribed in the Michigan Election Law, and in the heading will indicate "disagreement of intent to incorporate as a charter township." The petition must be signed by not less than ten percent (10%) of the registered voters of the Township based on the vote cast for all candidates for supervisor at the last election at which a supervisor was elected.

If the petition is successful, the question of incorporation will be placed on the ballot at the next general township or special township election.

A Christmas Thought

We thought it would be most appropriate in this issue, to republish a guest editorial submitted by the Reverend Robert Walters for Christmas 1980. We believe Reverend Walters' story captures the spirit of Christmas as well as anything we've seen in print and would like to share it with you now.

His name is Ernest, but everyone calls him Toby. Toby's been in a nursing home for about a year since he suffered a stroke. His family has visited him faithfully and his son Bob was there when I came to visit one afternoon, just after Bob's shift at General Motors Truck and Coach.

Toby has lost a great deal of weight and doesn't have his teeth in much, but he works hard to communicate and does a good job, though he's weak. Sometimes he has to push hard to get the right word out, but he succeeds if we only listen hard.

When I arrived, Bob confided that his Dad had just asked how long it would be, the first time he had spoken of the nearness of death.

We talked together for a while, recalling some hunting experiences they had shared and presently I suggested we share a prayer together.

Bob and I bowed our heads and closed our eyes when Toby surprised us by speaking. We looked up as he repeated clearly, with the widest, most beautiful grin, "Take off your hat!" (Bob still had his cap on after coming from the shop.)

We laughed with tears in our eyes as I then began to pray with a smiling sense of God's presence that He gave us all through this wonderful, dying man. Toby had said so eloquently, with those few words and that wonderful grin:

I'm still your Dad

This is really important

And there's always joy in God's presence

Take off your hat -- we're on holy ground! And his clear, "Amen" reinforced the prayer!

That's the same as the message of Christmas, offered every day, and always, but with renewed power in the Christ, Immanuel, "God-is-with-us."

Troubled world and troubled economy, He keeps it in place.

Take off your hat this Christmas. You're on holy ground.

Pastor Robert D. Walters
Calvary Lutheran Church

TRIVIA

Decorations Douse Christmas Spirit

by Mike Morrow

Since this is our Christmas issue I felt I should write something Christmasy. I tried to, I really did but I lost my Christmas spirit after we decorated our house. Those decorations that made our house look like a winter wonderland when I was a kid have deteriorated to the point of looking like a cheap window display at a Salvation Army Soup Kitchen.

It's really disheartening to set up your nativity scene on the T.V. and have to color in the chip in baby Jesus' head with a flesh tone magic marker, not to mention the fact that the three wise men are missing. (I think the dog ate them.) We're telling people they got lost on the way. Another thing missing now-a-days are the Christmas lights. At one time we used so many light to decorate the house that in January we got a personal thank-you note from Edison for making it possible for them to finish their new power plant. This year all we did was put a yellow bug light in the front porch socket and called it quits.

The absolute worst was the Christmas tree. A few years ago we switched to an artificial tree because of those charming reports on the news about real trees catching fire and destroying whole families' Christmas. So we happily set up our fake tree safe in the knowledge that we won't become a statistic this Christmas. In fact, I think we even broke into a few spontaneous bars of Jingle Bells. Our joy was shortlived however, because we soon found that the top branches of the tree were missing. We had to tape the angel on the spike where the branches were supposed to go. She somehow didn't look as majestic as she might have if she wasn't nestled in the middle of the tree on a spike. She's looking pretty frowzy now-a-days anyway.

Half of her golden angel hair is gone, torn out the year my sister and I fought about who got to put her on the top of the tree. I won and the angel lost.

The rest of the decorations for the tree aren't any better. The year after the cat climbed the tree we decided to go to unbreakable ornaments. While I admit they're very sturdy it's hard for a half of a walnut with a plastic little elf in it to twinkle and shine in the tree lights. It just hangs there and looks durable. One thing my mom still insists on using every year are the decorations my sister and I made when we were in kindergarten. She always gets misty as she brings them out. I really don't know why, they were ugly to begin with and time certainly hasn't been kind to them. When we finished the house we surveyed it. It looked like K-Mart two days after Christmas. I tried to be cheerful. "This looks like a trash compactor full of glitter exploded" I offered, they missed the humor. Oh well, I guess the Christmas spirit is really all in your mind anyway. So Merry Christmas.

MONEY GO ROUND

by Brenda L. Schneider

"Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers. Little we see in Nature that is ours."

William Wordsworth

With prior planning, people who have retired from their lifelong job can avoid the bleak materialism suggested by Wordsworth's lines.

But achieving that goal may mean a little less spending and a little more saving now for the retirement years ahead.

Statistics indicate that people are living longer and that the years after retirement can be full and rewarding.

One important factor in enjoying those years ahead is financial security, and for most it is not too soon to begin to look ahead to how that security can be created. Beginning in January, we will have a new opportunity to plan for our retirement in addition to our regular savings and Social Security.

What is this new opportunity? It is called an Individual Retirement Account or IRA. For many of us not covered by a qualified pension plan, IRA's have been our ticket to financial security. But effective January 1, 1982, government statistics indicate that approximately 48 million individuals will qualify for an IRA who previously did not meet the guidelines. The new guidelines are the result and are part of the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981. Those consumers currently having an IRA will find the law providing them with even greater opportunities for retirement planning.

What do you need to know to take advantage of this new retirement planning opportunity?

First, remember that an IRA is a tax-sheltered plan which will provide you with income once you retire. Since it is a tax-sheltered plan, you do not have to pay taxes on the principal or interest accumulating in your account until you begin to make withdrawals.

Second, you qualify for an IRA if you have earned income. Because of changes in the regulatory laws governing IRA's, you may still open an IRA even if you are covered by a qualified pension plan.

Third, if both husband and wife work and earn income, an IRA can be set up for either party individually. Or, a working spouse can contribute to an IRA set up for a non-working spouse under an account frequently referred to as a "spousal" IRA.

Fourth, once you open an IRA, you have complete control over the account. And you determine how much it will grow. Deposits can be made periodically or in a lump sum. Although withdrawals can be made, there is a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawals prior to age 59½, and the amount of the withdrawal is subject to tax penalties. The only exception to this rule is for someone who is permanently disabled. In this case, monies can be withdrawn without interest penalties.

Fifth, an IRA cannot be used as collateral for a loan or be garnished by a creditor during the time your contributions are being accumulated. To do so would eliminate the account's tax-free status.

Your IRA deposits are protected against loss up to $100,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Sixth, you may deposit 100 percent of your earned income up to $2,000 each year ($2,250 for a spousal IRA) into an IRA. Deposits can be made according to your own time schedule, be it weekly, monthly, quarterly, or in one lump sum. In addition, you can continue to contribute to your IRA and still qualify for a tax deduction up until the date in which you file your income tax return. Depending on your tax bracket this can mean significant tax savings. And all of your earnings on the account are tax-exempt until the time of withdrawal.

Seventh, to allow greater investment flexibility, you are now able to transfer or shift your current investment to any one of several different kinds of high-yield savings plans. Therefore, if you are covered under a pension plan by your present employer and you decide to change jobs, you can withdraw those funds when you leave and place them into your own IRA. It is important to know that this "rollover" contribution must be deposited into an IRA within 60 days of the withdrawal to avoid penalties.

Eighth, withdrawals may begin after age 59½ (unless you are disabled), but must be made no later than the close of the tax year in which you reach 70½ years of age. If withdrawals are not made by this age, a 50 percent excise tax penalty will be imposed on the amount which does not meet the minimum withdrawal requirements of that year.

You do not have to be retired to begin withdrawing from your IRA. Withdrawals, just like deposits, can be made according to your own time schedule as long as you meet the minimum per-year withdrawal amount set by law.

When you do begin to make withdrawals, the total amount taken out must be considered additional income for that year, and is subject to income tax. The benefit, however, of waiting until you retire to begin making your withdrawals is that your taxable income should be lower than during your working years.

If you should pass away prior to making all of your withdrawals from your IRA, the amount remaining will go to your designated beneficiary.

Planning for retirement is going to con-

LETTERS

Dear Mr. Wilcox,

I enjoy having The Reminder delivered to my door each week and enjoy reading the large variety of news from the area.

But I was very disappointed in your 12/17/81 Editorial regarding your car. No, I wasn't upset because your was acting up - but very upset at your headline and content, i.e., "Mad as Hell", "For God's sake". You are not speaking to God - you're talking to your readers and I don't care to have you talk to me personally in this manner and I certainly don't want to read it in print.

This is demoralizing! Swearing is for those that do not have a vocabulary intelligent enough to get the point across. My 11 and 13 years old boys do not need this garbage added to their minds. They thumb through The Reminder each edition looking for news of interest to them.

Please, Mr. Wilcox, don't stoop to swearing words to get your point across.

Thank you for The Reminder and may the staff and yourself have a very Merry Christmas.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Robert Brown

Media Presentation Highlights School Meeting

by Carol Balzarini

Clarkston Schools Board of Education members were brought up to date on the district's five year old elementary media program with a slide presentation prepared by media specialists Katherine Wlodarcik, Susan Kott and Linda Spannaus.

Since September, 1976, libraries in the district's six elementary schools have gone from supply closet quarters in some cases, to full-fledged media centers, from one book and one class visit per week to daily individual visits with a different book per visit, if desired.

Greater use of these centers has resulted from a number of things. Audio visual equipment has been added which the students are taught to use and care for. Media aides have been added which keep the libraries operating full time. Records, puppets, and magazines have been added to the customary books. Students are taught library skills and assistance has been provided by parent and upper elementary student volunteers.

Computers, Wlodarcik reported, are currently in use at Bailey Lake Elementary and will be next year at Andersonville. The computer program was implemented with the assistance of Oakland Schools. District-wide there are 27 computers, but the elementary ones have been purchased by the schools' PTA/PTO's.

Just last month a reading contest began for fourth and fifth graders called the "Battle of the Books Tournament." Children are encouraged to sign up in the media center and to read as many books as possible from the tournament list. They are instructed to write a contest question for each book they read to submit when they return that book. The contest will end in March with a competition the following month to determine a district winner.

In other board action Kathleen O'Donnell was hired as the new Director of Community Education beginning January 1, at a starting salary equal to the first step of the elementary pay scale. Mrs. O'Donnell currently holds a similar position with the Cass City Public Schools where she developed and implemented its community education program.

The schools' program will have offerings for both children and adults taking over many of the non-recreation programs now offered by the Independence Township Recreation Department. That department will maintain only its recreation programs.

All contract negotiations have completed for the fiscal year, according to school negotiator Conrad Bruce, with a one-year agreement reached with head custodians. The contract for the ten employees is retroactive to June 30, when the old one expired and parallels the general custodial agreement reached last month with one difference. This dental plan was put in with the administrators' because of the rates, the new plan is a cost-saving measure. The contract includes a seven percent increase and better life insurance at a minimal increase, Bruce reported.

Tenure was granted to Bonnie Crowson who teaches the dental assisting program at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center. Mrs. Crowson thanked board members telling them it took her eleven years to accomplish and that much of the credit went to her dentist husband for his support. She is now working on her master's in administration at Michigan State University.

Teacher/Athletic director Paul Tungate reported to the board his plan to develop a self-sustaining athletic program for the district within four years. After being directed by Superintendent Milford Mason to do some "creative thinking", Tungate said he met a number of athletic directors in the county before developing his proposal.

Tungate is seeking authority to create a sustaining fund for athletics. In a period of four years he expects board support to decline while an increase of support comes through this fund. The ultimate goal is to use only the interest of this endowment fund to maintain the athletic program.

Tungate also proposed a committee of community people plus one board member to control investments of the fund, selling season athletic tickets in the spring when interest was highest, three seasonal kickoff dinners, and a pledge campaign similar to the one for new lights for the athletic field. His initial venture into fund-raising, a recent pancake supper, was reportedly a great success.

Board members suggested he submit his proposal in writing before they took any action.

Clarkston Education Association

president Al Bartlett suggested to board members that a greater effort be made to improve communications between employer and employee and between employees themselves. His goals were to create positive attitudes and to alleviate misconceptions.

Bartlett admitted he had no vehicle for accomplishing this as yet, but said his suggestions came as a result of discoveries made during Pontiac's recent intensive millage campaign. Too many people both with the schools as well as outside them were truly uninformed or misinformed, he said.

Although no action was taken, board members were presented with information concerning a lawsuit proposed by the Romulus Superintendent of Schools William Bedell. The suit is an attempt to challenge the present means of school funding. Clarkston's participation would cost the district $6,350, or $1 per student.

Board members also received a request from the West Bloomfield School District asking for a resolution requesting the Michigan State Legislature to mandate twice-yearly tax collections. If enacted this law would eliminate the need for districts to borrow money before the December tax collections are turned over to them.

This year the Clarkston Schools borrowed two and a half million dollars and paid $148,000 in interest. With a twice-yearly tax collection the district could have saved an estimated $110,000 that could have been used for educational programs, Mason said.

Looking great!

Tale of Two Accidents

The Perils of Public Parking

Little did the owner of this Oldsmobile know that when he left his car at an I-75/Dixie Highway car pool on a snowy morning last week, he'd come back to find this. According to Oakland County Sheriff's Department, a tow truck traveling northbound on Dixie Highway had just exited from I-75 when the pick-up it was pulling snapped loose and ended up being the top layer of this double-decker.

Must Have Been a Full Moon

This crunched fender can be added to the series of mishaps that have occurred locally in the past few weeks. According to Oakland County Sheriff's Department, Clarkston resident, Julius Collins failed to stop as the car in front of him, driven by Anthony Hock of Ortonville, was in the process of making a left turn on Dixie Highway at the base of Waterford Hill. No injuries were reported.

Dear Santa,

Here at Nan's we've all tried very hard to please our customers all year long - we've cut, colored, tinted, frosted, shampooed & set, braided, styled & even gave facials and fixed their nails. Now we're hoping that we've been good enough for you to stop by on Christmas Eve.

We have our stockings hung and for you we're leaving out a new hair dryer & some great RK products that will keep your hair and beard as white as snow.

P.S. Also a gift certificate for Mrs. Claus.

P.P.S. You know where we are Santa?

Force Tells Township Documentation Needed

The Independence Township Board accepted the report of the Business Practices Task Force at their December 15 meeting. Task force members present included chairman David Leak, Burke Ried, Jim Hitchcock, and Jim Brennan. Stan Darling was unable to attend.

Leak reported there were some areas of township business that were fine, but that some needed changes. There was no great negligence found, he said.

Of primary concern to the task force was the lack of documentation due primarily to the turnover of personnel. Each new administration could be likened to "reinventing the wheel". This problem led task force members to rule out greater use of computers until the work done by hand was entirely accurate.

The report was accepted by Supervisor Jim Smith and the rest of the board with gratitude and an acknowledged appreciation of the hours of work done by both the task force members and the employees who acquainted them with township procedures.

Board members also approved the text of a letter to be sent out to cable television firms asking what sort of system they would propose for the township, a somewhat innovative approach. Previous custom has been for municipalities to draft ordinances and then ask for requests for proposal (RFP's) from potential franchisees. The letter will be sent by the supervisor with the township letterhead.

The Cable Television Task Force also has included a questionnaire in the current township newsletter asking for citizen input. Residents are asked to indicate whether or not they would like cable to be made available to them, how much they would be willing to pay to subscribe, and what their program interests are.

Fire Guts Independence Home

Photos by Al Wieling

Independence Township firefighters worked approximately three hours getting a fire under control that broke out in an old farmhouse located at 6545 Andersonville Road, according to Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

Four fire trucks answered the call that came in at 3:56 a.m. Monday, December 14.

Over one quarter of the vacant 2-story, four-bedroom home was destroyed in the blaze.

The precise cause of the fire is still under investigation, although it is believed to have started in the basement. A 250 gallon oil drum that exploded was discovered in the basement but Ronk said, "we do not believe it was a big contributing factor to the fire. There was very little oil in it - part of the reason why it did explode."

Growing Concern II Stresses Originality

"Originality is our specialty," says Carolyn Coulter, describing the latest addition to the Clarkston Mills Mall.

Ms. Coulter is the owner and operator of Growing Concern II, a florist shop plus a whole lot more.

Uniqueness is what Growing Concern II strives for in preparing fresh or silk arrangements for their customers.

"We stay away from the basic pyramid-type arrangement taught in most floral schools and try to do things very different and eye-catching," explained Ms. Coulter. You can depend on the fact that you and your neighbor will not receive the same floral arrangement, she says.

Growing Concern II is a complete florist shop in that they offer both wedding and sympathy work, catering services for special parties, world-wide wire services and delivery.

The business, located across the hall from the entrance to Foxy's restaurant, also carries house plants, a full line of wicker, brass items and a large selection of low-priced stuffed animals. The latter, on occasion, can be found complementing a floral arrangement for a sick child.

Residing in Lapeer where she opened her first florist shop approximately two years ago, Ms. Coulter says, things were going so well it was time to expand.

She claims to love the Clarkston area and for some time had her "eyes set on the location" for Growing Concern II. "The Mall is so tastefully done--it's beautiful."

Prior to becoming a florist, Ms. Coulter was a teacher, then later administrator in special education. Never having had any formal schooling in florist work, she says, a good friend taught me the art and I seemed to have a knack for it. "It's something I've always wanted to do."

Growing Concern II is open Monday through Thursday 10 a.m.-6 p.m., Friday 10 a.m.-9 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and can be reached by calling 625-6888.

Brenda Schneider's Money Go Round

tinue to become more important as more and more persons live beyond age 65. Life expectancy has increased dramatically since the turn of the century and it is predicted that people will live even longer in the future. These added years must be planned for now.

It has been said that our expectations for the later years will, to a considerable degree, determine the kind of life we will live as an older person. Difficulties will arise if we get less than we expected. Many individuals, fortunately, approach older age with a reasonable set of expectations and with a seemingly undiminished zest for living. It is evident that they have been realistically planning ahead for this period. Older people who have looked ahead are better able to meet some of the problems that rise due to their health, their social needs or their economic situation. In this way they are more likely to obtain some of the advantages of life in the later years.

The closer one gets to 65 planning for retirement takes on a greater urgency. And, unfortunately, the reduction in time to accomplish the retirement goal makes planning more difficult. It is during the middle years that one has more energy, more contacts, and more time to develop a financial plan. Now is the time to start. Make 1982 the year you develop your plan for financial security and an IRA can be a great first (or even second) step.
