The Salem gravel mining operation.

by Mike Wilcox

The Independence Township Board told representatives from the Salem Gravel mining operation last week that they better come to terms with the township or they'll be shut down.

The gravel mining operation which borders Dartmouth and Oak Hills Roads in the extreme northeast end of the township, has been at odds with local government officials for a number of years. They were before the Township Board as recently as March 16 to attempt to amend a consent judgment.

At last week's meeting, township attorney Gerald Fisher informed board members there were three areas of disagreement that had to be ironed out before he and Salem attorney John DeMarco could further discuss the consent judgment amendment.

The areas are:

1. Fisher felt the Board should ask for a cash bond or letter of credit to insure the completion of the reclamation project.

2. Fisher felt the method and amount of fee should take in consideration, administrative costs incurred by the township in monitoring the reclamation project.

3. The area in question should be contained by a fence.

Fisher indicated there was no sense in further negotiation unless a compromise or agreement could be worked out on these three points.

The consent judgment was agreed upon by Salem and the township in 1977. It's due to expire on April 26. If the two parties can't agree on an amendment, Salem will be forced to close on that date.

According to township engineer Frank Beale, whose latest inspection of the supposed reclamation was October 12, 1981,

Cars Crash Head-On

Last Wednesday at approximately 9 a.m., two automobiles collided in a head-on collision at M-15 and Cranberry Lake Road, sending one of the cars flying through a guard rail. A mother and daughter were occupying one of the cars, while a man was driving the other. The mother and daughter were still in the hospital at press time.

A spokesperson for the Oakland County Sheriff's Department said names of the persons involved couldn't be release because the accident was still under investigation. He did, however, say the accident was caused because one of the cars had veered over the center line.

Salem Told to Comply or Close

Salem is not complying with the consent judgment.

"There was no evidence of peaks and digressions, nor was their evidence of seeding and sodding," said Beale.

Attorney DeMarco, claimed, however, that Salem had indeed began reclamation with sloping and seeding taking place last November.

But William Vandermark, township trustee, disagreed. "I was out there just two weeks ago and no significant activity had taken place as far as I could see."

He added, "I don't want to compromise on any of those three points. There's just no compromise available in these three areas."

Fellow trustee Dale Stuart offered similar sentiments. "If we are this far apart at this late a date, then we should shut the operation down. I don't think it is very cost expeditious for this township to go into more discussions until they (Salem) are more reasonable."

After considerable discussion however, Board members voted to continue negotiations if Item One (cash bond or letter or credit) could be worked out. Vandermark and Supervisor James Smith cast the only dissenting votes.

A proposal to make the cash bond $100,000 was discarded for a stiffer $250,000 figure. Simultaneously, Beale was asked to arrive at an estimated figure in which he felt complete reclamation would cost within ten days.

Stuart made a motion that Salem must post $250,000 bond or Beale's figure if it proves to be less, before the township would continue negotiations. The motion passed with Treasurer Fred Ritter the only dissenter.

"I think what this Board is interested in, is some assurance that you're serious about this (reclaiming the mined area)," said Smith, in summarizing the Board's position.

If Salem posts the required bond the negotiations might again be on the township's next agenda. If not, the gravel mining operation will likely close on April 26.

Funeral Director

IS A PRIVATE FUNERAL SUFFICIENT?

There has been a trend recently toward private funerals. We don't think that's healthy, and we want to tell you why.

A private funeral typically consists of a graveside service without mourners, or a private viewing followed by burial or cremation. There often is no religious service, no eulogy, no provision for mourners other than the deceased's immediate family.

Those who would choose such a funeral do not want to meet their friends, business associates or neighbors while they are mourning. They may feel embarrassed by expressions of sympathy, or they may believe grief is a private matter, not to be shared.

But they are depriving themselves, as well as other people who knew the deceased, of the acknowledgement of death. The private funeral, if it does not provide for viewing of the body, may put off the final acceptance of death. And that merely prolongs the grief.

A traditional funeral service also allows friends and acquaintances to share their sorrow, providing the mutual support that helps each to recover from their loss.

As funeral directors, we can discuss funeral services and their value with you. Please stop by if you would like more information.

Four Cable Firms Make Bid for Independence

by Mike Wilcox

television advisory committee announced last week that four proposals for the township's cable franchise had been accepted and reviewed. The companies submitting proposals to Independence are Concord Telecommunications, Maclean Hunter Cable TV, Multi-Cablevision and Omnicom of Michigan.

According to Independence Township Supervisor James Smith, "The task force is completing its written outline comparing the four proposals...it is expected that in early May the Township Board and the Clarkston Village Council will schedule public hearings on the four proposals."

He continued, "After the hearings, the task force will submit a recommendation to the Township Board and the Village Council on the vendor to whom they feel the franchise should be awarded."

What follows is a brief comparison of the four competing vendors gleaned from information supplied in their proposals.

Concord

Concord Telecommunications is proposing to construct a two-way cable system utilizing 125 miles of subscriber cable. They would expect to complete construction within twelve months.

The proposal reads, "Concord's 58 channel system will present all over-the-air signals currently available...additionally, we will round out our package with an extensive commitment to local programming which will include separate channels for municipal, educational, senior citizen, library and public access as well as an extensive local origination schedule using its own channel. To make programming a reality on these channels we have proposed a complete color studio located in Clarkston, portable equipment, equipment dedicated to the library, and a fully equipped mobile production van."

Concord's basic service fee would be $3.95 a month. Installation would be free for the first ninety days. After that the cost would be $15.00.

Concord would pay a franchise fee of three percent of all revenues to the township and village council. They also would apply for an FCC waiver to pay an additional two percent in franchise fees.

Concord also proposes the establishment of a grant and scholarship fund for students who wish to pursue further education in the communications field as well as to provide additional television equipment to area groups who may wish to create programming on a regular basis. Concord will establish the fund with a $3000 donation.

The Independence Township areas to be served by Concord if they win the franchise are all homes south of I-75; nearly all homes north of Clarkston Road and East of Sashabaw Road; many homes in the Deerwood and Amy Drive areas; and a pocket of homes in the area of M-15 and Allen Road.

Concord was recently awarded the franchise for Oxford Township over two other bidders. Concord claims this will be an advantage because instant interconnection will be available to Oxford.

Maclean Hunter

Like Concord, Maclean Hunter Cable TV is scheduled to service neighboring communities Waterford and Pontiac, once installation is completed. Maclean Hunter was awarded the Pontiac franchise in 1981 and just recently took over the Waterford franchise when Michigan Cablevision backed out.

Maclean Hunter currently services over 500,000 customers in the U.S. and Canada and 37,000 customers in 14 communities in Southeastern Michigan. Overall they are ranked tenth in size among North American cable television system operators.

Maclean Hunter plans a two-way system to 4563 Independence homes. The 125 miles of cable would be installed within 15 months.

The areas to be serviced by Maclean Hunter would be all homes south of I-75 excluding homes west of White Lake and Holcomb Roads; a pocket of homes enveloping the Deerwood and Amy Drive area; and homes inside a square with Pine Knob, Whipple Lake, Eston and Clarkston Roads as its boundaries.

Maclean Hunter would pay the township a five percent franchise fee on subscriber revenues. They expect the fee to be over $50,000 by year five of the franchise term.

As far as local programming is concerned, Maclean Hunter claims to have an outstanding record. They plan to devote 13 channels to local usage.

The cost to receive the 61 channels offered by Maclean Hunter would be $9.95 a month. The $24.95 installation fee would be waived during the initial marketing period.

In summarizing their proposal, Maclean Hunter said, "by concentrating in a few areas, Maclean-Hunter Cable TV is in an excellent position to act effectively and efficiently on new franchise construction and operations. We feel this concentrated effort will especially benefit Independence residents by allowing us speedy completion of their system."

Multi-Cablevision

Unlike the other proposals, Multi-Cablevision promises to service every home in Independence Township without any density requirements.

The company proposes a 2-way, 56 channel system that will stretch 160 miles and be completed within 12 months.

Their basic service fee would be $5.95 a month. The $15.00 installation fee would be waived for the first 60 days.

Multi-Cablevision would pay an annual franchise fee of five percent of gross service revenues to the township and village. They suggest that three percent go to the local communities and two percent be used to maintain a proposed community/educational studio.

The proposed studio would be located in the Clarkston High School. Multi-Cablevision has set aside $150,000 for constructing and equipping the studio.

Multi-Cablevision, is owned by three persons who have cable television interests in northern Michigan. The company does not own any southeastern Michigan franchises.

Multi-Cablevision's proposal said, "Multi-Cable's goal is to provide a truly local community system. We envision a local program that would allow senior high students to Hopefully the tough talk heard at last week's Independence Township Board meeting was not for show.

The Salem gravel mining operation has long been in non-compliance with a 1977 consent judgment that spells out specific reclamation plans. They have a million and one excuses as to why they can't comply...and they all seem to work, because, much to the chagrin of most of the homeowners in the area, the mining activity continues.

Now an April 26 closure deadline is fast approaching and Salem is looking for another out. They want to amend the consent judgment but only on their terms.

The township, for the most part is sticking to their guns, as well they should. What do we care if they close or not. Let them comply with us...if they refuse...then let them close.

A preliminary look at the four cable television proposals indicates that Independence Township has a chance to set up a top flight cable TV program for their citizens.

For the most part, the four proposals are the result of careful study and hard work, and are quite impressive.

Of particular note is Multi-Cablevision's bid to cover 100 percent of the township. No other bid comes close to that coverage.

Concord's proposal, at first glance, was also most impressive, while Omnicom and McClean Hunter have proven track records in the business.

Independence, however, should proceed with caution. We must not forget what happened to our neighbors to the south. Waterford awarded its cable franchise to MichiganCablevision, only to have them back out less than a year later.

Clarkston Jocks—Where Were You?

Dear Editor:

April 7, 1982, I attended a Sports Medicine Presentation at Clarkston Sr. High School given by Dr. Daniel Bielak, founder of the Clarkston Sports Medicine Clinic on Sashabaw. The presentation was given for the purpose of familiarizing the coaches, parents and athletes of this area with many aspects of pre-season conditioning and injuries to runners, athletes, beginners of all sports, as well as familiarizing the public with problems such as heat exhaustion and stroke and pain that should be taken care of before major problems arise.

The presentation was excellent, as expected and a dynamic speaker by the name of Dr. Shildberg from Garden City spoke and explained inexpensive ways to test athletes for ability before a season as well as care of injuries and taping techniques.

The group was small but attentive. But to my dismay the majority of people present were not from Clarkston and surrounding areas, but from Royal Oak, Oxford, etc. Where were all the Clarkston athletes, parents and coaches who are always so very concerned?

Being an athlete as well as a woman's softball manager, I was dismayed at this small attendance and lack of concern due to the fact that I was born and raised in Independence and see the growing need for improvement in Sports care. We have numerous athletes of all calibers in all sports and they must need some information on the growing problems of injuries, pain, due to poor pre-season conditioning and especially important, the nutrition of our fast food eating young athletes.

Dr. Bielak spoke of his great hopes for the Independence Oaks Heart trail and complete physicals on all athletes, from any Dr., not just his office. But he feels these kids and adults need electrocardiograms, thorough physicals as well as a complete muscular evaluation by an athletic trainer or the doctor. This doesn't have to be expensive, but thorough.

It's a good feeling to have this service available in our community and I'm truly sorry so few from here took advantage of a free presentation on such an important subject.

More presentations are planned and anyone who is interested can contact Dr. Bielak's office or his athletic trainer, Carol Glover at any of the area schools as she has clinics set up for any injuries or problems she can help with.

Being an athlete is a great feeling, let's all of us care enough about our bodies to take the very best care of it. Preventive medicine has got to be the best way.

Sincerely,
Virginia D. Radtke (Vliet)

We Know Why Cars Are Not Selling

Dear Editor:

We think we have solved the problem! We know why cars are not selling in Michigan.

Over a month ago we stopped at a local dealership and looked at the cars on the lot. It was a Sunday so that was all we could do.

Recently, on a Monday night we went to that same dealership with the intent of purchasing a car. Those same cars were now almost $2,000 higher in base cost. It was a half hour before a salesman asked if he could be of help. While we were waiting to be acknowledged several other salespeople stood around smoking.

The salesman wrote up the price of the model we wanted, minus the trade-in and the rebate. We felt the price was still much too high. The salesman jumped up from his chair, grabbed the worksheet and said, "I guess we can't do business then." He claimed they were selling too many cars and didn't have to do any dealing unless we were only $100 apart.

I drive by that same dealership four to six times daily and know how fast the cars move.

It would seem that General Motors is not really interested in selling cars and getting people back to work.

We certainly do not expect to get a car for "nothing," but do expect a decent deal on a new car.

Foreign cars are looking better and better.

TRIVIA

by Mike Morrow

Well, now I know what Hell must be like. I just spent an afternoon at the Laundromat.

After my trip I had a brilliant idea. Instead of prisons, we should sentence convicted criminals to spend time chained to a table in a laundromat while kids swarm around them banging into their ankles with a laundry cart and the water extractor is roaring away in their ear...Naw, I guess that would be considered cruel and unusual punishment.

I went to the laundromat only when I had no other alternatives. My washer and dryer had broken down several weeks earlier in one tragic but truly breathtaking accident (I won't go into it, but it was almost like having my own Niagara Falls in the laundry room). When I ended up with more clothes in my hamper than my closet I decided I had better wash some before the hamper exploded.

Besides, all I had left to wear was a pair of old dress pants and a T-shirt that said "party till you puke".

Thinking that the best time to go would be very early in the morning I got up at the crack of noon and hauled my clothes to the nearest laundromat.

To say I was not prepared for what I found there would be an understatement. It was if I had walked into a horror movie. The place was jammed, filled with crabby people who had, it seemed, come with four kids apiece, all under four years old. They ran around screaming and ramming people with the carts. The kids were even worse. It was like Romper Room gone berserk.

There was only one washer available in the whole place and I had to fight an old lady to get it. After lifting the lid, I found out why it was empty. It was dirtier than my clothes. After cleaning it out as best I could, I stuffed two weeks worth of clothes in it and sat on the lid to close it.

While waiting for the clothes to wash I had to fight off the little kids. They ran around begging quarters and opening everyones' washers while their parents ignored them. When I could stand it no longer, I grabbed the most obnoxious kid as he whizzed by with some poor old lady in his cart and said "If you don't stop it, I'm going to stuff you in a washer and spin cycle you until you don't know which end is up." he laughed and ran away.

Eventually I had the clothes dried, folded and hole. When I got home, I put ice on the bloody nose I acquired while wrestling for a dryer.

I did get something out of the whole day however, I found in my laundry a brand new pair of socks. Of course I don't think they'll fit me and I'd look pretty silly wearing Donald Duck socks, but I'm not going to give them back. I know who they belong to and he won't be needing them unless someone lets him out of that washer.

SMALL TALK

by Rebecca Roberts

There's a word that keeps buzzing me, like a gnat. Or a stray plane, the pilot of which is vaguely familiar.

Responsibility.

Adulthood is synonymous with it, at least that's the way I heard it. We will have it, like it or not, in some form or another, and we will be better for it.

It's a trooper of a word, and if you can survive its harangue, it will transform you. It will separate the wheat from the chaff, the men from the boys, and presumably, the women from the girls.

It even, I am told, sparked the growth of our nation.

Responsible people took up the hoe. They built villages, and later cities. Commerce thrived through the sweat of these folks who fashioned roadways, canals and railroads that bound us to cooperative exchange.

These people were of stern stuff, no history goes, and took their responsibilities in dead earnest. There is no reason to doubt history. The evidence survives.

Still, even as I acknowledge this sturdy past, I quiver with anxiety. And no wonder. Responsibility carries with it a load of buckshot aimed to get me moving.

Even though I sometimes like, and even occasionally seek, responsibility in these adult years, the utterance of the word never fails to topple a boulder somewhere far off in my emotional landscape.

I suppose that has to do with my Room. A room that as a child I shared with my sister, a room where her half and my half were as clearly delineated as any border between East and West Berlin. My room was my first fully blown Responsibility.

It was a proving ground for adulthood. A benchmark. The condition of my room chalked with varying accuracy my march toward maturity.

How adult I was on a given day depended in large part on whether or not my mother could open the door to my room. And once open, how high the insurgent tide -- books, old theme papers, stuffed animals, bottle caps, candy wrappers, and clothes, clothes, clothes. Waves of belongings too good to throw away, but too familiar to fuss over.

On a day that must have been bleaker than most, my mother, surely fearing her youngest had not only grown accustomed to the hovel, but fond of it (a sure sign I'd be stuck hopelessly in childhood), chucked the whole mess down the stairs.

It, and she, waited in ambush for my return from school.

When I did return, I was escorted promptly to the incriminating mountain of debris. Somewhere in the lecture that followed, the word responsibility harped like a brat -- unwelcome, but hard to ignore.

I didn't shape up right away, of course. There would be a lacklustre spurt of adulthood here and there, but not much for my mother to pin her hopes on. I got out of what I could, and grumbled my way through what I could not.

But eventually there came a day -- I don't know the date, but it had to be a Saturday, since that was Cleaning Day -- my room was clean. Not just, as my mother would admonish, a 'lick and a promise,' but clean. Free of the litter of childhood. Swept clear of adolescence. The sun for once shone on the whole floor; a breeze from the window, opened a crack to air the place out, rippled across a made bed; all the clothes had disappeared into their proper drawers, or been hung out of sight.

And there was no dust. Not a dust rat to be found, not even under the bed.

There were no books, piled helter-skelter, or laying open on well-worn spines. No Seventeens or Photoplays shoved limp from use, just within reach under the bed. Clean.

The evidence was tucked away, or thrown away. If on that day, I was not fully an adult, I was beginning to get the picture.

Four Cable Firms Seek Independence Franchise receive hands on training through co-op programs between the school and Multi-Cable. One benefit of this program would be improved community communications. Students, assisted by our personnel, would film and broadcast programs relating to local government, senior citizen activities, health services, education and entertainment..."

Omnicom

The fourth proposal was submitted by Omnicom of Michigan, a subsidiary of Capital Cities Communications, which also owns the Oakland Press.

The proposal reads, "Our technique of tailoring our system design to the specific needs of each community has resulted in the award of franchises to Omnicom in Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton, Northville Township, Hamtramck and Belleville. We are looking at Independence and Clarkston the way we look at each of our currently franchised areas -- as a special community with special needs..."

"We therefore, are not proposing merely cables and blinking lights; we are proposing that Omnicom become a resident of Independence and Clarkston, a community spirited resident committed to growth and progress."

Omnicom proposes a 2-way, 54 channel system that will require approximately 114 miles of cable and will pass 6,126 homes. The initial investment is nearly 2.7 million dollars.

Omnicom's monthly service fee for subscribers would be $9.95. Installation would cost $15.00.

Omnicom would have a total of five channels dedicated to local programming. They would also place drops in all schools as well as other public buildings as requested.

Omnicom would establish a scholarship program funded by a budgeted $25,000 per year in order to encourage area youth to enter the field of telecommunications.

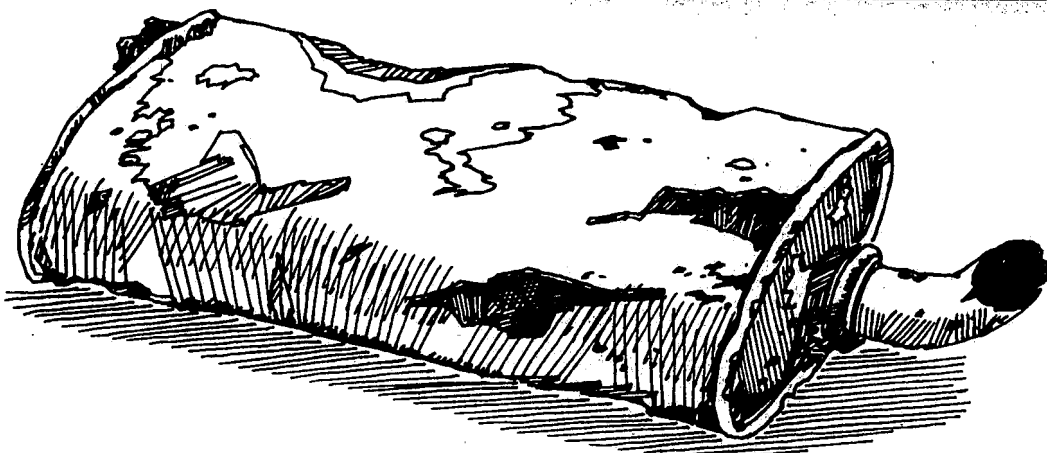

Omnicom would pay the township and village five percent of all revenues from the franchise operation.

The proposed service area would include nearly every home south of I-75; pockets of homes in the Deerwood, Amy Drive area; homes in the Hubbard Road area; Reese Road homes and all adjacent streets south of Heritage; and the Thendara Park, Eston Road areas.

The township task force is currently reviewing the proposals in an effort to draft detailed factual summaries and comparisons. Once finished, the analysis will be submitted to each vendor so that they may comment and make corrections.

Kelly, Beasley Announce Re-Elect Bids

Michigan Court of Appeals Judges Michael J. Kelly and William R. Beasley recently filed candidacy affidavits for re-election to the state's second highest court.

Both incumbent judges represent the second appellate district, which consists of 14 counties, including Oakland, Macomb, Genesee, Ingham, St. Clair, Shiawassee and Lapeer.

Both judges reside with their families in Oakland County.

Kelly practiced law for 18 years prior to his election to an eight-year term on the appeals Court in 1974. He was graduated from the University of Detroit Law School in 1956.

Kelly will become, in late May, the first Michigan judge to receive a "Master of Judicial Process" Degree from the University of Virginia School of Law.

Beasley, who was graduated from the University of Michigan Law School, practiced law until elected Oakland County Circuit Judge in 1967. He was re-elected to that post in 1973.

In April, 1976, he was appointed Court of Appeals Judge by Governor William Milliken and was elected to the court for a six-year term at the end of that year.

Meet Your Community Businesspeople:

Higginbotham's: A Real Success Story

The Higginbotham story reads like something out of classics in American industry. Not a Horatio Alger fairy tale, but a simple true to life example of successful family enterprise.

Formed in 1954 as a small roofing and siding contractor, Higginbotham's has steadily grown into one of the area's most well known and respected suppliers for exterior home improvement products and services.

The growth of the business, wholly owned by the husband and wife team of Barb and Tom Higginbotham, has not been wanton; they are still located within a block of where things began. But it has been steady.

In 1954 the company dealt exclusively in installation. They found however that the needs of their customers were increasingly moving into the area of do-it-yourself home improvement and that many could not find the materials or the expertise they required.

So the Higginbothams became retailers and wholesalers of building supplies and consequently found they needed more room for display.

Barb Higginbotham says they built the new store, at 5421 Dixie Highway, at the worst possible time, the midst of a recession. "But it is for the benefit of the customer to see the products in larger displays. It gives them a better idea of what it will look like to use."

Despite their growth, the Higginbothams still consider theirs a "specialty house", geared for the home or business owner that wants to save money but not at the sacrifice of quality.

"After being in the installation business for so long we know what it takes to make a quality job," says Barb Higginbotham.

Higginbotham's product line includes virtually everything imaginable in exterior home improvement. They carry full lines of roofing and siding materials, windows, doors, trim and awnings -- all available in custom formed sizes and shapes.

Among their service first -- First in the area to offer seamless gutters, first to offer roof top delivery to the retail customer, and first to offer specially bent aluminum mouldings.

And first, last and always, a family business.

New home for Higginbotham's and Lamson's

Lamson Pools Expands

Lamson Pools and Spas is anxiously waiting for warmer weather to arrive. Not only are spring and summer their peak seasons, but this year, Lamson has a new store and expanded line of patio furniture to show off.

Lamson Pools is now located adjacent to Higginbotham's Roofing and Siding at 5421 Dixie Highway, Waterford. Robert Lamson, owner, describes it as a bright, cheery atmosphere.

The family run business sells inground pools and spas, pool supplies, and patio furniture.

Having been in the business of building pools for fourteen years, the Lamsons offer a great deal of knowledge and expertise to their customers. Sandra Lamson, who manages the store is an expert in solving pool care problems while Robert lends his extensive experience in supervising the construction of all pools and spas.

Robert became interested in swimming and pools as a high school swimmer several years ago. He thinks swimming is the best exercise one can get.

"Many pool owners, like myself, will be happy to see spring come after a long cold winter so they can enjoy their pool," said Lamson.

Lamson offers a couple of different types of spas. A person could conceivably have a gunite spa installed with their pool, or an acrylic spa installed elsewhere. Lamson claims spa sales have really picked up the last couple of years and they are really quite healthy, particularly for arthritis sufferers.

Lamson's offers free estimates on pool or spa installations. The store is open in April from 10-5 Monday through Friday and from 10-4 on Saturdays. Hours will be expanded in May.

Snow, Cold Doesn't Stop Eager Easter Egg Hunters

3rd Annual Sashabaw United Presbyterian Egg Hunt

The Easter Bunny, make that Easter Chicken (Jim Lyles) is about to signal the start of the hunt (above) while hundreds of children (right) eagerly await his hand gesture.

Youngsters comb the church grounds in search of 50 dozen eggs and 50 bags of candy.

Money Go Round

by Brenda Schneider

Conducting an inventory is a normal part of operating a business. Conducting an inventory on one's personal self should be a standard procedure, but for many individuals it is not. A personal self-assessment or self-audit is a vital component in a well developed financial plan.

Bankers, lawyers, accountants, and insurance representatives have long recognized the need for consumers to take a yearly assessment of their personal net worth. Jointly they have proclaimed April as "Family Affairs Month" with the intent of sensitizing consumers to develop a personal balance sheet.

This group feels a person's net worth can change from one year to the next and often an individual finds that he really has not kept good records. This personal inventory should also provide an insight into one's ability to manage a financial emergency. An individual can be feeling a false sense of security by thinking he knows where he stands while in reality his self assessment is not based on fact.

Everyone should have a plan. The benefits are many.

- It can maximize your financial resources by putting you in control of your todays and tomorrows.
- It can decrease worries and anxieties over the future.
- It can help us reach our goals.
- It can help prevent financial disasters brought about by some unforeseen emergency such as death, divorce, unemployment or catastrophic illness.
- It can reduce or prevent family arguments.

In assessing where you stand, there are some questions you should ask yourself.

1. Are your important papers kept together in a safe place? Things you should consider are: marriage and birth records, stocks and bonds, deeds and mortgages, tax records and cancelled checks, insurance policies and wills. A safety deposit box is a good investment here.

2. Does someone else - spouse, adult-age children, relative or close friend - know where these papers are? Records are of no value if they cannot be located when the need arises.

3. Is your life insurance and homeowner's insurance adequate? Often individuals do not consider the impact inflation can make and are actually under insured for the times. A yearly assessment will guard against this. Some policies now include provisions for automatic coverage increase.

4. Do you have access to some ready cash in a savings account? A number of factors must be taken into consideration when addressing this question. However, three months net income is considered a minimum even when there is adequate insurance. A word of caution for families with dual incomes: If the household budget and standard of living have been established utilizing both parties' paychecks, the emergency savings should be adjusted to reflect this in the event both would be unable to work.

5. Do you have a will? And, is it up to date? Laws change and so do families. People who die without leaving a will risk having their estate divided up in a way contrary to their wishes by a court appointed administrator not of their choosing. They also risk having the estate reduced by a lack of tax planning.

6. Do you have a fair idea of what your retirement income will be? What about that of your spouse? You should count in social security, retirement pension, and income from investments and insurance.

7. And, last, but not least, a crucial issue that must be assessed is your total net worth? Can you accurately write yours down? A listing of your assets and liabilities on a yearly basis can help you more effectively reach your goal of financial security. A balance sheet will help you more realistically assess where you are today so you can get to where you want to be in the future.

Second Annual Davisburg Fest Promises to be Bigger & Better

The Second Annual Davisburg Christmas Craft Fest has been scheduled for Saturday, December 4, and Sunday, December 5.

According to festival chairperson, Helen Vergin, the Fest is undergoing a number of changes to make it larger and better.

As it was last year, the 1982 Fest will be held at the Springfield-Oaks Activities Center. This year, however, the floor plan will undergo significant changes in an effort to widen the streets and provide more room to sit, eat and enjoy the ongoing programs.

Plans are also being made to utilize a giant tent outside of the main center. The tent would be heated and would include booths and exhibits suitable for the out-of-doors atmosphere. Also a possibility are hay rides, pony rides, sleigh rides, and a number of outdoor skills like fly-casting.

These decisions were made at a March 26 meeting. At that meeting representatives from various organizations were selected to make decisions on booth projects and fest activities. However, the overall responsibility of organizing the fest still belongs to the Davisburg Scotties Extension Group.

Mrs. Vergin said a deadline of April 22nd had been set for organizations who had booths last year, to again reserve space this year. After that date, the Scotties will seek new booths.

The Scotties are also looking for skilled persons in the Springfield Township area to display handmade sport items for men. Mrs. Vergin claims, although there were an abundance of gifts for women and children last year, masculine gifts were hard to find at the fest.

Questions on the fest or available booth space should be directed to Mrs. Vergin, 634-9410.

Austin Completes OSUT

Pfc. Brian E. Davis, son of Dr. and Mrs. Earle M. Davis of Clarkston Road, has been assigned to Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, after completing basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Missouri with the U.S. Army.

The Pfc. will now receive 15 weeks of specialized instruction in Laboratory procedure.

Brian is a 1975 graduate of Clarkston High School and an 1980 graduate of Michigan State University.

His wife Ranette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson G. Byers of Middle Lake Road, will join him shortly in Texas.

Staff Sergeant Sally L. Leaf, daughter of John F. and Jessie E. VanDyke of 3620 Charles Street, Port Huron, has arrived for duty at Ramstein Air Base, West Germany.

Leaf, an administration technician with the 7th Air Division, was previously assigned at Reese Air Force Base, Texas.

Her husband, Air Force Staff Sergeant, Richard T. Leaf, is the son of W.R. and E. Elizabeth Leaf of Clarkston.

Sergeant Steven R. Gravilla, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gravilla of 5420 Clarkston Road, Clarkston, has arrived for duty at McConnell Air Force Base, Kansas.

Gravilla, an inventory management specialist with the 381st Supply Squadron, was previously assigned at Osan, South Korea.

He is a 1977 graduate of Clarkston High School.

He Chooses Worst Road

Atmosphere Makes Uptown New York Something Special

by Mike Wilcox

A once glib Harry's has been transformed into the glamorous Uptown New York, a restaurant that offers a great deal of atmosphere along with great food.

Harry's, which was purchased by managing owner Harry Gavris and partners Sam and Abe Cosma, over a year ago, always has had good food. But, the atmosphere, well, it left a bit to be desired, at least in the mind of Gavris.

Thus he undertook a major renovation and the results are staggering.

The designer was obviously quite infatuated with New York City, or he wanted people to think he was.

Photographs of the "Big Apple" adorn the walls of the four dining areas. Taken from the famous "Windows of the World" restaurant, the photographs, brightly lit in the candle light atmosphere, show stunning scenes of the city.

The smallest of the four dining areas has been penned the New York Alley, because of its secluded nature. It is decorated with a manhole cover, from where else, but the "Big Apple".

"I think a lot of people don't know what New York is all about," said Gavris. "Maybe this restaurant can bring a little of New York to the North Oakland County area."

Even the menu uses New York as its theme. One can choose items like Broiled Whitefish or Boston Scrod from the Time Square Seafood Grotto or select a choice steak from the Fifth Avenue Broiler. Then there is the Chorus Line Burgers...oh so delicious.

Gavris says the New York Strip Steak and a combination seafood platter are two of the more popular menu items.

The New York Strip Steak is a jumbo 18 ounces and is all choice beef. A complete dinner sells for a modest $9.95.

The combination seafood platter, served only on Fridays and Saturdays, consists of lobster, crab legs, shrimp, deep fried clams and scallops. It comes with a salad, potato, bread stix, wine and dessert. The feast costs $15.95.

Don't be dismayed, if a full course meal is not your "cup of tea". Uptown New York's menu has a variety of sandwich and snack items that are just as tasty as the full course feasts.

Back in the kitchen are three top notch chefs. Most notable is Rick Milanda, who made a name for himself at Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco and Oakland Hills in Birmingham.

Of the changes, Gavris says, "I'm glad we did it. I really didn't think it would go over as well as it has."

He added, "One of our strong points here is we really care about people. It gives me great pleasure to see a customer enjoy his food, as well as the atmosphere."

Gavris claims customers have really taken to the changes. He's noticed a 200 percent increase in his lunch trade and many kind words have been voiced by satisfied patrons.
