Springfield Township is about ready to hang out its "Open for Business" sign on the new fire station recently constructed at the corner of Dixie Highway and Rattalee Lake Road.

Equipment and office furniture was moved over to the station last Saturday and beginning this week trucks will be operating from it, said Springfield Fire Chief Marlin Hillman.

Hillman warned, however, "It won't be fully operational until we get some new firefighters trained."

The fire station, which cost taxpayers through a special millage, approximately $140,000 will serve the northeast corner of the township. According to Hillman, more and more calls have been originating there in the past few years. He expects activity to increase more when a nearby industrial park is completed and Dixie Highway becomes more populated in that area. The fire station consists of three bays, offices and a large training room. Three additional bays can easily be constructed if expansion is some day necessary.

In addition a fire rescue unit and a new tanker were purchased with federal funds. The new equipment will be housed in the new fire station.

Hillman, who currently has 20 volunteer firefighters, most of whom operate out of the Davisburg Fire Station, said the department's most critical need right now is to train ten more firefighters for the new station.

He said applicants need to be residents of Springfield Township, residing near the Dixie/Rattalee Lake area, 21-45 years of age, and willing to undergo several hours of CPR, Red Cross and state training.

HOW CAN I PLAN FOR FUNERAL COSTS?

Funeral services, like all professional services, cost money. But unlike some other services, funeral costs may have to be paid unexpectedly. For this reason, we recommend pre-planning for funerals as a means to eliminate some of that unpredictability.

Pre-planning a funeral need cost you nothing, if you wish. Simply take an hour or so to talk with us about your wishes. They will be recorded; you keep a copy, and so do we.

If you do wish to plan in advance for funeral costs, we can tell you how to set up a trust fund at a bank in conjunction with your plans for services. In this way, you and your family need not worry about how to pay funeral costs when they arise. Furthermore, the trust fund accrues interest which helps offset the possibilities of higher funeral costs later on due to inflation.

We welcome your questions and comments on pre-planning or any other aspect of funeral service, and we will answer them in private or publicly through this column.

26 to be Honored at Awards Dinner

The Fourth Annual Community Awards Dinner slated for Thursday, May 20, at the Deer Lake Racquet Club, will honor 26 individuals and organizations for their contributions to the quality of life in Independence Township.

This year's Outstanding Government Official Award will go to Fontie ApMadoe, past president of the Clarkston Village Council, recognized for her "unrelenting and selfless dedication to a village she loves" and her continuing efforts to keep it a great place in which to live.

Outstanding Educator Clifford Chapman, Clarkston High School's director of instrumental music, will be honored for the contributions he and his talented students have made to community events in addition to the honors they have brought to the community through musical competition.

The 1982 Outstanding Young Citizen Award will go to Melissa Savas, Clarkston High School senior class president and recipient of the 1981 DAR Good Citizen Award, who also participates in many other school and community activities.

"Super Person" Virginia Walter will be honored for her "untiring efforts on behalf of the youth of Independence Township and the Clarkston School District putting in literally hundreds of hours working on Youth Assistance projects and programs." Some people even refer to her as "Mrs. Youth Assistance."

Homer Biondi, alias "Sandy the Clown", will receive this year's Creative Arts Award for the many moments of pleasure he has given theatre-goers at the Depot Theatre and parade-goers in the Village of Clarkston.

The Distinguished Service Award for an individual will be shared by two individuals this year: Dr. Rockwood W. Bullard, Jr., and Dr. Robert C. Buehrig, who have "served their community so well for so long" and who are now retiring from medical practice.

The Group Distinguished Service Award will go to the Clarkston Women's Club for 27 years of community involvement from being the driving force behind the creation of the township library to blood banks and Health-O-Rama to raising money for a future community center.

Bottles for Building, a glass recycling project developed in 1971 by Carolyn Place and discontinued only last year, will be recognized with the Distinguished Service Award for a Project. Though the project is gone, about $30,000 remains in trust for a future community center.

Ten volunteers will be recognized this year for their contributions to the community including three "teams" of volunteers.

Carol Balzarini and Karen Ohnberger are active in many aspects of community life but most recently as Clarkston Schools' representatives to Citizens United to Restore Education (CURE), a coalition of school districts working for better state funding of education. The pair has worked as a "team" since serving on the schools' Citizens Advisory Committee several years ago.

Nancy Celoney and Carol Zorka are the second pair of volunteers. They are the coordinators of the physical education program at Bailey Lake Elementary working for the past year and a half putting in many hours on lesson plans for their school and on demonstrations at other schools showing them the program could work.

Ray Welch and Joe Stetz are volunteer pair number three. They were nominated by members of their 1981 Maxi-Miss championship team for their many years of dedication to coaching both young people and adults in the summer ball program.

Bev Palmer will be honored as the parent coordinator of the physical education program at Clarkston Elementary devoting an estimated 15-30 hours of work each week.

Kay Robertson will be honored not only for being treasurer of the Youth Assistance Committee for the past eight years but also for the many hours of her time that she has contributed.

Violet Biondi, the second half of the first husband and wife team to be nominated in one year, is the ultimate Red Cross volunteer working at least 36 hours each week in hospitals and blood banks in addition to her volunteer time here in this community.

Mary Jane Scharfenkamp volunteered her time to develop and coordinate the M.O.R.E. program at Clarkston Junior High, More Opportunity Relating to Education, offering after school enrichment programs ranging from Dungeons and Dragons to drama to lots of computer classes.

Mary Ellen Steel is appreciated for her 41 years of teaching, 26 of them in Clarkston. She will be missed by many Bailey Lake parents, students and teachers as she retires this year.

Janet Thomas is appreciated for being a homemaker, mother and full time employee in addition to being president of the Clarkston School Board and a trustee of the Oakland School Board and involved in other education-related activities.

Virginia Addis is appreciated for her "old fashioned dedication to education" giving her students an appreciation of the whole history and culture of Spain. She is leaving the area after ten years of teaching Spanish at Clarkston High School.

Barbara Kevern, Clarkston High School senior, is appreciated for "Brightening each day for those around her with her enthusiasm, wit, and optimism" despite her disability. She will graduate in June with honors.

Ron Wagner, also a Clarkston High School senior, is another young person appreciated by his peers for his scholarship, his musical talents, and his personality. He also reports his school's activities for the Reminder.

Clarkston Rotary is appreciated for its contribution of a van to the Independence Township Senior Citizens taking them to many functions previously unattainable.

The Clarkston School Lighting Fund project is appreciated for its effort in raising a little over $32,000 for the much needed lights at the high school football field.

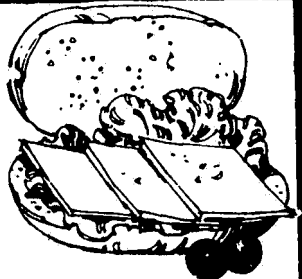

All of these individuals and organizations will be recognized at the Community Awards Dinner on May 20. Tickets are $12.50 in advance, $15 at the door. Group seating arrangements, particularly for those being honored, may be made by calling Jim Hibler at the Independence Township Library, 625-2212. The Community Awards Dinner is a joint effort of the Michigan Week Committee, the Clarkston Jaycees and the North Oakland Civitans.

The word "cancer" has always had a somewhat ominous aura to it. For years it has been linked to death...often times a cruel and painstaking death.

Now, thanks to continuous research and organizations like the Michigan Cancer Foundation and the American Cancer Society, cancer is neither the ominous word or deadly affliction it once was.

In fact more people survive with cancer than die. The trick seems to be to catch it before it has spread too far.

Yet, for those that do live, and most can conduct normal lives, the stigma of once having cancer is terrible difficult to live with.

Friends and neighbors often times avoid cancer patients because they expect the condition to be contagious. Nothing is further from the truth.

The most effective cancer treatment, chemotherapy is known for its grotesque side effects, namely a terrible odor and loss of hair.

Chemotherapy is terribly expensive (up to $500 a month) but necessary.

It's time, we, as a compassionate nation, became more enlightened about cancer and treated its victims with a greater degree of dignity and understanding.

After all, cancer strikes one out of every four Americans. Someday, you might be the one seeking help and understanding.

Our cover story in Health News brings out what it was like to experience cancer from four different perspectives. Each of the patients felt a degree of shame, and each felt a lack of understanding from friends.

It doesn't have to be that way. Cancer information is available from a variety of sources. In fact, just last week a cancer information phone line was established in Michigan. Its number is 1-800-482-4959.

Learn about cancer. Your family and friends, who are its victims, need you as a knowledgeable person, and not an ignorant nuisance.

SMALL TALK

Would Rather Slough Off Vacation Re-Entry No Fun At All

by Rebecca Roberts

I just returned from a one-week vacation to New England. Massachusetts, to be specific. It's always great to take a trip, but coming back is like burnoff on re-entry from outer space.

Out There, there is fun -- meals out, sleeping in deliciously unfamiliar beds, seeing people who have all new stories to tell -- it's a Disneyland of days that fly by all too fast.

Re-entering the atmosphere of Every Day Life, one sees the clutter, a mish-mash of duties and obligations. It is all there waiting, the color and disarray of odds and ends that consume time.

Perhaps it's merciful that the shock of returning is swift, thereby numbing. The suitcase lies like a beached whale, agape on the bedroom floor, its innards consisting of one grey sock, a few unused but irretrievably wrinkled shirts, a tie that wasn't needed, a postcard from Howard Johnson's -- and stacks and stacks of underwear. There are a couple of small sacks containing a little something for the folks' back home. Real

New England stuff, with a Taiwan label there somewhere - for those who are tacky enough to notice.

It's a good thing I don't dwell on the aftermath of a trip beforehand. If I did, I would become a closet dweller, developing a primitive way of communicating, inventing fire -- anything to get out of unpacking and cleaning up the mess.

But I don't think about what's in store until after I get back. With astonishing alacrity, my mind sidesteps all that unpleasantness and focuses on long lingering conversations with family and friends; the great stuffed shrimp; the Main Lobster I plan to splurge on (but never quite manage to) -- a total shrugging of routine. Ignorance, or rather deliberate dumbness is bliss. Vacations are for sloughing off.

But, alas, all good things must end; I am home again, and all the things I crammed into the back room of my mind are spilling out, demanding attention.

And the suitcase, yawning amid the scattered remains, awaits.

Spelling Champion

Kelly Parker, at the microphone, won the Clarkston Community Schools Spelling Bee last week. Kelly, a 6th grader at North Sashabaw Elementary, was also last year's winner.

The top spellers from each of Clarkston's six elementary schools took part in the spelldown held at the school's administrative offices.

Runner-up to Kelly, (seated in the photo) was Elise Eidam of Bailey Lake. Elise, a 6th grader missed "palmistry" in her bid to upset Kelly.

Third place went to North Sashabaw's Heather Luchenbach; fourth to Kelly Dupree and fifth to Marni Banker.

Victimize Drivers

Robert Brand, 19, of Clarkston was killed early Sunday morning, when he failed to negotiate the curve on Clarkston Road at Flemmings Lake Road, and ran into a tree (above). A passenger, Daniel Alder (on stretcher below) was listed in critical condition at Crittenton Hospital on Tuesday.

This summer, there's no reason to pay full price for brand name fashions. Not when you can get them at Brayton's for 20-60% less than department store and specialty store regular prices. Every day. And you'll always find lots of new styles to choose from. You'll also find a cheerful shopping atmosphere, a "Hassle-Free" refund policy and layaways, too. So make this summer brighter. Township and the Salem Gravel Pit, that will allow the gravel mining operation to continue doing business up to four more years.

The negotiated agreement allows Salem to continue mining operations for two years. If the company has complied with the terms of the agreement, they will be allowed to mine another year. A fourth year will be allowed if the company has not completed mining an estimated two million tons of gravel by the end of year three and all terms of the agreement continue to be met.

The township had threatened to shut down the operation if Salem did not come up with a reclamation plan suitable to the township. The lack of reclamation progress as well as ongoing complaints from nearby homeowners has made the gravel pit a subject of discussion at several board meetings.

In explaining some of the issues faced in negotiations with the Blount Co. of Alabama, owners of Salem, township attorney Gerald Fisher said, "The right of a property owner to work his land versus neighbors' rights" was a constant theme. Other issues discussed included reclamation and long term litigation.

Provisions of the negotiated agreement included:

- Company-paid chloride dustproofing four times yearly from the Oakhill entrance of the plant to Sashabaw Road, as well as dustproofing on the premises.

- Installation of "No Right Turn" signs out of the entrance gate to cut down on trucks using Dartmouth Road.

- Installation of fencing and no trespassing signs around the gravel pit property.

- Company initiated petition to the county in an effort to get official "No Right Turn" signs at the gravel pit exit as well as tonnage limits for Dartmouth Road.

- Reduced hours of operation including 7 a.m.-5:30 p.m. for sales, 6 a.m.-10 p.m. for processing and stockpiling, 7 a.m.-7 p.m. for crane and front-end loader operations, and no Sunday operations period.

In addition a reclamation plan that should be more than 50 percent completed by December of 1983 was approved. Under the agreement, Blount will pay up to $24,000 a year for township costs to monitor the ongoing reclamation.

A bond of $650,000 was also agreed upon, and if the township decides Salem is not living up to their reclamation plan or other agreements, the bond may be cashed.

In explaining his company's position, Frank McFadden, counsel for Blount, said "They (township negotiating team) has been tough on us. We have tried to respond in a responsible way."

He further indicated Blount would conform to the agreement no matter how much money or effort it would take. "We don't intend for the bond to be a critical piece of paper," said McFadden.

M. Virginia Sink, 68, of Clarkston recently received the Distinguished Engineering Alumnus Award of the University of Colorado, the highest honor accorded by CU's College of Engineering and Applied Science. Miss Sink retired in 1979 after a 42-year career in which she directed the induction of many women into Chrysler Corporation's engineering staff.

Urging a motion by Daniel Travis to approve the negotiated agreement, trustee Robert Vandermark said, "I think we can proceed at this point. These people (Blount representatives from Alabama) have spent a lot of time up here. I'm ready to go. Let these gentlemen (Fisher and McFadden) work out the rough edges."

Trustee Dale Stuart wasn't as agreeable, however. "I'm not going to vote on any of this until I know every final word in it. We are talking about something we have spent a lot of money on. I think there's been some misleading on the part of some members of the board to even get us to this point." Other members of the board voted with Stuart to call the meeting into closed session to further discuss and negotiate with Blount, and finally, to come to an agreement.

Summer Tax Placed on August Ballot

by Mike Wilcox

Independence Township Board members voted against two school-oriented proposals at last Tuesday's regular board meeting.

School officials had asked the board to approve summer tax collection for next year, but on a split vote, the board, instead, decided to let voters decide by placing it on the August 3rd Primary Ballot.

And a request for $8750 to help pay for a new drainage system for soccer fields at Bailey Lake Elementary was turned down because the township has no money to fund the project.

The Clarkston School District has been urging the passage of summer tax for several months. By collecting taxes twice a year, instead of once annually, the school could save thousands of dollars in interest paid on money the school has to borrow for the first part of the school year.

But Independence Clerk Chris Rose thought the issue was important enough to go before the vote of the people. In fact he sent a memo to all board members urging that the question be placed on the ballot.

"I don't think it is an effort to shirk responsibility," said Rose. "I just think it would be very wrong to just start collecting taxes..."

He added, "I think it is incumbent on the school administration to take their case to the people through an advisory referendum."

In explaining why he felt an advisory referendum would suffice instead of a binding vote, Rose recalled the Pine Knob Hotel referendum, noting the number of people who cast votes was high, and the results were clearcut.

Trustees Dale Stuart and Daniel Travis, along with supervisor James Smith cast the dissenting votes.

In explaining his position Stuart said, "I don't see the need for a ballot question. It is not changing the form of tax...decide on summer tax now so that people can have a year to plan for it."

On behalf of the Bailey Lake PTA, Tom Bills made a presentation and request for funds to construct a new drainage system for three Bailey Lake soccer fields. The soccer fields are currently being used by the township's Parks and Recreation Department as well as the school system. According to Bills the total cost of the project would be $31,000, with the school system committing $7000 towards it and the PTA making up the difference.

Board members objected to funding the proposal on two counts. One they didn't feel the township had the money to give and two they questioned whether it wasn't the school's responsibility to take care of improvements on their own property.

Speaking to the financial problem, Rose noted the township was facing severe budget problems. "As the screws get tighter on us, we are going to have to use what money we do have to maintain our present programs. It might come down to do we accept this project or layoff another employee?"

"The philosophical question of the township and capital improvements on school property is important," noted Treasurer Fred Ritter, in explaining his reluctance to grant the funding.

However, Trustee William Vandermark disagreed. "I like the project. It would be a valuable and very desirable project. I would like to see us find the funds."

The issue was settled when no action was taken on the request. Smith agreed, however, to talk to Parks and Recreation director Tim Doyle to see if the project could be fitted into his budget.

In an increasing number of neighborhoods around the country, volunteers are setting up security patrols to spot strangers and unknown cars and notify police.

Volunteers are told to observe and report - but never to get involved with criminals. Some groups have radios to contact the police; others must stop to use a phone booth.

Security begins at home, say law enforcement authorities. If it takes a long time for a burglar to break in, if there's light to expose him or noise to attract passersby, he will be dissuaded.

Some crime prevention officers do home security checks, inspecting locks and bolts on doors and windows, checking their frames, and offering advice on lighting and trimming bushes to removing hiding places. Marking valuables with an engraving tool helps, too.

Do neighborhood security patrols work? Yes, say police sources. Criminals avoid them, preferring to work in areas where they won't be stopped.

Protect YOUR home with effective locks and other security devices - adequate insurance to cover your belongings. Talk to

Springfield Citizens Form Community Council

A group of Springfield Township citizens have gotten together to form the Community Care Council (CCC) in an effort to unite the area and begin work on several community projects.

According to Helen Vergin, one of the organizers of the group, "We want to join forces in backing existing organizations in their programs, helping others to get started, or initiate new community projects."

She added, "The first Annual Davisburg Christmas Craft Fest seemed to be the catalyst that made people realize that we as a community can work for the betterment of each other."

Some of the activities the group may undertake for Springfield Township include:

1. Community Survey: This survey would attempt to determine the needs and desires of the people in the area.
2. Activities for youth and young adults: The activities would be for purposes of both recreation and socializing.
3. Community Clean Up.
4. Expansion of Mill Pond: The intent would be to not duplicate any existing efforts but to help with the Parks Commission's current plans to convert the storage building into a community center.
5. Communication: Develop and disburse an area-wide newsletter or a special monthly edition in the local paper.
6. Social and recreational activities: Examples given were softball, expansion of the 4-H Fair parade, summer fest, street dances, etc.

7. Chamber of Commerce
8. 150th Anniversary activities: The anniversary for Springfield Township in 1986. The committee could begin planning for this celebration.

9. Help various community organizations: This activity would involve coordination, financing, promoting, and expanding activities of existing groups.

10. Schools
11. Church: Through the use of the Steering Committee, attempt to promote cooperative efforts and activities between the four major churches within the township.

12. Historical book: Committee could assist in the writing and promotion of the Springfield Township history.

13. Township government
14. Bus tours
15. Community Chest

The next meeting of the CCC will be held Monday, May 24, 7:30 p.m. at the Springfield Township Hall in Davisburg. For more information call the Springfield Township Offices, 625-4802.

The Fiesta's "So Fine" Springfield's Ingalls Sung 1958's Number 1 Tune

by Mike Wilcox

"So fine, so fine, my baby is so doggone fine"
She sends chills up and down my spine."

Those lyrics sound familiar?

During a two week period back in 1958, "So Fine" was the number one song on the charts in the nation. It was sung by the Fiestas.

Lead singer of the Fiestas, Samuel Ingalls, now a resident of Springfield Township and an employee of K-mart Corporation, fondly recalls the years he and other group members toured the nation, playing to sold out audiences night after night.

Ingalls said the Fiestas got their start in Newark when a group of friends, including his brother Frank, became interested in music. "We were just a bunch of guys that walked up and down the streets of Newark carrying on," recalled Ingalls.

Finally they signed a recording contract with Old Town Recording Co. and began commuting back and forth from Newark to New York City.

"So Fine" was their first record release and vaulted the Fiestas to instant stardom. For fifty weeks out of the year, Universal Studios and Recording Co. kept the Fiestas on the road. They toured everywhere, including a six month stint in Florida.

The Fiestas opened shows for a lot of big names including the Isley Brothers, Jerry Butler, Count Basie, and Arthur Price.

But the biggest thrill, according to Ingalls, was playing a super gig at North Carolina University. Headlining the show were Ray Charles, B.B. King, the Drifters, and of course the Fiestas.

The young men from Newark found fame to be fun, but not lasting. Two years after they signed their first recording contract, the Fiestas disbanded.

Ingalls explained, "Things got slow...I came to Detroit and got a job (at the Pine Knob Nursing Home - now known as Hamburger Mansion) and decided to stay. The others went to Memphis, cut a few songs, but they never did anything."

Ingalls claimed interest in him and the Fiestas has revived somewhat lately. A month ago he was interviewed on WDRQ radio and several radio stations are playing "So Fine" occasionally as part of their oldie selections.

The interest couldn't have come at a better time for Ingalls who is planning a comeback. He's now playing his guitar, something he hadn't done since walking away from the Fiestas in 1961.

The Fiestas in 1958. Sam is at the far right.

Jimmy Rollins, revived Ingalls' interest. The two are now getting together frequently to jam.

Ingalls likens his music to "Sweet Soul." You wouldn't consider it fast music at all. It would be something Roberta Flack or Marvin Gaye would sing, said Ingalls.

"I would really like to try and make a comeback," said Ingalls. "Jimmy and I will do some songs and tape them, and then I will take them around to radio stations."

Ingalls wouldn't mind one bit if one of those songs moved up the charts, ala "So Fine."

Softball Team Places 2nd in Tourney

by Ron Wagner

The girls softball team had an even week of play before taking second place in a tournament in Pontiac over the week end.

"We didn't have too good of a start," said coach Carla Teare of the beginning of the week. On Monday, they were "mercied" by West Bloomfield. After five innings, they were losing by ten runs and the game was called. Annette Ulasich was the losing pitcher, but along with relief from Lanette Whitehead, the Lakers only got four hits. The team was beaten by the 13 walks that were handed out. Audrey Campe hit a home run and Becky Buhl hit in the other two Clarkston runs.

The girls squeaked by Oxford on Tuesday 13-12. Whitehead won it by relieving Jeanne Herron. The team had a total of ten hits. Wednesday's 12-11 loss to Waterford Mott came in the bottom of the seventh. Clarkston was down 9-3 at the end of the sixth inning, but scored eight runs to take the lead, 11-9. Mott got the three runs that they needed to regain the lead and won it in the bottom of the seventh. Whitehead pitched and also hit a home run.

After three tough games to start the week,

Thursday's game came as a relief. Jeanne Herron pitched to an 18-0 victory over Rochester Adams. The team combined for a total of 15 hits and 12 RBI's. Whitehead led the team with three hits, four RBI's, a homer and a double. Ulasich had three hits and scored four times and Dawn Willett went 2 for 4 with one RBI.

The ten-team tournament that the team played in was held in Pontiac on Saturday and Sunday. They came in second place and played a total of five games. On Saturday, Ulasich pitched a 2-hitter to beat Flint Powers 4-1. Then the team "mercied" Lake Orion 14-2.

They went back on Sunday and lost their first game to Garden City East, 7-4. They played Flint Powers again and won 3-0 in the eighth inning. Ulasich pitched the shutout and tripled in the eighth with two runners on to secure the win. That put them in the finals against Garden City East. This time, Clarkston put up more of a fight, but lost 8-7 in nine innings. They were up 7-5 after the top of the seventh but allowed East to tie it up.

"We faced the fastest pitching we've seen all year," said Teare of the tournament. "That should help us at regionals."

Wolves Bats Awaken:

28 Runs Help Defeat Hazel Park Twice

by Ron Wagner

Roy Warner's baseball team started off the week a little on the slow side, but picked up enough to finish with two spectacular wins in a double-header on Saturday. On Monday, the team lost to West Bloomfield. Mark Piazza was the losing pitcher in the 6-1 game. The only earned run of the game was Clarkston's and all of the Lakers' runs were unearned. A sacrifice by Pete Carpentier allowed Joe Schrader to score.

Oxford came to town on Tuesday and beat the Wolves 9-5. Mike Howe was held responsible for the loss. Schrader hit 2 for 3 and Mike Dearborn hit 2 for 2.

Wednesday's game against Waterford Mott was the start of a turn around. The team won 9-2 as Shawn Mosele pitched a 2-hitter. Howe hit 2 for 2 and Bill Weeks hit 3 for 3. Schrader and Dale Hesse each got two hits, three RBI's and a home run.

On Saturday, the Wolves came alive at the plate, scoring a total of 28 runs in two games. The first game was against Hazel Park. Bill Turk is credited with the 14-11 win and Piazza got the save. Piazza pitched the last two innings, allowing no one on base and throwing 5 strike outs. Hesse and Schrader each went 2 for 3 at the plate.

The second game was with Rochester Adams, which Mosele won 14-10 from the mound. In this game, Piazza led from the plate, hitting 4 for 5 with 5 RBI's. Weeks went 3 for 4 and both Rich and Joel Schrader hit a home run.

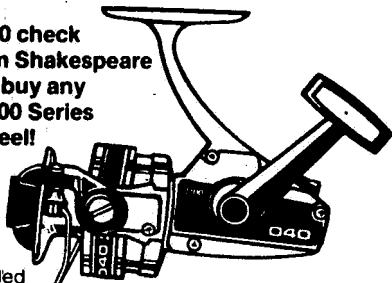

Netters Shutout Milford, 7-0

The Clarkston boys tennis team played two matches this week. On Monday, they defeated Milford 7-0. John Weidemann won at first singles by a score of 6-0, 6-0. Other scores were: Todd Johnston at second singles, 6-1, 6-4; John Sorscher at third singles, 6-2, 6-1; Scott Thompson at fourth singles, 6-1, 6-1; Brant Volberding and Terry Burnett at first doubles, 6-0, 6-0; Fred Roeser and Ron Wagner at second doubles, 6-0, 6-0; and Chris Bisha and Greg Wagner at third doubles 6-0, 6-1.

Thursday's match against Waterford Kettering was lost 4-3. Kettering won all the singles and Clarkston won the doubles. The winning doubles teams were: the first team of Sorscher and Thompson by a score of 6-2, 6-3; Roeser and Johnston at second 6-0, 6-0; and Bisha and Wagner at third, 6-1, 6-1.
