Speculation still exists as fire investigators sift through the wreckage of The Old Mill restaurant, that was destroyed by fire early Friday morning.

Waterford Police Lieutenant Gary Root said the fire will be treated as suspicious, until the cause is determined.

The Old Mill, an area landmark since 1954, burst into flames at approximately 4 a.m. Both Waterford and Independence firefighters were called to the scene, and remained there all day.

According to Christie Brown, who lived next to the restaurant, people were in the area at the time the fire first started.

"I heard some guys down here about two minutes before I heard all the sirens," said Ms. Brown. "First I thought it was a bad wreck, but when I walked to my front door, flames were in the air about thirty feet."

Waterford Fire Chief Wendell Tragger, who is in charge of the investigation, noted the fire was well on its way before the first firefighters arrived.

"I live a couple of miles from here and when I pulled out of my street I could see the flames in the sky. It was already through the roof at that point," said Tragger.

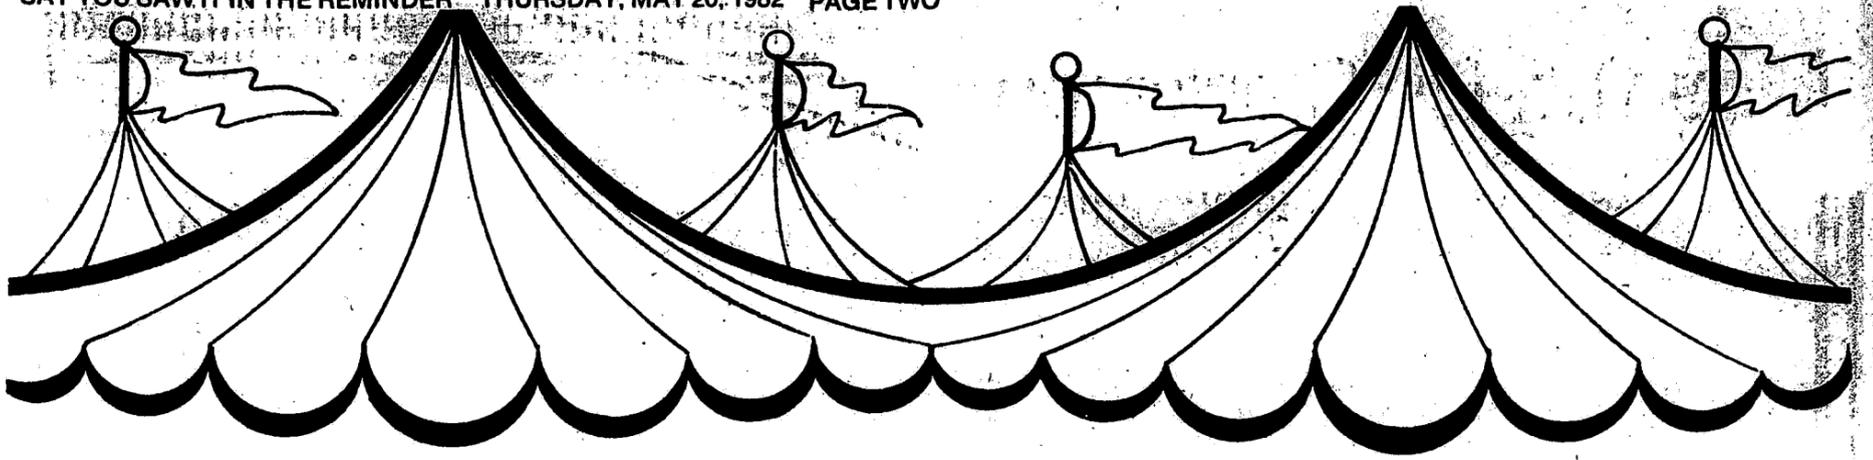

Making the fire particularly difficult to extinguish was an extensive tunnel system in the basement. Tragger said there was at least 15 tunnels in the cellar, each leading to a padlocked wine or liquor storage room. Fires had spread to the rooms, making the basement unbearably hot.

"The heat drove us out," Tragger explained. "We had to go into each of the individual rooms and extinguish the fires. We had to force the doors at every one of them."

Two Old Mill waitresses, who watched as their place of employment burned, expressed thanks that a fellow employee went home instead of spending the night inside the restaurant as he originally intended.

"The night chef was going to stay here and SHOULD I LET MYSELF CRY?

"Daddy, why is Mommy crying?"
How would you answer this question? Your answer may reveal much about your feelings toward the emotional expression called crying.
It has long been considered a sign of weakness, especially in men, to cry. This image is slowly changing, though, partly as a result of psychological studies showing that adults who can express their grief often recover more quickly from the death of a loved one and can more fully accept it.
To suppress one's feelings and to "hide the tears" can bottle up emotion which later on may be damaging on their eventual expression.
It is important to remember -- and also important to tell a questioning child -- that tears are not for the person who died, but because he or she will be missed so much.
Only through fully expressing our grief can we fully accept a death, and so we can slowly rejoin the ranks of the living.
We invite your comments and questions, which we will answer in private or publicly, through this column.

Income Tax Hike Won't Cure State's Ills

As is their custom, the Michigan legislature has again turned their backs to the very people they represent in passing an income tax hike last week.

The increase, albeit for six months only, will raise Income Tax from 4.6 percent to 5.6 percent, approximately a 22 percent raise to the average worker.

Governor Milliken and others claimed the raise was essential to maintain credit-worthiness and take care of an immediate cash flow crisis.

But the day after the legislative vote passed, Moody's Investors Service downgraded the state's note, bond and building authority bond rating; and although the tax raise may solve today's cash flow problems, it does nothing for the future.

A more appropriate action might have been to bite the bullet, and make do with what we had in the treasury.

Most major businesses in the state have had to severely slash their budgets. Employees have been laid-off or asked to accept contract concessions.

The State of Michigan has failed to follow suit. Budget cuts have been minimal. Welfare aid continues to be given out right and left. Many politicians suggest a lid on State spending; particularly welfare, would go a long way to curing our financial ills.

It's time the State began to run its ship like a normal business. It's time its chief executives learned to practice fiscal prudence.

Clarkston has always had an extraordinary sense of community pride, and this week, more than any other, that pride will come to life.

On Thursday night, the Deer Lake Racquet Club will be packed, when citizens gather to honor nearly 30 of their peers, who were nominated for their good citizenship.

And over the weekend the pride will be exhibited when downtown merchants sponsor their annual Spring Stroll. This year plans to be something special as several musical concerts are on tap, as well as bake sales, and other events.

And finally, it wouldn't be appropriate to close without commenting on the passage of The Old Mill.

It was just a couple of months ago when I talked to a proud Bill Jackson, who had just finished restoring the restaurant back to its pre-A.W. Rodeo form.

Jackson had spent (along with John Holihan) a ton of money to refurbish the landmark that was built in the early 1920's. He frankly was excited about the prospects the new Old Mill presented.

But fire has severely damaged those prospects, and one can only feel for Jackson. His dreams went up in smoke.

Maybe the new Old Mill will follow the same course of the original Old Mill. In 1949 the restaurant also burned to the ground. The owners at that time, the Dormans, were able to rebuild. It sure would be nice if history could repeat itself.

SMALL TALK

by Rebecca Roberts

John W. had a benevolent face. It was one face in a crowd, large face on a large man. His eyes were quite blue, his hair brownish, tending toward gray. He wore it with sideburns, and bangs cut high across a wide forehead; the bangs reminded me a little of Oliver Hardy, but the face was dignified and serious.

I was at the Literature conference and had been, along with other writers, editors, and various academe, listening to a lot of poetry for the past day and a half. We were all, I think, poetry-weary, as one might become after too much of a good thing; our brains were numb.

Nonetheless, I was waiting with curiosity to hear what the next reader had for us. And he was the last of the schedule for that session.

John W. walked to the front of the room, intent with what he was going to say. He seemed awkward, but at ease. With a flourish, he pulled from a plastic shopping bag a Bob Dylan record album, announcing boisterously that he intended to become a great rock star. We all laughed appreciatively.

He began reading the record jacket, a piece by Dylan. Hmmm, I thought, this guy must be a satirist, and he's going to do a takeoff on the Dylan material.

John W. read, his voice earnest, as he punctuated key phrases with loud theatrical emphasis. He did this randomly, unexpectedly, and I jumped every time he shrieked in that pseudo-Shakespearean tone. More satire, I thought.

After he finished reading the jacket, he turned to a long rambling interpretation of Dylan's words. I was beginning to wonder. A few people had left the room.

He picked up a thick paperback with a yellow cover, on the back of which was printed a song entitled "Poured Urine." This, he explained, was a play on words on his home town, Port Huron.

What followed was a quiet drone, an endless recitation of what seemed to be his autobiography. His mask, if it was ever there, began to slip.

He talked of his alter-ego, Quasimodo, and named himself abnormal, a "shark-o-path". He shared with us in confidential tones his ongoing dealings with a telepathic CIA; he told us of childhood games, like the one called Flounder in which his feet were bound, forcing him to slither, fishlike across the floor. He spoke of Marie the woman he'd married, of how he'd asked her one day "Who is the most famous?" and how she had answered, "Bob Dylan." He wondered to his now-dwindling audience why Marie had wanted her face slapped.

I sat there, frozen with fascination (and fear), wondering at this man with the kind face, this man who saw himself as a hunchback, this man who had coined his own word, "shark-o-path," to describe a self he knew did not fit, this man who indeed was trapped in a self-made belltower, unable to see himself as whole.

Reading from Dylan's book "Tarantula," John W. looked up at us and said, in a voice like leaves in a brook, "I've been planning to kill Bob Dylan." It was said so quietly, so gently, the words floated past my consciousness.

We discovered later that John W. had been arrested some time ago for threatening the life of George Bush.

John W. walked out of our lives that day. He is, it seems, known around the town for his psychopathic ravings. He owns guns, I was told. Many guns. Some at the conference feared him. Some ignored him, or were angry that he had played them for fools. Some simply laughed him off. Others, like myself, wonder even now how long it will be before John W. turns up in the headlines.

FRIEND OF THE COURT

by Roland C. Fancher

Most judgments of divorce or filiation contain language similar to the following: "Defendant shall pay all reasonable and necessary medical, dental, and hospital expenses of the minor children." As with support orders, the mere fact that payment has been ordered does not necessarily mean that it will be automatically followed. Enforcement action is often necessary.

Under current practice, it is rarely required that medical bills be paid through the office of the Friend of the Court. The parents are generally left to work out payment of these expenses between themselves. However, in certain circumstances, the Friend of the Court may become involved in enforcement action. The Friend of the Court may choose to attempt enforcement of medical bills during Show Cause proceedings held for non-support, or may refer the custodial parent to their own attorney. Rarely will proceedings be initiated by the Friend of the Court solely for the enforcement of medical expenses.

If you wish assistance from the Friend of the Court as to enforcement of medical expenses, follow the procedure explained below.

1. Obtain a copy of the bill from the physician who provided the services. This bill should specify the name of the child who was treated, and the date and nature of the services performed.

2. Mail the bills (or copies) to the Friend of the Court. A copy will be sent to the supporting parent.

3. Keep medical expenses to a minimum, and use the supporting parent's insurance whenever possible.

4. Discuss with, or at least inform, the supporting parent of the medical services, and attempt to work out a payment plan with the physician.

The custodial parent will generally make all decisions regarding medical and dental care. However, when possible, the supporting parent should be consulted, especially on major decisions such as orthodontal work and operations. While the custodial parent makes the decisions as to the care, the Judge to whom the case is assigned may be called upon to determine if the care was "reasonable and necessary". The Judge and your doctor may not necessarily agree, and if the services are determined to be merely cosmetic or otherwise unnecessary, the supporting parent will not be required to reimburse the custodial parent for them.

Note to supporting parents: If you make a payment through the Friend of the Court for medical expenses, clearly mark your payment as "medical". If you do not, the Friend of the Court will simply credit the payment as child support.

If you have any questions concerning the operations of the Oakland County Friend of the Court, address them to Roland C. Fancher, in care of The Reminder. Questions concerning individual cases should be submitted to the office of the Friend of the Court.

At Clarkston School Board Meeting Office Personnel Protest Layoffs

Members of the Clarkston School District Office Personnel Association were on hand at the regular May meeting of the Clarkston School Board to protest the administration's proposed layoffs of non-instructional personnel.

And after listening to their protests, board members asked Superintendent Milford Mason to discuss alternatives with the two junior high principals, Duane Lewis and Gus Birtsas, before the board would officially approve layoffs.

Speaking for the 26-member association, Sharm Blasey said the cutting of office personnel was unfair. She said that in past negotiations the administration had agreed not to cut the staff in exchange for cutting paid vacations. In addition she claimed the money saved by laying off office personnel was small in comparison to the vital jobs the secretaries, clerks and library media aids perform.

"Sometimes they (administrators) forget what it is like to be on the battleground...and that's what school is all about," said Ms. Blasey.

She added, "we feel we are being told we are not important...we have given more than our share."

Sashabaw Junior High principal Gus Birtsas indicated the proposed layoffs would hurt the efficiency of Sashabaw's operations.

"There is no way we can run the school the same way we did. We can operate, but please don't expect it to be the way it is now," he said.

In echoing the sentiments of most board members, treasurer Mary Jane Chaustowich said, "I sincerely hope we might find an alternative. I question the total amount of money saved offsetting the loss of personnel."

In other action the board unanimously approved a petition from homeowners in Thendara Park to transfer 31 homes from the Lake Orion School District to Clarkston. The petition, which needed 2/3's of the 136 subdivision homeowners to sign, would involve the addition of 38 possible new students to the Clarkston schools. Most would be placed in Bailey Lake Elementary. Final approval rests in the hands of Oakland Schools.

Retiring Clarkston medical doctors Robert Buehrig and Rockwood Bullard were also recognized by the board for their outstanding community service.

The Old Mill

spend the night. Thank God he didn't," said one of the waitresses. The other added, "It wasn't unusual for people who had to be back here early in the morning to stay overnight. Downstairs they had cots."

Facts About The Old Mill

Note: Information for this article was gathered from various people at the site (fire).

Site: On Dixie Highway (formerly the historic Old Saginaw Trail), across the road from the original Grist Mill, built in the early 1800's. This mill ground flour for over 100 years for the Waterford and Clarkston communities. Power source was the Clinton river which also runs behind the Old Mill. Grist Mill was torn down in 1925, the year the original Old Mill Tavern was built.

Construction: The Old Mill Tavern was built in 1925 by Louis Dorman. The huge main beams that arched almost 40 feet over the main dining room are the original beams from the old Grist Mill. They were simply transported across the street. Although over 180 years old, the magnificent beams looked like new, right up to the time the restaurant burned down.

Note: Of interest is the fact that in the early 30's the Old Mill Tavern had a small fire, and at that time a ceiling was dropped in throughout the building covering the beautiful beams from view for over 40 years. (The were "rediscovered" in 1974, when the interior was redesigned and rebuilt.)

1974 - The New Old Mill: In 1974 The Old Mill was sold. The new owners totally dismantled, redesigned, and rebuilt the Old Mill into a 6 room showplace. This tremendous artistic and architectural undertaking included an outside facelift, the focal point of which was multi-level covered bridge, ebrabcewat across the Clinton River - at the back of the Old Mill. (The front entrance was closed off in the design.)

A Brand New Interior: The new atmosphere was a blending of old handcarved archways, doors, millwork, stained glass, all from Europe and the Colonial South. The decor came from Old Plantation houses and buildings around Atlanta and Charleston. There was also much imported from old churches and buildings in Italy, France, and England. Following are some notes regarding just a few of the many valuable pieces incorporated into the new Old Mill (because of their age and beauty, they added a prestige and stature to the old building.)

- First door off the covered bridge: English Tudor, approximately 150 years old.

- Second set of doors: very historic Charlestonian door from early 1700's. Approximately 275 years old.

- Handcarved Archway (set in brick): from an old Italian villa (near Rome), built about 150 years ago.

- Center Chandelier: this elegant English Tudor chandelier was almost 300 years old. Originally from an old home or castle in England, however, for the last 80 years had hung in the stately old mansion of Ara Chandler outside of Atlanta, Ga. (Mr. Chandler was the founder of the Coca-Cola Company).

- Hand-carved Ballistry: (formed the railing for the balcony overlooking the Main Dining Room). These were from the two large front window balconies of an old southern plantation mansion (over 100 years old).

- Handcarved Wooden Sconces (mounted on walls throughout the 6 rooms): from an old Southern Mansion (over 100 years old).

Springfield Denies 4-H's Proposed Concert

by Brian Brooks
Is downtown Davisburg in a shambles?

Oakland County engineers and a private urban planning firm think it could be improved.

Ray L. Cousineau, an engineer for Mosher Kapelczak Inc. discussed beautification plans for Davisburg during the monthly Springfield Township meeting. Cousineau compared the county plan to the Mosher Kapelczak proposed changes.

He commented, that the county's plan is a "very clean plan". Cousineau pointed out that the main difference between their plan and the county's is the parking arrangement. The county designed parallel parking along Davisburg Road and a lot behind the Springfield Township office as additional parking. The county's plan also includes trees and shrubs on each side of Davisburg Road in the downtown area.

Cousineau explained that their plan was to design angle parking along the downtown section of Davisburg Road. He said, "this type of configuration will probably increase the parking area by 20%." He also stressed that the two plans are completely different but that a compromise is possible.

"There are unknowns we have to work out," Cousineau said. Springfield Trustee Glen J. Vermilye asked the engineer, "Is there any thought to a bypass?" Cousineau responded "no."

There is some concern about the corner of Davisburg and Eaton Roads being a hazard as Springfield Supervisor Collin W. Walls suggests, "It's a wonder there hasn't been an accident."

It was announced that 60 youngsters are planning to attend summer camp this year whose families cannot afford to send them. Gary E. Pullins, Social Worker for Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, informed citizens attending the board meeting that at least 21 kids, ages 6 to 12, out of the total are from Springfield Township. Some children may stay at Camp Kingston but most should remain at Camp Oakland, which was used last year for a similar program. The camping program is designed to last 8 days. The grade school teacher makes the decision as to whether a child would benefit emotionally and socially from a camping experience.

Pullins noted that the exact amount needed for assistance is unknown but is projected at approximately $2,300.

Springfield Clerk J. Calvin Walters made a motion that Springfield Township donate $1,000 to Clarkston Area Youth Assistance. The motion passed.

A 4-H parade is scheduled for Saturday July 31st in downtown Davisburg. There is some concern where to reroute traffic that normally travels on Andersonville and Davisburg Roads near downtown Davisburg. Walls assured everyone that there shouldn't be a problem. The parade is planned to include horses and floats, which if it runs as smoothly as last year will probably take 45 minutes.

A request to have a rock and roll concert during the annual 4-H fair in Springfield Township was turned down. The proposed concert, if approved, would have taken place on Wednesday, August 4th. Groups included in the lineup were Mitch Ryder, The Look, and Mayhem.

Shirley M. Hines, Treasurer of 4-H and Representative of the Concert Board estimated that 8,500 people would have attended the concert.

The problem that is preventing 4-H from putting on a concert is not lack of interest but the disturbance it might cause to local residents. Mrs. Hines assured Springfield Township citizens that alcohol would not be permitted at the concert. Walters mentioned the noise disturbance the concert may have on animals involved in the fair.

Vermilye asked Mrs. Hines why 4-H wanted to have a concert. She replied, "As an attraction," which "Seems to be the growing thing". She added, "I don't think there's any fair that doesn't have some type of entertainment," including rock or country music.

Mrs. Hines was asked if 4-H is moving away from its animal theme? "It has nothing to do with getting away from animals but just a change in times," she replied, "these kids are into cultural arts." Some of the arts she mentioned are as follows: music, photography, poetry, crafts, and cooking.

One thing is for sure this year though, there will be no fire works permitted during the fair.

Walls, who participated in a previous concert in Springfield Township, commented about the 4-H concert, "I don't think it's that bad of an idea if planned properly."

Pre-School Story Time at Independence Township Library is Tuesday, May 25, 4:30 p.m. and Wednesday, May 25, 11 a.m. The film for these dates is "Wilbur's Story", based on the book, "Charlotte's Web".

New Books

Schulz, and a non-fiction "Better Horseback Riding for Boys and Girls" by George Sullivan are just in. On the young adult shelf, "A Place Apart" by Paula Fox is the newest purchase.

Adult fiction includes "The Death - Cap

Dancers" by Gladys Mitchell, "The Brink" by N.J. Crisp, both suspense novels "Embers of Dawn" by Patricia Matthews and "Cashing In" by Antonia Gowar. Non-fiction is "The Fate of the Earth" by Jonathan Schell and "4800 Wisecracks, Witty Remarks and Epigrams" edited by Edmund Fuller.

Clarkston Standardized Test Results Mixed

William Potvin, Director of Planning and Evaluation for Clarkston Schools said, "We are very happy with our test results. Not satisfied, but happy."

He was speaking in reference to a report he submitted to the Clarkston Board of Education that summarized standardized test results for grades 3, 5, 8 and 10. The tests were given to all students in those grades earlier this year.

Potvin indicated although he was happy with the overall results, some areas definitely needed improvement. One of those areas was 5th grade. In each of the five test categories (reading, math, language, science and social studies) 5th grade students averaged far below their aptitude.

In math 5th graders averaged 50.2 (50 being the national average). The aptitude score (which was established by another test) was between 54 and 56.

In other subjects 5th graders scored 52 in reading, 52.9 in math, 53.1 in science and 52.6 in social studies.

Potvin noted that although fifth graders were below their aptitude, their overall performance has improved greatly since they were 3rd graders.

In a comparison of 1981-82 5th graders with their performance as 3rd graders in 1979-80, results are up significantly in every subject. The overall average is up from 50.5 to 52.3. Taking the subjects individually, reading was up from 50.7 to 52, math from 48.1 to 50.2, language from 49.6 to 52.9, science from 51.9 to 53.1 and social studies from 51.7 to 52.6.

Tenth grade language was another problem area singled out by Potvin. In fact it is the only area in which Clarkston students dipped below the national average with a score of 49.6. In the two other 10th grade categories, Clarkston scored within their aptitude (52.4 for reading and 51.5 for math) for a total average of 50.8.

Third graders, on the whole were slightly below the aptitude range of 52.5 to 54.5. They scored as high as 53.3 in science and 52.7 in language, but dipped below their overall aptitude with scores of 50.1 in math and 51.3 in reading.

If there was one very bright spot in the district it was the 8th grade. In every subject they exceeded their aptitude, ranging from 51.9 in reading and language to 54.2 in science and 53.4 in math and social studies. The 8th grade total average was 52.8.

Thomas Gray of Columbia Street, was introduced to backpacking six years ago when he took his first trip with a group of Boy Scouts. He literally "fell in love" with the outdoors, and since then has been on trips all over the eastern United States and Canada.

"We first started taking trips to the Pictured Rocks (a well known hiking area on Lake Superior). That soon became too tame for the boys. Now we have to go to Pennsylvania or Vermont," said Gray.

Gray said he has never experienced a better feeling than being on your own in the wilderness.

"I like being away from people. Knowing that I am at a spot that 90% of the people in the United States haven't been to. Besides, it is really relaxing. Your main goal is deciding where you are going to sleep that night," said Gray.

Gray recalls several instances that were either humorous or scary. There was the time a 12 year old got hit by a skunk in the Pictured Rocks. In the Smokies, Gray and his group had to walk 7 miles with only a quart of water between them. And then there was the time a boy froze on top of a cliff.

Usually, however, the trips occur without incident. Everyone returns without injury and a lifetime of good memories.

"When you put a pack on a kid's back and he survives for a week, they are really proud of that fact," explained Gray.

Gray will be booking this summer's trips under his recently started business, Wilderness Backpacking Adventures. Backpacking businesses are rather rare in Michigan. In fact, Gray claims to be the only one in Michigan. But, near the Smokies and out west, they are quite popular.

"We just thought maybe there was a calling for it here," said Gray. "We are doing everything we can to keep the costs down, and as a result our prices are very reasonable.

The first trip, for 8-12 year olds, will take place June 12-15. It will be basically a camping and hiking trip at Pigeon Bridge Campground near Gaylord.

Gray describes it as very elementary, but adventurous. The trip includes a 10 mile hike on the Single Mill Pathway. Gray said it is a good trip for beginners because much of the time spent is learning various camping, hiking and survival skills.

Other trips being planned for this summer include a white water rafting trip on the Youghiogheny River in Pennsylvania; a backpacking trip on the Laurel Highlands Trail in Pennsylvania, and a very rigorous backpacking trip in mountainous Vermont. These trips are for persons 12 and over who have had experience in camping and hiking.

The whitewater rafting trip will also include a day of exploration of the Laurel Caverns. The whitewater rafting will take 5-6 hours and cover 7 miles. Gray calls it "a ride of a lifetime."

New WMJC Team the Perfect Match

Jerry St. James and Jeff Elliott debuted their own special brand of communication last week on WMJC Radio, FM 95.

"We're very excited to get these guys together," says General Manager Chuck Borchard. "We think they're going to provide a unique morning program that will appeal to bright, busy men and women of all ages."

Jerry St. James is, of course, the well-known radio personality whose humor and cast of "characters" have sparked Detroit imaginations for six years and have made names like Gloria Vanderpuss, Billy Biceps and Murphy the Janitor household words.

Originally from Cheverly, Maryland (about 10 miles from Washington, D.C.), St. James has always been a communicator. He credits his fifth grade teacher for encouraging his writing talent.

"What I really wanted to be was a railroad engineer. I was quite serious about it. But my teacher told me to keep writing, keep writing, keep writing. It's amazing how one person can make you feel good about something when you're a kid and how you remember it."

St. James attended the University of Maryland as a major in Speech and Dramatic Arts. He got involved with the campus radio station and after graduation got a job with WLPL in Baltimore. His employment was based as much as the fact that he had a third-class broadcast engineer's license as on talent. He later became music director and program director at the station.

In 1975, Jerry moved to top-40's station WYOO in Minneapolis. "It doesn't exist any more," Jerry explains. "One day somebody bought it and we were all out of a job."

An offer in Detroit brought Jerry here in 1976 where he has been heard on two other stations before moving to Magic 95. "I've been here about six years now, and I really like it. The people are so much nicer than out East. And I think Detroit is starting to turn around. The lemmings are gone and the people who stayed are here because they want to be, I think that's neat."

At home in Ann Arbor, Jerry also writes articles and short stories for national publications - usually on serious themes or subjects. He enjoys scuba diving, photography, flying and is a stereo buff.

"My wife wishes I'd find some inexpensive hobbies," he laments.

Jerry and Bonnie reside with Annie, a golden retriever, and a reconditioned 1947 Royal manual typewriter.

Jeff Elliott is an experienced knowledgeable broadcaster who serious demeanor belies a dry wit and an abiding interest in the frustrations and joys of everyday life.

Tulsa is also where Jeff met Ken Scott (currently Program Director at WMJC) and where he formed the memorable (and defunct) Jeff Elliott All-Tuba Marching Band.

"We were a once-and-done-with group," Jeff reflects. "About 30 of us marched in a Tulsa parade with our t-shirts and tubas." Asked why he took up the tuba, Jeff replies, "Because my lips got too big for the trumpet."

Later, at WWWE in Cleveland, Jeff worked nearly every shift on the clear channel station which was heard in 38 states and half of Canada. Listeners contacted him from as far away as the Virgin Islands and even Australia. It was also his first experience as part of a radio team which developed "characters" and voices to match. "It's fun," he declares. "It gives you a vehicle for different material and adds other personalities to the show."

After a brief stint in Phoenix, Jeff was tapped for the WMJC partnership with Jerry St. James. "We just clicked," Jeff says. "We have similar senses of humor, reactions to life and feelings about people. It's not a question of this being a good job. Of course it is. But I wouldn't do it unless I felt that Jerry and I together could make a positive difference in somebody's day. That's why I like mornings."

SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE REMINDER

In his spare time, Jeff enjoys playing softball and fishing in the Great Lakes. He is a computer buff and likes to watch college basketball as well as pro baseball and football. He and his wife Carol are presently househunting in the Detroit area with their daughter Katy, 4, and son Cabot, 2.

"That summer when I was 14," he recalls, "I had to choose between mowing lawns and going on radio. I'm glad I chose radio."

Monday through Friday, from 5:30 to 9:30 a.m., St. James and Elliott will talk, play music, and respond to what's on the minds of their listeners.

"Phone calls will be a big part of the show," says St. James. "It's important that we're accessible to people," says Elliott.

weather reporter Doug Hill who is seen on WDIV-TV at noon and 6:00 p.m. and newscasters Greg Bowman and Roberta Jasina.

"There are lots of reasons people listen to radio in the morning," says St. James. "It can be for the weather, the phone calls, the characters we do, the humor, but what counts is the chemistry between Jeff and myself. That's the cohesive force we hope will keep people listening."

WMJC scoured the country to find just the right partner for St. James. Says General Manager Borchard, "We flew Jerry all over to meet various candidates. They were all good, talented people. What was important was finding someone who 'clicked.' These two felt an immediate rapport."

St. James and Elliott share some significant attitudes about their work and how they go about it. Both are respectful and caring toward their listeners and don't believe in being funny at someone else's expense. "I never want a person to feel embarrassed for having called in," says Elliott. "We need their feedback."

Softball Team Wins 3 of 4

Clutch Victory Over Athens

by Ron Wagner

The girls softball team won three of four games this past week, and all four of them were at home. Monday afternoon, they beat Lake Orion 5-2. Lanette Whitehead was the winning pitcher giving up only 5 walks and three hits. Sandy Mason had two of the team's seven hits and Dawn Willett and Shaun O'Brien combined for 4 RBI's.

On Wednesday, they lost to Kettering 4-3 in the afternoon and then beat Troy Athens at night 8-7. Annette Ulasich pitched the whole game against Kettering and allowed only 2 hits, but she gave up ten walks. Mason drove in the only runs, picking up two RBI's and then scored herself.

The Athens game, which started at 7:00, was won in the ninth inning. Jeanne Herron was the winning pitcher and Ulasich got the save. Clarkston was ahead the whole game, but Athens tied it up in the seventh. Troy went ahead in the ninth 7-6 and it was Clarkston's turn to come back. Whitehead went 3 for 5 at the plate and hit two doubles. The team had 13 total hits.

For their final game of the week, the girls beat West Bloomfield 10-3. Whitehead was the winning pitcher and allowed only two hits. She struck out three and walked three. Ulasich hit 3 for 4 with two doubles and two RBI's.

Baseball Team Posts Victories Over Lake Orion, West Bloomfield

The Clarkston Baseball team went 2-3 for the week last week, beating Lake Orion and West Bloomfield and losing to Kettering and Royal Oak Kimball. On Monday, they slaughtered Lake Orion 11-1 in five innings. Mark Piazza pitched all five innings and got nine strike outs. Joel Schrader hit 3 for 3 and Rich Schrader hit 2 for 3. A highlight of the game was a home run by Dan Gaulin.

"We really hit it, got ten hits," said coach Roy Warner.

The team hosted Kettering on Wednesday and lost 8-6. Shawn Mosele was the starting pitcher, but Piazza came in as relief and was stuck with the loss. Mike Howe hit 2 for 4 and got a double. Friday's game went much better, as the Wolves blanked West Bloomfield 10-0. Howe and Bill Weeks went 4 for 4 at the plate and Piazza was 2 for 3. He was also the winning pitcher, giving up only 2 hits and striking out 10.

On Saturday, the team travelled to Royal Oak to play a double header against Kimball. They lost the first game by a score of 4-3. Dale Hesse was the losing pitcher. Howe, Piazza and Adam Kline each got two of the team's eleven hits. The problem was that they left nine men on base.

The second game was lost 4-0 as the Kimball pitcher threw a no-hitter. CHS pitcher Bill Turk allowed only 5 hits in the losing cause.

Burch Wins Twice Thinclads Whip Kettering

"It was a good victory for us," said coach Walt Wyniemko after his track team's first win of the season. "The guys worked hard."

Last Tuesday, the guys defeated Waterford Mott 71-61. First place winners were: Craig Esslink in the 120 high hurdles and the 330 low hurdles, Rusty Bennett in the 100 yard dash, Paul Burch in the 1 mile and 2 mile, Eric Beamer in the shot put and discus, Tom Hecker in the pole vault and John Powe in the high jump. The 440 relay of Bennett, Dave Ryeson, Esslink, and Dave Lippincott also took first.

Most home appliances are well designed for safe operation - IF they are used as directed. There are potential hazards, though, if you are careless.

Be careful connecting and disconnecting electrical appliances. NEVER hold on to two electrical appliances at one time, or to an appliance and a water faucet (connection to ground).

When you disconnect an electrical appliance, pull on the plug, NOT the cord.

If your gas appliances have continuously burning pilot lights (Some now come with electric ignition systems), check regularly to see that they are burning, and that the burners are lighting and operating correctly.

Keep flammable materials away from gas flames or hot electric appliances. Make sure curtains and pot holders are not too near the stove. In the basement or utility room, don't store papers near the furnace.

Avoid hazards of fire and electric shock with careful use of your appliances. You can avoid other hazards with a well-planned insurance program.

Sashabaw Junior High Encores Perform at Pre-Schools

Health, safety, and human relations were brought to area pre-schools in word and music by the Sashabaw Junior High Encores last week.

The 23 eighth and ninth graders presented the children's musical, "A Walk With Mr. Peeps", to the pre-schoolers at Calvary Lutheran Church in Clarkston, the North Oakland Christian Church in Pontiac, and the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church in Clarkston, and the SPICE program in their own building - all in a one day tour.

In the musical, Mr. Peeps - a shaggy white dog - is out for a walk and runs into his friends, each of which has a message for the children. Goober Gopher reminds us to brush our teeth, Chico Chihuahua warns us to watch the traffic lights, while Clara C. Chicken says "Be Careful!"

Timothy Turtle feels we should get enough rest, Penelope Pig wants everyone to share and care about each other, and Kathryn Cat learns that different people are fun to know.

The main characters are portrayed by Lisa Hofer, Steven Gerber, Tina Leake, Dawn Cowie, Steve Murphy, Kimm Buchmann, Kim Lafferty, and Stacy Savage. The remaining Encores sang the chorus parts.

Airman Eugene H. Mullen Jr., son of Betty A. Mullen of 5399 Burgundy Drive, Clarkston, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force aircraft maintenance training course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

Mullen will now serve at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

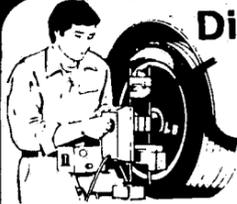

He is a 1978 graduate of Clarkston High School.

Customized Fencing Makes R & N a Success

Richard Smith, owner of R & N Fence Service, 5279 Dixie Highway, Waterford, says his customized approach to fence building has played a big part in his success as a businessman.

"If a customer just brings in his own design or a picture of what he wants, we'll build it," he said. "A lot of places will offer you three or four standard styles, take it or leave it."

Smith added, "I worked for some companies that would sell people one thing, and then give them something else and tell them it's the same. That's not the way we do business...we give the customer exactly what he wants in design and material at a fair price."

When the economy was good, Smith said he had more business than he could handle. That's not the case now. However, Smith has picked up several clients from shows he participates in at the Pontiac and Oakland Malls.

Smith, who worked for Ford Motor Company for 16 years before entering the fencing business in 1976 said standing around and doing nothing at Ford Motors wasn't his "cup of tea."

"So instead of just complaining about my job, I decided I would do something about it. I've always liked building things and working with my hands -- and here I can do that."

Smith added, "They told me it would take about two years before I'd make any money, and they weren't lying. It's been a challenge, and there've been some heartaches along the way...but it's finally paying off."

Smith utilized the first initials of his own name and his wife Norma's to come up with the name R & N Fence Service.

The Smith's make their home in Waterford with their four children, two boys and two girls.

The student who is experiencing school problems is missing the satisfaction and wealth of learning. This affects his progress, motivation and feelings of self. Often this is no fault of his own. One must ask why the child is having problems and make a decision for improvement.

Learning disabilities are variations in the learning of youngsters. Some students have an excellent vocabulary when they speak, but putting this word knowledge on paper is next to impossible. One is concerned about little children who were thought to be very bright as pre-schoolers but are not learning to read in first grade. A fourth grader may be struggling with fractions and telling time. Junior high students are hiding their language paper due to the red river of ink indicating misspelled words. All students and parents recognize "I don't understand it." It might be math problems, American history or English literature. How can mother respond to "I don't know, I can't remember"? Some children with learning problems can not recall words or multiplication tables after endless repetitions. It is difficult to watch a child learning to read who is struggling with sounding out words. Written language is a difficult and complex task involving spelling, sentence structure, capitalization, punctuation, content and handwriting.

Tempers and frustrations surface quickly when students have put off that long detailed report.

At this time of year, school decisions are important to families and educators. Those decisions must be based upon feelings, achievement and production. No decision is useful if it lacks commitment by the child, parent or school. One must evaluate the achievement or acquired knowledge of the student. The child and teachers must honestly assess learning. The role of production or "getting it done" is important to education, as well. The vital question is why this process of energy, learning and doing is not happening?

Treatment for learning problems may necessitate special classrooms, remedial and supportive services or alternative education. Evaluation accompanied by discussion with the school, physician, parents and child should result in a plan of action. Elementary school children may require remedial and special education techniques for mastery of problem areas.

Junior high and secondary education students may need educational support. Perhaps as a youngster they did not or could not learn skills and knowledge necessary for continued progress in their school subjects.

Appropriate intervention may be remedial, offer alternative methods or develop compensation skills. It must improve feelings of self-worth and learning energy.

Candle Factory Under New Ownership

New ownership has been announced at the Davisburg Candle Factory in Davisburg. Pam Ruggirello and Barbara Johns are the new proprietors of the candle-making and retail operation which has been located in or near Davisburg for over 23 years. Recently spotlighted on television by Channel 7's Erik Smith, the Davisburg Candle Factory has also been added to AAA's Michigan Tour Book as a travel attraction.

In a 125-year-old building, the factory produces hand-dipped tapers, molded candles, and custom decorated candles for many occasions. The entire second floor of the building houses a retail shop offering a wide assortment of candles, candle accessories, and gifts.
