MEMORIAL DAY-198

Clarkston

"Let no ravages of time testify to coming generations that we have forgotten as a people the cost of a free and undivided Republic."

This order in 1868 started the present custom of decorating the graves of soliders with flowers and flags and now extends to the graves of families and friends.

Let Memorial Day convey this message, "A million American citizens have died and millions more have suffered from service in the Wars of the Republic in order to establish the greatest fraternity on Earth - the brotherhood of free men."

With these thoughts in mind Campbell-Richmond Post No. 63, The American Legion, invites all area residents to join in the duty of honoring those Veterans who gave their lives and those who gave service to their Country.

The Post members will place flags on Veterans Graves in Lakeview Cemetery on Sunday morning, May 30.

The annual Memorial Day Parade will be Monday, May 31, at 10 a.m. The Parade will start from the corner of Church and Buffalo Streets, to Main, north to Washington, West to Holcomb, then to Lakeview Cemetery. A memorial service will be held.

Commander Leon Johnston requests that no horses, autos, bikes, pets or floats enter the parade because of the solemn purpose of the parade. Please call the Post, 625-9912 or John Lynch, 625-3994 for information.

Bottle Bill Cleans Streets, but Closes Centers

Editor's Note:

Carolyn Place, chairperson for Independence Township's "Bottles for Building", was honored for her distinguished service to the community at last week's Community Awards Banquet. What follows is an overview of what's happened with "Bottles for Building" since the 1980 "Bottle Bill".

by Brian Brooks

Since the Beverage Bottle Return Bill passed in November 1980, the streets are cleaner but most party store merchants are overburdened and the glass recycling centers are closing down.

Independence Township is one community which is affected by the Bottle Bill in both positive and negative ways.

One positive action which the Bottle Bill caused is keeping the streets cleaner. The roadside is relatively spotless compared to pre-Bottle Bill days.

Many local party store owners are complaining about the space required and the time returned bottles take up during store operations. According to Pat M. Nowak, owner of the Clarkston Party Store, the bottle law created "higher prices for consumers." The main reason for the increase in beverage drinks is it "costs money to take care of them," said Nowak. "Bottles don't disappear."

Another significant negative action caused by the Bottle Law is the shutting down of many recycling centers. According to Mike T. Niemann, Public Information Officer for Oakland County, there are not enough bottles on the market to justify keeping the recycling centers open. He added that wine and liquor bottles alone could not support the centers.

Niemann said that four to five recycling centers that were in operation a year ago have now gone out of business. He commented that the recycling process is now replaced with a more efficient means, namely the bottle return policy. He added that Oakland County was not in charge of the recycling center but just supported the effort.

"Bottles for Building", a project to save money for a Community Activities Building in Independence Township, accounted for 75 tons of glass in almost ten years of existence. The project was started in January 1971 by persons such as Carolyn A. Place, a volunteer coordinator for Oakland County and chairperson for Independence Township.

Two of the locations for dropping off "Bottles for Building" were located at the A & P and Independence Commons Shopping Centers. According to Mrs. Place the only real problem for the recycling centers until the Bottle Bill went into effect was keeping the glass organized in the containers. Despite efforts the project was forced to close down in August, 1981 because of wage increases and the decrease in supply of glass coming in, according to Oakland County officials.

The Oakland County Recycling Centers were supported by many community groups from the beginning. Mrs. Place said, "Back in the days of the curb side collection there was lots of community support." She gave credit to GMC Truck and Coach and Pontiac Motors for the use of their trucks to haul glass to the Transfer Station in Pontiac.

Many of the activities funded by the recycling centers include projects in Independence Township.

$100 was given to each of the Clarkston Community Schools to improve their landscape with trees.

The Bumper Sticker Contest, a method used to inform the community about environment education, started with money

IS CREMATION A COP-OUT?

To answer this question, we must "direct cremation" from distinguish cremation-after-full-funeral services. In the former, the body is taken quite soon after to be cremated, death memorialization nor any personalized recognition of the death. In the latter, time is allowed for memorial services and other selected phases of a full-service funeral.

Our experience has been that in certain situations, cremation may be a sensible option to consider - but not direct cremation. As funeral directors, we have found that grieving relatives and friends can comfort each other best when they are gathered to pay their respects. Cremation without these services may deprive the survivors of this healthy stage of the grief process.

Survivors in a direct-cremation situation will often tell us of their regrets for taking the "quick-and-easy" way out. Sometimes they have even been upset with us for not pointing out the need for more memorialization.

We have information about cremation and other aspects of funeral service. If you would like to talk about it, please call us or stop by.

On Memorial Day we show our respect to the brave soliders who lost their lives in wars fighting for freedom. We visit cemeteries and we march in parades to show that we as a nation, care about our lost fighting heroes.

That's why Memorial Day is an appropriate time to reflect on America and its role as a powerful nation and peacemaker.

More than any other role, our role as peacemaker is of tantamount importance. War between two nations is such an easy thing to get into.

Take the Falkland Islands crisis for example. It seems absurd that two so-called advanced nations would employ all out war methods to gain soverignty over a tiny, sparsely populated group of islands near Antarctica.

Yet, how absurd it may seem, it is happening despite peacemaking efforts by first the United States, then Peru and finally the United Nations.

Both countries can't back down. Their pride is at stake, and a country's pride is a very important ingredient these days. Argentina can't back down because their ruling Junta is facing a popularity crisis. Backing down would certainly be cause for the Junta to be ousted from power. Most Argentinians believe the Falklands, because of their close geographical proximity to the Argentine mainland, to be theirs. And an invasion to regain what is rightfully theirs makes sense.

Makes sense until Great Britain decides to invade. The Argentine government took a calculated risk in regaining the Falklands. They did not expect Great Britain to go to

But pride is a commodity that is abundant in Great Britain. The Falklands were British soil, had been for a long long time, and were inhabited mostly by British citizens. The Argentine invasion was termed an act of aggression. One that couldn't go unnoticed despite the remote locale.

Thus both countries were thrown into this war because of pride. It is the job of the negotiator to get them both out of it without damaging either's pride. It is the job of the peacemaker to see that the war remains a skirmish between two countries, involving no one else.

The United States should continue to exert themselves as peacemakers. They should not allow other Latin American countries or the Soviet Union to interfere. On the other hand, we as a nation, should resist temptation to interfere. The war must not escalate.

War, in most instances is absurd. As you watch the parade go by this Memorial Day, think about the Viet Nam War and all the young men we lost there, and you'll soon understand how absurd it can be.

by Rebecca Roberts

It's summer (almost), and it's the moulting season for human beings.

In the windows of clothing stores, I see little splotches of color that, on closer inspection, prove to be this year's line of summerwear -- miniscule fragments of fabric disguised as shorts and swimsuits.

I imagine myself, there on the sand, toughmuscled and lithe and deeply bronzed, flipping through People mag behind oversized sunglasses, smiling my enigmatic smile.

The realm of a fertile imagination knows no bounds.

The only person I know who can wear one square foot of spandex while diving sideways into a pool, is Lauren Hutton. You'll notice, however, she doesn't bend anythno larger than her elbow, the rest of her not flinching a muscle. She knows -- Pepsi Lite or no -- when not to push her luck.

No doubt about it. Summer's little clothes are a problem. Theoretically, for instance, small shorts and swimsuits are self-limiting. They only fit small bodies. Every year, though, there are the unflappable optomists who defy the law of mathematical displacement by filling amazingly small garments with great quantities of flesh. You can't blame them, though.

Think about it. Big shorts are a contradiction in terms. If the size on the rack could double as a tablecloth, maybe the world would be better off with more tablecloths.

Remember muu-muus? They helped. People could float around in those yards of fabric and nobody would ever guess at the fat thighs waddling beneath.

Fashion never consults me. It doesn't ask me how old I am, or how much I weigh, or whether or not I like lavender.

It is always out of step with me.

When I was fifteen, there were Bermudas and Jamaicas (long and medium-long shorts). Short-shorts were relegated to the tennis courts, where tennis-slim bodies could accommodate them. My grandmother would have been proud to wear Bermudas.

Now that I'm, well, a lot older than fifteen. fashions have shrunk to uncompromising size. Right when I need the compromise.

Guest Commentary

The Social Security Administration is reviewing its disability benefits recipients to check for continued eligibility. But the methods they are using seem to be the equivalent of "poisoning the pond to get a few snappers.'

After a 1980 General Accounting Office investigation of problems in the Social Security Disability Insurance Program, the Congress amended the Social Security Act to insure that only genuinely disabled persons received disability benefits.

The law required that periodic reviews be conducted to determine continued eligibility. Those found no longer disabiled were obviously to be removed.

Certainly, no one could oppose this effort to remove from the benefit rolls those people abusing the system,

However, the Social Security Administration seems to be considering those people it feels should have recovered "guilty until proven innocent," and is cutting off their benefits. This leaves a person without any assistance for up to half-a-year until the case finally goes through the appeals process.

The problem is that more than half of all the cases going through the appeals process are reversed, and the person is put back on the rolls as being truly disabled. Such a high reversal rate clearly indicates that there is something very wrong with the way the Social Security Administration is conducting its reviews, and the process has to be changed.

Those who are not entitled to the benefits clearly should not be receiving them. But we must also set forth some safeguards to assure that those who are disabled and are entitled to benefits are not arbitrarily cut off by Congressman William Broomfield without assistance for the months it takes to go through the review.

To correct this problem and to assure that our Nation continues to provide a "safety net" for the truly needy, I have joined in cosponsoring legislation that would require the State medical reviewers to request and consider recent reports from beneficiary's own doctor or clinic. Moreover, adequate notice would have to be given to a recipient whose case has been chosen for investigation in order to give that person sufficient time to undergo necessary tests.

A second aspect of this bill provides that under certain conditions, a recipient's benefits would continue if that person decides to appeal the Social Security Administration's decision terminate benefits. These benefits would continue until an Administrative Law Judge made a final determination in the matter.

If the judge upholds termination of benefits, the Social Security Administration can recoup the benefits paid from the original time when it was determined the payments should cease.

However, if the recipient's own doctor believes there is no disability but the recipient wants to appeal anyway, disability benefits would not be continued during the appeals process.

This bill, which is before the House Ways and Means Committee for further action, would assure that the necessary protection for the innocent and the needy is continued. While it does not hamper the very much needed effort to eliminate abuse of this country's generosity and compassion, it seeks to assure that that spirit continues.

Firefighters Seek Per Call Rais

Independence Township firefighters came before the township board last week, asking for a raise to $8 per call and $8 per hour after the first hour at the scene of a fire.

The volunteer firefighters currently receive a flat $5 a call, and have since 1972.

"We have not received a pay increase in ten years," noted Bill Rausch, spokesperson for the firefighters. He explained the $8 figure was arrived at by adding five percent per year since their last pay increase.

Rausch claimed the $8 figure was in line with surrounding communities that averaged about $7.50 per call.

Rausch also chastised the board for not being allowed to present their case at the regular meeting held two weeks previously.

"We were treated as second class citizens," said Rausch. "We should be given the same consideration as other people in the township.'

Supervisor James Smith pointed out that the last meeting had many agenda items and was lengthy (lasting past 1 a.m.). He also urged the board not to take any action on the matter until negotiations with the Fire Department's union had been settled (Smith hinted a settlement was near).

The board, in heeding Smith's warning, unanimously tabled the item.

State Representative Claude A. Trim (D-Davisburg) announced that he will be seeking the seat of the House of Representatives 61st District. The district encompasses Springfield Township (his residence), and the Townships of Addison, Brandon, Independence, Oakland, Orion and Oxford.

Trim, who originally intended to seek the seat of the Senate's 17th District, feels that the 17th District, as newly drawn under the reapportionment plan, encompasses citizens with such diverse needs that it would be extremely difficult for him to represent them in the way in which it has, heretofore, been his goal of doing. Trim stated that for this reason, he will not seek the Senate seat.

Independence Denies LaPiazza Liquor Request

by Mike Wilcox

The Independence Township Board voted last week to deny LaPiazza a liquor license.

LaPiazza, owned by Allie Assad, and located in a small shopping center at the corner of Clarkston and Eston roads, had applied for a liquor license to compliment plans to expand the pizzeria into a small family-style restaurant.

By a vote of 4-3 (Fred Ritter, Chris Rose and William Vandermark voting for the issuance of the license) the board denied Assad's request.

Trustee Daniel Travis cited police reports that show at least an average of one call a night at the Clarkston/Eston corner, as a major reason why he felt the license should be denied.

"I find it impossible to vote for this location," added Supervisor James Smith. "If Richardson's (Farm Dairy) were gone I might feel differently.

Richardson's has been the scene of one armed robbery and murder as well as a hangout for teenagers.

Trustee William Vandermark, in support of the LaPiazza request, said Assad shouldn't be penalized for Richardson's problems.

Most of the problems are at Richardson's. Mr. Assad has had very few problems and has done everything he can to improve the property," said Vandermark.

On another 4-3 vote, a liquor license request from Waterford Hill Courts was sent to the planning commission for review.

In other action, the board adopted a "no smoking" policy that will be in effect during all official township meetings.

Again, the vote was 4-3, with Fred Ritter, Laurence Kozma and Dale Stuart voting no.

In indicating his displeasure with the policy, DPW Chief George Anderson noted, "Very rarely have I heard anybody complain at a meeting. They (meetings) are long and tedious and tension building. This (smoking) is one outlet we have."

Anderson also informed the board that ten locations had been chosen to place trash dumpsters for a township-wide clean-up effort June 18-21. The DPW, itself, would be cleaning up bad areas along Clement, Foster and Maybee roads, said Anderson.

"It is a one opportunity weekend. That should be stressed," said Travis, in noting the dumpsters would only be available for three days.

Smith said residency requirements would be strictly enforced at each of the ten dumpster sites, in indicating the clean-up effort was for Independence residents only.

Treasurer Fred Ritter, who is also chairperson of the township's EDC commission, reported that the EDC group would like some direction from the township.

Ritter noted the EDC had been quiet since development (Clarkston Munk Professional Plaza) and wanted to know whether they should actively pursue EDC projects.

The board agreed not to solicit projects. In summing up the decision, Trustee William Vandermark said, "It's (EDC) an excellent tool to keep in mind when a really classy development comes along. But it should be used discreetly, and not rampantly."

A Tribute to South Sashabaw

Students of South Sashabaw Elementary paid tribute to their school, which will be closed in June, with a musical extravaganza at Sashabaw Junior High last Wednesday.

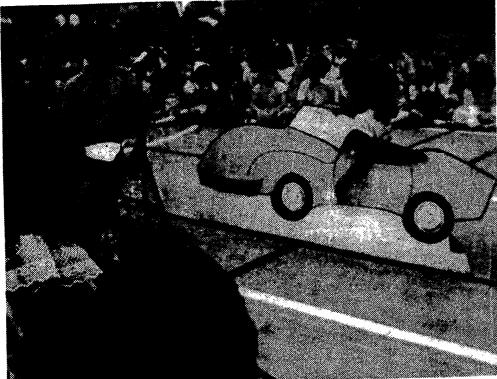

Former principals of the school as well as a capacity audience watched as students, under the direction of Mrs. Janis Madden, sang songs about Michigan and South Sashabaw.

Photos by Al Wieling

Cagney Announces Re-Election Bid

Leroy Cagney has announced that he shall be a candidate for reelection as Oakland County Commissioner for District 2.

Recently a number of people have asked what he did about the commissioner's raise. "Before I took office, the Board of Commissioners voted themselves a raise. I took issue with this and spoke before the Board regarding the timing and need of a raise and also said I would not keep it for myself."

He continued," I feel I have kept faith with the voters who elected me to watch over the spending of their tax dollars; and if re-elected, I will continue to endeavor to see that the county government serves the citizens of Oakland County and not vice versa."

Four wheel drive vehicles from all over the State recently competed in a Mud Bog contest in Davison. The object of the contest is to see how far you can run your 4-wheeler through a 300 foot

When no 4-wheeler was able to go the distance the contest was open to drivers. Here Roger Nichols leads the pack on the way to a $50 first prize.

Barry Bass of Clarkston with his Ford "Kong" finished first, managing to drive 226' and collecting $150. Photos by Al Wieling

Workers Featured in Attic Play

The hopes, joys, dreams and frustrations of American workers from all walks of life are captured in the musical "Working", based on the book by Studs Terkel, which runs at the Attic Theatre June 4 - July 17.

Firemen, waitresses, call girls, mill hands, gas meter readers and others sing and dance as they work.

"Working" will run on Thursdays and Fridays at 8 p.m., Saturdays at 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. and Sundays at 6:30 p.m.

earned through the recycling centers and the help of students and faculty at the North Oakland Vocational Center. The remaining $500 to $600 left in the fund will probably be used for cultural activities in Oakland County.

The "Bottles for Building" project has raised $25,000 to $30,000 and "is for the soul purpose of a Community Activities Building as long as I'm around," said Mrs. Place. The money is now safely invested in time certificates. Other than the interest gained Mrs. Place commented that she is unaware of any active fundraising projects for the Community Activities Center.

Mrs. Place also commented that she disapproved of the county cutting their support from the recycling efforts. She expressed that there are plenty of recyclable bottles that we all use and then discard as useless.

The sign (above) still stands, although totals remain at zero.

Despite marked improvement, the Bottle Bill hasn't cleaned up all roadsides.
