Clarkston School district voters will be going to the polls June 14 to vote for one member of the Clarkston Board of Education. Five candidates are competing for the 4-year seat, and four of them responded to a Reminder questionnaire sent to them a couple of weeks ago.

What follows is a brief biographical sketch of each candidate and his/her views as gleaned from information supplied to the Reminder by each candidate.

Mary Jane Chaustowich, 11060 Clark Road, Davisburg. Age 45. Husband Frank. Children Frank Jr., 12, and Mark, 10. BA Wayne State University. MS equivalent from Wayne State also. Employed with J.L. Hudson Co., United Airlines and teacher 7 years at Detroit's Cass Technical High School.

Mrs. Chaustowich has been a resident of Clarkston for 13 years. She is currently secretary of the Clarkston Community School Board, and a member of Clarkston area Youth Assistance, Clarkston Community Women's Club, and the Clarkston Junior High Volunteer program. She was formerly a member of the Independence Township Library Board, the Andersonville School PTO Board, and the Citizens Advisory Committee for Clarkston Schools.

Mrs. Chaustowich says, "The Clarkston schools have long put emphasis on good, basic education. I agree with this concept. If these were ideal times, there certainly are additions which could enhance the curriculum. For instance, more classes in language, science, math, computer programming and art plus elementary physical education would benefit the district.

However, reality dictates that we cut back rather than expand and the trick is how to cut without destroying what we have. I believe consolidation is better than elimination. If we can continue to trim the periphery rather than cut into the core of our curriculum or eliminate whole programs, we will survive the economic crisis basically intact.

Additional funds would certainly be welcome; however, I cannot believe this is the time to ask the voters for more millage. It

Board Listens to Taxpayers at Millage Rate Hearing

by Mike Wilcox

The Clarkston Schools Board of Education took testimony from several concerned taxpayers last Monday during a required public hearing to set the millage rate for 1982.

The hearing, a new procedure local government bodies must adhere to, is required when, in this case, the school board wishes to levy more millage than Act 5 allows.

Act 5 would allow Clarkston Schools to levy 28.4729 mills in 1982. That's compared to 31.2221 levied in 1981, 31.5525 the Headlee rollback would allow and 33.3300 mills that are authorized by the voters to levy.

Superintendent Milford Mason in explaining the complex formulas used to compute the Act 5 and Headlee rollbacks, said the district would end up with a deficit of $880,154 if the Act 5 levy were allowed to stand.

He suggested the board set its rate at the Headlee figure, which would give the district $107,000 in additional revenue over last year. Board President Janet Thomas seemed to support the suggestion. She had harsh words for the state legislature, which she felt was passing the buck.

"Since the State has started to use K-12 education to balance the budget, all they have done is say here...you explain it to the public," said Mrs. Thomas.

Board Treasurer Mary Jane Chaustowich agreed. "We are more or less forced to carry the can for the State," she said. "People must realize we are not asking more millage per se. We are levying an amount."

But trustee Dr. Stephen Werner did not see it that way. "That's misleading. I have a problem with going to 31.5525. I'm not sure it's proper to do it."

Although attendance at the hearing was sparse compared to regular board meetings, those that offered testimony were sometimes critical of past board actions.

"I think the School Board was very remiss in not cutting more off the top," said Leonard Cotter. "We are not the smartest people in the world out here, but we don't like to be taken. I think we've been given the fast shuffle."

Bob Dougherty said he couldn't go along with any millage increase. "I just went back to work after being laidoff for four months. I can't afford more taxes. What is the school doing anyway? They layoff teachers and hire Dan Fife to coach basketball."

And Ronald Galley asked, "Is there anything back there hiding in the bushes?" in reference to last year's vote to give central office administrators a raise immediately after a three mill increase had received voter approval.

Jeanne Molzon suggested the millage rate should remain the same as 1981, 31.22.

SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE REMINDER THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1982 PAGE THREE

"I think it is awfully important that you consider how the public views this," said Mrs. Molzon. "I would personally like 31.55, but I don't think the people would be behind it."

According to law the School

Board can't set the millage rate until seven days after the public hearing. The testimony heard Monday will be discussed and taken into consideration when the board makes its decision later in the month.

She has been a member of many folk dance performing groups throughout the United States, in addition to starting two folk dance performing groups of her own. In Cincinnati, Ohio, the International Folk Festival, which attracts thousands of people each year, owes its founding to Mrs. Hicks.

The folk dance option of concentration, in addition to the other 4-H Cultural Arts Camp options, is open for registration through June 15. 4-H works with Oakland County Parks and Recreation and Oakland County Cultural Council to offer the camp held at Springfield-Oaks County Park in Davisburg.

WHAT COSTS CAN I EXPECT?

It is not always clear in advance the extent and number of services we provide as funeral directors. Our involvement extends to all areas of service - from the casket to death notices to transportation to flowers. It frequently happens that a family is unprepared to meet these costs when the time comes.

One way to plan ahead for the overall cost of funeral services is our no-pay pre-plan arrangement. All you need do is stop by and discuss with us your final wishes. We keep a record of those decisions and can tell you their approximate cost. Thus you can plan ahead!

Of course, we can also help you establish a trust fund that will ensure that your family can meet funeral costs. But either way, you can better plan for these various expenses.

If you would like more information about pre-planning, please stop by.

Old Timers to be Recognized

Clarkston Community Historical Society is seeking information on local families who have lived in Clarkston for 4 generations or at least 100 years. Each interested applicant will be asked to fill out a brief lineage chart which can be obtained through C.C.H.S., Box 261, Clarkston, or calling Denise Symons, 625-8823. Persons uncertain about details of their ancestors history will be directed to resource information.

Firm Sponsors Motivation

EXTENDED COVERAGE

North Oaks
Insurance Agency

A New York City Girl Scout troop recently held a course for its young members in self-defense and crime prevention. While a big city does present special problems, the safety tips offered these children would be applicable anywhere.

Youngsters should walk tall and remain alert to their surrounds. (Earphones are a hazard because they block out street noises.) It's a good idea to vary one's route from time to time. Travel with friends.

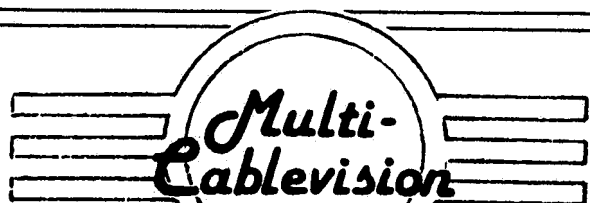

If you must carry money or valuables, don't flaunt them. If you are seriously threatened, don't hesitate to give up belongings; you're more important than they are.

Know these safety "islands": police and fire stations, and local stores. They are good places to run to, if you need help.

Youngsters were taught that they do have options to avoid being victims. When threatened, they have the right to scream or run away, to lie to protect themselves, and to say no to an adult's request or demand.

We've got an eye on your safety at

is the time for the public to force the Michigan legislators to respond to the needs of K-12 education."

Robert R. (Bob) Clark, 9765 Dixie Highway, Clarkston (Springfield Township). Age 55. Wife Barbara. Children Robert, Roger, Randall, Raymond, Russell and Robin. Graduate of Clarkston High School.

"I think we have to explore every avenue to find a better way of funding our schools. Property taxes are not the way to fund the schools," said Clark. "I am not in favor of a millage at this time."

Elaine R. (Keeley) Schultz, Clinton Drive, Independence Township. Age 33. Married with two children. Formerly employed as a secretary for Pontiac Motor Division and the Clarkston Board of Education.

Mrs. Schultz has served as president of the Sashabaw PTO, Treasurer of Clarkston Nursery Inc., and has served on the Steering Committee, Food Advisory Committee and the New Community Education Advisory Council for Clarkston Schools. Also has been a Girl Scout and Campfire leader.

Mrs. Schultz says, "I am running for the school board because I feel a school board member should be a concerned individual who has the time and energy to check into the issues facing the Board of Education and vote accordingly."

I feel the most serious problem facing Michigan's schools is funding. Michigan needs to change its funding of schools. There is too much difference between in formula and out of formula districts.

I feel the most serious problem facing Clarkston Community Schools is loss of credibility with the community. I feel the people do not feel that their concerns and frustrations are being carefully listened to by the school board.

With declining enrollment and declining state aid, I feel we need to reduce the number of central Administrative office positions we have. I feel some of the positions of the Administrative office can be combined to eliminate some of the high-paid positions. By making these reductions, the children would be less affected by the changes.

In building staffs and programs, I would cut areas which are most expensive and benefit the smaller amount of students."

Sara Lou Reabe, 7660 Allen Road, Clarkston. Married to John. Children Kevin, John, Catherine, Thomas and Mary Ann. Educated at Purdue University, Wayne State University and Oakland University. Currently employed as reading specialist for Waterford Schools. Has been endorsed by the Clarkston Education Association. Clarkston resident for 48 years.

Mrs. Reabe says "I am running for the school board because I feel I am a qualified person for the job. I have the time and interest to devote, and after serving in the education field for over thirty years, I understand most aspects of the educational system."

I want to see more and better communication among parents, teachers, administration and the school board. I want to be a voice for the community.

I have a definite interest in the progress and the future of our school system. We should keep the same basic values and not take away from all the children for the sake of a few.

I believe we have too many central administrators. I feel the monies should be spent where it will do the most good - in the classroom.

I suppose during these times we should feel compassion for our fellow man. It is indeed difficult to experience the loss of a business, or worse yet, realizing you have to file bankruptcy. In this awful Michigan business climate, bankruptcy is becoming an every day thing.

Somehow, however, I can't force myself to feel sorry for the big firm that goes broke -- the Grinnel's, the Braniffs, the Wickes Co. There are several major firms that have filed Chapter 11 in the last couple of months in an effort to reorganize and delay payment.

And delay payment they do. Some businesses stay hidden under the Chapter 11 umbrella for several years, all the while turning a tidy profit, without having to pay up their back bills.

No one can fault the relatively new Chapter 11's original intent -- which was to help businesses try to turn their operations around before filing bankruptcy. Unfortunately, many businesses are now using it as a means to hide from the bill collector.

The Reminder, like other small businesses, has had a number of its clients file Chapter 11. It's disheartening and disappointing to hear that the economy has claimed another friend...that is until you're requested by the government to pay back everything that supposed friend paid you before he went bankrupt.

Another quirk in the new bankruptcy law requires businesses who were paid for services rendered to pay back any payments they received just prior to the bankruptcy filing. Imagine finally collecting over $2000 from a delinquent account, only to learn a couple of weeks later they have filed bankruptcy and you are required to pay all the money back.

One friend and fellow publisher had the guts to do what many of us have wanted to try. A national firm had filed bankruptcy on him and he was determined to find a way to get back the thousands they owed.

Thus he went to the furniture store, picked out several pieces, and told the store manager to charge it. Of course my friend had no intention of paying for it. When 60 and then 90 days rolled around, he began to get threatening phone calls and nasty letters about the overdue bill. He has maintained his position, however, even though the issue is now in court. He figures, and I agree, he shouldn't have to pay because the furniture company owes him more money than the furniture he bought is worth.

Everyone at The Reminder would like to congratulate Ron Wagner, our high school sports writer, for the many awards and honors that have been bestowed upon him the last couple of months.

Besides writing about high school sports on a weekly basis, Wagner has excelled scholastically, being named Number 1 in his class (along with Penny Mueller) and winning a University of Michigan Regents Scholarship. In addition he has captured several band and sports accolades.

SMALL TALK

by Rebecca Roberts

Somebody on TV the other day made the observation the evidence that diet books don't work is in the fact that there are so many of them.

For proof he gestured toward a towering babel of books before him on a table each with its own sure-fire way to whittle us down to size.

The man has a point. And it's not just diet books that don't work. All the self-help books aimed at girding up drooping human virtues seem to be failing; and at a cost high not only in cash but in morale.

These books want us to be something we're not. So we strive toward unreachable, impractical selves, never content with the self we have become through experience.

These self-help gurus want to repair us. Maybe we're beyond repair; or in any event, the job is far too complex to be handed over to a stranger. It's as if they believe each person to be a simple mechanism with a short that can be tracked down, errant wires connected and Zap! we all become wonderful. Ah, that it could be so.

Robert J. Ringer made a lot of money with his books on how to get more out of life. One of them called Winning Through Intimidation, I didn't read. The other, Looking Out for #1, I did. It's a bellringer. And to be fair, it has some truths in it. But Ringer takes a good idea too far. His premise is if you look out for yourself, all else will fall into place.

Such a simple idea. It strips the world down to two people: me and you. And since you're busy looking out for yourself, that just leaves me. Great.

Except human beings have a cantankerous habit of not following the script -- be it Ringer's or anybody else's. They're always making things up as they go along, adlibbing. Even when you try like mad to cue them -- they either misunderstand your cue, or ignore it. Which leaves you anxious about what to do next.

So while you're diligently looking out for number one, others assume you're just hard to get along with, and start avoiding you like the plague.

And you're left wondering what went wrong.

These books have a value -- they present an ideal, and if read with the understanding that it is just that -- an ideal to be looked at and learned from, fine. But too many of us are scrambling for book after book to tell us how to be -- whether it be thinness, or cleverness, or aggressiveness, or number-oneness.

Are we now so vacant that just anybody with any hairbrained promise can move right in?

Somebody once said it's the wise person who seeks perfection and the fool who expects to find it.

Chaustowich Deserves Re-Election

Dear Mike,

I don't think any of us have come through the last two or three years without some profound changes in our lives due to the present economic situation. Likewise, with our schools. Yet in spite of these difficulties our present board, I believe, has done a remarkable job of spending our dollars wisely and providing an excellent education for our children. Mary Jane Chaustowich has been part of that team and I believe a very important person in making the tough and important decisions for your children.

Please join me and a lot of her friends in re-electing her to the school board.

Sincerely,

James A. O'Neill, M.D.

Swan Saved

DNR biologists Al Stewart, Tim Payne and Ernie Kafeas rescued a male swan on Woodhull Lake last week, who was dangerously entangled in a webbing of rope, fishing line and lures.

The swan was first noticed by Dave Wilson, Sally and Shiela Flynn, and Robert Potts of the Sheriff's Department. The four were unsuccessful in their attempts to capture the swan.

After calling a number of animal welfare agencies without any luck, they gave Senator Kerry Kammer a ring, and within 20 minutes Stewart was engaging in conversation with the four.

The swan, once freed, returned to its family, which includes a mother and six baby swans.

TRIVIA

by Mike Morrow

An Etiquette Primer

At the last couple of parties I've attended, I've noticed a terrible lack of manners on the part of both guests and hosts.

At first I thought it was just the crowd I hang out with, class is not our middle name. Then last night I attended what could be called a Class A party (don't ask how I got invited, I couldn't believe it either) and found that those people were no better behaved. They just dressed bigger.

To remedy this social misbehavior, I came up with the following list of basic party rules for guest and hosts.

Guests:

1. Always ask your host or hostess before smoking marijuana. If they are non-smokers and unfamiliar with the smell, they may think the carpeting is on fire.
2. Snacks and munchies are for everyone at the party. Please do not hold the vegetable tray on your lap and eat of your favorites before everyone has a shot at them.
3. Sip your drink. No one will take it away from you (this rule applies only to single people).

4. God put ashtrays on Earth for a reason. Do not use the toilet, chip dip, or someone else's drink as an ashtray.

5. Using a host's phone is fine when checking to make sure the kids haven't set fire to the babysitter or for some other emergency, but don't regard a party as a perfect opportunity to catch up with Aunt Bertha in California. Keep the calls brief and local.

Hosts:

1. Make sure you have plenty of ice on hand. Warm drinks do not go down easily but do have the unfortunate effect of coming back up easily.

2. Be realistic. If you put out cute, little handtowels the size of postage stamps, your guests will not use them. Instead they will dry their hands on your bathroom curtains.

3. Always make sure there is soap in the bathroom soap dish. If you find that no one wants to shake hands at the party, go check the soap dish, chances are it's empty.

4. Don't forget the drink mixes. No one will be happy to get to the party and find out all you have is some old prune juice and half of a bottle of Wild Berry Kool-Aid.

5. Put all your breakable and valuable things away. It is not reasonable to expect people engaged in a chug-a-lug contest not to smash into the china cabinet at least once an hour.

Now that I'm done telling everyone how to behave at a party, I have to go. I promised to return that lampshade I was wearing last night to my host and I promised I'd help get my scuff marks off the ceiling.

Movies Now Playing

Chariots of Fire - PG - What can you say about a movie that was named "Best Picture" by the movie industry, except that it's one film you should not miss. It's an account of the trials and tribulations of two British runners preparing for the 1924 Olympics.

Conan, The Barbarian - R - Disjointed story with too much blood and violence makes this $20 million spectacle unworthy of its build-up. Arnold Schwarzenegger stars as the Barbarian. Cast also includes James Earl Jones, Sandahl Bergman and Max Von Sydow.

Dead Men Don't Wear Plaid - PG - Carl Reiner gives us Steve Martin as a wacky 1940's private eye who shares the screen with matinee idols like Humphrey Bogart and James Cagney. If you're a Steve Martin fan, chances are you'll like this movie. If not, well it might be best to save your money.

Death Wish II - R - Charles Bronson finally returns with a sequel to one of his classics. The plot is basically the same as the original Death Wish, only the setting is Los Angeles instead of New York. Loaded with violence.

Hanky Panky - PG - Gene Wilder plays an architect who falls in love with Gilda Radner, while becoming involved in a web of international intrigue. Directed by Sidney Poitier, Hanky Panky is funny at times.

Poltergeist - PG - Steven Spielberg and special effects are synonymous. This time he attempts to scare viewers by conjuring up a restless spirit who terrorizes the family that occupies his home. Unfortunately, Spielberg, at times, gets too caught up in his special effects, and worries too little about the developing plot.

Rocky III - PG - The saga continues. Sylvester Stallone as Rocky, this time is matched against a new opponent in an effort to regain the title he lost. Same plot, same cast of characters is beginning to make a mockery of what was once a great movie.

Star Trek II: The Wrath of Kahn - PG - Early reviews indicate this sequel to be better than Star Trek I. Captain Kirk and crew must do battle with the evil Kahn, ably played by Ricardo Montalban, who is bent on destroying the Universe. Also stars William Shatner, Leonard Nimoy and DeForest Kelley.

ARTESIAN PARTY PACK?

No, just an ingenious way to bring 5.16 gallons (55 glasses) of fresh Olympia draft beer anywhere. We call it the Oly Kegger. Just add ice to the waterproof box, and your Oly will stay cold for hours. And unlike regular beer kegs, there's no deposit, no return. (Reusable tap sold separately.)

The Artesians have nothing to do with the Oly Kegger. Nor do they use the empty boxes to slide down wet grassy inclines on moonless nights.

Meet Your Community Businesspeople:

Candle Factory Has New Owners

Barbara Johns, a Grosse Pointe resident, and Pam Ruggirello, of Royal Oak, have taken over ownership of the Davisburg Candle Factory which has been located in or near Davisburg for over 23 years. For the two women, owning a business together has been something they've wanted to do for a number of months but it wasn't until they spotted an ad announcing the sale of the Candle Factory that they found exactly what they wanted.

"We fell in love with it the minute we walked in," explained Barbara, "It's such a neat place to spend your time. It really is fun."

Indeed, there are many unique features to the Davisburg Candle Factory, which is located in a 125-year-old building at 634 Davisburg Rd. The factory produced hand-dipped tapers, molded candles, and custom-decorated candles for many occasions. The entire second floor of the building houses a retail shop offering a wide assortment of candles, candle accessories and gifts. Featured downstairs is, perhaps, the most popular feature of the factory, the taper production line.

"We plan to run the unique taper production line every Saturday," commented Barbara. "Parents can bring their children and show them how bicycle chains and roller-skate wheels combine to produce quality candles."

Pam and Barbara said they will continue the factory's tradition of hand-crafting candles, promoting group tours, and maintaining quality. They also plan to expand the assortment of gift items which go with candles, and hope to add country crafts.

The two new owners have been friends for a number of years, with both going into their respective fields prior to forming their partnership. Barbara has a retail degree and worked in the merchandising and management department for J.L. Hudsons for four years prior to opening her own promotion company, which was mainly involved in public relations and free lance writing. Pam, who has a bachelors degree in education, worked in the trust accounting department for the National Bank of Detroit. Both of their husbands also work for the National Bank of Detroit.

The two women have been busy rearranging the shop, adding more colors, and their personal touch, in addition to increasing the assortment of offerings. They also gave a candle making demonstration last week at J.L. Hudson's in Detroit. The Davisburg Candle Factory was spotlighted recently on television by Channel 7's Erik Smith, and it has also been added to AAA's Michigan Tour.

Zero Energy + Luxurious Design Spells Excellence

by Mike Wilcox

At a time when house building is not the most lucrative profession, Dick Cascadden, in conjunction with Deer Lake Farms, Owens-Corning and Detroit Edison, decided to build an energy-saving marvel. And if a casual walk through can be any measure, the house is indeed a masterpiece.

Cascadden said he had been kicking around the energy home idea for a couple of years and decided last October, when building was virtually at a standstill to experiment and gain expertise with the concept.

Thus at that time he began building the now complete home. As the architectural design by Mark Postal got around and word of the deluxe energy home spread, Cascadden was approached by Owens-Corning and Detroit Edison to add some of their energy features into the design.

He didn't turn them down.

Energy Home

Cascadden figures the over 3,000 square foot home should have a heating and cooling bill of approximately $520 a year. With gas prices expecting to rise 400 percent by 1990, it's not too difficult to imagine the savings involved.

The energy house features an envelope design. According to Cascadden, "By working a solarium facing due south, air is heated by the sun and convection moves up to the insulated attic and down the hollow north wall to the basement, and then back under the solarium to repeat the process over again."

A carrier water-to-air heat pump is also used to provide heat when necessary. The heat pump which generates heat from well water is the primary source of heating. It is backed up by a gas forced air furnace that would be used when outside temperatures drop below 10 degrees.

One of the features Detroit Edison added was an interruptable air conditioner system. With this system Edison can save homeowners 50 percent on their electric bills if they allow the utility to shut off their air conditioner for twenty minutes at a time during peak energy consumption periods.

Other energy features include:

- *Earth sheltering on the north side.
- *No windows on the north side.
- *Triple glazing on the east and west sides.
- *Solar hot water heater that comes with an approximate $2000 tax credit.
- *Extra insulation - R50 ceilings, R-30 East and West walls and R38 in North wall.

Whirlpool generously bubbles in upstairs bedroom.

*A security lighting system developed by Detroit Edison.

*Outside air intakes in fireplaces.

*Weather-out, an interior storm that stops infiltration and has an extreme R value.

The $239,000 home is more than just an energy home, however. Cascadden has attempted to include the best amenities and craftsmanship available.

Take, for instance, the master bedroom.

The huge 24 x 15 room includes a see-through fireplace, a California teakwood whirlpool bath, a deluxe shower with seat and a large walk-in closet. The second of the four bedrooms has a balcony that overlooks the solarium.

The living room has a beautifully done stone fireplace, again see through, with a conversation pit. The kitchen has a built-in Jenn Aire Range and European plastic laminated cabinets. The house also includes a den with wet bar, a formal dining room with built-in hutch, 2½ baths and a completely insulated 21 x 23 garage.

Cascadden expects the home to sell rather quickly. They have a 12% mortgage available until June 30 and are maintaining regular office hours Monday through Saturday, as well as being open on weekends.

A big grand opening splash is being planned for June 30. By that time all the odds and ends will be completed and the house will be in tip top condition for inspection by the general public.

Cascadden hopes that the grand opening will give people a greater awareness of the new energy features. "Once they have seen this home, many people, hopefully, will consider and incorporate many of the ideas in this home into their new homes," he said.

"And it doesn't mean we have to build an energy home to this size," Cascadden was quick to note. Energy homes can be built to most everyone's size specification. This particular home was built this big because it was located in a luxurious area.

Cascadden says the home has been a success for him. He's learned a lot as well as coming up with a finished product that has received compliments from most everyone who has toured it.

The combination of incorporating the energy ideas and making the house beautiful was a tough task," said Cascadden. "But I think we have met the challenge.

The home is located in Deer Lake Farms in Clarkston. For more information call 625-0777.

McLaughlin, Mueller, Savas Named to Society

The Society of Distinguished American High School Students announced that three students from Clarkston Senior High have been selected as members for 1982.

The Society is one of the most selective high school honoraries in America today. Membership is not only an honor but also an incentive for those exhibiting top performance while in high school. To be accepted, students must have excelled in academics, extracurricular, or civic activities and be nominated by a local sponsor.

Students awarded this honor include: Robert McLaughlin, Penny Mueller and Melissa Savas.

The Students' sponsor, Dom Mauti has been presented a National Appreciation Award from The Society for "the steadfast dedication and untiring contributions made on behalf of the students."

The Society is unique in that it combines the honor of membership with its National Awards Program which earmarks college scholarships for Society members. This scholarship program, now in its fourteenth year, is funded by 104 prestigious American colleges. The Society preserves the student's honor by listing their biographical accomplishments in an annual Membership Registry which is distributed nationally.

Hoskins Promoted

Teddy B. Hoskins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hoskins of 5147 Heath Ave., Clarkston, has been specially identified for early promotion to senior airman in the U.S. Air Force.

The airman was awarded the new rating ahead of other Air Force members by a "below-the-zone" promotion board which considered job performance, military knowledge, bearing and self-improvement efforts.

Hoskins is a missile propellant servicing specialist at Little Rock, Ark., with the 308th Missile Maintenance Squadron.

He is a 1979 graduate of Clarkston High School.

Late Rallying Wolves Sweep Regionals

by Ron Wagner

The Clarkston Baseball team is now one of the sixteen top teams left in the state tournament. They accomplished this by becoming district champions last Saturday. As a warm-up, they played in the Gary tournament over Memorial Day Weekend. On Memorial Day, they played two games against Birmingham Groves and Waterford Mott.

In their first game, they beat Groves 4-3. Mike Harbaugh was the winning pitcher. Mike Howe went 2 for 4 and Adam Kline went 2 for 3. The Wolves lost the second game to Mott 6-1. Bill Turk was credited with the loss in the semi-final game. Rich Schrader hit a double and Mike Dearborn scored the only run. He was hit in by Joel Schrader.

Clarkston played their first game in the state tourney on Wednesday against Rochester. They beat the Falcons 5-1. Mark Piazza pitched a 1-hitter. The team had even, all-around hitting with most of the players getting one hit. A string of hits in the fourth inning that resulted in three runs put the team in front.

Mark Piazza pitched a 3-hitter in the district semi-final on Saturday to beat Waterford Kettering 3-2. Both Howe and Joel Schrader got two hits. The Wolves had to come from behind to win and they got two runs in the bottom of the seventh to do it. Dearborn led off with a walk and Pete Carpentier was sent in to pinch run. Howe followed with a single and Rich Schrader then was walked. With the bases loaded, Joel Schrader hit a single and knocked in the two runs that they needed.

The district final was also a come-from-behind victory for CHS. Joel Schrader was the winning pitcher, coming in in the eighth inning to beat West Bloomfield 5-4. Harbaugh pitched 4 1/3 and Piazza pitched 2 2/3. West Bloomfield was up 3-0 by the bottom of the fourth and Schrader hit a home run to put CHS on the board. Singles by Piazza and Dan Gaulin and a triple by Bill Weeks resulted in two more runs and the game was tied at 3-3. The Lakers added one more in the fifth and it wasn't until the bottom of the seventh that Clarkston tied it up. Rich and Joel Schrader and Piazza all singled to get the tying run.

Bloomfield had runners on second and third with two outs in the top of the eighth when a ground ball was hit to Gaulin at short stop. He threw the runner out at first and it was the Wolves' turn to bat. Gaulin started the team off with a single. Carpentier got on base due to an error and then Rob Mortimore was intentionally walked to load the bases with no outs. Howe became the hero, hitting a sacrifice fly and allowing Gaulin to score the winning run.

The team continues in the state tournament next Saturday at Memorial Field in Royal Oak.

Thinclads Notch Best Ever Score in County Meet

by Ron Wagner

The Clarkston girls track team participated in the Oakland County meet last Thursday. The team scored more points than they ever have and they placed in the top half of the 34 schools that were there. Two girls got all of the individual points for CHS. Ronnie Barnard finished fifth in the 200 dash. Julie Beamer placed second in the 100 low hurdles and first in the 200 low hurdles with a school record of 30.2.

Another school record was broken by the mile relay of Kelley Craig, Sandy Craig, Kris Tisch and Beamer with a time of 4:13.27.

On Saturday, Julie Beamer went to the state meet in Flint to run the 110 low hurdles. She placed fourth in the preliminary heat and got to run in the semi-finals. Unfortunately, she did not place in the semis and could not run in the finals.

POET'S CORNER

Not Just Passing Through

To: James,
Even though I have never said;
"I'm at awe at the beautiful person you have inside you."

The reasons I write this to you is because I find it hard to put my thoughts into words, except on paper.

I write this to you because I want you to know how much I care.

Appreciating each day you stay in my life.
I'm learning so much.
Appreciating the help you have given me in putting my life in the direction I'm wishing it to go.
Learning that the feeling I once had really do still exist.

Hoping I can do as much for you in some way.

SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE REMINDER THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1982 PAGE THIRTY FIVE

Wishing I could photograph each moment
Treasuring all the times we share together
Burying them deep inside of me as beautiful memories.

It's so nice to have someone to share dreams with and even better to watch them grow into reality.

Thank you for not passing through.
