ZONE 2 INDEPENDENCE & SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP

VOLUME 5 NUMBER 41

JULY 1, 1982

Neighbors Complain of Noise, Safety

The Waterford Hills Road Racing Association will come before the Independence Township Board on July 6 to request the granting of a license that would allow them to conduct automobile races on their 1.5 mile course on the grounds of the Oakland County Sportsman's Club.

The Racing Association has been conducting races there for the past 23 years. Their current license runs out July 4th.

What many may think will be a routine matter, however, will not. Neighbors to the track have been protesting for sometime now, about the noise and safety hazards caused by the racing.

They are again expected to be at the July 6 meeting to offer their protest.

Also at that meeting will be Race Association President Jim McIntosh of Brighton, who is expected to present the board with a sound study conducted by a University of Michigan private consultant. The study has been a source of controversy to present the results, but then changed their minds when the Township threatened to withhold the ticense.

In a neighborhood survey conducted by The Reminder, many of the residents near the track were vehemently opposed to the sound and safety problems. However, some of those that live closest to the track have nothing negative to say about the races. In fact, some enjoyed watching the fast cars from their backyards.

One of the track's most vocal opponents is a 25-year resident of the area. He's one of the few people in that area that can say he lived here before the race track was built.

"We met with those people 25 years ago when this junk first started," recalled William Sutterfield, "We tried to work out a respect whatsoever for the people who live here in this subdivision."

He added, "All they do is try to delay taking any action because they figure it will blow over and next year we end up going through the same thing again."

Sutterfield is supported by Robert Vargo, of 4961 Rioview, a three and one-half year resident of the area. Vargo fears for the safety of his one and a half year child, who is not allowed in the backyard when cars are racing.

He also said, "I don't have much confidence in the U of M sound test. That was all amateur drivers that weekend. (The tests were taken on May 9-10). The actual races are quite a bit noisier."

"They (racing association) said they had a good safety record," added Vargo, "but the guy across the street had a tire come through his yard and do $1200-$2000 worth of damage to his house. That kind of scares ma."

That "guy across the street" is Arthur Muro. He has lived at 4928 Sundale since 1975. Three years after he moved in a tire rolled into his home causing considerable damage.

"It was Memorial Day of 1978. The wheel cleared a house across Rioview and hit the corner of our brick house and did $1200 of structural damage, besides scaring the hell out of my wife," said Muro.

Muro questions whether township officials understand the magnitude of the problem.

"Our township board looks on the surface like they are trying. However the supervisor (James Smith) says these people are trying to be good neighbors. They are not neighbors. That's their playground. We live here. The supervisor says they have a lot of money invested. But so do we. These are our homes!"

Mark McCloud said the sound is

The rewards, ranging from $50 to $1,000 each, went to individuals who provided information leading to the arrest and conviction of crimes in the Oakland County area.

HOW CAN I DONATE MY BODY ORGANS TO MEDICINE?

With the increasing success of transplant and organ implant surgery in recent years has come a need for more donors. Hospitals keep lists of their patients who are waiting for a donor of a kidney or a cornea.

There are two organizations which arrange for anatomical gifts. 1. The Eye Bank Association of America, 3195 Maplewood in Winston-Salem, N.C., 29103 and 2. National Kidney Foundation, 116 East 27th St., New York, N.Y., 10016.

There are nearly 100 eye banks in the country who keep records of those awaiting the gift of eyes and those who offer their corneas at time of death. It has become easier to arrange to donate certain organs after one's death. A Uniform Donor Card, drawn up as a legal document, allows you to specify which organs you wish to donate.

If you would like more information on donating organs or would like to know where to obtain a Uniform Donor Card, please call us or stop by.

As funeral directors, we are interested in encouraging this practice. It is a noble act of humanity.

Insurance Agency

Researchers at the University of Southern California studied details of almost a thousand motorcycle accidents to find out how and why they happened, and how they could be avoided.

More than half of motorcycle accidents are caused by motorists, they found. Drivers simply "didn't see" the motorcyclists because they only expect to see vehicles as large as their own cars or larger.

Though the accident-involved bikers had ridden an average of three years, most had had their new machines less than five months, and had not been properly trained in their use. In particular, they lacked braking technique.

In most cases the cyclists were taught by friends or family members, not by a specially trained instructor. More than half did not have a motorcycle license; some didn't even have a regular driver's license.

Parade organizers say floats, clowns, and fire apparatus will be plentiful as well as political hopefuls like Congressman James Dunn, former Congressman Robert Carr and County Executive Dan Murphy.

Musical

Immediately following the parade, the 4th Annual God and Country Musical will begin in the Village Park. According to Ralph Chambers, organizer of the event, about twenty people, dressed in old-fashioned, early American garb, will be singing traditional numbers.

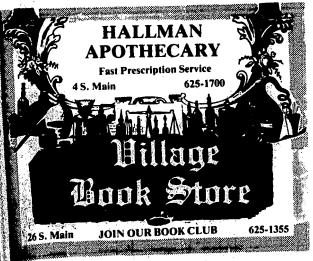

This year the group has put together a 35-minute program that includes 10 sorgs and a dialogue. The dialogue begins when a young girls opens up an old trunk and finds pictures of Clarkston's past. It proceeds when the girl's parents take the pictures to their parents to learn more about their heritage. Later, the great-grandparents are brought in to find out even more information.

An ice cream social is being held in conjunction with the musical. Sponsored by Clarkston Farm and Garden Club and located in the Village Park, the social will feature delicious ice cream and an assortment of baked goods.

We were under the impression that independence's new bike paths on Sashabaw Road were primarily for the safety and wellbeing of adults and youngsters, who chose to walk or ride bikes, rather than travel by auto to locations near their homes.

Needless to say, some youngsters have turned the paths into drag strips, racing their bicycles up and down the asphalt paths, without regard to cars pulling in and out of driveways.

One resident, was so concerned, he called us with tales of too many near misses and worry that someone eventually would get hit and possibly killed.

Now with school out and the new Mc-Donald's in and operating the problem seems to have multiplied.

The new bike paths are indeed a functional and useful addition to the Sashabaw/Maybee area. However, we plead with youngsters and their parents to exercise caution when using the paths. Don't spoil a good thing. Think safety first and leave the drag racing at the BMX track.

Think safety first on new bike paths.

I would be willing to bet that most of you out there are in the same leaky boat I am. The economy has hit you hard and one of the first things cut to keep your head above water was your yearly vacation.

Well, if that's true, take heart, just because you can't afford to go away doesn't mean you have to give up all the fun you would have had on a vacation. I'm going to show you how to simulate a vacation without ever leaving home.

You begin by filling your car with empty pop cans, candy wrappers and torn road maps. Before getting in the car, close your eyes and spin around and around in circles until you're dizzy. Hop into the car while you are still confused and unsure of where you are. This simulates driving on the expressway. Once in the car sit for fourteen hours pretending that you have to go to the bathroom but can't find an off ramp.

If you prefer flying, this is as easily faked. Just jump into the backseat of the car and tape an airsick bag in front of you and hold a little cup of Macadamia nuts in your hand. Don't forget to read the pamphlet on mid-air collisions.

After all that traveling you're ready for your motel. To achieve the motel effect cover your toilet seat with a little strip of paper and put the bathroom glass in a bag that says "Sanitized for your protection" (even though we all know better). After that, break the air conditioner and let everything in the room mildew. When you are done with this, lie on the bed and pretend you are trying not to listen to the honeymoon couple in the next room.

After a poor night's sleep you're ready to do some sightseeing. Hopefully it will be raining so you can really get into the sightseeing mood. To create the sightseeing illusion, tape 'closed' signs on all your windows and pull down the shades, then stand outside in the rain trying in vain to peek in the windows to see what you drove fourteen hours for.

Feels like a real vacation so far, doesn't it? After all this fun and excitement I" bet you're starving, so let's play restaurant. For this one you have to start well in advance of the actual vacation by not cleaning your kitchen for a month. When mealtime comes prepare mediocre food and charge yourself outrageous prices. Don't forget to be rude as you serve yourself.

When you're finally tired of all this fun, hop into your plane (don't forget a three hour delay because a wing fell off) or your car (remember to get hopelessly lost) and come home. Once home don't forget to pretend that the grass grew three feet and the goldfish died.

See, you had all that fun without spending a dime. Stay tuned for our next pretend vacation when we go to Florida and pretend we got sand in our underwear and third degree sunburn.

LET US MAKE YOUR SUMMER MORE ENJOYABLE

by Rebecca Roberts

The human habitat, typically, is the square - the rooms we spend most of our lives in. Our bodies, on the other had, are fluid bioorganisms designed to move over the contours of earth, to exist with the flow of nature.

At Upland Hills Farm School in Oxford, recently the site for their third annual Eco-Fair (read ecological), the human form fits amongst an abundance of grassy slopes, cherry trees, webs of bush and weed, and smell of earth.

At the two-day Fair, people gathered beneath gaily red and white striped awnings to discuss the fate of the world, to share their views of the future. One organization there called the Planetary Initiative, has for its motto "Think globally, act locally:" The world is a vast community and the problems of the world belong to all of us. The problems can be resolved if each within their home community works toward that end.

Not all of the tents served up food for thought. Some had food of the edible kind whole wheat pizza, vegetarian burritos, carrot cake. There were tents with crafts hand-loomed clothing, watercolors, pottery. There was violin music, the sound of poetry, and a feeling, almost palpable, of ideas being carried like spores on the wind.

There was a sense at Upland Hills that hope was a workable wellspring - hope propelled by intelligence and a keenness of spirit translating to action. Some of the issues explored were Nuclear Weapon/the weapons freeze; alternative energy (solar); New Paradigm (pattern) thinking, particularly in Education; food alternatives.

R. Buckminster Fuller, scientist - cum philosopher, is a firm supporter of Upland Hills Farm School, and is on their advisory Board. (The Board also boasts luminaries as Jane Fonda and Tom Hayden.) Fuller authored, among other books, one called Operating Manual for Spaceship Earth (Simon & Schuster), in which he sees earth as a vehicle on which we ride and must depend for our survival.

Believing the triangle to be the strongest geometric unit, he set to work developing structures based on that principle. The result branch-poles stretching twenty feet into the air where they come together in an apex, wigwam fashion.

Dorothy and Knight Webster bought the 240 acre Upland Hills Farm twenty-two years ago and the school was founded eleven years ago. Since its inception, the school has had as its director a young man named Phillip Moore. Some of the philosophies of the school are that 1. education is not a goal to be reached, but rather, learning is a process, a living of life through education; and 2. that each individual has unique integrity, ability and talents, and education should form itself to meet the needs of individuals.

The Fair, which was organized in a cooperative effort between volunteers and school staff was a synthesizing of beliefs belief that the world can be made better by individual effort, a belief that the earth belongs to us is ours to be cared for, preserved; a view of the earth as a whole, pulsating with life, not just a platform on which to build our rooms.

deafening, particularly when the Formula Vee's are racing. "When I bought this house I was told that race track was for small little cars. First thing come Spring when the Formula Vee's took the track, I woke up fast-They would blow any decibel meter," claimed McCloud.

Robert Hall, one of the chief instigators of the drive to get concessions from the racing association said the sound does not have to be as loud as it is.

"They have had vehicles over there with mufflers on them that are as quiet as my vehicle...as quiet as your bicycle," said Hall.

Although sound and safety were the primary objections heard, some residents complained about debris inside and out of the track.

"We have asked that they pick up the trash around the track, but it hasn't been done at all from what we can see," said Carolyn Goyette. "I recognize they are not necessarily leaving it. There may be transients coming through and dumping it. But it is their property, and it is their tendency to leave it out there."

Bonnie Clift is one of a handful of homeowners whose property butts right up to the track. From her backyard she has a better view than most paid spectators.

"I enjoy it," she said. "It's only on the weekends. It's not during the winter. The rest of the time it's just a serene field with no neighbors looking in the backyard. Plus we can see a half or more of the race track and we enjoy having people over to watch the races."

Neighbor Edward Oxley, a ten year resident, agreed. "It doesn't bother us nor have we ever had anybody over here that it's bothered. The track's one of the reasons we bought our house...there couldn't be any houses built behind us."

Echoing those sentiments was Lloyd Turner. "There's no problem with the sound. And safety-wise, 95 percent of the cars don't come within 12-15 feet of the fence."

Another neighbor whose backyard borders the track, said safety is a top priority of every driver.

"I drove race cars for 13 years," said Kenneth Bruske of 4801 Rioview, "and the utmost thing in every race car driver's mind is safety. Most of the cars that run on that race track are probably safer than the cars we drive down the street."

Bruske concluded, "I don't want to see them driven out. They have a right to be there if they put the proper mufflers on the cars." The Waterford Hill Road Racing Association admits there are sound problems at the track. But they say they are doing all they can to muffle the sound. They also claim residents need not worry about safety because their record is exemplary.

One of the racing association officials, Joe Prato, said the racing association has been working for several years in an effort to drop the noise level.

Prato, who was director of racing in 1981 and race coordinator in 1980 said, "When I first started five years ago it was 102 decibels. Now we run about 95. Standard noise level for all race tracks is 105," he said.

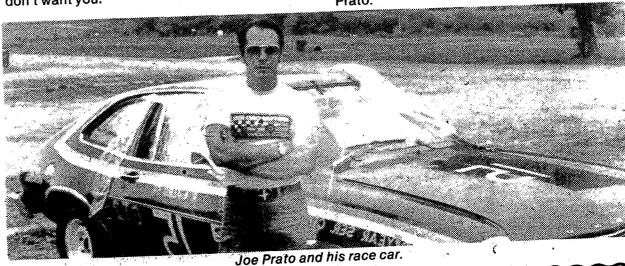

Prato added, "Up there from the tower we tell the people number one you don't run without a muffler. You run without a muffler and you might as well put it back on the trailer and head back home, because we don't want you."

Saftey-wise, Prato claims the track "can't get much safer. In 23 years nobody has ever gotten hurt out there. There has been two incidents in which tires left the car. One went over the fence and hit a house. The other one came off and hit the fence on our side."

Track officials have been talking about constructing an earth berm along the portion of the track that butts up to Rioview. The berm would be designed to cut down on the noise level as well as be an additional safety factor.

Many of the residents are all in favor of the berm, but Prato issued a warning.

"Until we get this set we are not going to spend one more dollar of our money until we know where we are headed. It's that simple. We are not going to put money down the drain. We want to work with the people. We are willing to put up the berm, but you're talking about a lot of money," concluded Prato.

Gubernatorial Candidate Headlee Talks in Davisburg

by Mike Wilcox

7069 DIXIE HWY. CLARKSTON

Richard Headlee, candidate for Governor, strode into Davisburg last week to speak to a gathering of fifty people at Springfield Township Clerk J. Calvin Walters' home on Ormond Road.

Headlee, a Republican and President of Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Company in Farmington as well as father to nine children, charmed the audience with his quick wit and poetic recall.

•"I'm the only guy running who is not in government. I'm the only guy running who will take a salary cut as Governor."

•"I want to reduce the size of government by 15-20 percent in the next four years. As we reduce the size of government, all that money should be focused on property tax relief and K-12 education. On the other hand, I think you have to have teacher competency tests and tenure reviews. I think you outta demand that education be run better.'

 "The same ones I beat in 1978 with the Headlee Amendment, we are going to beat this year -- Coleman Young, the Michigan Education Association, the liberal elements in the Republican and Democratic parties."

"I'm opposed to capital punishment. I don't think you should let a guy like Hinckley off. You should throw him in jail and throw away the key. 1000 have been given capital punishment in the last few years and only four have died. It's too expensive. The lawyers love it.'

Cable Hearing Announced

The Independence Township Cable Television Task Force has scheduled Tuesday, July 27, at 7 p.m. for a public hearing at which Telecommunications, Concord Multi-Cablevision and Omnicom of Michigan, Inc., which have submitted proposals for cable television for the Village of Clarkston and the Township of Independence, will make public presentations and answer questions regarding their proposals. The hearing will be held at the Independence Township

Residents of the Village and Township are welcome to attend and voice their views and preferences. The Task Force encourages written comments from all groups in the community which will be affected by the award of a cable television franchise.

Copies of each company's proposals and the analysis prepared by the Task Force are available for inspection at the Township Hall.

Following the hearing, the Task Force will select the company which it will recommend to the Village Council and the Independence Township Board be awarded the cable television franchise.

Further information may be obtained from James B. Smith, Independence Township Supervisor. by Mike Wilcox

NOTE: This is the second story about the cable companies interested in winning the Independence Township franchise. Multi-Cablevision and its owner Gilbert Clark were profiled in June.

Of the three companies seeking Independence Township's cable television franchise Omnicom/Capital Cities is the largest and has the best track record.

That according to Bill Marx, the man in charge of attempting to acquire the Independence franchise for Capital Cities and Jack Coury, his public relations agent, is mighty important.

We are the only company up here that has actually put in a system (Concord is in the process of laying cable in Oxford)," claimed Marx. "We have the financial ability to build the system that is required.' Marx and Coury, who live in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, spend two or three days a week in the Clarkston area, in an effort to promote Omnicom. They talk to civic leaders, businessmen and others who cross their path about the capabilities of cable and what Omnicom can do to bring the community together.

Bringing the community together is what Coury expects Omnicom to do first and foremost. He claimed high school sports, Historical Society programs and Pine Knob concerts could all be a part of Omnicom's cable offerings.

'We would be providing a total entertainment and communications system designed specifically for Independence Township and Clarkston," explained Coury. "It can bring the community together. It can keep them entertained, but also develop education and it's no secret that large sums of money can be made in cable TV, and the three companies vying for the independence franchise are competing flercely.

Multi-Cablevision has opened up an office in downtown Clarkston and runs advertisements in The Reminder and Clarkston

Of the office, Marx said, "We're not going to go out and open up a $200 a month office. That really hurts him (Clark). We're talking about spending millions of dollars."

Marx couldn't resist jabbing at Multi-Cablevision's proposal to cover 100 percent of the township, either.

"If we're not going to build every home here, nobody's going to do it...it would be suicide," said Marx.

In other words, some portions of the township do not have enough homes per square mile to warrant the great expense of running cable to those portions, according to Marx.

Plymouth-Canton Township areas. So why are they bothering with independence's small franchise?

"We select what we would like to bid. We pick the ones that have the type of community that we would like to be involved in," said Marx.

Part of that criteria is growth potential and Marx, like others, sees Clarkston growing rapidly once the economy gets rolling again.

In comparing the rate structures in the three proposals, Omnicom's base rate is

For that Marx offers no apologies. "We're never the cheapest. What we tell you is what we charge you. We don't go crying to City-Hall saying we need two dollars more."

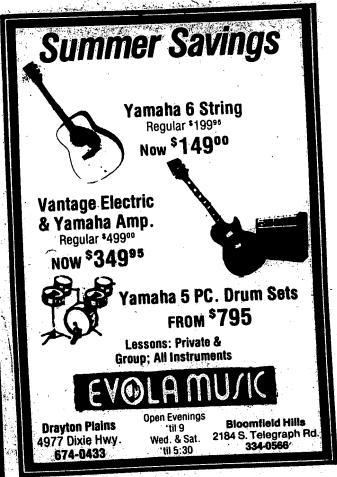

Marx also pointed out that Omnicom's rate. was a flat $9.95. Multi-Cablevision and Concern had two tiered rates, one for a basic service and another for additional channels.

Marx is not bashful about Omnicom's pluses. He thinks independence officials would be making a grave mistake, if they were to choose anyone other than Omnicom.

But that decision is a long, long way away; and Marx and Coury as well as Multi-Cablevision and Concord will be putting their best "feet forward" until that time comes.

North Oaks Offers New

"Directed Life Insurance"

North Oaks Insurance Associates of downtown Clarkston recently established a life insurance department and have named Clarkston resident and long-time insurance specialist Jerry Greetham to head it.

Greetham, who is a member of the National Association of Securities Dealers is emphasizing a new form of life insurance called directed life. Directed life, which is offered by the Monarch Life Insurance Company, allows policy owners to "direct where his or her cash values will be invested among any of five special mutual funds ranging from money market instruments to growth stocks," explained Greetham.

Although performance of the funds are not guaranteed, said Greetham, the amount of life insurance is guaranteed to double at the end of the tenth year without any change in premium. Furthermore, investment successes are not taxed while the policy is in force and the total death benefit is received income tax free by the beneficiary. Both claims have to be verified to Monarch by the Internal Revenue Service.

To illustrate the possibility, Monarch's tables show that a 30 year old person who began investing $21,000 a year or $175 a month in a Directed Life policy, would get $100,000 of permanent insurance for the first ten years, and double that amount with no increase in premium thereafter. By age 65, if the funds invested by Merrill Lynch continue to earn 12 percent interest, the policy would yield a total death benefit of $761,365 of which $436,061 would be cash value.

A regular whole life policy by Monarch for $1,000,000 of coverage would cost $1,886.00 per year. At age 65 the total death benefit would be $198,300 of which $130,000 would be cash value on dividends.

North Oaks Associates is located at 3 East Washington Street in Clarkston. Hours are 9-5, five days a week.

tions of the school are under the direction of Thomas E. Bailey.

Acting awards were presented to Ann Christenson, Rob Cogswell, and Bob Spicuzza of Clarkston; Steve Immel of Oxford; Linda Mah of Pontiac; Mike Heft of West Bloomfield, Bryan Born of Waterford and Peggy Fitzgerald of Drayton Plains.

Announcing a new financial concept: life insurance geared to money market returns

... or 4 other Portfolios you can select

Be prepared to change your thinking about traditional life insurance. With Directed Life" you can allocate your policy values among a money market and four other portfolios in the Merrill Lynch Series Fund.

Your policy values participate in the investment results of these portfolios, and favorable results are reflected in potentially higher insurance protection and cash values.

The face amount of the insurance protection is guaranteed, and automatically doubles in ten years (age 25 for policies issued below age 15) without any increase in your premium. Depending on the policy's investment return, your insurance protection can go up or down, but it can never go below the amount guaranteed in your policy.

The cash value also can increase or decrease, depending on the investment results, and is not guaranteed in amount.

And just look at these tax features: there's no income tax on the death benefit, no matter how much it may increase, and you pay no taxes on any yearly increase in cash value unless and until you surrender the policy for its cash value.

Directed Life is a Variable Life Insurance policy (form $5750).
