Farmer Groups Sponsor Meeting

Dr. Mumford to Speak this Afternoon

Several hundred farmers are expected to attend the farm meeting to be held this afternoon at the Grange Hall, Clarkston, and sponsored jointly by the Farm Bureau, the Grange, and various farmers' clubs and organizations throughout the county.

Dr. Eben Mumford of the sociology department of Michigan State College, will be the speaker of the day. His topic will have a direct bearing on the farmer's problems and will be of interest to every farmer.

This meeting is open to all farmers. It is the first sponsored jointly by the several farm organizations and rural home clubs of the county. The Grange Hall has recently been entirely redecorated and is in readiness for the meeting.

Group Arranges Patriotic Banquet

Members of the Baptist Ladies Auxiliary have announced that they have made definite plans for a patriotic banquet, on February 3, to be given in place of the regular February supper. Details of the banquet have not been definitely completed, but it is announced as a combined Lincoln and Washington banquet.

These plans were made and discussed at a meeting of the Auxiliary of the Church last Friday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Ira A. Jones. Further announcements will be made in the near future.

Prank Astonishes Mother and Officers

On Wednesday of last week Earl Walter left his home early in the evening and went to the home of his mother, Mrs. Laura Walter, to visit with her. Not finding her at home, he left a calling card that not only frightened his mother upon her return, but astonished officers and neighbors who rushed to the scene.

Walter took a blanket and some pillows and bunched them together in such manner as to make the form of a human being. He took a sewing basket and inverted it on top of the bulk form for the head and draped a shawl over the head and body. He lit a very dim lamp and placed it on the table near the form, which was close enough to the table to reveal only the top part.

Mrs. Walter returned from a visit at the Cooley residence. Opening the door, she at once saw the form, which, at a glance, resembled a person so well that she ran back to the Cooley house, much frightened. Deputy Sheriff Ed Seeterlin was called and with his son, Richard, responded at once, armed.

Quite a crowd gathered about the place, and the Deputy and several of the men entered in search of a prowler. They went in the opposite door, so did not at once see the dummy, and began to search the house. When the men discovered the figure, it appeared real enough for them to poke it and ask it to get up.

D. P. Home Demonstration Club

The Drayton Plains Home Demonstration Club held its third annual meeting Friday, January 8th, in the church parlors, with nine members and three visitors present to answer roll call.

A business meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mrs. Adam Solonon, after which the leaders, Mrs. Robert Sitts, and Mrs. Frank Jones, took charge of the meeting, presenting the third lesson on "Fitting a Dress."

At noon the meeting adjourned to a pot luck luncheon with Mrs. Sitts, Mrs. Jones, and Mrs. Duan as hostesses. After luncheon the leaders continued with the lesson. Due to so much sickness the club did not meet in December and quite a few members of the club still remained absent at this meeting. The club planned to hold its next meeting the first Friday in February.

Mr. Carson took his general science class to the State Hospital in Pontiac, Wednesday morning, where they were taken through the new steam plant and the dairy.

Seymour Lake

The Ladies Aid served a chop suey dinner Wednesday at the community house. Several donations for the building have been received and include a library table and leather chair from the Allen Furniture Store of Orion, a large teakettle from the Tunnard Hardware store of Oxford, and a kitchen sink from Edward Porritt, of Clarkston. The sink was installed Tuesday morning. A formal opening of the community house is being planned for January 26. An all day gathering will be held with dinner at noon and program in the afternoon.

Ladies' Play Night To be Inaugurated

A ladies' play night for all the women of the community is to be held each week at the Clarkston High School gymnasium. The group will convene at 8:30 every Monday night, following the girls' basket ball practice.

The first meeting was held last Monday evening in the gymnasium and 15 were present. The group met impromptu, and did not have time to advertise it widely. The meeting next Monday evening, however, is expected to bring a large group. This play night is not only for the young girls, but also for the women of all ages of the community, who desire physical exercise and play. It is a community project and is expected to be well attended.

Mrs. Dorothy Huttenlocher is arranging the play night with the women and the fee will be announced in the near future. Each person must be equipped with gym shoes in order to play.

The group meets following the girls' practice in order to save fuel and thus cut down the expense of the night. At the first meeting, basket ball and volleyball were played. It is intended that indoor baseball and other possible sports be added to the list. The group is not organized as yet, but it is expected teams will be formed and competition started to make the nights full of fun as well as exercise.

Five Narrowly Escape Serious Injury Sunday

John Shaughnessy and his four children narrowly escaped serious injury Sunday morning when another car skidded and smashed into their car. The accident occurred at Drayton Plains as the Shaughnessys were on their way to church at Pontiac.

Shaughnessy was driving along the Dixie at a normal rate of speed when the car ahead of him skidded, meaning all over the road and came to a stop only after a severe impact with the Shaughnessy car. The collision turned their car completely around and smashed all one side. The wind-blown side of the impact were broken in small bits and flying glass gave the children a few minor cuts. Shaughnessy escaped with no injury.

In addition to the broken glass the car suffered damage to the running board, fenders and doors on that side. The other car received no damage.

Clarkston Car-Skids On Icy Road

Homer Lowrie and his children escaped injury when their car was overturned on the Andersonville road Monday morning when Mr. Lowrie was taking the children to school.

The roads were very icy and the car slid off the edge of the gravel, up setting the car and turning it over on the side. No one was hurt and the accident was not serious. The car was undamaged, except for a ripped part in the top. With aid, Lowrie got the car back up on the road and continued on his way.

Molter-Marsh Marriage Announced

Ceremony Last August in Davenport, Iowa

At a prettily appointed ceremony in the "Little Bit of Heaven" chapel in Davenport, Iowa, August 27, 1931, Mary Elizabeth Molter and Dr. Clayton E. Marsh were united in marriage by Father Donahue of that city. The ceremony was performed before the altar of the chapel at twilight. Doctor and Mrs. Walter Stoener, Missouri, attended the bridal couple as best man and matron of honor.

The couple left Clarkston to attend the annual Chiropractic Lyceum and post-graduate courses at the Palmer School of Chiropractic at Davenport on August 21, and returned September 1. On the return trip Dr. Marsh and his bride were guests at the homes of relatives in Indiana and Illinois.

Mary Molter Marsh is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Molter, who have made their home in Clarkston for the past 11 years. Mrs. Marsh attended the Clarkston schools and completed her studies in comptometry and general business at the school in connection with the Oakland Motor Car Company, Pontiac. She was employed in the payroll department of that company until she came to Clarkston to take up her work as bookkeeper and stenographer with Seeterlin Brothers, Inc., two and one-half years ago.

Clayton E. Marsh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Marsh, of Orchard Crest Farm, Route 2, Holly. He attended schools in Pontiac and was graduated from the Ferris Institute of Pharmacy at Big Rapids, Michigan. For a time Marsh did pharmacy work until he decided to take up the chiropractic profession. He studied at the Palmer School of Chiropractic, at Davenport, Iowa, from which he was graduated in August, 1929.

While at the school, Dr. Marsh was elected to membership of Delta Sigma Chi, his own orchestra under the banner of Delta Sigma Chi. The orchestra was on the air for the WHO-WOC network and for KTNM, Muscatine, Iowa.

Since his return to Michigan, Dr. Marsh conducts his own orchestra here, under the name of the Michigan Ramblers.

Dr. Marsh opened an office for Chiropractic Service in Ortonville in September, 1929, and in Clarkston in December of the same year.

The couple will make their home in Clarkston.

Buy at Home

The other day I overheard a conversation that ran something like this:
"Are you buying this article here?"
"No, I should say not. We are driving down to Flint this afternoon to buy a lot of these things. Why, I can save two and three cents on each article if I buy there. If I buy one certain thing we use, I can save eight cents."

"Yes, I guess I'll go to Flint and buy some things, too."
And we suppose they went to Flint, made some purchases and returned very much elated over the "penny here and penny there" that they had saved.

Saved? Perhaps. But we rather think not.

Say a person wished ten articles, with the average saving of three cents per article. Thirty cents saved. It took twenty miles to Flint and twenty miles back. Anyone knows that one cannot drive at less than four cents per mile. Forty miles at four cents per mile is one dollar and sixty cents. ONE DOLLAR AND SIXTY CENTS TO SAVE THIRTY CENTS. One could make ten purchases that would save him sixteen cents per purchase and at that rate and still be out money. Time is worth money. It takes time to travel to any other town and buy. Shoe leather costs money. It takes more shoe leather to travel about Flint, or any other larger town to buy things than it does to use the phone at home or to walk through a block of stores rather than fur or five blocks. It's like stepping over a dollar to pick up a dime.

I can hear you sizzling inside with the great desire to say that you can't get what you want at home. Now this is my point. BUY WHAT YOU CAN AT HOME, and there will not be a great deal left on your list. TRY to get it here. Our merchants have many of the things you wish, and will get many more of them for you if you ask.

Take your money to Flint and then come home, hollering about not getting this improvement or that done. Take your money to another city and then come home bragging about your purchases. Our local merchants are our best citizens and friends. They live here; they support our local enterprises and entertainments. They keep their stores clean and well-stocked for YOU.

A community cannot thrive unless we support it. Buying at home is a part and parcel of supporting it. We are proud of our locality. We point to it with pride and fervor and say "That is my home." But you or anyone else have no right to point to it with pride unless you are doing your bit to make it grow; to keep the money at home for our own needs, to see to it that our community is prosperous. To buy at home is THE way in which you can help accomplish these things. Keep our merchants on the upward trail and they will see to it that our community is on that same path. BUY AT HOME.

Waterford

Mrs. Floyd Barkham of Waterford Center visited her sister, Mrs. John Miller, last Tuesday.

Mrs. Lillian Norton spent last Wednesday with Mrs. Narnin of Pontiac. Lyman Girst and his employees have almost finished the new road in Mountain View Park, which runs behind the cottages. The old road ran along the lake in front of the cottages and will in time become part of the lots owned by the cottagers. Much excavating has been done with several fills along the lake. Many trees had to be cut for new right of way, which will give a fine appearance to the lake.

Pictures of the Deer Hunter

By Millard J. Perry
Did you ever have a cabin Just to suit your fondest dream, Nestled in some shady nook On the banks of a babbling stream.

One of those spots in God's creation Where there's not a thing undone, Not even a leaf seems out of place, This spot needs every one.

Where you go to rest at evening, With some pals you always knew I mean you try to rest— Sometimes you really do.

After a certain amount of fun, And the biggest yarn has been told, You get some sleep at last If the cabin's not too old.

When it's five o'clock in the morning, You will know it without a doubt, Because, if you're not a-moving, Someone will roll you out.

After a good old-fashioned breakfast, Come the trials of the day; Testing your wits with those of the buck, And he has the edge his way.

It doesn't make much difference, Whether you're an amateur or not, You're trying to out-guess professional, And they are a gamey lot.

They are creatures of the woods, Blessed by nature's touch; And if there's anything lacking, Well, it isn't very much.

After you've exhausted all your knowledge, After about a week of this ordeal, And you begin to think you can't get one, Oh, I know just how you feel.

About the time you're giving up the struggle, And the last ray of hope is leaving, You see a flag and it's a buck, You think your eyes are deceiving.

And your heart begins to thump, Your hands begin to shake, You're looking through the sights once more, Maybe another score to make.

It seems minutes you are in this pose, But it's only a second, you know, And if you're lucky you'll get him, If not you aimed too high or low.

But when you make this score, Accomplished this fond dream, You live it over and over, You never can forget that scene.

These are the stories and pictures, That make a sporting page look swell; The ones that live forever— Those my father likes to tell.

The Men on the Dead Man's Chest

The Turner case evidently had been folded up and filed away. Stanton wrote to Mr. Darling and to the young Mr. Turner.

The old gentleman in his reply said he had not received a letter from Roberts and did not as yet know where to send his December check. He presumed that in good time he would be informed.

In a few weeks more the routine of police work had put the Turner case even further in the background, although Stanton expected that some day in some fashion some phase of the affair would recur.

The recurrence came with a telephone call the afternoon of January 7, getting the lieutenant at his desk. It was a woman's voice, and she, finding that she was talking to the lieutenant, gave the impression of being uncertain how best to get what she wanted to say.

"I am about to ask you to call on me," was what she did say after the instant of hesitation. "Yes," said the lieutenant.

"I am at the Drake," she said. "My room is eight-eighteen." "Why do you want to see me?" Stanton asked.

"I am Mrs. Arthur Trembley," she said. "I am Maise. It is in that connection." "I see," said the lieutenant. "When do you want me to call?" "Now, if you can," "I can."

He called the captain's chauffeur and was driven to the hotel. A development with its origin in a volunteer appearance of Maise gave his imagination a lively turn.

At his ring of the bell the door was opened by a handsome woman of early middle age. "Lieutenant Stanton? Come in. Take off your overcoat. That chair by the table is comfortable. There are cigarettes at your side."

She lighted one herself. "As I told you, I am Maise. That partly explains itself to you, I imagine." "Partly," said the lieutenant. "Enough to bring me here in a hurry. I've a good many things to ask you. You're a long-overdue person."

"I suppose, but I have some things I want to tell you first." Stanton, looking at her, thought he saw a woman of good mind and experience. The freshness of her good looks had passed, but she had not tried to reclaim it with cosmetics. Consequently she still was good-looking.

"Why did you write that letter to Clayton?" Stanton asked. "I didn't," said Maise, "and that's the beginning of my deciding to talk to you. My late husband, Arthur Buck Trembley, wrote that letter. Arthur's only period in the penitentiary was for not writing another person's signature quite well enough. It taught him to do it better when he did it at all. It was too good for poor Dunn. I couldn't be sure from reading the newspapers whether you had the pleasure of meeting Buck that night."

"I did," said Stanton. "He gave me the narrative of what happened." "Smooth, didn't you think?" "Very. Did he shoot Dunn?" "I never knew," she said. "I think not. He put him there. He had some one to do the rest. What do you think?"

"I'll never be certain. I knew Dunn. He didn't need much of a chance, but I guess he wasn't given even that." "No, he wasn't. They used me and Dunn's affection for me to kill him. He was the only square one in the outfit. He was the only one Turner had no business including in the will. Dunn and I were on the square. He was square, and I had to be. He would come to me anywhere if he got a note like that and believed it was from me. He probably thought I needed him. When Buck came in Dunn could suspect almost anything, except probably that I had not written the note. I'll not believe he could have thought that I had betrayed him. I'll not believe it. I suppose he sat there quietly awaiting the next move and planning his own. He had no chance."

"Your husband," said Stanton. "Buck. It wasn't jealousy?" "Not a chance. He was one of two people who knew I hadn't written the letter. I was the other."

"But his trick got a rise." "He knew it would, but he knew Dunn was square. And jealous? Stanton, if I could laugh I would. My tender Buck was not of a jealous nature. I don't know why he didn't fall me to chase myself and get a divorce. And I don't know why I didn't do it without being told. Still we got along. You know. It was what they call respectable. An old hen would rather be in out of the rain when you're thirty-five years looking at the sunset. Most women think they are before that. No, it was this will. I'll tell you what it was. It was a panic."

"Is Ashley in town?" the lieutenant asked. "Yes, dear little Howard himself." "And Blair?" "That I don't know. I'd presume so if Roberts were alive, but with him dead I can't tell. Howard will tell me."

"They got Roberts?" the lieutenant exclaimed. "I thought he'd get clear for a time at least." "I suppose they got him. All I know is that when Ashley telegraphed me to come to Chicago he said that Roberts had died in San Francisco. How could I know? It might have been heart disease, an automobile or something else. It didn't make any noise, did it? No police staff?"

"Nothing," said the lieutenant. "You see, this has been a panic from the beginning. You know what I mean. Like people smelling smoke in a theater and sitting there wondering if they can trust one another not to break for the exit. Then all of a sudden they all break because each thinks the other is going to. You understand what I mean? A panic. These fellows could have gone along with what they had, thirty thousand isn't so bad, but they couldn't trust one another, none except Dunn Clayton. He was the white man. He was also the most dangerous one. That's why he was the first to go when the instinct of self-preservation got to working. A panic, and Blair and Buck got the jump on the others."

"Did your husband talk to you about it?" Stanton asked. "Not in so many words. He didn't say he was going hunting for them. He harped on what the others were likely to do. Either nervous or alibiing himself. Talked about getting away to some out-of-the-way place in Europe where the mere appearance of any of the other five would make a case of self-defense if you shot him on sight. I could see Buck living in an out-of-the-way place in Europe. And I told him if he was going to kill anyone in that kind of self-defense he'd better do his stuff in the United States, where they understood it. Imagine the gendarme patting a boy on the back who had just popped off an innocent visitor in their midst. Buck decided to be true to his own institutions."

"You and Buck were not living in Chicago?" "Oh, my lord, no. In New York. We knew Dunn was here. It was Buck's excuse that he had to see some men here and then we'd go on to Miami. He knew Brown fished and hunted from the Lac Vieux Desert lodge."

"The other three were in Europe?" "They were not. They had been, but they had come back to New York. That's what started the panic." "In September?" "Lord, no. Back in mid-August."

"I'm too credulous," said the lieutenant. "I'm childlike." "Maybe," said the lady. "Any one who believed any of them, except Dunn, on anything, would be. Buck had me completely deceived in coming out here. You can see plainly afterward, but I didn't know then that the panic was on. Dunn, of course, didn't know that it was, but the others always were afraid of him. I suppose the plot in their minds was this: If Dunn Clayton saw that it was winners take all and coffin for the losers, they were all gone. Blair and Ashley must have had the same idea. They followed us out here. We weren't hard to find. We were registered at the Sherman. What was the night Dunn was killed? Saturday, wasn't it?"

"September 20," said the lieutenant. "Well, call it Saturday or Sunday morning. It was about one o'clock when the telephone in my room rang, and it was Blair calling. He asked if he could come up. I said certainly not. He said it was important. I'd better see him at the door anyway. It was about Dunn, he said. Something scared me. You know how a quality gets into the voice. I told him to come up. When I opened the door he stood in the hall and said that Dunn had been killed in the Dutch Mill. He didn't need then to tell me Buck had been there. He said Buck had been held by the police for a while and then had gone away."

"That's where I was taking a hand without knowing what I was doing," said the lieutenant. "Well, I guess it didn't make much difference, except mix the sequences a little." "Blair said that Buck had killed Dunn and wanted to know where he had gone. He'd made a getaway, Blair said, and he wanted to know where I was to John Buck. Well, he had killed Dunn. I didn't know then that what Dunn thought was a letter from me had brought him there. I guess that wasn't necessary. Blair was looking eagerly at me. I didn't really know if Buck had gone anywhere, but I thought of Preston Brown at Lac Vieux Desert. Try Lac Vieux Desert. I told him. Brown's there, I said, and Buck may go there."

"That's what I wanted to tell you," she continued. "You may have known something of it, but I sent Blair to Lac Vieux Desert, and I wanted him, if he could, to kill Buck. I didn't know that he would find him. If the panic was on I knew the one I wanted killed after what had happened at the Dutch Mill. You'll ask why I'm telling this now. That's what you're thinking."

"Not primarily," said Stanton. "I wouldn't ask you because I'd be fairly sure you would tell without being asked. In my way I do a lot of guessing. My guess would be that Blair succeeded trembly with you and that he has tried to break with you."

"I suppose that would be simple to understand," she said bitterly. "And I guess you are right. I sat in the hotel looking at myself and there wasn't much to see. Not exactly broke, but the next thing to it. Buck on his way, alive or dead, so far as I was concerned. I certainly would never live with a man after I had put a bullet on his track. I'm not that low. Dunn was dead. My prospects weren't cheery. Blair came back. He looked like a pal to me, I was that despondent. There's a great deal of attraction about Blair. For some women he's irresistible. I've got some self-control, maybe. He has manners when he wants to use them. He said Brown was dead. He smiled when I asked him about Buck. You know Buck's finish. "I went with Blair. We went back to New York. I thought maybe the panic would be over. There was only Roberts, Ashley and Blair left. Roberts wouldn't hurt anyone. Ashley and Blair seemed to like each other. The three of them had sixty thousand each. That was too much for Blair and Ashley. It gave them what they needed, but didn't give them anything to do. They needed to get it by going after it. That's their nature. There never was enough action in gambling for them, not enough to interest them for any time. Ashley occasionally liked to show the professionals a few tricks, but it didn't satisfy him. When the stories of the Turner will and of Clayton, Buck and Brown were printed it amused them, but I believe it set them after Roberts and they knew, I guess, if they got him, they'd have to fight it out between themselves. "As you know, I am getting even with Blair. I've told you what I know. You have nothing on Ashley, but maybe you can get something on Blair. I sent him to Lac Vieux. You know what happened up there." "I'm afraid there's still no case," said Stanton. "We know the story, but there's no proof. Blair's lawyers would laugh at us. But there's Roberts. Now, if he's dead, how was it done? There may be something." "I'll know tonight," she said. "If you want me to I'll plant Ashley where you can hear the story he tells." "Thanks," said the lieutenant, "that won't be necessary." The telephone bell rang. Maise looked at the lieutenant. "There's no one that can possibly be bgt Ashley," she said. She went to the telephone. "Yes," she said, taking the receiver. "Yes, All right. Come up." "Shall I leave you?" Stanton asked. "No," she said. "Stay here. Ashley's a sociable creature. He'll be glad to find company."

CHAPTER XII

The Death of Roberts
At a ring of the bell Maise opened the door to Ashley and to a boy with ice water.

"Hello, sister," said Ashley, laughing. "How's the old girl? You look like a rose in June. Time hasn't a chance with you, hasn't a chance." Ashley had entered the room and closed the door when he saw that Maise had a caller.

"How do you do," he said, and then perceived that it was Lieutenant Stanton. His astonishment was only for an instant, his composure being reliable.

"Hello, Lieutenant," he said. "You've found Maise, I see. You police devils! I'm beginning to be afraid of you. If a fellow didn't stay right and inside Hullo, Lieutenant, he said. "You've found Maise, I see." the law I believe he'd get into trouble. And Maise's found a new boy friend and a big boy in blue. I've always been thankful for a clear conscience."

His glance at her was fittingly malevolent, but he laughed. "All right, Maise. I certainly walked into whatever was waiting for me. How did you get hold of her, Stanton?" "I turned myself in, Howard. I asked the lieutenant to call. I wanted to talk to him."

"Fair enough. I know of my own knowledge that he's been wanting to talk to you ever since he had the pleasure of knowing about the rest of us. It's all right, Maise. We're all clean, clear and aboveboard. There's never been a time the lieutenant couldn't come right in and sit down. Always been glad to see him, haven't we, Lieutenant? We could have a drink or two, try to help one another out, talk things over and part friends. That's right, isn't it, Lieutenant?"

"Mrs. Trembley tells me Roberts is dead," said Stanton.

"That's true, Lieutenant. Unfortunately, that's true. Ron passed out in San Francisco just before he was to have taken the boat. He had planned to go into the Far East. You may have known."

"Tell me how he happened to die," said the lieutenant. "He was in excellent health the last time I saw him."

"He was in excellent health up to the last minute," said Ashley, "though he was fluttry. You recall he was fluttry when you saw him. If anything, he was even more fluttry in San Francisco. First, get this right. We're not implicated in his death. We're as innocent as children, although you might say we caused it. In a way that could be true, but there was no responsibility attached to us. Not a flicker of suspicion. There couldn't be. There were witnesses who saw everything and we were right in the clear."

Get Motor Licenses Early

Michigan motorists who are able to do so are urged to secure their 1932 automobile license as soon as possible, even though the legal time limit for 1931 plates has been extended until March 1. In aiding in the relief of the unemployment situation, the state has embarked on an $11,000,000 winter highway program and receipts of the motor vehicle weight taxes are to be used for this work.

The first grade pupils are working hard on the fundamentals. The 'Cocoon class is finishing the last story in their primer this week and will soon have a new book.

Miss Gray's Room

The room is putting on a contest in conduct. Beverly McFarland and Earl Lawson are the captains. It will terminate at the end of one month. The losing side will honor the victorious side.

Mrs. Rockwell's Room

The Art Class is coloring Listerine
posters sent out by the makers.
The one who does the best work will receive a small bottle of Listerine.

Garth Pearsall is the health officer
this week.

The room is enjoying some new story books that have been given to them.

Tuesday the room had a penmanship test.

Jack Stuart and Betty Vess had the best of the papers.

Mrs. Beardslee's Room

The Art Class is making paper cuttings and drawings. The fifth grade is finding the study of Italy very interesting.

Seventh Grade

We have begun to review in Hygiene for semester exams.

In Geography we are learning patriotic songs.

The English class is studying prepositions and their objects.

We are studying percentage in Arithmetic.

Carl and Dorothy Vallad have recently moved to Drayton Plains.

The Band

The Band has been invited to play for the Farm Bureau meeting which will be held Friday, January 15th.

The school is glad to furnish music for public meetings of this type when the loss of time from school work is not too great.

Freshman News

The Freshman class plans to hold a meeting sometime this week.

Our study in Biology has brought us to the study of Man. Skeletons were drawn Monday and Tuesday.

Sophomore News

We have started our general review
in Geometry and History. In Latin
we are studying the perfect tenses.

We are resuming the study in our theme-building books in English. Current Events were the basis of our study in History last Friday.

Chorus News

The girls' chorus is working on the tullaby "Sweet and Low".

The mixed chorus is working on
"The Galway Piper".

We have some other music ordered
which will soon be here.

Senior News

English Literature—In the Scholastic we read a few of the poems by
"Aeche" Lindsay.

We have been studying the life and works of DeFoe, Addison, Steele and Pope. We were required to learn ten lines from Alexander Pope's work
such as the following:

"Tis not a lip, or eye, we beauty call,
But the joint force and full result of all."

True wit is nature to advantage
dressed,
What oft was thought, but ne'er so well expressed.

Words are like leaves, and where they
most abound,
Much fruit of sense beneath is seldom found.

In words, or fashions, the same rule
will hold;
Alike fantastic, if too new or old;
Be not the first by whom the new are tried,

Nor yet the last to lay the old aside.
Civics—In this class we have studied civil and criminal procedure, and county and township government.

Junior Class News

American Literature—We are now studying "Compensation", one of Emerson's essays. Some quotations we have learned from the essay are:

"Every sweet hath its sour; every evil its good."

"The dice of Good are always loaded."

"Punishment is a fruit that unsuspected ripens within the flower of pleasure which conceals it."

American History—We are completing our study of the Civil War.

Commercial

In the speed tests for January 7, Clifford Galligan, a second year type student, wrote a perfect copy. Of the first year pupils Winifred Holcomb, George Holmes, and Francis Studebaker wrote perfect copies.

Boys' Basket Ball

The boys' first team of Clarkston
High School met Milford last Friday
for the first home game and the results, although not victorious, were very satisfactory. The "gang" has more pep and are learning and practising more and harder. Coach Waters is well satisfied and says that by the latter part of the season we will have a real team.

The line up for the first team was
as follows:

Guards—Weber, Cell
Forwards—Holmes, Valad.
Center—Marthy.

The second team also did very well.
Their lineup was:

Guards—Soulby, Kelly.
Forwards—Larion, Shanitte.
Center—White.

The scores at the final were:

First team—
Milford, 31; Clarkston, 22.

Second team—
Milford, 21; Clarkston, 13.

Girls' Basket Ball

Score:
Clarkston, 8; Milford, 8.

The Clarkston girls met the Milford girls Friday night in the local gym, with a score of eight all. The game just previous, December 18th, at Milford, resulted in a score of 23-20
for Clarkston. Naturally the Milford girls came to Clarkston last Friday night with a mighty determination to win. The game was hard fought, with flashes of fine playing. However, the game itself was not up to the average of the preceding one.

The girls so far have won two games and tied one, and have shown in all three games a fine spirit of pluck and cooperation.

Just a Chuckle or Two

Bartlett M. "How did you like the banquet last night?"

Billy P. "Not at all."

Bartlett. "Wasn't the food good?"

Billy. "Yes, very good—but I sat next to a lady who squinted, and she ate off my plate all the time."

Husband: "From the glimpse I had
of her this morning, I rather like our new cook. There seems to be plenty of go about her."

Wife: "Yes, she's gone."

"Are you positive," demanded counsel, "that the prisoner is the man who stole your car?"

"Well," answered the witness, "I was until you cross-examined me. Now I'm not sure whether I ever had a car
at all."

Mrs. Huttenlocher: "Give an example of period, furniture."

Sherman: "Well, I should say an electric chair, because it ends a sentence."

Pontiac Airport
Had Busy Year

During 1931, various outstanding events took place at the Pontiac Airport. Members of the State Legislature together with the State Board of Aeronautics visited the port on an inspection trip. E. B. Wadworth, superintendent of air mail at Washington, and T. A. O. officials were entertained at a luncheon given by the Thompson Aeronautical Corporation
in their hangar.

The first commercially built Auto-Giro was stored in the city hangar during the summer. The third annual Michigan air tour—consisting of 40
ships—visited Pontiac on an overnight
stop and was entertained by the Pontiac Board of Commerce. Express service was added to the regular air mail facilities in the early part of the year.

A flashing code beacon was installed and the name Pontiac placed on the roof of the city hangar in incandescent lamps to comply with rating requirements. The airport received a renewal of its A-1A rating.

The Thompson Aeronautical Corporation is now employing some 42 people at Pontiac. At the present time there are 12 privately owned ships and one glider in storage in the city hangar.

Mileage Reduced

The mileage allowance of department of state employees who use their own private automobiles on state business, was reduced from six to five cents a mile on January 1, 1932, it was announced by Secretary of State
Frank D. Fitzgerald.

The reduction was ordered after the department made an analysis of automobile operating costs and were convinced that five cents a mile was sufficient to operate a medium-sized automobile.

About two weeks ago, higher-paid employees of the department voluntarily accepted a salary reduction ranging from two per cent for those receiving $1,300 a year to five per cent
for those receiving $5,000 a year.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin delightfully entertained the Jolly 12 Bridge Club at their home last Wednesday evening. The 12 members were in attendance. Three tables were at play.
Mrs. Wm. Montgomery won la'ies' high honors and Wm. Montgomery carried off the men's high honors. A delicious luncheon was served at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Claud Button assisted as hostess.

The Waterford Center P. T. A.
which met Friday p. m., had as its guest speaker Mrs. Zephora Hale from the Okemos County T. B. Society. Her topic "Facing Your Care" was very interesting and was very instructive.
Miss Payne's primary room presented a group of "Mother Goose" songs. The program was followed by a business meeting. Miss Charnoin's room received the book, presented by the P. T. A. this month. The membership contest closed. Mrs. Thomas Austin's side won. 40 members are on the roll. Twenty-two members were in attendance.

The Waterford Center Extension
group met at the home of Mrs. Hollis Brown on Wednesday for a 12 o'clock luncheon with Mrs. E. J. Dahl as assistant hostess. The lesson on "Cutting and Fitting" the sleeve pattern, was given by the leaders, Mrs. Byron Reeves and Mrs. Harold Mollen. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. E. Elder on the Elizabeth Lake road.

Mrs. C. E. Smith and Mrs. F. E.
Harrer, local leaders of the Child
Study Project met with Mrs. Ann Lynde of the Michigan State College,
for the second lesson at C. M. E.
Church on Wednesday, January 18, at 10 o'clock.

The dancing party which was held in the auditorium of the school on Friday evening was largely attended.
Proceeds were $5.44, which will be used for the hot lunch fund.

The Airport baseball manager is planning a dancing party at the W. C.
school on Friday evening, January 22,
at 8:30 o'clock. Proceeds will be used to buy equipment for the team for the ensuing year. A good orchestra has been engaged. Also good lunch Everyone is invited to come and help
the team.

G. D. Address and Robert Hickson were callers at the home of Charles H. Jones of Goodrich, on Tuesday.

Final plans have been completed for the Sunday School party which will be held in the auditorium of the school Friday evening. Jess Simmons has charge of the program, also the menu.
A good time is anticipated.

The Webster P. T. A. will present the play entitled, "Seth Perkins Singing School", at the Waterford Center school on Thursday evening, January 21, at 8 o'clock. An orchestra will furnish music during the evening. A collection will be taken, proceeds to be used to help defray expenses to help pay for the stage at the Webster
school and to purchase curtain material for the stage at Waterford Center school. Everyone is invited to attend, and enjoy an evening of fun and music.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Brown and children were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kregher on Oakland Avenue for a 6 o'clock dinner on Sunday.

The Annual meeting of the Waterford Center Sunday School will be held on Sunday, January 17, at the close of Sabbath School, at 11 o'clock.
Everyone interested in the Sunday School is cordially invited.

LESS WORK
in the kitchen . . .

BETTER MEALS at the table!

Your new Electrochef electric range means less time in the kitchen, less work preparing meals.
An electric range brings more leisure hours, freedom from standing over a hot stove, freedom from uncertainty as to cooking results. Modern temperature controls make electric cooking AUTOMATIC . . . and surprisingly easy. Most of all you will be pleased with the delicious flavors, precious minerals and important food values retained in foods. Electrochef cooking is healthful cooking. Meats and vegetables cook to melting tenderness in their own juices, with all their natural flavors sealed in. Learn the difference electric cooking makes: Install an Electrochef in your kitchen!

THE DETROIT EDISON CO.

Exact Heat Control, Sealed-in Flavor, Heat as Clean as Sunlight, Healthful Cooking, Easily Cleaned, Less Time in Kitchen. A study of one thousand Electrochef electric ranges shows a saving cost of $10.

Soils Meeting Held Tuesday

Second in Series of Four Lessons Started

A large group attended the soils meeting held Tuesday afternoon in the Town Hall, under the leadership of Bruce Lessiter and J. P. Hubbard. This meeting started the second series of the studies and took up the methods of increasing the humus supply of the soil.

Farmers desirous of having the soil from their farms tested brought samples and the work showed them whether or not the soil needed more humus, and indicated the exact condition of the soil in regard to this constituent.

These meetings are sponsored by the Farm Bureau and are under the direct supervision of K. D. Bailey, county agricultural agent, who works directly with Lessiter and Hubbard for the local group meetings.

Seymour Lake Sherwood's Surprised

Seventy-five friends surprised Miss Gladys Sherwood and her mother, Mrs. Belle Sherwood, at a joint party Monday evening, January 11. The occasion honored Miss Sherwood's birthday of the same evening and Mrs. Sherwood's birthday which falls on January 18.

The group surprised the couple at the Sherwood residence and then went to the Seymour Lake Community House, where a pot luck supper was served. The party was sponsored by the Ladies Aid Society of Seymour Lake, of which Miss Gladys is present president and Mrs. Sherwood past president.

An original poem dealing with the fine work Mrs. Sherwood has carried on in the community was written and presented by Mrs. Sally Bailey. Rev. Prouse gave a short talk on friendships.

Both guests received a number of lovely and useful gifts, as tokens of their loyal service and faithfulness to the church and the community life.

Martin Beardslee attended a sale near Orion on Friday.

The Arthur Kallys will entertain a group of friends this evening.

Clela Fink has been awarded the prize in the prophylactic contest in school.
