Rome DeMond Passes Away at Newark

Dies Following Stove Explosion and Injuries

Rome DeMond passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lyman Howe, at Newark, Holly Township, at 11 o'clock Wednesday evening. Death followed from injuries received from a stove explosion in which Mr. DeMond was seriously injured and from which injuries and exposure pneumonia developed.

The accident occurred Monday evening when Mr. DeMond, believing the fire to be entirely out, poured some coal oil into the heating stove. An explosion followed and the man was thrown into an adjoining room. The house was completely filled with thick black smoke when help arrived, and no one could see Mr. DeMond, but they could hear him calling.

A neighbor crawled into the smoke on his hands and knees and led by the calls of the injured man, found him in the bedroom lying on the floor. They took him out of the smoke-filled house through the window before the structure burned to the ground. He was taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Howe.

Mr. DeMond was in serious condition when his brother, Oliver DeMond, Frank Leonard and Will Clark went to Newark to see him on Tuesday. He was unable to see and his head was cut severely and his lungs were affected by the smoke. Pneumonia developed and he passed away quietly Wednesday night.

Rome DeMond was born in Clarkston, October 12, 1853, and has resided in Oakland County all of his life. He was a resident of Clarkston until seven years ago, when he made his home with his daughter. He was married to Jane Hammond on March 14, 1817, and she passed away in 1925.

Surviving are: three sons and one daughter, Harry of Detroit, Herman and Robert of Cleveland, and Mrs. Lyman Howe of Holly; two brothers, Oliver of Clarkston, and John, of East Lansing; one sister, Mrs. Denna Dyer, of Williamstown; his nephew, Harvey of Clarkston, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Ogden Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon at 3:30. Burial will be in Lake View Cemetery. Rev. H. H. Savage of the First Baptist Church of Pontiac will officiate.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Byron Beardsley on Tuesday, March 15, at which time the officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Mrs. Lucy King presided at the meeting.

There never was a time in the life of modern business when it needed to cry its wares to the public any more than today. Did you ever hear of a sane property owner cancelling his fire insurance on his home while the fire department was trying to prevent it from burning up? Of course you never did. Advertising, properly created and well directed is the fire insurance for the business of today. Whether a man's business be in the big or the little community, it needs to be pointed out unceasingly to the uninterrupted parade of buyers passing its doors. It is the task of the newspaper publisher to include in his services that of advertising. More and more of us are coming into the realization of this truth. Whenever we sell it to our community merchants they, too, may be insured against complete oblivion.

Of Interest to Women at Home

By Elizabeth P. Weld, Home Demonstration Agent.

"If your nose is close to the grindstone rough and you hold it down there long enough in time you'll say there's no such thing as brooks that babble and birds that sing. These three will all your world compose. Just you, the stone and your worn old nose."

Perhaps you'd also be interested in these ten commandments for the homemaker. How well do you keep them?

1. Thou shalt keep beautiful and clean thyself and thy dwelling. (But don't be such a slave to cleanliness that you forget the rest of your job. Don't be "spizen" clean.)

2. Eight hours shalt thou labor and do all thy housework and the other eight tend to thy homemaking.

3. Thou shalt not slump on thy job.

4. Every day shalt thou take a short vacation from thy daily task. (To pursue a hobby, perhaps.)

5. Thou shalt guard the health of thyself, thy family and thy neighbor.

6. Thou shalt strive to keep thyself mentally alert.

7. Thou shalt at all times hold thyself in readiness to answer a call of thy family in friendship and companionship.

8. Thou shalt cultivate and encourage in thyself and in thy family a sense of humor.

9. Thou shalt make thyself easy to look at.

10. Thou shalt not forget thy community (The unpardonable sin is to live in a community, take everything you can get out of it and put nothing in. Food, shelter and clothing may be obtained by working alone, but for education, health, religion, recreation, friends, everyone must turn to the community in which he lives.)

And now for a joke.

A Lot of the Rest of Us, Too

Perhaps you saw this in a joke column of some newspaper recently: Hi—What has become of your chivalry?

Jack—Oh, I traded it in on a Buick.

There is a smile in that all right, but there is a bit of irony in it too. How many of us have traded our chivalry for motor cars! This is assuming that the motor car is one of the principal earmarks of the present ultra-modern days. It certainly is emblematic of the rush and speed of the day. No time for chivalry, no time for the niceties of life. Especially as regards woman. Women are in the same fields of endeavor as men, in many ways try to imitate or outdo the men. The women wanted equality, and it appears they have obtained it, full measure and running over. Chivalry, meaning a higher regard for women as a creature a little better, cleaner, nobler, than man, seems to have been traded for motor cars or whatever may be taken as a sign of the times.

Many Cases of Flu and Measles in Holly Now

While most of the numerous cases of flu and measles in Holly and vicinity are not severe, a few of them are, and local physicians suggest that cooperation might reduce the number of new cases.

When contracting the measles, children have a cough, show signs of upset stomach condition, and their eyes water. A child showing any of these symptoms should be kept at home and not allowed to expose other children. The rash does not appear for several days as a general rule.

For his own safety, the individual contracting flu should follow the orders of his physician carefully, according to Holly doctors. While the flu prevalent here now is not especially violent, recovery is not as rapid as the patients usually expect.

FIVE PARTS OF FOOD DOLLAR TO BUY FIVE KINDS OF FOOD To get the most food for your money, especially if you have very little money, divide each food dollar into five parts and spend it for five different kinds of food. This advice comes from the U. S. Department of Agriculture through its two divisions which are particularly concerned with the problems of the home, the Bureau of Home Economics and the Extension Service. The fewer dollars you have, the more important it is to spend the food money wisely. If men and women are to feel well and able to work, if children are to be healthy and able to go to school, they must have food enough and they must have the right kinds of food. Because of prejudice or whim many people have never learned to like some of the foods essential to physical well-being. Fortunately indeed are those who from infancy have been taught to like the foods which their bodies need. For food that does not do its part to keep one healthy is expensive food. The less variety you can afford, the more important it is to choose well and get the most for your money. If there are children in the family, nutritionists say each dollar that goes for food should be spent like this: 25 cents for milk and cheese, 25 to 20 cents for vegetables and fruit, 15 to 20 cents for bread and cereals, 20 to 15 cents for butter, lard, or other fats and sugar or molasses, 15 to 20 cents for meat, fish, and eggs. A family of adults would need less milk and cheese and correspondingly more vegetables and fruit. The Bureau of Home Economics will be glad to send you more detailed information on the kinds of food to buy in order to get the most for your money when your money is limited.

Waterford The Good Will Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Percy Hunt of Pontiac on Thursday. Luncheon was served at 12 o'clock to just 6 members and one guest, Mrs. Lemmon Hunt. A dainty 8-course luncheon was served at an attractive table, centered with spring flowers in a beautiful bouquet. Immediately after the luncheon the members went to see Marie Dressler in "Emma", which they all enjoyed. The March meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Percy King on the 18th. Mrs. George Slayton of Williams Lake, is caring for her mother, Mrs. Nancy Helen Kelly, who has been spending the winter months with her daughter and Mr. Slayton, and who on Friday morning suffered a slight fall of one step, which caused a severe injury to her spine. She has been under the care of Dr. Sutherland ever since. A small meeting of the Waterford P. T. A. for February was the result of the meeting on Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Kimball, will name a committee, to have charge of nominations for the March meeting, at which will be election of officers. Many Kinds of Fish Known as Sardines

Sardines are growing in popularity in the diet of Americans. The Maine pack runs to about 2,000,000 cases a year, while that of California approximates 4,000,000 cases annually, says Dr. A. C. Hunter, of the Federal Food and Drug Administration. So popular, indeed, are these little fish that the American sardine-packing industry has grown enormously during the past decade or so. In addition, we import large quantities of sardines.
 "Commercially speaking," says Dr. Hunter, "any small canned fish of the herring family is a sardine. The herring family includes not only the true sardine, or pilchard but also the sea herring or sild, and the sprat or brisling. The word 'pilchard' applies to a sardine packed in British Columbia. In California this same pilchard is labeled 'sardine,' while in Maine a young herring takes the name 'Maine sardine.' It is a pilchard also that is called 'sardine' in France, Italy, Spain, and Portugal, while in the North Sea countries we find sprats canned and labeled as 'brisling, sprats, or sardines.'"
 "Various kinds of sardine packs go by different names. 'Salacchini' or a dried, salted, and pressed sardine which comes in small wooden tubs. 'Sardines in salt' from Italy are generally imported in round cans of various sizes and are put up by the dry salting method. 'Anchovies in salt' are prepared from anchovies in identically the same manner as sardines. 'Filets,' frequently used to garnish salads, are the sides of the anchovies which, after curing, have been skinned and freed from the backbone and most of the small rib bones.
 Label statements on sardine packages may read "packed in tomato sauce," "packed in mustard sauce," or "packed in white wine." Small flat cans containing approximately 4 ounces are commonly used in packing very small fish. These are frequently packed in olive oil. The Maine sardine of commerce, really a herring, is usually packed in cottonseed oil or mustard sauce. Labels also tell the buyer the true quantity of contents in the can.

OPERATOR'S ALERTNESS SAVES FAMILY FROM FIRE

Due to the alertness of a night telephone operator at the Dundalk exchange in Baltimore, Mrs. Ellen Boistad, whose sharp ears detected sounds of confusion and a faint cry of "Fire!" when she plugged in on the line to the home of Elmer T. Livingston, the lives of a family of six were saved recently. The telephone operator called out the police and fire engines, on the supposition they were needed.

Later, it was discovered that the fire which broke out in the room where the telephone was located had burned away one leg of the table on which the instrument was standing. The table toppled over on the floor, and the receiver, thrown off its hook, gave the signal which caused the exchange operator to listen in. Help reached the family just in time.

DOG IN KIRKLAND, WASH., HEARD IN HONOLULU

The first dog to bark in the United States and to be heard in Honolulu is said to be Major, a collie belonging to a Kirkland, Wash., man. Soon after telephone service with Honolulu was established, the dog's owner talked with his brother in Honolulu. The Kirkland man put Major up to the mouthpiece and the receiver to his ear. Hearing a familiar voice, Major barked delightedly—and thus it is that his bark becomes noted beyond the barks of other dogs.

BUSINESS COURSE GIVES TELEPHONE ETIQUETTE

A new course in telephone etiquette was introduced into the curriculum of the School of Secretarial Practice of Pace Institute in New York City on January 1. A survey made by the Institute during 1931 revealed the fact that fully one-half of the duties in high grade secretarial positions involve telephone transactions, and that employers are now giving the utmost weight to proper telephone usage.

The new course provides specific training in such subjects as placing a call, receiving a call, voice technique, out-of-town service, how to use the dial telephone, the private branch exchange, care of the telephone equipment, and practice exercises and drills.

"Official Spelling"

"Isle Royale" and not "Isle Royal" is the correct spelling of the island recently adopted by Congress as a national park and the correct spelling of the river on which the greatest falls in the middle west is located is "Taqquamenon."

The spelling of these names have been officially adopted by the state and federal governments through action taken by the Michigan Committee on Geographical Names and the National Board of Geographical Names.

Dairy Profits Truck to Stop Here

The dairy profits truck will be at the Clarkston Town Hall at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, March 9.

Under present economic conditions, dairymen like all other business men are anxious to reduce costs. The dairy profits conference dairy delegates recently pointed to the lack of adjustment existing between the number of cows kept on the farm and the acreages of high quality home grown roughage and other feeds grown on the farm.

To improve this situation the dairy delegates have developed a program. They are cooperating with the dairy department, Michigan State College, and the county agricultural agent in holding a series of dairy profits truck meetings. These meetings will be held indoors, the truck from the M. S. C. serving to carry exhibit and display material.

Farmers in nine other Michigan counties are planning to attend these meetings this spring. Each farmer, who attends, will get, among other things a definite cow crop acreage statement.
