are willing to give crop liens as security for the loans, which the act requires. The amount of each loan will be based on the acreage of specific crops to be planted by the horrower in the Spring of 1932 and on the requirements of individual borrowers for supplies necessary in the production of these crops. For instance, some borrowers will have food for workstock but will need seed. Others will have seed but need funds to purchase fuel and oil for tractors. The maximum loan to any borrower will be $400.00, and the total loans to the tenants of any land owner in any one county will be $1,600.00. The interest rate in all cases will be 51/2%.

In counties in which fertilizer is not commonly used the maximum loan per acre will be $3.00 for all crops except truck crops, including potatoes and sweet potatoes, on which a maximum rate of $12.00 is allowed. Where fertilizer is necessary for crop production, the maximum rates are $6.00 for all crops except tobacco and truck crops, the rate for tobacco being $10, and that for truck crops $20. Not to exceed $1.00 per acre of loans made at any of these rates may be used for repairs and miscellaneous expenses of crop production other than seed, fertilizer, feed for workstock and fuel and oil for tractors.

Fruit growers may borrow not to exceed $25.00 per acre for fertilizer and spraying materials for orchards and vineyards. All toans for these purposes are included in the limit of $400.00 on the individual foun.

Any farmer who desires to obtain a loan will make application on a form provided by the Secretary of Agriculture and at the same time will execute a note in the arigination of this loan and will give as security a first mortain. gage on his crop to be produced in 1932. Application blanks and other necessary forms may be obtained from most county banks within about ten days.

Clarkston Home News Mr. Owen Cleary Will Speak at P. T. A.

The P. T. A. meeting which will convene in the assembly of the school next Tuesday evening at 7:30 promises to be of value to every parent and teacher. The meeting will be opened by music under the direction of Miss Charlotte Hyde. The main speaker of the session will be Mr. Owen Cleary.

Mr. Cleary has a degree of Doctor of Law and is vice president of the Cleary College of Ypsilanti. He has spoken before assemblies at the school several times and always proves interesting and instructive. He will speak to the students in the afternoon and then will present a P. T. A. talk to the parents and teachers in the evening.

In addition to Mr. Cleary's speech, there will be five questions posted and answered by requested persons from the audience. These questoins were assigned at the last P. T. A. meeting and have been studied out and the answere carefully thought out. The questions to be answered are:

1. What are the various ways in which a parent may learn what achievements he is justified in expecting from his child?

2. Discuss the proposition that all men are created equal. What amendment does science force us to make to this conception?

3. What is actually meant by normal or acreage as regards children's physical and mental achievements? What may be their uses for parents and their dangers? 4. What are the justifications for, what are the dangers in encouraging rivalry and competition among children? 5. What other factors besides intelligence make for the ultimate suc-

Death Penalty Imposed on "Young Malefactors"

The prompt reprieve for a boy slay er of sixteen offers another contrast to the older and more savage code, writes a columnist in the Manchester, (England) Guardian. In other centuries much younger children were not only sentenced to death, but also executed for minor offenses. A boy of eight was hanged in 1629 for burning two barns; "it appearing," thought the learned judge, "that he had malice, revenge, craft, and cunning." Michael Hammond and his sister, aged seven and eleven, were hanged at Lynn for felony in 1708. Even as late as 1828 a boy of twelve and one-half was hanged in Jersey. Baron Hotham sentenced a child of ten to death in 1800 for secreting notes at the Chelmsford post office, and took occasion to point out the "necessity for the prosecution and the infinite danger of its going abroad into the world that a child might commit such a crime with impunity!" _But the sentence was commuted and the boy sent to Granada for 14 years.—Davison Index.

Alfred Allen is one of Oxford's citizens who has had the community interest at heart and the pleasure he gets out of it would do your soul We have seen Alfred going by with load after load of wood, so we inquired, "what are you going to do with all that wood?" Well, the reply came in a modest and timid voice: "Tom Folkerth gave me allthe loose wood that was laying around the Fuller Becker gravel pit and the Detroit-Oxford Gravel and Stone Company's plants if I would do a good job cleaning it up. I have sawed it up and delivered it to several people about the village, who have been unable to cut or buy their fire wood this winter. I have had nothing else to work at and these people seem to be happy every time I take a cord or so to their door." Alfred told us he had given away about sixty cords in all and used about forty gallons of gas cutting and hauling. "I cannot bear to sit around and do nothing and this little exercise makes me feel better physically."-Oxford Leader.

Starting lineup each night was as Beans are Económical follows: Weber, Kelly, guards; Val-

When times are hard and the housewife must cut food costs, dried beans and peas are a great help in stetching the table allowance. Beans are different kinds, peas, lentils, and other dried legumes are all relatively cheap, easy to store, and similar in food value. All beans contain much protein, iron, and some fat. They have some of the food value of potatoesstarch, minerals, and vitamin B,—and so reinforce the limited diet with these food essentials.

Before they are cooked, beans and practically all dried legumes should be be soaked several hours or overnight. Even then they require a long time to cook. Beans in particular swell very much when they are soaked and again when they are cooked, so it is ecessary to use a large enough uten sil and plenty of water.

Because of the long, slow cooking, t saves fuel to prepare enough beans for two or three meals at one time, suggests the Bureau of Home Economics of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. You can then serve them in different ways during the same week, but you must take pains to keep them cold until they are all used. If they are left after the second using, reheat them to the boiling point to prevent their spoiling, and cool again.

Suppose you start by cooking three times the quantity of beans for one meals. Boil them in soft water, if possible, with a ham bone or salt pork. For the first dinner serve plain boileod beans in their liquor, which will be well-flavored with the pork. Next, serve part of the remainder baked, seasoned with a little molasses, mustard, and onion. The third time they may appear as bean soup or salad.

Some other suggestions for varying the way of serving beans include "Hopping John," chili con carne, beans cooked with tomato sauce, and bean sandwiches.

Ask Peach Growers Test New Variety

Those peach growers who have been looking for a variety of fruit which is earlier than Elberta and make a good market peach are advised by the department of horticulture at M. S. C. to try limited plantings of a new variety, the Halehaven.

This variety is the result of a cross between the Hale and the South Haven. The crossing and the subsequent testing of the variety were done at South Haven sub-station, where crops of fruit have been harvested from trees budded with this variety for several years.

Halehaven peaches ripen at so the department of horticulture advises that Michigan orchard owners try the variety on a limited scale at first and then make as extensive use of the variety as the results warrant.

State Increases Fishing License Fee

The 1932 non-resident fishing licenses are now being prepared for shipment from the Lansing office of the Department of Conservation to the various license agents scattered through the state. The licenses are accompanied by a green button.

Non-residents this year will pay for the first time an increased fee set by the state legislature last year. The law increasing license fees was passed too late to be effective for the 1931 licenses. The licenses are issued for the calendar year.

The non-resident fishing license this year costs $4 instead of the $3 paid last vear.

Under the new fishing law non-residents fishing in the waters of the Great Lakes, over which the state of Michigan has control, must have a license. The same license permits fishing the inland lakes and streams. In the past years non-residents were not required to have a license for game fish in the Great Lakes.

The licenses must be secured by all non-residents over 18 years of age who fish in Michigan waters. The license permits the taking of any kind of fish during the respective open season. One day's legal catch may be transported outside the state when carried as open hand baggage.

The old law permitted non-residents to take fish by hook and line only. Under the law now effective non-residents may take fish in any manner in which fish may be caught by Michigan residents, provided they have purchased a non-resident fishing license
