POPPY DAY

"In Flanders fields, the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row—
These sentimental lines first furnished the inspiration for Poppy Day, Tomorrow the American Legion, the Legion Auxiliary, the Girl Scouts, High School girls and other volunteer workers will bring to you your opportunity to not only pay tribute to those of our boys lying in Flanders Field, but to aid and encourage those lying maimed and helpless in our own U. S. Hospital at Battle Creek.

Every member of the Poppy Day workers are volunteering their services without thought of remuneration. Every cent they collect which does not go direct to the disabled war veterans remains right in our own community to carry on Legion relief work.

"Take this hour to tell your children what this day means. To stamp it indelibly on their memories. Buy each one a poppy to wear Memorial Day.

The situation for the disabled veterans is especially hard this year. The need is great. Your opportunity is here. So tomorrow—buy a Poppy!

NOTE—The Girl Scouts are asked to meet Friday at 4 o'clock at the Legion Hall.

Interest in Village Park Increasing

Several verbal and written replies have been received in response to Mr. E. M. Clark's suggestion for a village park. Some are in favor and of course some are not. The main objection seems to be that there would have to be an output of money, but Mr. Clark insists that there would not necessarily need to be any spending the first couple of years. He states that it could be well worked out with hard work and time.

Then there seems to be still some objection along the question—Who will do the work? It would seem, in gazing about the village and locating idle persons, that there could be quite a crowd scared up if they would be willing to devote some of their idle time to the public work.

A concrete suggestion comes to us this week from Mrs. Mallory Stickney, of near Clarkston. Mrs. Stickney sees vast possibilities in the park idea and sends us a picture of the new outdoor theatre in the state of Virginia in the Dan River community. Mrs. Stickney also suggests that if such a place were created, it might tend to stimulate some really worthwhile amateur plays and operettas.

Another suggestion states that "The spot is ideal for rock gardens and stepping terraces, but should be done under expert supervision."

Still another idea comes from a villager who says that advice may be secured from the County Agent and real leadership gained from that source.

Many of you have your own definite ideas on the matter. Let us hear what they are.

Unusual Record Creates Car Interest

A record of automobile ownership likely without parallel was established at Waterville, Washington, with the recent delivery of her tenth annual new Chevrolet to Mrs. Kate Pattie, veteran rural school teacher, whose nine previous cars all are still running, all are owned locally, and all are serviced by the same dealer, who sold Mrs. Pattie the cars when they were new.

Mrs. Pattie, whose husband is a wheat rancher, buys her annual new car shortly after April 15 each year from C. A. Wilson, local Chevrolet dealer. She has just received her new 1932 special sedan, turning in her old car, a routine she and Wilson have gone through since 1923.

Wilson has sold all of the trade-ins to Waterville residents. He has sold some of them as many as four times, always to a member of the community.

This year, when Mrs. Pattie and her husband came to place the order for their 1932 car, Wilson rounded up all the cars previously owned by her at his place of business, and made a gala occasion of it.

Mrs. Pattie's first four Chevrolets were touring models, the next a coach and the remainder sedans. With each new Chevrolet representing 71 days of employment for one man, Mrs. Pattie by her purchases over the past ten years has contributed the equivalent of nearly two and one-half normal work-years to the labor structure of America.

Summer Meals With Slow Cooking Meats

Some of the slow cooking cuts are ideal for summer meals because they do not require the homemaker to stand over the stove to watch them. They are cooked best at a low degree of heat and once started they practically take care of themselves while cooking. And then there is always something left over for serving cold or making into a quickly prepared "made dish". These cuts are economical, too, because so many people think only of steaks and chops in the summer time.

Inez S. Willson, home economist, gives the following recipes for slow cooking cuts:

Braised Pork Shoulder

- 5 pounds pork shoulder
- 1/2 cup onions, grated
- 1 cup pineapple, crushed
- 3 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 cup shortening
- 3 1/2 cups bread-crumbs

Have the shoulder boned and trimmed. Make a dressing of the other ingredients and stuff the opening in the shoulder. Sew up. Dust with flour and salt. Sear in hot kettle. Add 1 cup water and cover closely. Reduce heat and simmer about three hours on top of stove or in the oven.

Braised Lamb with Squash

- 2 pounds Lamb shoulder
- 1 onion
- 1 medium summer squash
- 1 green pepper
- 2 stalks celery
- 6 medium potatoes
- 1/4 teaspoon powdered marjoram
- A bit of bay-leaf
- 2 teaspoons salt

Wipe meat with a damp cloth and place in a deep baking dish. Brown well. Add the onion, cut into cubes; the summer squash, sliced; pepper and celery, cut in small pieces; and the other seasonings. Cover the dish and allow the vegetables to cook slowly with the meat for one hour. Do not add water. The juice from the vegetables and the meat will furnish enough liquid. Add potatoes at end of hour. Cover and cook another hour. Eggplant may be substituted for the squash.

Oven Pot-Roast of Lamb

- 3 pounds lamb from shoulder
- 1 cup potatoes, cut in small pieces
- 1 cup carrots, cut in small pieces
- 1/2 cup onion, sliced
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 teaspoons salt

Brown the meat and transfer to an earthen baking dish. Add boiling water and cover the dish. Let the meat cook slowly in a moderate oven (350° F.) for two hours. Add the vegetables, cover, and cook on hour longer. Thicken the liquid for gravy.

Braised Beef

- 4 pounds dump or chuck
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- Pepper
- Flour
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon celery seed
- 1 cup strained tomatoes
- Fat for browning
- 4 medium onions, sliced

Rub meat well with salt and pepper and dredge with flour and brown it well in hot fat. Remove the meat, brown the sliced onions, and add the other ingredients. Return the meat to the kettle, cover closely and simmer in this sauce, 3 hours or more, turning the meat two or three times so that the whole will be well flavored with the sauce.

Prunes Still Popular As Breakfast Stand-By

"Six prunes in a dish" have for many years been a breakfast stand-by of everyone, from lumberjacks to brokers, but the housewife is learning that there are substantial differences in the kinds of prunes on sale today, according to E. J. Howard, of the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

Prune varieties vary a great deal in size and the purchaser who wants large or small prunes often is able to get the kind desired by reading the label on the box or package. The practice of labeling prunes as to size is not universally followed by the trade. Especially is this true in the case of the smaller packages sold for home use. There are equal differences in flavor. Some prunes, such as Coe's Golden Drop—and the "French" varieties in general—are sweeter than the so-called "Italian" prunes.

"The Italian varieties are grown, for the most part, in Oregon," says Howard, "hence the term, 'Oregon' prune, generally means a tart one, California produces French, Imperial, and Sugar prunes, and both Oregon and Washington also grow some of the French variety. When one purchases the large California prunes one generally receives either the Imperial or Sugar variety. The importance of these facts to the buyer is that the various names mentioned are frequently printed on labels."

Mr. Howard points out that prunes are separated as to size and the various sizes are known by the numbers which are required to make a pound. Imperials may run as few as 15 to the pound, while it may take as many as 100 of the small varieties to make a pound. Boxes, and sometimes packages, are labeled with such figures as "30-40," "40-50", and the like, which simply mean that 1 pound contains from 30 to 40 prunes or 40 to 50 prunes. The terms Extra Large, Large, and Medium are sometimes found on prune labels. There is a difference in price, varying somewhat with the size of the prunes. The largest sizes generally bring the most money.

Officials who enforce the national pure food law have no authority to require packers to print upon their labels either the variety name or the number of prunes required to make a pound. If such label designations are made, however, the food law specifies that they be accurate.

Sudan Grass Makes Good Pasture Crop

Tests Made at College Show Large Amount of Forage Produced Under Adverse Conditions

Sudan grass, which is eaten readily by cattle and sheep, will furnish pasture from early July until the first heavy frost, according to the farm crops department at Michigan State College, which has conducted pasture experiments for several years with this grass.

Sudan grass pasture, in the College experiments last year, furnished forage enough to maintain one cow per acre for eight weeks. These tests were conducted on the Kellogg Farm, Augusta, where the conditions of fertility and drought were bad. Many Michigan farmers have reported Sudan grass pasture which carried two and three cows or the equivalent number of sheep per acre.

This pasture grass should be seeded during the last half of May. A grain drill set to sow two pecks of wheat per acre, will distribute about 25 pounds of Sudan grass seed per acre, which is the correct rate of seeding.

The grass will be ready for pasture within five or six weeks and will then furnish continuous grazing until frosts. Freezing injures Sudan grass and a poisonous substance sometimes develops in the plant so it is safer not to pasture the grass after the first heavy frost.

Dairy cattle have maintained as heavy milk flow on Sudan grass, in the College tests, as on good sweet clover or bluegrass pasture.

As the result of acts adopted by the special session of the legislature, between 4,000 and 5,000 non-profit corporations in Michigan can secure a new legal corporate entity by making proper reports and paying requisite fees to the corporation division of the department of state before September 1, 1933.

Several years ago, through confusion of laws a great many non-profit corporations had their papers voided through failure to make reports. In many instances officials of the corporations did not discover what had happened until the corporations no longer legally existed. In numerous instances the corporations held considerable property.

The law did not vest any discretionary power in the Secretary of State when charters of non-profit corporations were rendered void and this defect was remedied by the special session. But the new law specifies that proper reports and fees must be filed with the department of state before September 1, 1933.

A similar situation existed with regard to rural cemetery associations, and these organizations were given an opportunity to secure a renewal of their charters in the same manner.

Sweden's oldest telephone girl recently celebrated her eightieth birthday, but this doesn't prevent her from being on duty fourteen hours a day. She is Mrs. Klara Kullin, of Karda, and she attends to the switchboard from 7 o'clock in the morning until 9 at night.

Should be Together

"What's all this about?" "Glorious Gorgeous, Queen of the Screen, and Harold Handsome, also of the films." "Co-starring?" "I hope so. It's a wedding invitation."

Timely Topics

Sterilized kissing has been advocated by certain London hygienists, and various methods of avoiding germ transmission have been suggested. But Dr. Edith Corvan doesn't think much of such innovations, which she characterizes as "non-infectious, non-corrosive, non-satisfying and non-sensical." We are inclined to agree with Dr. Corvan.

Satisfaction all around followed the arrest of Mrs. Lelin, a 22-year old lady bootlegger of Chicago, who had plied her trade for 10 years without running afoul of the law. She thanked the police for seizing her car containing liquor and said: "I'm tired of it. I wish you would get my husband, too, and make him get out of this racket."

FIRST TELEPHONE BILL PAID FIFTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Fifty-five years ago the first telephone bill was paid. The first man in the world to pay for a telephone was James Emery, Jr., a wholesale fish dealer who lived in Charles town, Mass. It was in May of 1877 that Mr. Emery had a telephone put at each end of a line connecting his house with his brother's home across the street. On May 30 of the same year, he paid the sum of $20, which was the first money ever paid for a telephone. On June 8 of the same year he returned and paid $10 additional, and took away three more telephones which he placed in nearby houses. All five of these telephones were connected on extensions of the original private line. When he made this additional payment, Mr. Emery also signed the first telephone lease.

Tell How to Avoid Diseases of Grains

Many Crop Reductions from these Causes Can be Prevented by Treating Seed Stock

Michigan farmers who have lost portions of their grain crops from the attacks of diseases will be able to tell how to avoid some of these losses in the future if they will obtain Circular Bulletin No. 142, now being printed at Michigan State College.

The bulletin describes most of the common diseases in such a manner that they can be readily identified with the aid of the illustrations which accompany the descriptions. Many of these diseases are carried on the seed grain and can be prevented by simple treatments.

Rusts and smuts exact most of the toll which is taken from the grain crops by disease. Nearly half of the smuts are carried from one crop to the next by seed and the infection can be prevented if the seed is treated before planting. Directions for the treatments are given in bulletin No. 142.

One of the serious diseases of wheat is perpetuated by the common barberry which acts as an intermediate host for the disease. Losses from this stem rust can be reduced and prevented if all the common barberry is killed.

Attempts are being made at all times to breed varieties of cereal crops which are resistant or immune to disease. Several disease resistant varieties of grain have been developed at Michigan State. Berkeley Rock wheat is the latest of these better grains developed and it will be ready for distribution next year.

Circular bulletin No. 143 will be available early in June and will be sent free to those requesting it from the director of the Experiment Station at East Lansing.

For Grandma

Bobby had been coaxing his young and pretty aunt to have her hair bobbed but she continued to argue against it.

"Then you'll be horse and buggy," he finally retorted.

Just then his grandmother entered the room and overhearing the remark, said: "Well, Bobby, if Aunt Bess is horse and buggy, what am I?"

With a kiss on her cheek Bobby replied: "Covered wagon!"

AMERICAN AMATEUR KING

Among the four amateur kings who have "made" themselves in French colonies within three months is an American, while two are English, and the fourth the enterprising son of a German father and a Scotch mother. All are fairly well-to-do, and they opened their kingdoms with much pomp and ceremony.
