Farewell '32 Seniors

Salutory

By Gladys Gundry

The class of nineteen hundred thirty-two welcomes you tonight to our our Commencement exercises. We welcome you to an occasion that is the climax of our High School life. We welcome the parents, because we know that only through their sacrificing, their affection and ever-striving were we able to stand ready for the distinction now bestowed upon us. To the Board of Education we extend a hearty welcome, for only through their untiring efforts was it possible for us to be part of so grand a school system.

We welcome the Faculty, for we know that it was necessary to spend years in preparation and to have unlimited patience and deep affection for us, in order that we might become worthy seniors.

And to our fellow students we extend a most cordial welcome, for we feel that their associations with us have meant unbounded happiness to us and we are wishing that in the future they may feel as much happiness and have as many good times as our class of '32.

It seems impossible that it was 12 years ago that we were mounting the first rung of the ladder of our educational career. How we stood in awe of the high school students! Especially the Seniors! But now that we are seniors, we find that the pedestal upon which we had enshrined them is overshadowed by the numerous pedestals of other goals before us. Now that we have fulfilled the requirements, we have a feeling of sorrow, and yet there comes a feeling of joy. We feel depressed because we realize that our work within this school is ended and with this many of the friendships and companions will be lost. But we know that it is necessary for us to move on to make room for those who follow in our footsteps that they may feel the joy with which we are now so richly endowed.

Although our hopes are inaccessible there is always a new horizon filled with greater desires and ambitions. It is the prolonged desire to reach these attainments that keeps us ever placing our goals farther and farther ahead. There is no end to the striving to reach the mountain of success. Problem gives rise to problem. And it is because of these problems and disappointments, our successes seem greater and of more value to us. They broaden us and make us finer judges of human nature.

We are hoping as we go out to life's work that we do not put before us a picture of success built by hoarding dollar upon dollar, by the political distinction or social status we have attained, but may we see success in doing to the best of our ability the righteous tasks set before us and in creating happiness for others.

It is only the far vision of these distant attainments that makes this graduation a joyous occasion. It is the glimpses of the future that make it possible for us to welcome you all tonight to the culmination, the triumph of our High School Life.

Class Will

By Edward Larion

On this 23rd day of June, the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-two, we the Senior Members of Clarkston High School, duly realize and regret that we must pass from this institution. In leaving it is only fitting and proper that we, as individuals, should hereby commit our various customs and peculiarities to respective individuals of the following class who, as a result, may be benefited or amused by them.

We feel that the aforementioned peculiarities can no longer be regarded as part of our estate as they really belong to this institution, so to speak. Therefore it is only just that we, the said members of the said Senior class, being of sound mind and memory, do make, publish and declare this our last will and testament in a manner, as follows:

1st. To our Superintendent, Mr. Winn, and members of the School Board, we wish to offer our most sincere thanks for the numerous advantages which they, through their own endeavors, have provided us.

2nd. To the faculty we can only extend a warm word of thanks for a small token of appreciation for the hours they have spent in our behalf. Our only hope is that we may prove worthy of their effort.

3rd. To Mrs. Huttenlocher we extend our best regards and sincerely hope that she may induce the juniors

President's Address

By Ronald Weber

Parents, friends and classmates: I have been selected to represent tonight the graduating class of 1932. In their behalf I wish to express our gratitude and appreciation to those who have made possible the twelve short years that have terminated in these Commencement exercises tonight. We realize that we alone as individuals could not have advanced this far, that other forces are in a great measure responsible for our maintaining and fulfilling the requirements for an education offered at this school.

We are grateful that we live in a community so interested in the education of its youth. We realize this fine school building, whose standards and rating will entitle us to enter any college or university, was made possible only by sacrifice and much work on the part of the community. We are proud of our school, and wish to extend the most hearty thanks to you for the opportunities with which we, through your generosity, have been provided. We wish to thank you for your support and fine spirit of cooperation shown us in our plays and other class functions. Through these activities we have gained many pleasant memories which will linger with us throughout our lives.

To the fathers and mothers we owe our largest debt. It is only through your constant working and sacrificing that we are able to be here tonight. Our sincerest hope is that we may use the opportunity you have given us in such a manner that you may always be as proud of us as you are tonight.

And to our teachers, we are very grateful for your patient and understanding help. We wish to thank you for your kindness, not only in our schoolwork but also in our class functions and outside activities. And at this time, I wish you all happy and useful futures.

Class History

By Clifford Galligan

It was a warm fall day in the early part of September in the year of 1920. The birds were singing and we were all new and eager prospects for the waters of education.

We received our passports for the twelve year voyage, and boarded the ship which was christened the class of '32 as it slid from dry dock into the water at Clarkston Harbor. There were 17 passengers at the time of christening, five of which are still with us: Marian Dunston, Gladys Gundry, Robert Croasdel, Hawley Skarritt, and Clifford Galligan. Our first Officer was Miss Stocum.

On the second year of our voyage we were introduced to our new Officer, Miss Bates, and a new passenger, Hazel Francis. She enjoyed the trip for one year and then left us, but rejoined us in the fourth year.

During the interval of the third year while Hazel was absent, two more passengers joined us, Bernice McFarland and Dorothy Powers. Mrs. Rockwell was our Officer for the third and fourth years.

Wayne Parnall joined the cruise in the fifth year. At the end of this period, Admiral Hood left us and Admiral Winn took command. Our Officer of the fifth and sixth years was Miss Graves.

We were accustomed to, but one leader in former years, but when we entered the seventh we found that we were to have a larger force of Officers; they were: Miss Neeley, Miss Parrent, and Mrs. Winn. Miss Kibbey came to us in the eighth year. Ronald Weber, Ronald Beardsley, Stella Crosby, Beryl Orr, Maurice Ogden and Gwnevere Gador were eager to join our ship in the Freshman year, just as we were entering

Class Poem

By Bernice McFarland

Dear classmates, we've finished a struggle tonight That has meant much hard work; oh, it wasn't all play Now we're facing a bigger more glorious fight For success and for happiness, fame, or what may.

Oh! the fight may be long and the victories rare But we never can lose while our standard is bright Let us say at the finish we won the fight fair On the road to success we had honor in sight.

Oh! success never comes by long leaps nor by bounds, It will come by hard work, the most difficult way, But all diamonds are hidden down deep in the ground, As for time: We know Rome was not built in a day.

For we know that the richest success to be gained Comes thru sorrow and toil, thru trouble and pain And the one who wins out, a hero will be The his name on time's pages you never may see.

Oh! the way may be long, and the trail may be steep There'll be gladness and heartaches, and laughter and tears But we'll always remember; sweet thoughts we will keep Of our teachers and classmates—these past happy years.

Now we can't all be great; some will never meet fame, Fortune may not with riches, us each one endow; So let's bear this in mind, as we each play the game We may lose. But just why did we fight? And just how?

All our futures unknown; each his own work to do, Some may travel afar, some may furrow the sod, But what ever our work, if it's honest and true, We must give it our best, and then leave it to God.

Then goodnight, my dear classmates, here's my hope for you all That success may be yours where'er you are called.

Class Oration

By Wayne Parnall

The motto of the class of '32, "The Best is Yet to be", was chosen from Browning's great poem "Rabbi Ben Ezra." Because of its appropriateness, of a great depression such as this, I have chosen it as the subject of my oration.

Tonight I am going to try to put into coherent form the speculations and beliefs that have been slowly forming in my mind during the last few years, ideas covering the important business of living. When I speak the word "YOU" I mean not only you who are here tonight, but US, the whole of civilization.

Are we rich or poor? No doubt the most of us are poor financially, but we may be rich in other ways. Money is not the only means by which we may be a success, a better man or woman. Money is only a medium of exchange in the machine age of today. It is hard to get along without, we all know, but it should not be the basis or ideal of our lives.

The final determination of our value to the rest of mankind is not measured by our many millions or our great publicity in society, but it is measured by the part we play in the movement of civilization. We must make ourselves needed on this earth, we must make ourselves essential to the happiness and progress of the world. Let us not be merely parasites existing upon the progress of others. Let us if we need sacrifice our very lives to better the world, and by so doing better ourselves.

It is not the test of our mentality, our power, our life, if we are boosted high by the hard work of others; if we rise to great fame because of luck or inheritance. God gave each of us a body, a mind and a soul; but these are nothing unless we put them to use. There is no barrier to our range of advancement nor any limitation to our ideal: the world is ours to use.

What does the word "YOU" mean? When we speak of Mr. So and So, do we mean the mere physical body that will be laid to rest at the time of his death, or do we think of him as the result of the work and of the thoughts of that actual body? I believe that the most of us measure our friends and neighbors by that spirit which they show, and by the achievements of their lives. In the same manner we should evaluate ourselves. We are nothing until we have created for ourselves by our own efforts, something of ourselves in the scheme of things. We must consider ourselves just one of the masses; a small piece of humanity gifted with a mind and a soul. We progress only by using our own talents. To be truly creative, we accept the basic facts of life; modify them to fit our own personalities, and then go on to create new laws. If we rely wholly upon facts found made, instead of making our own course, we are just one of the wandering herd. We must, in order to become better, lead as well as follow. There is no joy, no ideal success, no advancement, until one begins to go beyond the limit of his present knowledge. We, here tonight, will now make our test for advancement. We have followed the definite course of education, been boosted and dogged along by our parents and teachers, but now we will have to push for ourselves. Man was provided with a mind and within himself lies wishes to mature it.

I believe that no other than the individual can be blamed for the present situation of depression. We may say that it was the capitalists or the speculators, but when we come to analyze our mistakes, our poor investments, our poor spending, and the financial joy ride that we took in 1927 and 1928, I think that there is no one to blame for our condition but YOU and I, the individuals.

Are we existing or living? What is the difference? Some people think that existing is living from hand to mouth—and little of that, and that living means plenty of food, money, and a merry time. I disagree very much with such opinions. My idea of one who is simply existing is the person who merely eats, sleeps, makes merry, and follows those who lead; one who does not take advantage of the progress of the future. One, who may be, even a millionaire, but who is no benefit to the civilization of man. A person who I consider to be living is someone who has struggled through hardships, been wounded by the missiles of life, and has never given up the hope of being a benefit to mankind or a success to the world. Make yourself live. Be a Man—a Woman. Don't give up because the times are a little hard and the path is rugged. The test of the best is sold only by testing with the greatest of hardships. Little do we realize that the more people there are on the bottom the fewer there are on top. Therefore in times of depression, we must make ourselves better than we were in better times.

The present is of more benefit than harm to us. If life were one smooth path of glory laid down for us to tread, if everything were perfect, we would not be satisfied. We might be even worse off than we are today. We wouldn't have to think or work, someone or some device would do it for us; we would be dead spiritually and mentally. We all blundered forth into a quick success and planned to get rich quickly; we did get rich quickly, and we learned the dangers attendant upon sudden wealth. The world went crazy and had a nightmare and now it has awakened. This world crisis may be, for the thinking man, a guide for the future.

Some of you may be talking of the good old days and of the time of the old gray mare. Were they good old days or were they just good days for that time? Would you be willing to give up your radio, your automobile, your vacuum cleaner, your optical glasses, your electricity, and any and

Class Night Was Held Last Evening

Class Night for the 24 graduating seniors of Clarkston High School was held last evening at the school. The following program was heard and enjoyed, the majority of which may be found in this issue. March—High School Orchestra Invocation—Rev. R. H. Prouse. Salutory—Gladys Gundry. Class History—Clifford Galligan. Vocal Solos—Gwnevere Gador. Class Oration—Wayne Parnall. Class Poem—Bernice McFarland. Songs—High School Chorus. President's Address—Ronald Weber. Class Will—Edward Larion. Violin Solo—Frank Bach. Class Prophecy—Hazel Frances and Marion Dunston. Giftatory—Hawley Skarritt. Songs—Girls' Glee Club. Valedictory—Betty Huntly.

Prophecy

Hazel Frances
Marion Dunston

Hazel—We are asking you to go with us to a period about ten years in the future—1942. Marion and I are visiting together and reading copies of the Clarkston High School Alumni News", which have just come.

Marion—"Well, I see the Clarkston High School girls have just won another basket ball championship under the marvelous coaching of Bob Kelly. Don't you just love hearing about what the school is doing, now and reading about the kids who were there while we were? I see Beryl Orr has an ad in this issue—"The Beryl Orr. Shampoo and Finger Wave, 50c. Permanents and Marceis." I heard that Beryl does awfully good work."

Hazel—"Yes, and just below it I see Ronald Beardsley is advertising "Mammoth purple cabbages—fine quality, 5c a lb—at the Beardsley Roadside Market." I understand he has made a real success as a farmer."

Marion—"Yes, his wife is a great help to him."

Hazel—"And look at this—Hawley Skarritt has opened a School of Tap Dancing: "Will teach fancy dancing if desired, private lessons $5 an hour. The Skarritt Studio." Can you feature that?"

Marion—"George Beechum and Clifford Galligan are certainly doing well. I understand they are making good money"

Hazel—"What are they doing?"

Giftatory

Hawley Skarritt

Faculty members, friends and classmates:

My task in these commencement exercises tonight is to award to each graduate some small token as remembrance of the class of 1932. Each gift has been chosen according to the personality and characteristics of the individual for whom it is intended.

My first gift goes to Fred Alonius, Pasadenious Stewart. We wish to present Mr. Stewart with a diploma for twelve years of hard labor as Janitor of Clarkston High School. Mr. Stewart started his Janitorship at the same time that this class entered school, so I think Mr. Stewart deserves a diploma for good work and especially for his kindly helpfulness, and most of all for his keeping the old school so warm in the wintertime.

Hazel Francis: Hazel has a very bad habit of blushing. She blushes whenever anyone speaks to her. So just to help Hazel out, I'm giving her a bag of flour, which she may use to the best extent.

Gladys Gundry: The youngest member of our graduating class is a girl. So we are going to give Gladys Gundry a rattle, so she can remember that she was the baby of the class of 1932.

Bernice McFarland: We have a student who is going into the restaurant business this summer. (Continued on page 4)

Wednesday evening, June 29th the Prouse Progressive Class will sponsor an entertainment in the church at 8 o'clock. The program will be put on by a mixed quartette from Flint and will be very much worth while. These singers have been heard over the radio and will be heard again over one of the Detroit stations early in July. Tickets may be secured from members of the class. Proceeds will go toward the church budget.

Valedictory

Betty Huntly

We, the class of nineteen hundred thirty-two bid you farewell. The word goodbye is one filled with emotion. Farewell means a finish, an ending. The close of any venture or experience, even one that is not all joy, is tinged with regret. With how much greater sadness do we say farewell to an experience which has been so happy; our four years in High School. We are closing, saying farewell, to many things.

We are leaving our teachers—that group of men and women who throughout our school career have influenced, trained, and given us a vision of that ever-widening horizon whose margin widens and broadens as our experience and knowledge increase. To these kind friends we say "Adieu".

We are leaving the warm and familiar friendship, the comradeship of classmates, that has grown and forced its roots deeply into our hearts as the days and weeks passed into memories. We have been bound together not only by our common interests and affection for each other, but also by the organized machinery of our school. Now this routine of activity will for us be broken. We are no longer a class with the privileges and duties of students in High School. We are no longer a group working to present plays successfully, that serves on the Student Council, and that participates in athletics. We will no longer be in the study halls together, or calling class meetings and having arguments about the class parties. Our class discussions and varied opinions will be at an end. We go out now as individuals and although many of these old friendships will continue, perhaps grow even deeper, yet we must face the fact that distance, other interests, or misfortune will sever these contacts. Yet the very fact that these friendships, these close companionships, once endured will make lasting impression on our lives and will give us faith and courage to go on and make new friends and fortunes.

We are leaving our studies in school. But we are not leaving the love of books, or the many, many lessons we have gained from them—lessons that are the foundations on which our future will be based. Not mere "book knowledge", but the knowledge of life and living that comes to us through the pages of these books from the hearts and souls of the authors. Bacon taught us to meditate and think. From Shakespeare we learned about life as it really is. Stevenson taught us that the true success is to labor, Tennyson has given us idealism and courage, and Browning showed us a vision of life as a whole, as a continued, ever-progressing, ever-developing growth. Our definitely assigned lessons, our required studying, are over for many of us, but we will have acquired that urge to better ourselves and to advance our knowledge more than ever.

We are leaving the thrill, the vigor of our High School athletics, and the love of fair competition, and good sportsmanship that they have taught us. The rules and standards, the ethics of "the game", will be of inestimable value to us in our every day living. We must be good winners, good losers. We must follow the common-sense health rules of "training."

But most of all we are leaving the shelter of our boyhood and girlhood. To parents and elders who have tasted life's disappointments and successes; graduation exercises, salutatory and valedictory may seem only a minor part. But to us, graduation is probably the most important step that we have taken thus far. While in no way do we feel a sense of standing still, we do realize that we have reached an important place. Instead of following our scheduled routine day after day, we take on added responsibility. We must shape our own lives—we are now responsible in the eyes of the world.

And so to our teachers, our classmates, and to all the life and activity of our High School days, we say a regretful farewell, but to the future we turn with hearts full of high courage and a faith in the ultimate triumph of goodness, justice, and right!

Mrs. B. Reynolds and daughter Doris left last Sunday for Coruna where she will spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. E. Galloway. Soon after school is out, Bob Reynolds will also leave for the summer vacation.

Miss Lizzie A. Moon of Holt has been visiting relatives in the village this week.

urge them to spend a VACATION IN MICHIGAN

HEALTH and vigor will be gained from a vacation spent in Michigan. Her brilliant sunshine, lake-cooled climate, and pine-scented breezes are Nature's tonic.

The millions of dollars spent each year by Michigan's thousands of visitors add to the prosperity of the state. Let us also spend our own vacations in Michigan this year, thereby contributing still further to its prosperity.

And wherever you go, dispel worry by telephoning home and office frequently. Call friends to tell them when you will arrive. Telephone ahead for hotel accommodations. Long Distance rates are low.

SIX CYLINDERS
no more - no less" says America

Since January 1st, buyers have chosen more Chevrolet Sixes than the combined total of all fours and all eights priced below $1000

CHEVROLET SALES
ALL EIGHTS priced below $1000
ALL FOURS

Look at what happened when America began hitting hoods and counting cylinders: Overwhelming preference for "SIX CYLINDERS" No more - No less. A sweeping endorsement of the soundness and correctness of the Chevrolet six cylinder engine!

America knows its motor cars. And America knows you can't get around these facts about cylinders in a low priced car: That six is the largest number you can have and still get uneexcelled economy! That six is the fewest you can have and still get built-in smoothness! And who wants to sacrifice either of these great factors of motoring satisfaction?

America prefers the Chevrolet Six because it strikes a happy medium between two extremes. It gives economy, the lowest operating and upkeep cost of any American car, as proved by the experience of tens of thousands of owners! It gives smoothness, the built-in smoothness that makes driving really comfortable, effortless, enjoyable! And it gives many other advantages just as essential and important as six cylinders. Advantages that no other low-priced car can match.

Fisher bodies - big, spacious, luxurious Fisher bodies - styled in the latest custom mode, built solidly and ruggedly to give long service!

That matchless combination - Free Wheeling and Synchro-Mesh - for quick, quiet, effortless shifting and positive car control.

A dependable chassis, whose basic design has been proved in the hands of millions of satisfied owners.

Such features of riding comfort as four parallel mounted springs, four hydraulic shock absorbers, a light weight and correct balance!

And new reduced prices - as much as $50 and $55 lower than they were before!

Chevrolet is able to give this value because Chevrolet is the world's largest producer of motor cars. Largest for three out of the past five years! Largest for the first six months of 1932! First in value - First in sales!

Marion—"Why they are the proprietors of the Peerless Shrinkless Shapeless Knit Underwear Company, Inc. They have an ad in the Alumni News. For insurance of durability, beauty, and perfect fit, call at one of the Beechum and Galligan stores and examine our latest styles in knit underwear."

Hazel—"My goodness, I never knew that."

Marion—"Yes, and Gladys Gundry has a fine position with them as private secretary. It says here: 'Miss Gladys Gundry, who is employed as private secretary to the firm of Beechum and Galligan, is now away on her vacation to Panama. She will return next month and resume her work for the firm.' She just loves her work."

Hazel—"Why, here's a picture of Betty Huntly. 'Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huntly announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Janet, to Mr. Harrison Samuel Walter of California. The wedding is to take place in the autumn.'"

Marion—"Yes, she has been west all this summer. Well, they certainly ought to know their own minds by now."

Hazel—"Oh, look here! It says Maurice Miller is the head salesman for the Peerless, Shrinkless, Shapeless Knit Underwear Company, Inc. 'Mr. Miller has been out on the road the last week demonstrating the latest models.' Is there anything about Buck in there?"

Marion—"Yes, it says: 'Ronald A. Weber, local veterinary, made a hurried trip to the Ronald Beardsley farm last week, where he extracted several abscessed teeth from one of Mr. Beardsley's prize Clydesdales. Dr. Weber was rather unfortunate, however, as he fractured his arm during the process. Dr. Weber tells us this is the 29th time it has been broken.'"

Hazel—"Yes, he broke his arm again. He's so fragile."

Marion—"And did you know that Eddie is the lawyer for Beechum and Galligan firm? He's employed exclusively by them."

Hazel—"Why, no; why didn't you tell me that before?"

Marion—"Yes, it says here: 'E. J. Larson, attorney for Beechum and Galligan, has just returned from a business trip to Chicago, where he upheld his firm in another interesting case.' And right above that, 'Stella Crosby has just completed her cross country drive in one of the latest Fords.' Remember how she used to want to take up flying?"

Hazel—"Look, right there in the second column, 'Miss Dorothy Powers, who was married last week and is on her honeymoon in the South, will upon her return reside in her new home at Ortonville.'"

Marion—"Right below that is Robert Croasdel's announcement that he is moving his Tea Room to Main Street. He's having a special on cream puffs this week."

Hazel—"I see where Wayne Parnall is Superintendent of the Waterford School and that the school has increased in membership half during his first five years. They have taken first place in debating and argument. Of course under the coaching of Wayne."

Marion—"Yes, he wanted the kids to learn so much in a short time that some were taken out on account of bad health. He has a side line too—Helps edit The Clarkston News."

Hazel—"Do you remember Gwilvere Gador? It says here that she is to sing at the Andersonville Church next Sunday. We ought to drive out. She married a well-to-do farmer last year."

Marion—"Look at this: 'Maurice Ogden is in Hollywood doubling for Clark Gable while Mr. Gable is on a vacation.' I suppose his eyes are responsible?"

Hazel—"They always were so dark and dreamy, but he never used to know how to use them."

Marion—"Gwendolyn McGrain has just accepted a position as chief operator for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company in Detroit. I heard she was making a real place for herself."

Hazel—"By the way, I met Stuart Farmer on the street the other day."

Marion—"What's he doing now?"

Hazel—"Why, he is flying instructor out at Selfridge Field."

Marion—"I suppose his interest in flying is a carry over from the old bicycle days."

Hazel—"Maybe. Here's an interesting item. 'Miss Erna Konzen and Miss Bernice McFarland of the class of '32, two of Clarkston High School's most popular teachers, will sail for deep water. They arrived just in time for the initiation held at Ellen Beardsley's.

Betty Huntly, Edward Larson, and Gwendolyn McGrain presented themselves in the tenth year.

Stuart Farmer and Maurice Miller boarded the ship in the eleventh year. While we were Juniors we presented the play, "Phoebe Cleans House," under the guidance of Miss Minor. This was the first play presented on the new stage. We entertained the graduating class at the annual Junior and Senior banquet in this year. Gwendolyn was absent that year, but returned the next along with Robert Kelly, Erna Konzen, George Beechum and Gordon Boice.

Our senior year stands out in our memory as the most delightful of the four years of High School. Perhaps this is because it is most recent in our memory—perhaps because of the nearness to completion and the usual Senior activities. As Seniors we produced the annual play, "The Wasp's Nest," with Mrs. Huttenlocher as director. Our Senior year was also brightened by the customary Senior Skip Day, which this time occurred on May second. We spent part of the day at Belle Isle and at the Fox Theatre. We were the guests of honor at the Junior and Senior Banquet this year and had a very enjoyable time.

Our class parties have been few, but of high quality and enjoyable.

Many of our class members have been active participants in athletics and on the Student Council.

Our force of High School Captains was: Mr. Lunn, Miss Minor, Miss Anthony, Miss Michelson, Mrs. Potter, Mr. Thornley and the staff we now have whom you probably all know.

While we were back in the fifth year one of our number, Wayne Parnall, wrote a prophecy for the class of 1932, which I will now give to you.

We don't call it fate or luck, As each day brings problems new, We admit sometimes we're stuck, But our teacher helps us through.

You won't hear much about us now, We are only little-girls and boys, But in nineteen thirty-two, That is when we will make our noise.

The time has now come and we are making our noise.

Our ship has docked in Clarkston Harbor and the passengers are all going ashore. As we leave the sturdy craft and its officers we realize that we must now chart our own courses, and each assume full responsibility for his or her future voyages on the great sea of life.

mer and we don't want her to make any mistakes in cooking so I am giving her a cook book, which I hope she will use. Invite me up to dinner some time.

Gwilvere Gador: We have a student who is a very fine singer as you have already noticed, so I am wishing that Gwilvere will always keep her voice in tune and just to show how much I wish her to do this, I am giving a standard tuner voice in tune all of the time.

Maurice Ogden: I was talking confidentially to a student of our graduating class and he was telling me all his troubles. But the worst of all was that he didn't know how to make love to a girl. He asked me if I would help him and I said I would. So I have a book written by Robert Kelly on how to make love in twenty minutes.

Marion Dunston: We also have a girl with a very bad temper. At times it is terrific. So I have been asked by a certain person, to see if I could help it. I told him I would do my best. So I consulted the leading physician of the country and he has given me a tonic which he guarantees will control the temper. There is red in her hair.

Clifford Galligan: We have a boy who is a practical joker, but his greatest faults are starting to tell a joke and then forgetting the main point. So I am giving Clifford a brand new joke book, full of the latest jokes and explanation of each one.

Gordon Boice: Gordon seems to have trouble finding his razor or else his razor doesn't cut them off good. So I'm going to give Gordon a brand new razor which will get them off if there are any.

Robert Croasdel: A second Fritz Kreisler is going from Clarkston High this year. His name is Robert Croasdel. I'm going to give him a brand new fiddle just like Fritz Kreisler uses in his Symphonic Pieces.

Beryl Orr: We have a student who is a very good dancer. Her name is Beryl Orr. She goes to so many dances that she is wearing out her shoes. So to help her out, I'm giving her some heel plates. Now they won't wear out.

Stella Crosby: We have a student who is going into a very high position this summer. She is going into the aviation business. I am giving her a model of her aeroplane so she can learn the outside appearance of one.

Erna Konzen: We have a student who has been so fortunate as to never have to use lipstick or rouge. But she may have to have a little in the future so I'm giving Erna a brand new compact with full directions.

Edward Larson: We have a student who is called every morning at six o'clock. He gets dressed, combs his hair, carelessly eats breakfast, then the real task comes. First, he gets a towel and wraps it about his shoulders. Gets the mirror in the right position and gets the tonic bottle, wets his hair and from seven-fifteen to eight forty-five is combing his hair. Now in order that he can get to work on time, I'm giving him a big comb which will get all the hair in one sweep.

Robert Kelly: We have a student who is going to take Floyd Gibbon's place in the near future. His name, of course, is Robert Kelly. So seeing he has a good job I have bought him a dictionary of the best make and in the back of it is a list of all the words and how you can say them in the quickest possible time.

Stuart Farmer: We have a very ambitious student who takes his exercise by riding a bicycle to school. You know it is very dangerous to ride a bike with long trousers, so I got Stuart a pant leg bracket to hold his pant legs from catching in the chain. Don't forget to use it.

Betty Huntly: Betty has just one real desire and that is a good picture of Sam, so I scouted around and found one. I am giving it to Betty with my best regards.

Dorothy Powers: Dorothy has a very high ambition. But as we know Dorothy is not very tall. So I am giving her a bottle of medicine, which is supposed to make a person gain from 1 to 5 inches. I hope Dorothy will appreciate this gift and use it as it is given in directions.

Wayne Parnall: We have a student who has heard that Rip Van Winkle's long record for sleep has never been broken. He has
