Bert Beebe was the only injured and his injury wasn't serious although he did go limping about. He got hit on the leg with a ball when he was trying to steal second. At the time during the game Bob Jones attempted to steal third. The ball beat him to third and he turned back to second. Dutch Walters and Bert Beebe, second and short, had the ball between them and couldn't seem to make up their minds which would go to the base with it, so Bob stole All around them, making a circle around second and tapped the base just as Bert decided to go to the base with the ball. So Bob was safe. The teams kidded Andy Frances about not playing so well because he hadn't had much sleep the night before. But Heward Huttenlocher was the prize player of the day. Bill kidd-ed him so much that he evidently was fussed when he went up to bat. He struck out three times and the fourth time he fell down in the act of striking at the ball.

Once Bill Dunston lost the ball and the whole group made up a searching party for it, only to find it lodged in the back of his glove.

The gang had a great time and the Regulars challenge the Old Timers to another conflict.

Golf Tournament Being Organized

There has been so much enthusiasm for a golf tournament reported to the local business men, that plans are being formulated for a handicap event early Sunday morning, September 25. Tentitive arrangements include special rates at a nearby 18 hole course with prizes for all the winners. It is hoped that everyone will send in an entry as early as possible so that complete arrangements can be made and handicaps determined.

The committee in charge includes Lewis Chamberlain, L. L. Connolly, Roy Alger and Dan Winn. If expectations are reached, there will be thirty or forty entries, so register early please. Everybody is eligable and there is no fee except the cost of your own golf game.

Variety Test Conducted by John Canfield

John Canfield; son of William Canfield, living north of New Hudson, has completed harvesting a variety test plot as part of his Smith-Hughes pro ject. Two varieties, the Irish Cobbler and Russet Rural, were planted in alternate rows on April 29th and dug on August 20th. The object of the test was to determine which variety produced the greater yield and the better quality when dug early. The potatoes were dug August 20th and the yields graded and weighed. The Cobbler produced a total yield of 142 bushels per acre compared with 77 bushels for the Russet Rurals. In this particular test the Cobblers not only gave the better yield, but better quality, the Russet Rurals being soft and immature. Mr. Canfield expressed the opinion that most potato growers would do better by planting an early variety for the early market and a late or main crop variety for the fall young son attended the annual Ameri- and winter market, since the Russet can Legion Gala Day celebration at Rural requires a much longer period to reach maturity.

A sample of potatoes sent to Prof. R. H. Pettit from Bay City by the county agricultural agent proved to be infested with the larvae of the tuber moth: These larvae tunnel through the potato and ruin it for food. The potatoes were part of a ship Shooting waterfowl must cease at ginia. The State Department of Agri culture immediately sent men to trace other portions of the shipment of potatoes and to seize them so they could be destroyed to prevent the emergence of any adult moths in this State. .. Several thousands of bushels of potatoes were taken from dealers in Detroit and destroyed. The State Department now has declared a quarantine on shipments of potatoes from states where the tuber moth is known to be serious pest.

The College entomology department recommends several measures for the control of the moth if it emerges in the State but hopes that the steps already taken will prevent this insect Conservation, today, fifteen days prior from becoming another source of annoyance and expense to the farmers in Michigan.

Before November 1, 1932, approximately 250,000 motor vehicle operators must secure new drivers' licenses. The new license law, adopted by the 1931 legislature, ordered motorists who secured their old licenses between January 1, 1928, and November 1, 1929 to secure new licenses before November 1 of this year.

Department of State records show that during 1928 and 1929 a total of 436,000 drivers' licenses were issued. But because many of these motorists have already secured new licenses, it is estimated that only about 250,000 licenses will expire in about six weeks. Old drivers' licenses, secured after November 1, 1929, expire according to the 1931 law, three years after date of issue. Applications for new licenses should be made to the police or sheriff of the municipality or county in which the motorist resides. " Of the $1 fee charged the driver for the license, 15 cents is returned to the municipality or county receiving the application and the balance is turned over to the Department of Public Safety after cost of administering the law has been deducted.

Tracing Duck Travels Thru Leg Brands

clean.

The number of sportsmen who have at least one "leg biography" or some bagged bird is growing and it is probable that within a few years there will be hunters who have miniature metal libraries telling the life history and travels of several birds, according to the Game Division of the Department of Conservation.

"Leg biographies" are the metal bands placed on the legs of birds and through which the United States Biological Survey and the Department of Conservation hope to learn something about the travels and habits of ducks and the effectiveness of continued pro pagation of ring-neck pheasants.

Every year hundreds of wild and captive reared ducks are banded at Munuskong Park in the Upper Peninsula, at the State Game Farm at Mason, at the W. K. Kellogg Bird Sanctuary near Gull Lake and at several other private banding stations in the state. Then each year before the birds are released bands are placed on the legs of thousands of male-pheasants at the game farm. All bands are numbered and records are kept of each bird and the number of the band t wears.

The hunter who finds a banded bird should either send the band itself to the place designated on the bit of metal or he may keep the band and report the number. He should also tell the date of the kill and the location as definitely as possible. This information tallied with the banding record gives some interesting data about the bird. The individual who reported the band is sent a report as to available information about the bird. The State Conservation Department is especially eager to obtain reports of banded pheasants so that it might determine just how effective is its policy of releasing thousands of pheasants every year. Were all banded birds killed during the 1932 season reported, the Department could get some idea of the relative proportion of native wild stock and birds distributed from the state game farm.

"You can come up if you want to. I'll be here, but I won't be able to talk to you, as I have all the gas jets turned on."

This was what Miss Mildred Blackburne, Hartford telephone operator, heard when she was asked by a person in Bristol, Conn., to find out why the woman she was calling in Hartford kept hanging up the receiver. While Miss Blackburne was ringing the Bristol subscriber to learn the address of the young woman in Hartford, Miss Crace MacGregor, night assistant chief operator, got in touch with the police and asked them to investigate.

About a half hour later, the detective bureau called. "Well, you saved her life all right, operator," the officer said. Police had found the place filled with gas.

Winter barley did not prove very popular and the inspection service on this crop was discontinued. The successful crops harvested by the Kent county growers may arouse interest in the crop again.-

The barley does not seem to winter kill easily and there are few reports of crop failures from this cause. The grain is planted about the same time as winter wheat. Two growers report that they obtained good crops from discing corn ground after that crop had been placed in the silo:

Winter barley ripens early and often ready to harvest the last week in June. This barley is bearded but the beards break off easily-during threshing. The College crops department is trying to cross breed this barley to obtain a new winter barley which will have smooth beards.

Where Shall America Turn THERE'S NO PLAC READ HOME

By HENRY T. EWALD, President Campbell-Ewald Company

Menlook at the weakened structure of business in "our po-little rich country" and wonder what industry can supply the sti ulus for recovery.

Perhaps, if we turn our eyes away from the brooding f tories, stores and office buildings to the 30,000,000 homes of nation, we shall find the answer to one of our problems "right our own backyard." For America has travelled a curious cir way from home and back again during a single generation.

Not so long ago, when we said "There's no place like hom we spoke and thought of the beauty, comfort and family ties that dearest place on earth. Then came "prosperity"—and w it a gradual "flight from home."

Father, when he didn't "stay at the club," found himself turning more and more frequently to a household from wh other members had flown. Almost imperceptibly the old famil saying took on a new meaning. It became literally true-Th was no place like home. The deeper significance of that we disappeared from the consciousness of tens of thousands families.

Then came depression. And now the circle of our wanderi is completed.

Somewhat reluctantly at first-but with a growing feel of relief, tranquility and enjoyment-the American family come back home. Once more they are saying, "There's no p like home," and genuinely meaning it. But-are they going stay?

It is up to individual fathers and mothers on the one handthe great forces of the building industry on the other to m American homes more liveable-to realize that the home of will no longer suffice for the family of 1932-to modernize home by installing some of the wonderful comforts of this day. For our American homes are by no means as modern as like to think.

Less than 22% of rural and village homes, for example, h bathtubs—and, surprising as it may seem, only 68% of city ho can boast this common necessity.

Approximatey 85% of homes in most communities urgently in need of painting, decorating, repairing or alterat

Less than 20% of the wired homes of the United States e the comfort and utility of iceless refrigeration.

The number of oil burners in use is even smaller, for than 4% of American homes are equipped with this modern of heating.

As for that vital new development, Air Conditioning, sci fically-cooled homes in sweltering summer months are vitu unknown.

And yet, some say, "Our Americañ job is finished!" Who doubt the almost universal desire for these improvements overlook the significance; from an economic standpoint, of situation confronting us? In the hearts of our people the great est revival of home interest in a generation! The most wonderful home comforts and luxuries of all time! And thirty million American homes waiting for them!

Here is opportunity-a direct challenge to the finest brains of industry-and a market holding rich rewards for those with the will and skill to supply the need.

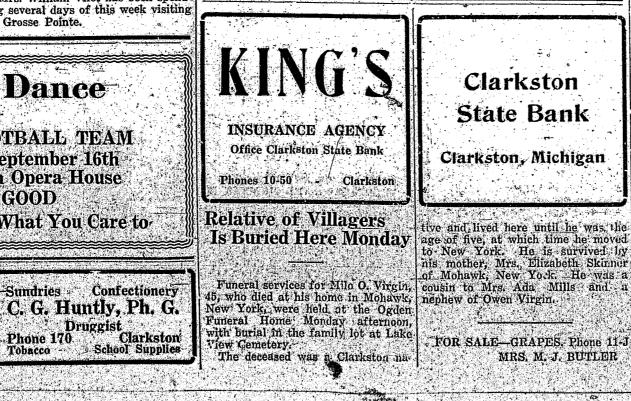

The die-hard depressionists will ask, "Yes, but what are people going to use for money?" The answer is, America is facing depression—but America is not beggared. We have lost much —but we have not ost per capita weath far beyond any other nation on earth-nor a payroll greater even today than all Europe combined-nor skilled man-power and industrial equipment unequalled anywhere in the world.

The real question is: Have we lost courage-initiative-ingenuity? And that is a question, not for the public, but for builders in every line. And salesmen. And advertising men, perhaps, most of all.

For the big task of the building industry today, and of all other industries seeking buyers, is to overcome Apathy with Advertising. Advertising is equal to the task. It will improve the present and make great the future for those businesses which employ it wisely. But it must be good Advertising-burrowing deep into the consciousness of the people-soundly planned, ably prepared, well directed.

The words, "Les't get busy!" must supplant "What's the use?" as a national slogan—a policy of do something must replace a policy of do nothing-at least among those who hope to hold leadership tomorrow.

America is coming back! What industry can lead the way? Where shall America turn for stimulus to recovery? Here is one suggestion: There's no place like home!

CARRY A

eliciously Cooked Supper out to the shore of the lake

It's a simple trick nowadays with the new portable electric cookers. Have your evening meal in the cool out-ofdoors - anywhere you wish - and enjoy the same completely cooked dinner you'd have at home. With an electric cooker, you can prepare two vegetables, a custard, a roast, potatoes and gravy - all at the same time. You simply plug the cooker into any electric outlet. When the food is cooked, carry the cooker by the handle to the car. The meal will stay warm and appetizing for hours.

Dependable cookers in several sizes are on display, we will be glad to show them to you and explain their convenience.
