CLARKSTON, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1932

WHOLE NUMBER 165

VOL. IV, NO. 1

Tariff Brings Farmers $3,000,000

Sugar Beet Boom is Result of Republican Policy

As a result of the Republican protective tariff on sugar, 15,000 Michigan farmers are to benefit this year to the extent of $3,000,000. Salaries and wages to workers in the sugar plants will amount to $1,700,000 while the 12,000 workers in the sugar beet fields will receive in excess of $1,800,000. Coal, oil, coke, limestone, bags, and miscellaneous supplies and materials to be purchased in Michigan will cost more than $2,000,000. In all, Michigan will benefit from the tariff on sugar to the extent of $10,000,000.

The counties in which sugar beets this year are an important "cash crop" are Oakland, Saginaw, Bay, Midland, Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac, Shiawassee, Gratiot, Clinton, Ionia, Lapeer, St. Clair, Macomb, Genesee, Arenac, Isabella and Mecosta.

A year ago but four of Michigan's plants operated while this fall 10 plants, scattered through the sugar beet district, already have commenced slicing operations. A total of 130,000 acres were planted in beets this year and aided by fine growing weather the crop is large enough to insure capacity operations for each of the 10 plants for about 100 days.

Michigan ranks third among the states this year in beet-sugar production while last year, it was considerably lower in the list of states.

Drayton Teachers Entertained at Williams Lake

The Drayton Plains teachers were the guests of Miss Eileen Graybiel at Williams Lake Wednesday evening at a bridge party. Prizes were given and a delicious lunch was served. Everyone had a very enjoyable time.

Mrs. Mary Richmond continued ill at her home.

Prowlers Enter the Farmer E. Davies Home

During the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Farmer E. Davies, prowlers broke the glass in the south door, unfastened it and entered Saturday night. So far as can be determined, nothing of value is missing. The dresser drawers had been disturbed and ransacked. The prowlers evidently were hungry as they found some cooked chicken in the refrigerator and ate some, leaving the bones on the kitchen table. No clues were uncovered to lead to the identity of the invaders.

Group Attends Grand Chapter Eastern Star

The Grand Chapter Convention of the Order of Eastern Star was one of the important events in Detroit last week and quite a group from here attended. Mrs. Pearl Cole, Worthy Matron of the local chapter, and Mrs. Mildred Russell, Associate Matron, were official representatives of their group. They attended all of the meetings on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and report a splendid inspirational and enjoyable convention. Others who went from here included Mrs. Grace Kerr, Mrs. Evadna Richardson, Mrs. Lena Gale, Mrs. Lola Mann, Mrs. Lyla Hopkins, Mrs. Fannie Dunston and the Misses Louise Mann and Frances Marshall. This group attended some of the sessions. At the convention it was voted to hold the Grand Chapter convention of next year at Grand Rapids. It was also announced that the General Grand Chapter convention including all of the United States, would convene in Detroit in 1934.

O. E. S. County Ass'n. Meets at Davisburg

Walter Flumerfelt Is Accidentally Shot

Walter G. Flumerfelt, 55 years old, of Detroit, was accidentally shot Sunday by George Cliff while the men were hunting near here.

Flumerfelt and Cliff were standing on opposite hills above a little hollow and marsh just west of Beach's corner when a pheasant flew up between them. Cliff shot at the pheasant at the same time that Flumerfelt stepped from behind a tree in the line of shot. About 75 shot entered Flumerfelt's body and his entire side and arm was riddled with shot. He was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital at once and was very ill for a time but has since been able to be removed to his home.

Dunston Stars in Abbreviated Contest

by Ward Dunston

The Clarkston Independents met and conquered another foe Sunday on the High School field. Bill Dunston, our genial butcher, supplied the incentive and crashed his way over for a touchdown from the five yard line in the second period. The final score was 19, Clarkston, 0, Pontiac Stars.

The Clarkston Independents were somewhat disappointed in the Pontiac Stars Sunday in the fact that they did not really have a football team. This game was arranged through the Pontiac Press and was taken for granted that they could put a team on the field for a fair amount of opposition. As it was, they only had 11 men and after one was hurt the game had to be called, so the score was 19 to 0 in favor of the home team.

Next week the Ferndale Fire Department team plays here. This should be one of the hardest games of the year. The game starts at three o'clock.

Baptist Ladies' Auxiliary Meets

The October meeting of the Baptist Ladies' Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. E. Christian, last Friday, with a large number of members and guests present. Plans were made for a get-together, pot luck supper for members of the church and friends, to be held at the church Friday evening, October 28th. This is to be a Halloween party and a "hard-times" party.

The date of the regular public supper will be the first Wednesday of each month, hereafter, instead of the second Wednesday of the month as before. The next supper will be served Wednesday, November 2nd. The November meeting of the Auxiliary will be with Mrs. H. Baynes.

Literary Club Has Meeting in Waterford

Pearsall Family Meets With Accident Sunday

Wylie Pearsall, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Patricia, was injured at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, Mrs. Pearsall receiving minor bruises and Patricia escaping unharmed when their car collided with one driven by Julius W. Lehman of Detroit, on the Nine Mile Road, one and one-half miles from West Woodward avenue, as they were returning to Ferndale.

Mr. Pearsall started to pass the car when Lehman made a left-hand turn, signalling his intentions too late to avoid the accident. The right rear wheel of the Pearsall car caught the bumper of the other car, and was thrown against a pile of concrete beside the road where they had been repairing the pavement. The impact turned the Pearsall car upside down, leaving it standing with all four wheels in the air. The car was considerably damaged. Mr. Pearsall's injuries were most serious and he received a bad bump on the head, a sprained spine and a fractured rib.

Boston Symphony Is First of Concerts

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, recognized as one of the world's most distinguished ensemble groups, was organized in 1881, and is now in its 52nd year. At first it numbered but seventy players but has gradually and steadily been augmented until at the present time a hundred and ten players are listed on its roster and on its concert program, the full complement of men is carried. On the occasion of its Ann Arbor concert, October 25, the full complement will be present. Dr. Koussevitzky will give the following attractive and "exciting" program:

- I. Allegro
  - II. Larghetto
  - III. Gavotte
  - IV. Finale
- Two Nocturnes ..... Debussy
Nuages
Fetes
Tone Poem "Don Juan" Op. 20 (after Lenau) ..... Strauss
Symphonic No. 5 in E minor, Op. 64. .... Tchaikovsky
- I. Andante
  - II. Andante cantabile, con alcuna licenza
  - III. Valse (Allegro moderato)
  - IV. Finale; Andante maestoso; Allegro vivace

The first conductor was George Henschel, who was at the head of the organization until 1884, when he was succeeded by Wilhelm Gericke, who presided until 1889. Arthur Nikisch and Emil Paur headed the organization from 1889 until 1898 when Wilhelm Gericke was again called to preside over the organization, serving this time from 1898 until 1906. From 1906 until 1914, Dr. Karl Muck, Max Fiedler and the latter portion of the period, Dr. Muck again presided. There was an interlude from 1914 to 1918 and after the war, two distinguished Frenchmen were called to head the organization—Henry Raubaud and Pierre Monteux, whose regime continued from 1918 to 1924, at which time Serge Koussevitzky was called from Russia. He has presided for the longest period. The good father of the orchestra for many years was Col. Henry L. Higginson who not only had much to do with the direction of the orchestra's administrative policies but who provided funds over a period of many years to make up deficits and to add to the prestige of the organization.

Loses Bet; Wheels Man Through Town

When Michigan played Michigan State there were a good many bets made, won and lost. Some of them were substantial, some were serious and still others were humorous.

Walter Andrews and Floyd Bossard made a bet that was different. And we mean different. Their bet stated that the loser must wheel the winner in a wheel barrow from his home in the "sub-division, down the hill to main street, up main to the corner of Washington, turn around and go back to back home. Some job!

Walter bet on Michigan State and, of course, Walter lost. So Floyd Bossard got a ride. Walter insisted on waiting until Sunday afternoon when he thought most of the villagers might be out enjoying the day-out, away from the village.

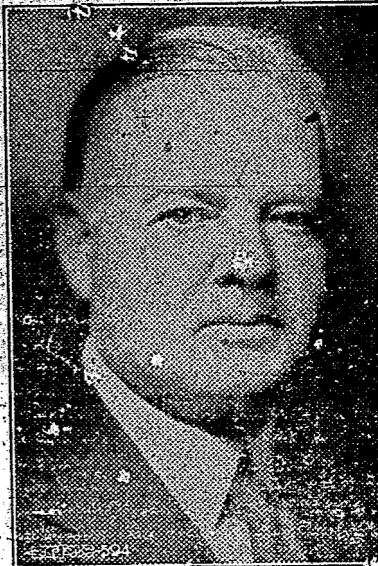

No Floyd made himself (to all appearances) comfortable on a seat with a pillow on it in the wheel barrow to enjoy the long ride. They started from Andrews' home, came down the hill, up the little hill, and on down Main street where they turned north and went the full business block. At the corner of Washington they turned around and proceeded back home.

When Floyd was questioned as to how it felt to have such a ride, he remarked that it was "swell-going" on the way down but that on the way back up that hill that Walter made a poor horse. But Floyd didn't make any move to get out and walk. No, street.

When questioned on this matter Monday morning Walter turned a delicate pink and threatened to do all sorts of things if this were published. But here goes!

Drayton Plains

Drayton Plains P. T. A. will sponsor a hard time party in the school auditorium on Friday evening, October 25, at eight o'clock at the M. E. Church. The Detroit chapter of the A. Y. A. is sending out a speaker to conduct the discussion. All questions will be answered and the meeting will be in the form of an open forum. Everyone is welcome.

HERBERT HOOVER

President Herbert Hoover is to deliver his third speech of the campaign in Detroit next Saturday night. The decision of the president to carry his message to the industrial workers of the automobile city, was made Monday after the president's return to the White House following his address in Cleveland. So successful was the Ohio speech that President Hoover feels a visit to the automobile center will do much to dispel the half-truths which Democrats have instilled into the minds of the workers in the Central West.

Over 200 Attend P. T. A. Reception

Over two hundred adults and a number of children attended the P. T. A. reception and program at the school Wednesday evening. The affair was an informal get-together at which the entire community was welcome and at which the teachers of Clarkston School and Rev. C. E. Edwards, new minister of the M. E. Church, Mrs. Edwards, and Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Huey were honor guests. The 16-piece high school orchestra played while the crowd was gathering and the reception committee mingled among the group welcoming folks.

Iva M. Miller opened the meeting and called for minutes, which were read by the secretary, Mrs. B. Reynolds, and approved. Mrs. Miller gave a report on the sale of bittersweet for the milk fund and announced that $20.55 had been taken in. It was moved and seconded that this money be used for the milk fund and also for lumber for the lunch tables. Eight lunch tables are being made. It was also announced that the P. T. A. would have a chicken dinner at the school next month to raise money for the milk fund.

It was announced that the teachers would be in their rooms to meet the parents for a half hour before the next P. T. A. meeting.

Max Souby gave a delightful solo, accompanied by Adele Gardner. Earl Walter then gave an address of welcome, which was followed by two numbers by the combined choir of both churches. The group then stopped to listen to Henry Ford's talk over the radio.

Rev. H. A. Huey responded with a short talk and then a saxophone quartette composed of Henry Hoyt, Ralph and Harold White and King Melany gave two numbers. Rev. C. E. Edwards was introduced and responded with a short talk. Stanley Spencer gave a coronet solo and then D. M. Winn introduced the teachers and spoke a few words on the economic condition of our country.

Following this program a social hour was enjoyed and cider and doughnuts were served.

Guernsey and Jersey Dairymen Meet

A movement has been started by the County Agricultural Agents in Oakland, Lapeer, Macomb and St. Clair Counties and leading Guernsey and Jersey dairymen to find a better market for Jersey and Guernsey milk.

At a meeting held in Romeo, October 14th, plans were made for organizing Guernsey and Jersey dairymen in these four counties. A survey of the territory to find out how much Jersey and Guernsey milk is available will be made shortly.

At the present time, a good share of the so-called Jersey and Guernsey milk is nothing more than ordinary milk built up by adding Jersey and Guernsey milk or cream separated from ordinary milk. This condition is greatly resented by dairymen producing Jersey and Guernsey milk. It will be their plan to assure the consuming public that milk labeled as Guernsey or Jersey milk really is that product.

Promising Outlook

If Northville enjoys the prosperity predicted for it by a government engineer when he spoke there recently, and this vicinity is bound to share in the good times. The following article, quoted from the Northville Record of last week, carries positive prophecy in that line.

It will be of interest to our readers to know that a government engineer, Harry Lieber of Detroit, who spoke with a background of experience to a company of 90 representatives of real estate salesmen at the local library on Tuesday evening, Oct. 4, spoke very encouragingly of the outlook for this locality. Mr. Lieber, who has travelled widely with President Hoover, has a knowledge of industrial conditions and predicts that Henry Ford has an immense project just ahead which will materially benefit this section.

Mr. Lieber believes that in the near future Detroit will operate its own steel plant on a large scale and that oil refining companies will be established there also. He feels sure that the St. Lawrence waterway is "cinched" and that when this is opened the future of this Detroit area will know no bounds in its development.

"Little Missie"

By Nellie Hoard Sutton

Editor's Note: Nellie Hoard Sutton, who is known to many of our readers as Mrs. James C. Sutton of Route 7, Pontiac, comes to us from the south and her inner knowledge of the darkies, their ideas and ideals have been given to the public through numerous stories. She has written and had published many daisy stories and a number of lovely poems. She has consented to give our readers one of her stories, "Little Missie."

Old Uncle Wash Doolittle, a white-haired, ante-bellum negro with several younger companions sat around a smoldering camp fire.

A cool breeze moaned through the tall pines and two fat surly opossums sat huddled in an old cracker sack near by.

"Tell us a story, Uncle Wash," urged one of the younger negroes.

Uncle Wash lit his pipe and began one of his favorite and true stories.

"Boys, dem was de happy days. Ole Marse John was a good provider and de ole smoke-ouse stayed full o' meat an' de tater bank full o' taters. Dar was jes one thing botherin' Marse John den, an' dat was Little Missie.

"Now dat little gal was de apple o' his eye. De ma been daid since Little Missie was knee high to a duck. 'Cap'tin' whut little he'p de ole aunts giv, Marse John dun raised dat little gal up riat by hese'f.

"But when she growed up a pretty young 'oman a young dudeish fellow cumed 'round one day tryin' to sell her daddy a new kind o' buggy wid rubber tires on an' he spy Little Missie. Guess it was love at first sight. But Marse John set he foot down an' say, no, dat Little Missie was 'fired' top young, besides she ain't knowed dat man long 'nough.

"Den Little Missie cry an' cry an' git pale an' thin an' she beg me to tawk to her daddy an' try to make him change he min' an' I promise I would but I ain't never had de chance.

"'Tont long atter dat 'til dat fellow was bein' bold an' was comin' up to see Little Missie in one o' dem new rubber tired traptions. Guess he was so busy lookin' toward de house tryin' to see Little Missie dat he went payin' no 'tention, but when he start ove de railroad crossin' riat down below de house dat train dun hie de whole shebang slap in de middle. An' well, boys, dey des had to pick po' man up in pieces in a sack. De hoss an' buggy was in de same fix."

"The speaker paused. A number of loud uhs' came from the listeners. Uncle Wash carefully packed the charcoal deeper into his pipe and proceeded with his story.

"Po' Little Missie, she dun grieve herse'f sick. Her daddy tawk an' tawk but ev' time she git a chance she say to me,

"Uncle Wash, mah life is ruined. It ain't worth livin' now."

"I try to tell her dat it showly mus' a been de han' o' God whut dun dat an' dat it was all fo' de bes'. But she never cu'd see it dat way.

"One day Marse John an' me had to go to town fo' a load o' rations an' hoss feed. Little Missie was lef' by herse'f, an' as we went on Marse John say,

"Wash, I see worried 'bout Missie. She's not actin' right since dat sweet-heart o' hers was killed."

"I say, 'Yes, boss, I knows it.' Dat was all I cud say. Den Marse John don't say nuthin' fo' a long time but he look worried.

"When we gits back we finds Little Missie in bed wid a burnin' up fever. Seem lak 'sumin' dun-tole me den an' dar, dat was de end.

"Dey called it typhoid fever but sho' as mah name's Wash Doolittle it was mo' heart-break dan de typhoid fevan, cause it didn't take but a week fo' whut ever it was to take dat little gal away.

"Po' Marse John look so ole atter dey laid her 'way wid de whole grave kilted wid roses. Dat was her favorite flower. He stood a long time atter dey all lef' an' des look an' look at de grave an' atter while he say,

"Wash, the last I hie is gone now. But I know she is happ, 'cause she loved him. So we will try not to grieve. But we are going to miss her."

"Yas-suh, Marsh John," was de way I answer him 'kaze I knowed it was all de trufe.

"We tuk two o' de roses from de grave, a red one an' a white one an' we set dem out in de front yand near de gate.

"Fo' 30 year dem rose bushes has growed an' bloomed an' mixed dey blossoms all ovan date ole trellis, an' prunes an' pets dems, lak dey was a-knowin' all 'bout it.

"Marse John use to pick a red an' a white one an' pin dem boys on his coat when he was gwine sum'ers all dressed up.

"Time passed on an' Marse John was gittin' near de end o' his road. Jes fo' he died he called me in an' say, 'Wash, I guess I'm 'bout ready to joine de children, jus' promise me you won't forget de rose bushes."

"I promised I wouldn't an' I ain't broke mah promise vit.

"Marse John" died in de summer time an' dat ole trellis was loaded wid roses. Not long atter dat dar was a pink rose dun open right out wid de red an' white ones. I knowed den an' dar dat Marse John dun lined de chilluns."

The story had ended. A hoot owl called to its mate in a distant pine. "Les be gwine boys," said Uncle Wash, as he laboriously arose from the log. "I got to bank dem rose bushes to-morrow 'cause winter ain't fer off."

Business Without Any Profit Cannot Last

A leading Texas banker who was formerly a merchant, published the following article in the September issue of his bank's monthly publication or house organ. It so exactly fits the situation as faced by a large share of today's business men, that we quote him in full:

"The Essential Profit"

"Only a strong expectation of profit can justify the risks of business, the investment of capital, the expenditure of thought and energy, the entailment of work and worry. If profits are not made, the effort becomes drudgery and failure is inevitable. Moreover, such failure may be brought about as easily and quickly by wilful disregard of the known fundamentals as by incompetency.

"During the last two years many of our business men have, apparently, lost sight of the importance of making a profit. In a scramble for volume, they have deluded themselves into believing that they could do the impossible. With most or all of their reserves gone and with business vitality at a low ebb, they are now beginning to try to get back to the fundamentals and restore the essential profit. With many it will be a struggle. It will require courage and determination. However strenuous the effort, the profit must be restored if the business is to survive.

"Some of the essentials in restoring profit, it seems to me, are these: Waste must be eliminated; proper accounting methods and cost systems must be used to determine true costs and overhead; THE SELLING PRICE MUST BE SUFFICIENT TO COVER ALL COSTS, PLUS A PROFIT; selling methods must rest on the basis of quality and service instead of staking all on price; WE MUST HAVE THE BUSINESS COURAGE TO LOSE A SALE WITHOUT LOSING FAITH. No reasonable buyer expects to buy below cost. Sustained prosperity is not possible unless every business transaction benefits both buyer and seller."

A STORY for MERCHANTS

who want to increase profits

The value of light as a merchandising factor has never been more apparent than today. Have you ever stopped to think that your show windows—vividly lighted—are one of your strongest helps in getting people into your store?

Good merchandise alone is not enough. It must be properly displayed. And an effective window display is invariably brightly lighted. Actual tests have proved—time after time—that modern lighting intensities increase the stopping power of show windows by 17 per cent to 75 per cent. Is YOUR window and store lighting adequate?

Without charge, our illuminating engineers will (1) measure your lighting with the foot-candle meter, to determine distribution and intensity; (2) draw a complete sketch of your store, with correct location and arrangement of outlets; (3) study your wattage and type of fixtures; (4) inspect your revised installation (if alterations are necessary). Their suggestions involve no obligation.

Miss Hyde's Room

We have a new member in the kindergarten, his name is Clayton Erick, Jr. We also have a new member in the first grade, her name is Viola Frick.

Billy O'Roark presented the kindergarten with three small bullheads for the fishpond. Our gold fish which has been kept by Carolyn Walter this summer has returned and looks as if it had had its full share of vitamins.

Mrs. Beardslee's Room

Hugh Cheeseman, one of our fourth graders, has left us for the present, but will return to us next spring. The fifth grade has been making Health Posters.

Mrs. Dunston's Room

We are making posters of Yes and No Foods. We are also making posters of Food and will list different foods under the following headings: Body Building and Repairing, Heat and Energy, and Body Regulating.

Seventh Grade

We are having a review over Asia in Geography. In Hygiene we are having a three-meal menu study which is very interesting. Most of the class are enjoying the seventh grade work.

Eighth Grade

In History Tuesday we had an election. We elected Duane Hurstall for teacher and Ester Spencer and Jack White to mark the class on how it recites.

Ninth Grade

The ninth grade had a spell down in biology and have been having spelling lessons in biology and english in biology we have drawn pictures of the crayfish and grasshopper.

Girl Scouts

Girl Scouts went on a hike Tuesday night in Ed Miller's woods.

Junior News

Our work in American Literature is on the work and study of the celebrated novelist James Fenimore Cooper.

In American History we are taking up the period after the American Revolution in which the government of the growing nation is to be constructed. This is interesting because the government for the future nation, the mightiest of the world, begins its growth at this point.

Senior Class

Don't be alarmed if you see the seniors all slicked up Monday. It's nothing serious. We're just having our pictures taken.

The photography will be done by the Camp Publishing Company. Seniors, will you please remember to bring your $5. as a deposit on your pictures?

Magazine Campaign

If you have any subscriptions or renewals to make on the following magazines, Woman's Home Companion, American, Collier's or Country Home, let us handle them. We are using the proceeds to help defray the graduation expenses.

Chorus

The 7th and 8th grade is running along smoothly and Mrs. Hutton is pleased very much with its balanced singing.

The high school chorus has started work on the music out of the new Blue Books, which consist of four-part singing. We are also reviewing last year's Thanksgiving Cantata.

Looking in on the Team

The team looks to me as if it were improving quite a little, they played a nice game against South Lyons last Friday and made their first touch down. After the first quarter the boys seemed to tighten down on South Lyons and only let them add six points to the twenty-one that they made in the first quarter.

The boys are going to Milford this Friday and try their luck. Let's hope that the boys are victorious.

William Brandt of Goodrich Passes On

Ford Throws His Support To President

Henry Ford, who needs no introduction in any part of the world, threw the full strength of his prestige to President Hoover Wednesday night when he made a 15-minute radio-talk from his private office in Dearborn, over a national hook-up.

The motor magnate, who a few years ago was widely discussed as a possible presidential candidate as the head of a "world peace" movement, gave a short terse resume of the heroic battle which President Hoover has fought to keep the United States from feeling the depths of the world depression as have European countries.

The private Ford wireless system which allow company officials to keep in touch with Ford properties all over the world was silent as the head of the industrial empire gave the United States his reasons for the re-election of President Hoover.

In recent years, Ford has not taken a prominent part in political activities of any kind. He has become exceedingly reticent about public statements and the radio talk last night marks one of the few times he has appeared before the microphone.

Appropriately enough, the name of Sing Sing penitentiary's football coach is John Ford. But Law is not a convict. He was formerly a member of the Notre Dame team and is at present a candidate for the New York assembly from Westchester county.

Hundreds know that Mr. Patterson has specialized in Probate Court practice and the settlement of estates. He has served as administrator, executor or trustee in estates of Oakland County's oldest families. He has served the 3rd generation of many clients. All of which proves his ability in probate work and the confidence in which his judgment and integrity is held. This is why thousands are supporting and voting for Samuel J. ### Summer Cottage at Drayton is Burned

The summer cottage owned by Rev. S. Thepezyerski of Detroit but occupied by Mrs. Frances Hapner and family, at Woodhill Lake near Drayton Plains, was destroyed by fire Wednesday of last week. The mother said her two children were away from home on an errand when the fire broke out and when she returned found the interior completely filled with smoke. She was able to save a few chairs and some clothing but helplessly stood by and watched the building burn to the ground in a very short time. The loss was covered by insurance.
