CLARKSTON SCHOOL NOTES
Miss Hyde's Room
It Really Happened

As Miss Hyde was very busy one day, she happened to send Henry Runk home with galoshes unfastened. Upon arrival home Mrs. Runk asked, "Why aren't your galoshes fastened Henry?"

Henry: "Well Mother, Miss Hyde takes me upon her knee every day. She's just one of those young girls."

In Health Class one day the children were asked to name some vegetables. The following children gave these answers:

Mary Cell: Soup; Basil Ash: Rabbit; Frederick Lentz: Pork; Henry Runk: Pumpkin Pie.

After two months absence Warren Smith has returned back to school.

On Monday and Tuesday the second grade had 100 per cent attendance.

The First grade children have started on their fourth reader.

The children in our room are planning an entertainment for P. T. A. with dances and rhythms.

Have you noticed that we have two Bob's, two George's and one Kenneth on our boys basketball team.

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Prichard from Royal Oak were Sunday visitors at the Methodist parsonage.

The local Methodist Basket Ball team defeated the Pontiac Oakland U. P. team Tuesday evening to the tune of 22 to 13.

INFANT DIES The son born Saturday at St. Joseph's hospital in Pontiac to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Scott passed away Monday.

Owing to the rather serious condition of the mother, up to Monday evening she had not yet been informed of the child's death. Her condition is greatly improved, however, and she will be informed of the tragedy.

The little body was brought to the Ogdén Funeral Home and burial was made in the Lake View cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott are the parents of a girl five years of age.

ATTEND FUNERAL OF AUNT

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beckman and daughter, of Oak Hill, attended the funeral of the former's aunt in Millington Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Beckman's aunt, Mrs. Herman Ketter, passed away last Thursday at the age of 55 after a lingering sickness. She is survived by her husband and five children. Mr. Ketter was a resident of this community before his marriage and has many friends here who were sorry to learn of his bereavement.

FRED BECKMAN ELECTED FARM BUREAU PRESIDENT

Fred Beckman of Oak Hill was elected to serve as president of the Oakland County Farm Bureau during the ensuing year at the annual farm dinner and meeting of Oakland county held in the local Methodist church last Friday. James S. Mitchell of Holly will serve as vice-president.

The following new board members were elected: Mrs. Perry Hewitt, Milford; Frank Williams, Highland; Herbert Baynes of this village and Percy King of Waterford. Other members serving an unexpired term are Mrs. Iva Miller of this village; Fred G. Beardslee, Oxford; J. C. Haynes of Davisburg and Floyd Vergin of Davisburg. At the first board meeting a secretary and treasure will be elected.

An interesting debate followed the dinner between teams representing the University of Michigan and the Michigan State College. The subject was, "Resolved that at least one-half of the State and local revenue should be derived from sources other than tangible property." Following the debate a poll showed that 38 believed in the affirmative, two the negative and others were undecided. Before the debate 55 were in favor of the affirmative, 17 undecided and none supported the negative. Eight of the 17 undecided switched to the affirmative side.

Other issues taken up were the recommendation of a board of arbitration to be formed to adjust differences between farm and home owners and holders of mortgages, the favoring of issuance of one automobile license to be used during the life of the automobile for which it was originally issued, opposition to the proposed congressional act to pay a bonus to growers of certain farm products for domestic consumption providing they reduce their acreage, and also opposed enactment of a sales or other tax levy by the state to raise funds above those available under the fifteen mill property tax until it is proved that revenue available is insufficient to meet necessities.

It was the consensus of opinion that citizens should be taxed in accordance with their ability to pay rather than in accordance with the state's needs and it is along these lines that the Farm Bureau will bend its efforts.

The menu was made up of county products furnished by the farmers themselves.

BANDITS MAKE GETAWAY AFTER HOLDUP

Clayton Erick who is employed as a driver by the Clarkston Coal Company was the victim of a daylight hold up while he was adjusting the carburetor on his truck on the Sasshaw road, three miles from Drayton Plains, late last Thursday afternoon.

The bandits made inquiry as to how they could get to Pontiac. Upon being informed they confronted Erick with a revolver demanding his money. Erick turned over $38.00 to them.

Although officials were notified immediately the bandits made their get away.

SPORT LITES
By Paul Hoffman
 The varsity played without the services of their regular backguard Friday night against Walled Lake. Porritt, who took White's place, deserves a lot of credit for the fine game he played. This was his first start on the regulars and he came thru like a veteran. A little more experience and he will be one of the best guards in this part of the country.

And don't overlook Miller. He also lacks experience, but next year he will probably be playing the other guard with Porritt. That will be a pair of guards good enough to give any offense a lot of trouble.

Last week this column went to considerable lengths about players on the Clarkston team throwing the ball. There were not so many of these heaves made against Walled Lake, but there were a few. Even these few should not have been made. We still say that a good player can get his shots and does not have to make wild throws.

It's too bad that the Clarkston girls couldn't have had a more successful season. They had a well balanced team that knew a lot of basketball. The big difficulty was the size of the forwards—they were too small.

Both Lowrie and Chamberlain are exceptionally good players, but being unable to dribble, it was absolutely impossible to get away from the large guards.

Marthey played a whiz of a game against Walled Lake. He was easily the best player on the floor, and that's something, because this Walled Lake outfit had a lot of good players.

The Clarkston let-up in the last few minutes can be traced directly to Marthey. He had played hard and was completely worn out. And when he let down the team just couldn't function. It's things like this that really prove the worth of a player to a team.

If it means anything to anyone (and it probably doesn't) this writer is in favor of allowing the forwards on a girls team free use of the dribble. This one bounce business is somebody's pipe dream.

Some say that the purpose of this one bounce dribble is to eliminate rough play. Watch a girls game and see how many times a girl falls as the result of this once bounce. They duck and drive for all the distance they can get, just like a fullback hitting a line.

But the main objection to this rule is that it takes away the most effective scoring weapon of a small forward. What chance has the small forward against the large guard without the dribble? Not much. They can only go a short distance in one bounce, and when they stop, there is the guard towering above and with arms extended above her head.

As a rule, a small person is naturally more deceptive than a large person. And as the dribble is the most deceptive play in basketball, by taking this means of attack away from the small player, brawn is given preference over speed and skill.

Are your favorite programs listed for this week? If not, a complaint to the News is all that is necessary for you to have them included in the programs next week.

Ah, yes, and if you want to know how your favorite radio entertainer got that way, the News is at your service. We have the low down on lots of them and we know where to find out about the others.

In 1923, President Coolidge's opening message to Congress was broadcast over six radio stations throughout the United States. Never before had so many stations been hooked together for a single broadcast.

In 1933, President Roosevelt's opening message to Congress will probably be broadcast by more than a hundred stations throughout the United States. What a difference ten years can make.

MARGUERITE WERNER, whose organ programs are heard daily over WXYZ, is perhaps one of the best versed organists now appearing over the air. She is proficient both upon the church type of organ as well as that of the complicated instrument used in the major theatres, known as the Wurlitzer.

Marguerite is a Jackson, Michigan girl, having been born in that city. She began her study of the piano there. About eight years ago she first began her organ work. Since that time she has played in the larger movie palaces throughout the country. With Ann Leaf, of Columbia Broadcasting System, and Jesse Crawford of the Paramount Theatre in New York, she stands as one of the three famous pipe-organists now appearing in radio work.
