FARM APPRAISERS WORKING IN STATE

Experienced Men Now Considering Loan Applications

With the experience of having recently launched successfully three state campaigns to increase its appraisal force, the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul opened a vigorous campaign in Michigan last week to put from 50 to 100 appraisers at the job of appraising Michigan farms and fruit lands for land bank loans.

Applications for loans in this state accumulated during June amount to 417 in number and are for $1,090,900, and there has been a large addition since that date. Until an adequate force of trained men can go over these farms and determine their value, the loans which the bank stands ready to make can not be determined. Many applicants for positions as appraisers have already filed, and many more are expected.

As a first step in selecting the best men for the work, R. E. Darling, assistant chief reviewing appraiser for the seventh land bank district, went to Lansing Thursday, prepared to begin interviewing applicants Friday. He was assisted by a number of experienced appraisers, and it took the last two days of the week to talk over appraisal problems with the men registered.

Following this preliminary discussion, Mr. Darling opened a school of instruction for appraisers on Monday, July 31, and this was continued over to the end of Tuesday. Judging by the results in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and North Dakota, where similar instruction schools have been conducted, Mr. Darling hopes to have close to 100 men who will be able to qualify for the work, though he has found more than 80 per cent of the applicants unable to do so. Persons who are ineligible include all state, county, township and municipal officials, all Secretary-Treasurers of national farm loan associations, all persons owning bank stock of any kind, or stock in lending institutions, and all persons who have a federal bank loan.

Mr. Darling will be one of the instructors in the school, which is to be held in the Union building, on the corner of Michigan State College, at Lansing. The college faculty will cooperate by furnishing lecturers. Knowledge of fruit and livestock, including methods of raising both beef and dairy cattle, and detection of diseases, is one of the requirements of the present appraisers. The expanded sphere of the Federal Land Bank appraisal work has led to the need of more appraisers.

It is the first time in which one's best is the flag of one's foreign port.

Sandwiches for Summer Days

Sandwiches are the ideal thing for summer lunches and picnics, and if they are of the substantial sort they need nothing more than the addition of either a hot cup of tea or coffee or an iced drink to make a very substantial meal. The time and place and the company to be served will determine the size, shape and the contents, whether the occasion calls for the merriest tidbit or a good hot substantial one.

The open-face sandwich is deservedly popular with its decorative possibilities, when colorful fillings are used. Usually cut round, the upper half a circle like a tart shell, and the centers may be used to make "coin" sandwiches.

We offer a few well-tested standbys from a lengthy list.

Hot Potato and Beef Sandwiches
Mash three cooked potatoes, add a tablespoonful of hot milk and seasoning of salt and pepper. Spread a thin layer of potato on a slice of buttered bread, then a layer of cold roast beef cut in fine shreds. Season very lightly with catsup or mustard. Put another slice of bread on top and toast on both sides. Serve hot thickened gravy made from the meat roast.

Hot Toasted Sandwiches
Make a filling of almost any kind of cheese at hand. Moisten with salad dressing. Add a chopped green pepper and a slice of onion. Spread between slices of buttered bread, cut in triangles and toast.

Allerton Sandwiches
Empty a can of salmon into a fine colander, rinse good with hot water. Cream three tablespoons of butter, add gradually bits of the salmon working it smooth. Season with lemon juice, salt and paprika and spread between thin buttered slices of white bread.

Savory Sandwiches
Boil tender liver in stock or seasoned water for a half hour. Rub thro a sieve, add a small quantity of chopped olives and a dash of mayonnaise. Spread between slices of white and brown bread. These are especially tasty.

Coin Sandwiches
Use thinly sliced bread or the centers out of open face sandwiches. Butter and just before serving place a slice of chilled cucumber with little touch of French dressing between slices or small slices of tomato. Garnish with parsley, cress or celery.

Dream Sandwiches
Cut stale bread in broad finger strips and put a thin slice of mild cheese the same size between strips. Either saute in butter in frying pan or spread with butter and put in a sandwich toaster. Serve on hot plates with coffee for midnight snacks.

Sandwich Fillings
Mix a small quantity of chopped meat with crushed nut meats. Moisten with mayonnaise.
Chop sweet green peppers, red peppers and sweet pickle. Add hard-boiled eggs to hold together and smooth with a very mild mayonnaise.

Chopped fresh cucumber and pimento in season makes a cool refreshing sandwich. Spread on slice with butter and a thick mayonnaise.
Mix equal parts of horseradish and butter. Add a little chopped parsley and spread between strips of white bread cut very thin.

Mix together chopped celery, nut meats and stuffed olives. Use in dark breads.

The U. S. Army furnished 104 cots, 900 blankets, 112 tents and 201 mattresses, to the homeless of Long Beach, California, following the recent earthquake disaster.

For Homemakers

A record attendance of over 200 women was present at the eighth annual Farm Women's Week short course, Michigan State College, July 23 to 28. A revolving scholarship of $175 for short course students was voted by the women attending. The sum is the surplus amount accumulated over a period of years from the Farm Women's Week short course meetings.

Mrs. Helen Hill, of Davison, was chosen chairman of the state advisory committee for the coming year, at the semi-annual meeting of the group Friday afternoon. The committee is composed of representatives from each district in the state enrolled in home economics extension work and serves as an advisory group to assist Miss Edna V. Smith, state leader of home demonstration agents.

The committee discussed arrangements of this year's Farm Women's Week and formulated tentative plans for the ninth annual meeting. The other general meeting of the group is held during the annual Farmer's Week.

One of the outstanding speakers on the program during that week was Dr. Paul Woelker, state superintendent of public instruction, who outlined the present education situation in Michigan and discussed possible solutions to the many problems it is presenting.

Three lectures on important economic questions were given, including "Depression, Debts, and Price Levels," "Banking Systems and the Depression," and "The Agricultural Adjustment Administration," explaining present situations and what is being done to counteract them. The speakers were H. Wynnarden, associate professor of economics, and R. V. Gunn, senior extension economist.

President Robert S. Shaw gave the welcoming address, in which he briefly outlined the purpose of Michigan State College and traced achievements of the institution and of its graduates. Presiding at the afternoon meetings were respectively Dr. Marie Dyer, dean of home economics; E. L. Anthony, dean of agriculture; R. J. Baldwin, extension director; and C. W. Tenny, director of short courses.

The mornings were given over to class instruction in clothing, foods and nutrition, home furnishing, poultry, landscape and vegetable gardening, and dramatics.

The program of music and dramatic readings was given at the annual banquet, Thursday evening, July 27, at which 250 were present.

Liberty Theatre

A double feature consisting of "Me and My Gal" and "The Circus Queen Murder" will be at the Liberty Theatre Friday and Saturday.

"Me and My Gal" tells a dramatic and, at the same time, a humorous story of a fresh young detective (Spencer Tracy) attached to the radio car squad who falls in love with a flip young girl (Jean Bennett) who is a cashier in a restaurant. Their romance, growing out of a flirtation, flourishes and eventually leads to the capture of a murderer for whom a reward of $10,000 is offered, a neat little sum with which to start housekeeping.

In the mystery, "The Circus Queen Murder", a veritable circus atmosphere is present, even down to those African ladies with broad, duckbill lips, known as the Ubangis.

This story is one of the famous Anthony Abbott thrillers and ran serially in the Liberty magazine. It contains, as do all the Abbott yarns of the series, the debonair detective, Thatcher Colt.

A big top is the locale of the newest mystery that Colt must solve. A beautiful woman aerialist is killed in the presence of a great assemblage of spectators, while aloft on her trapeze—and killed in such a mysterious way that no one can say how until the detective unravels the clues.

The dramatic story of a man, clinging to his contract to finish his job, who witnesses his marital happiness slipping in the red dust of the Java jungles is the theme of "When Strangers Marry" which comes to the Liberty Theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Jack Holt is starred as Steve Rand, a dynamic, colorful engineer faced with the problem of losing his wife if he remains in the tropics to complete his railroad. Lillian Bond, the titian-haired English star, is seen in the unusual character of his energetic young wife.

The two vivid personalities of these two characters are blended when they marry after a week of celebrating in Paris. Against his wishes, the young wife insists upon following Rand to the jungle. It is there, oppressed by the monotony and heat of the tropics that she demands that they leave. When he refuses to desert his job, she goes to another man.

The climax is brought up to a high point of action and drama when the girl realizes her mistake and attempts to fight her way to the side of her husband, who has become involved in sensational intrigue.

STATE MATTERS OF INTEREST TO ALL

Moratorium Law to Be Tested in the Courts

The mortgage and land contract "moratorium" acts adopted by the Michigan legislature are to be tested in court. These laws provide that circuit judges under proper safeguards may delay foreclosures until March 1, 1935. Attorneys for the Union Joint Stock Land Bank of Detroit, a federal loan organization, indicated in a suit filed in Macomb county that they will seek to have the acts declared unconstitutional, claiming that both national and state constitutions are violated.

Goleman C. Vaughan, director of the building and loan division of the Department of State, pointed out that court action can be avoided if both borrower and mortgage holder understand the new laws. "If the borrower is able to make the rental payments required by the court, the building and loan associations should be glad to withhold foreclosure proceedings as long as sufficient income is received to protect the mortgage security," Mr. Vaughan informed the Michigan associations.

Investigation of applications for gasoline tax refunds resulted in a sentence of $35 fine or 30 days imprisonment being imposed on a Cheboygan commercial fisherman. He was given 60 days in which to pay the fine. The sentence followed testimony that refunds were being applied for on more gasoline than had been purchased.

Michigan's new motor vehicle operators' "financial responsibility" law is not a compulsory insurance law but is intended to restrain careless, irresponsible drivers who have no regard for the safety of other highway users. Upon receipt of certification that a judgment of $300 or more has not been satisfied, the Secretary of State, under the law, is required to suspend the operator's license and use of license plates. These can only be reinstated by furnishing proof that the judgment has been met and establishing future financial responsibility up to $10,000 in case of two deaths from traffic accidents and $1,000 responsibility for property damage. This responsibility can be established in four ways—by depositing $10,000 with the state treasurer; by adequate motor liability insurance; by surety bond; or by a personal bond with two sureties who each own sufficient Michigan property to meet the bond.

Airport Now Leads in Cent. Oakland League

Airport "92" tops the county league, having won eight straight league games in the first half of the split season of the Central Oakland County League, by whipping Waterford Merchants 8-5 at Waterford on Sunday. Fraser and Juntan formed the winning battery. Many out-of-town guests witnessed the game.

About 300 civilian employees of the Navy have been placed on furlough without pay, until September 30th.

Cold Drinks For Warm Days

For the invited or unexpected guest hospitality prompts us to offer refreshments, and good taste demands that this be simple, within our means, but very well made and served in a pleasing manner.

And for the most delightful of all affairs, the impromptu gathering of a few good friends, serving amounts to almost nothing at all if one is provided, as all good housekeepers should be, with a few bottles or jars of fruit juices, a syrup prepared ready for sweetening and a few cakes, cookies and some sandwich fillers.

And again this not only applies to guests but to families as well, for with the hot days of summer the appetite is bound to lag and the mere sight of sparkling glasses and the tinkling sound of ice makes one forget the scorching heat of the afternoon or the hot heavy stillness of the evening.

There are so many little tricks and turns that one may resort to in the preparation and serving of drinks that we can suggest only a few, but the turning of these tricks is the simple gesture that stamps you as a successful hostess in the eyes of your tired family or wilted guests.

Lemons are always stock in trade and may be purchased when reasonably low and the syrup bottled or canned for use when needed.

The juice of most fruits, either prepared for this purpose or the left over syrup from canned fruits may be combined and used as well as cocoa, coffee and tomato juice.

Mint is easily grown even in a porch box and should be better known as even a single crushed leaf gives a refreshing odor, and a leaf added to the edge of glass or on the serving tray for the use of those who like it will add both to the looks and the flavor. The old-fashioned sweet scented geranium of our grandmother's day is not to be despised, and the leaves of nasturtiums have a spicy tang.

Fortified with some of the following syrups, paper doilies and napkins and you will be ready for any emergency.

Caramel Syrup

2 cups sugar
1 cup boiling water
Put sugar into heavy saucepan over hot fire. Stir constantly until melted, taking care that sugar does not stick to side of pan or scorch. Continue to stir until syrup is rich

Ice Cream

1/2 cupful cocoa
1/4 cupful flour
3/8 cupful of sugar
1/4 teaspoonful salt
1 quart boiling water
1 teaspoonful vanilla
Mix dry ingredients and add the boiling water, cook five minutes and add vanilla. Keep in a cool place.

Caramel Malted Milk

2 tablespoons malted milk
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons caramel syrup
Blend malted milk with syrup until smooth. Stir in milk gradually. Add cracked ice and put into shaker. Shake until cold and foamy.

Orange Milk Shake

1/2 cup orange juice
Add one third each evaporated milk and water and small quantity of sugar, put in shaker with cracked ice and shake well.

Egg Milk Shake

For one egg milk shake put 2 tablespoons of crushed ice, 2 tablespoonful of syrup, 1 egg and two-thirds of a cup of milk. A little nutmeg may be added for flavor. Shake and strain into chilled glass.

Lemon Syrup

1 cupful lemon juice
4 cupfuls sugar
1 cupful water
1 tablespoonful grated lemon rind
Put the sugar and water into a porcelain-lined kettle and stir until dissolved. Boil three minutes, skim, add the strained lemon juice and boil for five minutes. Add the grated rind, boil two minutes, pour into jars and set in a cool place.

Sales Tax Comment

None can defend the sales tax on its equities. About the best that can be said for it is that the old taxation system had failed and the revenues of both state and local government had become so depleted and so undependable that financial ruin faced practically every governmental unit. In truth and in fact the people of Michigan and in other states had without formal announcement entered upon a taxpayer's strike. Government was helpless because the penalties of the old land tax was confiscation of the property. When at any time any large portion of the population refuses or refrains from paying a land tax, thus forcing government to confiscate large areas of lands plentiful for taxes, that moment the whole system crumbles. Government does not want the lands, it of necessity must have the cash. It threatens to take the lands only as a means of collecting the cash. When large numbers of land holders actually relinquish their titles rather than pay the tax imposed, then land values tumble, more land comes back to the state, revenues fall, bonded indebtedness increases which in turn forces land values to still lower levels and discourages ownership of any land.

Such was the situation which confronted government in Michigan. Because of constitutional limitations still further complicated by the fifteen mill tax limitation adopted last fall, salaries, intangibles securities, incomes from land and other sources remain unfixable in Michigan. Until constitutional limitations are removed there is no hope for an equitable taxation system. Local government requires every dollar and more of land tax for support of local governmental and the public schools. The state was forced to seek its revenues where they might be obtained. The sales tax seemed the best answer.
