Walter Reunion Held Labor Day

The sixth Walter Reunion which included the children of the late Eleanor Walter and their children and families was held on Labor Day at the family Grove on Cranberry Lake, north of Clarkston. A picnic dinner was served at noon to approximately 40 guests. The president, Louis Walter, held a short business meeting and appointed the committees for next year, as follows:

Comment and Criticism

Our NRA honor list—everyone we know.

As one who spent his time, during the late disturbance overseas, in the spruce woods of Washington, where they have FOREST FIRES, nothing so disturbs our equilibrium as the numerous grass fires so prevalent during this dry spell.

Where everything else failed, the NRA is instilling that feeling of confidence so much needed today.

The Clarkston News is now a PAID IN ADVANCE circulation. In other words, Mr. Merchant, our readers care enough for the News to PAY for it, and have the money to pay for it. They have the money to buy your merchandise if you tell them about it.

We were advised that to place the News on that sound basis desired by all advertisers would mean suicide. However we had confidence in the people of this community. Two things happened. Those in arrears paid, and one advertising contract for the month is more than twice as large as usual.

Amos 'n' Andy Party Held in Garage

Kingfish and Prince Ali Bendi Assist in Entertaining

On Wednesday, Aug. 30, a most original party was given in the garage of the LaVigne Home on Bridge Lake, with Mrs. Herbert LaVigne and Mrs. Clifford Waterbury acting as Hostesses.

On entering the grounds, the attention of the guests was drawn to a large sign which read "This way to Harlem". As this sign pointed to the garage they followed directions and there were welcomed by the Hostesses.

As each person entered, many complimentary remarks were heard about the novel decorations. The floor was covered with a carpet of sawdust, the tables were covers of red and white check, while curtains of the same design adorned the windows. The candle holders were bottles, covered with wax drippings. The long luncheon table, which occupied one end of the building, and which was most capably presided over by Amos, Andy and the Kingfish, in original costume, was decorated with a huge silver bucket filled with red and yellow zinnias, in the center, and at each end a large candelabra.

After enjoying a most delicious luncheon, served in buffet style the guests were entertained at Bridge.

Twelve tables of bridge were played during the afternoon. The first prize, a lovely sandwich toaster, was won by Mrs. Walter Barrows. Mrs. Wm. Watson was lucky enough to win a coffee table for second prize. Mrs. D. M. Winn was made happy by receiving a singing tea kettle, Mrs. Robert White a dainty crystal dress clip and Mrs. Weighel, a pretty amber glass lamp.

At the conclusion of the bridge game, the ladies had the interesting experience of a peek into the future which was foretold to them by Prince "Ali Bendi" (in the person of Mrs. LaVigne's son in his own den.

Among those present were Mrs. E. Leonard of Detroit and Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Butler of Lake Angelus.

Liberty Theatre

With Lionel Barrymore and Miriam Hopkins leading an impressive cast, "The Stranger's Return" will be at the Liberty Theatre Sunday and Monday to delight the hearts of all lovers of stirring human drama and romance of the soil.

Adapted from the new novel of rural life by Phil Stong, author of "State Fair", the picture achieves a greatness in performance and directorial distinction as well as sheer pictorial beauty. King Vidor directed the film and adds another superb effort to his long list of screen accomplishments.

Franchot Tone, hailed as the screen's newest romantic hero, fits easily into the role of the farm lover and, paired with Miss Hopkins, leaves nothing to be desired by way of interest in this motivating theme. Barrymore is the 85 year old patriarch of the farm who refuses to die until he sees his farm destined for sympathetic hands.

Most of the picture was filmed on a farm location that brings the barnyard right to the childhood memories of all of us. Vidor, in his superb camera treatment, has captured the earthly charm of the bucolic setting, against which the tense drama of the story unfolds.

Included in the cast are Stuart Erwin, Irene Hervey, Grant Mitchell and Tad Alexander.

HOG CHOLERA BREAKS OUT IN MICHIGAN

During the last few weeks, reports reaching the Michigan State Department of Agriculture indicate a widespread prevalence of hog cholera throughout the state. A large number of the outbreaks have been traced to the feeding of garbage and meat market waste to unvaccinated hogs. This is a dangerous practice, not only endangering the life of the swine to which the garbage is fed, but in event of an outbreak of hog cholera, endangering the life of hogs belonging to various owners in the surrounding farm area.

When an outbreak of cholera occurs in a community, swine owners in the near vicinity can protect their herds by proper vaccination; but in event that disease appears in a swine herd, vaccination is at least as valuable as immediately consulting a qualified veterinarian. Daily danger is

Chairman Chosen at Meeting Tuesday Evening

James Lynch, of Pontiac, addressed a meeting of business men from Ortonville, Drayton Plains, Davisburg, Waterford and Clarkston in the Town hall in Clarkston on Friday last. Postmaster Floyd Andrews was chosen Chairman of the local committee and set Tuesday, Sept. 5th for a further meeting to complete organization.

On Tuesday the meeting was addressed by J. E. Mitchell, the county organizer of the N. R. A., and Frank Fortino, both of Pontiac. Afterwards a discussion was held, which was open to all present.

Chairman Andrews appointed H. L. Garter vice-chairman; Durand Ogden secretary, and the following committees:

Colonel of Women's Division, Mrs. Milen Vliet.

Colonel of Men's Division, Roy Alger.

Colonel of Publicity, Rev. C. E. Edwards.

The personnel of the committees, with the exception of the women's committee, will be announced in next week's issue of the Clarkston News, your newspaper, and will probably be working before then.

On Monday the rural carriers, Bradley Miller and J. Dale Brown, will pass consumer cards to be signed by all who purchase, to every box holder on their respective routes. Please help them by not keeping them waiting longer than necessary.

On Wednesday, the women's division, under Mrs. Milen Vliet, and consisting of Mrs. D. M. Winn, Mrs. Guy A. Walter, Miss Nell Barry, Mrs. Wm. Vliet, Mrs. Lee R. McFarland, Mrs. Louis Walter, Mrs. Farmer E. Davies, Mrs. Seymour Miller, Mrs. Walter E. Barrows and Mrs. Edward Seiderlin, will make a house to house canvass of Clarkston securing consumer signers to the N. R. A. Program. You can assist them in their undertaking by being home and saving any repeated calls at your home.

Colonels Andrews and Mrs. Vliet attended the county meeting at Pontiac, on Wednesday, and bring back this interesting information. Everyone who buys for the family is eligible to sign the cards. This does not mean children of a tender age but as the idea is to have everyone deal with the blue eagle store, all who buy should sign.

The Clarkston News believes the NRA is good for you and is glad to give the movement all the assistance it can, but it is everyone's duty to boost.

For Homemakers

Fashion forecasts a complete change in hat styles from last season's modes, which brings up the question of what to do with the one or several felt models left over. Home economics extension clothing specialists of Michigan State College recommend the reblocking of felts which are of such quality as to warrant the time and effort necessary to remodel them.
 A hat block or mold can be purchased from almost any wholesale hat firm or a good form can be made at home at little or no expense. With slight changes, the same mold can often be used for hats of other members in the family, or can be passed from one to another of a group of women working together on renovation problems.

Automobiles Made While You Wait

One of the very unusual exhibits at the Chicago World's Fair is that of General Motors, housed in a vast building in which automobiles are made as fast as the hands can turn them. The above picture is of special interest because the photograph was made by W. G. Stuber, president of the Eastman Kodak Company. He visited the exposition and toured the grounds as an amateur photographer.

COUNTRIES UNITE IN WHEAT PROBLEM

Cooperative Action Being Taken to Lessen Overproduction

Late announcements from Washington on the emergency program for wheat acreage reduction set the percent of acreage to be reduced, give rules on the use of this ground, and state that the four principal wheat producing countries have entered into an agreement to act together in avoiding future destructive overproduction of wheat.
 Farmers in the United States will be asked to reduce their average plantings of wheat by 15 per cent. This means that Michigan will be asked to devote approximately 100,000 acres of crop land to other purposes than its ordinary one of growing wheat. That 100,000 acres is almost entirely in 56 counties.
 Land taken from wheat production can not be used to grow any crop that moves directly to market or which is used to directly increase the amount of meat or dairy products going to market. It can be left unplanted, summer-fallowed, placed in permanent pasture, used for forest tree plantings, or sown to green manure crops to be plowed down. Meadow crops can be sown if that would have been done under a regular plan of crop rotation. Any cultural practices to control weeds can be used on the land.
 Canada, United States, Australia and Argentina are the four countries endeavoring by cooperative action to prevent future recurrence of tremendous over-supplies of wheat and to obtain an orderly reduction of the present huge carryover. The agreements were entered into at the London Conference.

SMALL GAME LICENSES ON SALE SEPTEMBER 15

About 1,500 license agents of the Department of Conservation will be supplied within the next two weeks with 1933 small-game licenses, so that the licenses may be placed on sale by September 15, 15 days before the opening of any of the fall hunting seasons.
 The greatly reduced fees for licenses this year is expected to increase the number sold over last year. The resident small game license will cost $1, a reduction from $1.75 last year. The non-resident licenses will cost $5 as compared with the $10 fee charged in 1932.
 According to Conservation Department records, 240,000 small game hunters purchased licenses last year.

The lighthouse on the Mole of Naples, has been extinguished after burning for 600 years. It was one of the oldest institutions of Naples and was kept burning only for sentimental reasons. The rebuilding of a harbor landing stage made its removal imperative.

ELECTRIC
HOT WATER SERVICE
 THE COST IS LOW
Because it is so efficient

An electric hot water heater is almost 100 per cent efficient. There is practically no heat loss. Built like a thermos bottle, its thoroughly insulated walls keep the heat inside and assure an abundance of hot water when you want it.
 A 60-gallon electric water heater costs $4 a month (net) to operate. This is ample hot water for a family of two to four people. But that's only half the story.
 (1) An electric water heater is completely automatic. It needs no attention whatever. Once you have installed it, you can forget your water heating worries—day and night, summer and winter, year in and year out.
 an abundant supply of hot water is instantly available at a turn of the faucet.
 (2) An electric water heater is dependable. It ends the annoyance of finding only luke-warm or cold water in the pipes. It ends running up and down stairs to light the tank, and waiting for water to heat.
 Consider these things—then ask your self if the convenience of electric hot water is not worth the cost. We will be glad to give you further information about electric water heaters.

SWINE BREEDERS HOLD CONFERENCE

New Problems Are Discussed at Meeting at Parma

Forty years of constant endeavor to improve the quality of hogs in Michigan was the reason for a gathering of livestock men at the home of W. E. Livingston, Parma, to honor this veteran livestock man and to discuss new problems confronting owners of swine.

Mr. Livingston is credited with sales of greater numbers of breeding stock than any other swine breeder in Michigan. He has persisted in developing a better strain of a standard breed during the entire period and has steadily refused to be stampeded into following color and type fads that did not add to the serviceability of his stock.

Men who congratulated Mr. Livingston and who talked of present innovations in livestock breeding were Forrest King, Charlotte; E. A. Beamer, Blissfield; George Eggleston, Parma; Burt Wermuth, Detroit; Prof. G. A. Brown, East Lansing; and Andy Adams, Litchfield.

Owners of types of swine which may be sold for set prices under the new government marketing plan were warned by speakers to make sure that the market to which they intended to ship such hogs was not already overloaded so it was impossible to care for additional numbers. The information about the proper days to ship such stock to certain markets can be obtained from commission firms on the market, from county agricultural agents, or from local buyers.

It is impossible to get this information far in advance because unusually heavy shipments on the correct dates may lead to closing the market on the next regular shipping day.

STATE MATTERS OF INTEREST TO ALL

Digest Prepared in the Office of Secretary of State

The automobile business in Michigan showed a 62 per cent increase for the last two weeks of August over the corresponding period in 1932.

For the two-week period ending August 26, 1933, a total of 23,583 automobiles were sold, according to Department of State records. Of this number, 4,485 were new cars. For the same period in 1932, 14,542 car sales were reported of which 2,509 were new automobiles.

Legal acts passed by the 1933 legislature will not be printed separately but will be included in the Public Acts of 1933. In previous years the acts adopted by the legislature have been published in two volumes. The Department of State will save approximately $3,000 in binding and distribution costs because of the consolidation. The Public Acts of 1933 will be ready for distribution about October 1. Only six local acts were adopted this year.

More than 300,000 Michigan motorists have been enabled to use their automobiles the entire year of 1933 by the law which permitted the use of 1932 license plates until August 1 when accompanied by a windshield half-price permit. Slightly more than 415,000 windshield permits were issued and department records to date show that over 300,000 motorists who used the stickers have now purchased 1933 license plates.

Written leases are to be demanded by the Department of State in all cases where "governmental" license plates are issued for privately-owned automobiles. These plates are issued upon application of county, township and municipal authorities but investigation in Detroit recently showed that between 90 and 100 privately-owned automobiles were using "governmental" plates without proper authority. The owners are being required to purchase 1933 plates.

The U.S. flag has had 48 stars only since July 4, 1912.

THE SCOPE AND PURPOSE OF THE PRESIDENT'S EMERGENCY RE-EMPLOYMENT CAMPAIGN

The President's Emergency Re-employment Campaign may be described briefly as a plan to add from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 persons to the nation's payrolls within the next six weeks or so, through agreements made with the President of the United States by some 5,000,000 concerns or individuals, employing two or more persons each.

In order that this number of jobs may be made available, it will be necessary, of course, for employers in many cases to shorten working hours. The plan also provides for certain minimum wage scales which also in many cases will mean added labor costs for the employer.

The President's Agreement, however, includes a pledge of cooperation from the consuming public, and it is thus anticipated that the employer, while undertaking a larger expense as the direct result of his agreement with the President, will gain added patronage as the just reward of his public spirited attitude.

The fact also is to be borne in mind that where all employers act together to put people back on their payrolls or to raise wages, no employer, as the President himself has pointed out, "will suffer because the relative level of competitive cost will advance by the same amount for all."

It is to be understood that this plan is supplementary to the plan of code adoption by various industrial and trade groups which has for its purpose the elimination of unfair competition, the establishment of more equitable rewards for labor, the spread of employment and the control of production. This plan for speeding business recovery, launched under the provisions of the National Recovery Act passed by the last Congress, is rapidly being made effective, and there will be no let-up on the drive to make its adoption widespread.

The President's Emergency Re-employment plan will bridge time and bring the nation out of the depression more rapidly than if the code adoption plan were depended upon exclusively. The President's Agreement also covers many business groups that would not be amenable to any of the code arrangements.

And what is still more important, perhaps, the President's Emergency Re-employment campaign carries certain psychological values that are as priceless as patriotism at this juncture of our economic history. The President himself made this quite clear in his recent radio address to the nation when he said: "On the basis of this simple principle of everybody doing things together, we are starting out on this nationwide attack on unemployment. It will succeed if our people understand it—in the big industries, in the little shops, in the great cities and in the small villages. There is nothing complicated about it and there is nothing particularly new in the principle. It goes back to the basic idea of society, and of the Nation itself; that people acting in a group can accomplish things which no individual acting alone could ever hope to bring about."

Thus we have all the power and potency of mass attack directed along sound lines of organization and system. Here briefly, is an outline of this organized attack on unemployment: In every community, organizations are formed along military lines, which is fitting enough, because the President's Emergency Re-employment campaign is Uncle Sam's war on unemployment and the nation is rallying to the colors just as loyally as though we were actually engaged in a war against a foreign foe.

The local committee is made up of the active heads of the leading business and civic organizations, and includes also the mayor. These committees in the thousands of cities and towns throughout the country were formed following telegrams and letters sent by General Johnson to the presidents of Chambers of Commerce or similar trade bodies in every section of the United States. These local committees elect a general officer to have charge of the city campaign and a lieutenant general who is a woman. The general selects three colonels, each of whom is to take over a certain part of the campaign work. For example, Colonel No. 1 has charge of the "man-power" or organization department. Under his direction block-to-block canvasses will be made to check up on compliance with the President's Agreement, and to make a survey of the unemployed, as to adaptability by experience as to trades and industries and thus be able readily to help in the processes of assimilation of labor by expanding industries. Colonel No. 2, briefly, has charge of newspaper publicity and kindred activities, and Colonel No. 3 has the training and direction of public speakers under his charge.

Each of these three colonels has seven or more majors on his staff, and each major has about the same number of captains. Each captain has seven or more field workers. All of the local organizations are, of course, constantly supplied with educational and inspirational material of all kinds from the National Recovery Administration in Washington. Literally tons and tons of printed matter has been shipped to every nook and corner of the country.

The N.R.A. emblem, known popularly as the Blue Eagle, is one of the most interesting and vital features of the campaign. All employers who sign the President's Agreement are entitled to display the Blue Eagle with the initials N.R.A. and the words "We Do Our Part." Merchants, manufacturers and all others who have the right to display the insignia by reason of their having complied with the President's Agreement, are permitted to hang it on their walls, or in their windows, or on trucks and cars, and, if they so desire, to stamp it on their products or merchandise. It is, in fact, the desire of the Recovery Administration that all make liberal use of this badge of patriotism.

Any person in the United States who wishes to cooperate in the President's Emergency Re-employment Campaign and be considered as a member of the N.R.A. may go to the authorized establishment in his locality and sign a statement of cooperation as follows:

"I will cooperate in re-employment by supporting and patronizing employers and workers who are members of N.R.A."

Any such signer will then be given and may thereafter use the insignia of consumer membership in N.R.A.

Every phase of the progress of this mighty campaign will be flashed in the newspapers of the country and announced constantly over the radio. In this way everyone will be in a position to know just what the campaign is doing from day to day in actually putting people back on the payrolls and adding to the mass purchasing power of the country.

While, as has been stated, it is desired that liberal use of the insignia be made by employer and consumers, it is to be remembered that the official N.R.A. emblem is the property of the United States Government and may not be used or reproduced without authority of the National Recovery Administration.

The lists of all employers who sign the President's Agreement are displayed in local post-offices and it is urged that all employers who have not yet signed the agreement do so immediately and deliver them to their local post-master.

With some minor exceptions, the terms of the President's Agreement with employers is, briefly, as follows: Any employer of a factory or mechanical worker or artisan must not pay him less than 40 cents an hour or work him more than 35 hours a week, except that if the employer were paying less than 40 cents for that kind of work on July 15 the employer can pay that rate now, but not less than 30 cents an hour. As to all other employees—those on a weekly rate—the employer will pay not less than $15 a week in a city of over 500,000 population; or $14.50 a week in cities of between 250,000 and 500,000; or $14 a week in cities between 2,500 and 250,000 population; or $12.00 a week in cities of less than 2,500 population, and the employer agrees not to work this class of workers more than 40 hours a week. As to employees who were getting a higher wage, the employer must not reduce their wages because of a reduction in their hours and he should generally keep the usual pay differences as between the lower and the higher paid employees. And after August 31, he must not work children under 16 years of age. There are, of course, some other rules which apply to special cases, but the terms of the agreement as here outlined cover the large bulk of cases.

PARTRIDGES ARE PLACED IN COVER

Hungarian Birds Released at Many Places in State Two more releases of Hungarian partridges in southern Michigan in an attempt to increase the progress of Michigan's newest game bird, have been made by the Game Division of the Department of Conservation. Seventy six hand reared "hunkies" raised at the state game farm at Mason have been placed in suitable cover; 19 pairs about five miles south of Ionia and 19 pairs in Allegan County a short distance west of Allegan. The birds were placed in an area in Ionia County known for its cattle raising and abundance of corn, similar to the areas in Lenawee County where Hungarian partridges first appeared in Michigan. The 19 pairs planted in Allegan County are in a low muck area where it is hoped that they will thrive in the heavy vegetation. With the recent release, Hungarian partridges have been planted in five southern Michigan areas so far this year. Last spring some birds were released near Carsonville on the east side of the state. A second release was made near the junction of Eaton, Calhoun and Jackson Counties. Twenty two birds, the return of a loan made to Wisconsin three years ago, were planted in the Schoolcraft-Vicksburg-Mendon-Prairie section near the St. Joseph-Kalamazoo County line. Last year plantings were made near Williamston in Ingham County and near the Kellogg Bird Sanctuary near Gull Lake. While it is quite definitely estab-

Meats for Children

Diet is an outstanding factor in a health program for keeping the well child fit. Extension nutrition specialists, Michigan State College, suggest some main essentials to be included in wholesome meals for the child of school age. One quart of milk in some form, daily, and some meat, fish, or eggs each day. Only a small serving of meat is necessary for the younger child if a quart of milk is taken each day. After the tenth or twelfth year, a larger serving of meat may be given. Serve potatoes and two other vegetables, including a generous portion of a green or a leafy vegetable and a raw vegetable or raw fruit each day. Some fruit, raw, canned or dried, such as orange or tomato juice, which helps to stimulate the appetite and helps to promote growth, should be given at least three times a week. Serve whole grain in bread or in cooked breakfast cereals. Four glasses for the younger child daily, and six for the older child is not too much water. A meal pattern for one day to serve as a guide may help the mother in planning meals. Breakfast—fruit (raw at least three times per week); whole cereal lished, according to the Game Division that most of the Hungarian partridges in Michigan will be limited to the better soils and farm areas of the lower part of the state, releases will continue in an attempt to distribute the birds over as wide an area as possible. All of the releases are under frequent observation that the Division might have some check as to the success of the birds.

USEFUL DIRECTORY IS ISSUED BY BELL COMPANY

Continuing its cooperation with law enforcement agencies, the Michigan Bell Telephone Company has just issued the third annual Police Telephone Directory, containing the residence and office telephone numbers of law enforcement officials throughout the state. The directory is designed primarily as a telephone reference list for use of the authorities in getting into touch with each other quickly at any hour of the day or night, either at nearby or distant points. It is being distributed free through the local offices of the Company, to state, county and municipal police organizations. The first section of the directory

Dummy With Microphonic Ears Mystifies Crowds at Exposition

Left: Oscar stands with his back to the audience, while his microphonic ears bring to them exactly what he hears and just as he hears it. Below: Crowds surrounding the glass-enclosed stage, which may be seen at the right. Oscar apparently has "stolen the show" at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago. If you have been there, and have made the acquaintance of Oscar, then you know that he is the "dummy with microphonic ears" who plays such an important role in one of the most popular features of the telephone exhibit in the Communications Building. Stage Is Glass Walled Oscar lives in a glass-walled room, and usually visitors are crowding three or four deep around the balcony overlooking his residence, awaiting their turns to listen, by means of special telephone receivers, to the demonstration of acoustical illusions. This glass-walled room is flanked by a second-floor balcony, and through the glass you see the young man, Oscar, standing at a window. You take your seat, pick up a telephone receiver in each hand, lean forward with your elbows on the desk in front of you, and hold the receivers firmly to your ears. A door opens in a corner of the glass room and a man enters and begins talking to Oscar. As he talks he walks over to the window. You hear his voice, the rustle of his clothes, his footsteps on the thick carpet. Change Places With Him Yes, you hear them, but the sound comes to you just as if he were walking toward you. You feel that you must turn to see who it is addressing you, but you resist the inclination and settle down to watch the act in the glass room. Oscar keeps his position, but the other man walks around and talks to him. Always you have the curious sensation that he is walking around you and talking to you, but you know it isn't so because you can see him in the glass room. A minute or two elapse and then he draws a curtain, hiding the scene from your view. There is a pause, and suddenly you hear a voice in your ear. "Will you move over, please?" Instinctively you start to move, but you look up and find that no one is whispering to you. This makes you feel a little foolish. For the message was not for you at all, but was for Oscar. Others sitting along the balcony wear sheepish grins on their faces; they have been fooled too. Sensitive Transmitters for Ears Oscar's ears are sensitive telephone transmitters. From the transmitter which corresponds to his right ear a telephone line runs to the receiver which you hold to your right ear, and similarly from his left ear to your left. That is why you are, acoustically, in his place and hear, just as he would hear, the sounds around him. Every tone and every overtone of each sound is picked up and faithfully delivered to your ears. It is a high quality telephone system that connects you with him. If it were not, there would be no illusion. It requires perfect transmission to each ear to create such acoustical effect. Used in Research This telephone equipment was developed in the Bell Telephone Laboratories in New York City, where Oscar himself has long been a close associate of the research staff of that organization. Oscar has attended a number of symphony concert rehearsals, has sat in an orchestra seat and picked up with his microphonic ears just the sounds that would be heard by a real person sitting in his place. The current from those microphones went to a laboratory room where telephone engineers measured and studied the music. Thus, while Oscar now spends his time demonstrating a scientific principle for the amusement of Exposition crowds, he has already played his part in the development of the system for transmitting and reproducing orchestral music in auditory perspective, which was demonstrated to the public for the first time last April.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE CO. WE'VE HAD OUR TELEPHONE PUT IN AGAIN "I just had to call and let you know, Alice..." "Yes, the Joneses were nice, of course. But I'm sure they didn't like us running in to use their phone so often, and it was embarrassing to ask them. And no one could call us." "I really feel so much safer with a telephone, too. You never know when something is going to happen or when one of the children might be taken sick, and you're just cut off from the world, without a telephone." You can have the convenience and protection of telephone service for only a few dollars. Order from any Telephone Office and it will be made promptly.
