COMMENT AND CRITICISM

And now that the election is over, let's get down to business and start saving our pennies for a decent Thanksgiving dinner. As for the election, perhaps the least said is the soonest mended. The Democrats feel bad enough anyway, and the G. O. P. having returned the state to the republican column, should be satisfied without any gloating.

As for anything we may have learned from the election, the main reform suggested to us, is that proposers of amendments, should file their statements of income and expenses the same as any other candidate. The money spent to advertise the gasoline and weight tax amendments was a huge amount and it would be interesting reading to see who put up the do-re-me.

Just at present we are sitting on the side lines, intently watching the discussion and news gathering antics of our friend Fred Nash. It seems that Fred is poking a little fun at our local institutions in columns of a Detroit paper (we are not mentioning the paper—let them pay for their own ads) and Freddie had better go easy on his Walter Winchel-ling of our fair metropolis or he may meet the big bad wolf. Even now our reporters are delving into his past to say nothing of his present activities. Freddie's latest blubs have something to do with the "hot stove league" of one of our local restaurants and he is welcome to do this because Freddie is a pretty fair scout and will gladly admit that even a hot stove league is better amusement than the amusement of sophisticated Detroit restaurants, which consists of fan and shawl dances. Perhaps Freddie is not acclimated yet, but he will learn that Clarkston is one of the finest villages in one of the best townships, in the best county of the best state, of these United States, which make up the best nation of the best universe, and when this fact seeps in Freddie will weep with shame at his attempts of a city slicker to poke fun at us.

Any anyway you now know that the only reason that both parties wanted you to vote "no" on all amendments was that you were considered too dumb to mix your votes. You might vote "yes" on some of the ones that they did not want.

[From the Holly Advertiser] BANK ASSESSMENT HAS BEEN ORDERED

Shareholders Must Pay 100% Par Value of Stock

In accordance with the plan for the reorganization of the First State & Savings Bank of Holly, approved by the State Banking Commissioner, notices this week were sent to all of the stockholders, 76 in number, of a 100% assessment on the capital stock of $100,000. Shareholders who pay in full the assessment levied against them will be entitled to retain the stock upon which the assessment is paid. Those who do not so pay will forfeit their stock, but will not be exempt from collection of the assessment.

A Depositors' committee, consisting of John J. Haas, Ray Shults and Maurice Wingleire, has been appointed and this committee will undertake the work preliminary to the actual reorganization. The plan calls for a bank with a capital stock of $50,000. It will become effective when approved and consented to in writing by depositors and creditors of the bank representing at least 75% in amount of the total savings and commercial deposit liabilities by classes as shown on its books.

Depositors and creditors having unsecured claims will waive 60% of these claims until the reopening of the bank when they will be issued certificates of indebtedness representing the amount of their respective waivers, which certificates will draw 3% interest.

The percentage of claims not waived will be available for withdrawal upon the reopening of the bank.

The State Banking Commissioner is empowered and instructed to collect the assessments against the stockholders, and the money so collected will constitute the paid-in capital stock of the reorganized bank. The date of reopening will be fixed by the State Banking Commissioner.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Frank Showler and daughters, Genevieve, Sharlot and Frances, went to Capax to attend the wedding of Mrs. Showler's niece, Miss Viola Wagner.

NEW DEAL WINNER EXCEPT IN MICH.

This State Only Bright Spot in Union for the G. O. P.

Sweeping victories for the New Deal are reported from nearly every state in the Union. Michigan is the only bright spot for Republicans. In this state nearly complete returns assure the election of Frank D. Fitzgerald for Governor, Thomas Read for Lieutenant-Governor, Orville E. Atwood for Secretary of State and Harry S. Toy for Attorney-General, by majorities ranging from 5,000 to 75,000. Democrats re-elected Theodore I. Fry, State Treasurer, and John K. Stack, Jr., Auditor-General. The Republicans recaptured the State Senate but the House is in doubt, with 49 Democrats and 49 Republicans conceded victory and the other two seats in doubt.

United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, defeated Frank A. Picard, Democrat, by approximately 40,000.

Hon. George A. Dondero was re-elected to Congress by a large majority, and State Senator Andrew L. Moore also won out.

Republicans gained four seats in the National House of Representatives from Michigan. They recaptured the second, fourth, sixth, eighth and ninth districts, but lost the twelfth.

Only one of the six Constitutional Amendments had a favorable majority in late counts—that calling for the non-partisan election of State and County Judges. It was 70,000 ahead. Late returns wiped out the thin margin for County Home Rule which showed an adverse majority of 19,000.

In Oakland County the Republicans elected all candidates except for Register of Deeds and State Representative, second district.

Upton S. (EPIC) Sinclair was defeated for Governor of California by a decisive vote, but not as large as was anticipated.

Vermont, traditionally Republican, stuck to the ship, but by decreased majorities.

Elsewhere in the U. S. Democrats scored heavily. They elected U. S. Senators to succeed Republicans in Connecticut, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri and New Mexico. The Democrats, contrary to all expectations, even succeeded in increasing their top-heavy majority in the House of Representatives, according to the latest returns.

Blue and White Flash Clarkston School News

C. H. S. GOSSIP

The students will be made fun of by a different person from now on. The other one found he made too many enemies.

That football victory made some of the boys so happy they went to Pontiac and celebrated. And how!!!

That feud between the sophomore girls is getting stronger—we hope—we mean we think.

A favorite pastime at school is clipping the corners off of student's note-books. Some fun and very expensive.

Whose trail is the "Big Bad Wolf", in form of S. D. on?

We are wondering what makes M. B. so sleepy on Monday mornings.

Reading books for other than school work is now prohibited at school. The teachers find it easy to pick out those students who are reading such a book by the look on his face. If a student looks bored he's reading a school book; if he looks happy—that's when the teacher starts to investigate.

We see S. C. went swimming the other day—don't misunderstand us—not in the water but in someone's suede jacket.

Notice: It seems that G. D. King has gone into the egg business. We only hope that it will prosper and bring good returns. We wonder if it is run on the same basis as "Aunt Samantha's" of the Senior Play.

CLASS NOTES

Seniors

The proofs have come back and were received with many sighs.

The Senior play is progressing fine and every one in it is hoping it will be a success.

Juniors

Most of the boys had something to say at the table and the speeches were all enjoyed. Mr. Winn and Mr. Waters gave short talks and the retiring Captain George Miller proposed a toast to the new Captain Billy Parker and his team, to which Billy responded and at the same time asked for the loyal support that the fellows had shown his predecessor.

HERE ARE 6 things we want you to prove for yourself ON A TRIAL ELECTRIC RANGE

- BETTER FLAVOR. Electric cooking seals in delicious natural flavor in foods. Meats and vegetables cook to melting tenderness in their own juices.
- HEALTHFULNESS. Half-a-cup of water is ample to cook vegetables. Precious minerals and important food values are retained instead of being lost in steam or poured down the sink with excess water.
- CLEANLINESS. Electric heat is as clean as sunlight. There is no smoke or soot to blacken utensils or soil kitchen walls and curtains.
- CONVENIENCE. Snap the switch and start to cook. No matches, no flame—only pure heat from a glowing wire.
- ACCURATE OVEN CONTROL. Exact oven heat control means better and more uniform baking results. Light, fine-grained cakes and flaky pastries are easy to obtain, time after time.
- MODERN COOKING. Only an electric range is a modern range. Other stoves use exactly the same cooking methods in vogue 50 years ago.

We will install an electric range in your kitchen without initial charge, and let you use it for six months, removing it without charge if you do not like it. During this trial period, you pay for the service as registered by your meter, plus a monthly charge of $1 for the range. If you decide to keep the range, your monthly payments will be applied toward the purchase price. If you decide that you do not want it, the range will be removed at our expense. Send in your application for a trial range today!

A study of one thousand families using an electric range showed a cooking cost of LESS THAN 1¢ PER MEAL PER PERSON

LAUGHS PROMISED IN FEATURE FILMS

Coming to Holly Theatre Five Nights Beginning Sunday

Take our word for it, you won't see a funnier, more entertaining picture this season than "Wake Up and Dream", which comes to the Holly Theatre on Sunday and Monday.

Russ Columbo shares featured honors with Roger Pryor and June Knight. The two men with Miss Knight comprise a small-time vaudeville trio stranded in Atlantic City, who finally gravitate to Hollywood, and their adventures form a swift succession of hilarious situations.

A rollicking farce-comedy of Hollywood life and loves is promised to patrons of the Holly Theatre when "365 Nights in Hollywood" arrives there next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Alice Faye and James Dunn are featured as a young visitor from Peoria with movie aspirations and a picture director who has had fame and fortune but also a lot of bad luck. Mitchell and Durant, star comedy team, appear as two adagio ice-men who pick Alice for a star—and then see to it that she arrives.

Grant Mitchell is the wily head of a phoney movie school who conspires to "take" a rich young sucker (James Melton) for a large-sized bankroll. Other members of the cast are John Bradford, Frank Conroy and John Qualen.

LIVE STOCK SHOW BEGINS ON DEC. 1

Bigger and Better Than Ever Before Seems Certain

Finishing touches are now being made on the mammoth new home for the International Live Stock Exposition which will celebrate its 35th anniversary at the Chicago Stock Yards from December 1 to 8.

When completed, it will be the finest structure in the world devoted to such uses. The central section, or amphitheatre, will seat nearly double the number who could be accommodated in the old building which was destroyed in the fire that swept the Chicago Stock Yards last May.

The foremost herds and flocks from every state in the Union and province of Canada will contest the continental championships of their kind at the 1934 Exposition. According to the management, entries closing on November 1st were the biggest in the history of this largest of the continent's agricultural shows, where over 12,000 animals were exhibited last year.

Farm boys and girls from every section of the country will take part in the 13th annual 4-H Club Congress to be held in connection with the International Live Stock Show. The Congress will be quartered in a handsome new building on the Exposition grounds that will replace the former 4-H building which was also consumed in the fire.

Farmers throughout the United States and Canada are now sending in entries for the International Grain and Hay Show, the largest competitive crops contest in the world. Closing date for entering this division of the Exposition is November 20th. Premiums will total over $5,000 and entries will be accepted free of charge.

Thrilling riding and driving events will be included in the brilliant evening horse shows that will be held throughout the eight big days of the Exposition. Leading stables are listing entries of saddle horses, fancy harness horses and ponies, and hunters and jumpers that will appear on each of the programs.

For Homemakers

There are no definite standards for pure silk material, according to home economics clothing extension specialists of Michigan State College, and so it is almost impossible to judge whether weighting material is used with the silk. The law allows any material containing 10 per cent or more silk to be labelled pure silk.

The durability of weighted silks is eventually lessened by exposure to light and air, by the effects of perspiration, and by dry-cleaning processes. A simple test for unweighted and weighted silk is to apply a match to a small sample. The ash of unweighted silk does not keep its shape, but the weighted sample will burn away and leave the metal intact, exactly the shape of the original material.

If a soluble weighting is used, the filler disappears after the goods has been washed and leaves the silk limp. If only a small amount of weighting is used, the material is elastic and will come back to its original shape after strain, and may be dry cleaned or washed without damage.

There are a number of varieties of rayon offered on the market at the present time. It is well to test a small sample before cleaning or pressing to determine whether the material is of the "acetate" type. This variety will melt in alcohol or chloroform or when pressed with a hot iron.

FEEDING OF BIRDS PAYS SPORTSMEN

Winter's Snow and Cold May Otherwise Be Disastrous

Adverse weather conditions, thru-out the year threaten one Michigan crop which is not often considered valuable but which really has a high monetary value if properly managed, according to experts who point out the danger facing game birds in this State this winter.

Shortage of feed is disastrous to the game supply, especially in periods of extreme cold weather or of sleet storms. The birds must have fuel to provide bodily heat to resist winter's rigors. Hunger kills more birds than hunters in some districts in the State.

The provision of winter feed is one place where city hunters and sportsmen's clubs can prove that they appreciate the courtesies extended to them by farmers. Buying a few bushels of feed from the growers and hiring the farmer's boy to place the feed where the birds congregate in winter will save the hunting in some areas.

Most grains are eaten greedily by hungry game birds but the feed must be distributed in places where it will not be covered by ice or snow or where the feeding birds are exposed to the sharp eyes of predatory birds or animals. Winter feed can be provided by growing grain and grass mixtures and permitting the crop to stand and be harvested by the birds but such a plan necessitates planning in the spring.

Any plan of feeding requires the cooperation of the farmer for its success. He can not be expected to furnish hunting grounds and to grow feed and use his time in the winter to distribute it, but he and his sons will be found ready to help any city sportsmen who will help insure next fall's sport by preserving a stock of breeding birds through the trials of winter.

Man 1 1/2 Miles Away Gets 5000-Mile Call

The longest way round is sometimes the shortest way home, even for telephone calls. So it proved, at any rate, in the case of a call which traveled 5,000 miles to reach a man who was a mile and a half away as the crow flies.

It seems that about a mile and a half from the Point Reyes radio telephone station, near San Francisco, which is the receiving point to connect the Manila-Java-Hawaii radio-telephone circuits to the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, long distance lines, there is a small cabin for making tests. In this cabin a telephone engineer works with an assortment of testing instruments to check radio signals across the Pacific in order to learn more about atmospheric and magnetic conditions for the benefit of radiotelephone transmission.

For a while after the engineer occupied the cabin, there was no telephone line between the cabin and the receiving station. One day this engineer was in touch by telephone with Honolulu, and the Point Reyes station a mile and a half away was also in touch with Honolulu by telephone. The station had a long distance telephone call for the engineer in the cabin, and requested Honolulu to tell him so. In about half an hour the engineer arrived at the station, in response to a request that had travelled 5,000 miles.

CHILD SUMMONS AID WHEN FAMILY IS FELLED BY GAS

Because little ten-year-old Bessie Kafka of Baltimore not only knew how to use the telephone, but also recognized its value in an emergency, she was able to summon aid when her mother and little three-year-old brother John were overcome by coal gas recently. When the gas began to seep upstairs from the furnace, no one noticed it until all three began to grow weak from its effects. Suddenly the mother and baby brother collapsed and Bessie, almost overcome herself, tried to rouse them. But they were already unconscious, and, terror-stricken, the child ran to the telephone and called a nearby relative. Within a few minutes police and a municipal ambulance crew, with a resuscitation machine, were on the scene, and after nearly an hour's efforts succeeded in reviving both the mother and child.

PASSION PLAY ACTOR TALKS WITH SON IN WASHINGTON

Anton Lang, who formerly played the role of Christ in the Passion Play at Oberammergau, Germany, recently made use of overseas telephone facilities to talk with his son, Anton, Jr., in Washington, D. C. The younger Lang is now a professor at Georgetown University.

Patient's Call Rouses Doctor to Flee with Three Others from Early Morning Fire

Dr. William C. Henske, in his isolated cottage at Lake Wissota, near Chippewa Falls, Wis., was aroused at 4:30 o'clock one morning recently by the ringing of the telephone bell. But he did not answer the telephone.

Instead, he hurriedly awakened Mrs. Henske and two children who were visiting them, and led them to an outside door. For the house was filled with smoke, the floor beneath his feet was hot, and as he opened the bedroom door, he found the outside rooms in flames.

In their night clothes, the occupants of the house ran to the garage, and Dr. Henske sped to a neighbor's home, where the children were put to bed and he secured warm clothing for himself.

His next thought was to check with the telephone operator to determine whence came the call which awakened him in time to save the lives of himself, his wife, and the children. It was found that the call came from the home of a patient who had suffered a heart attack.

Strange, indeed, are the workings of fate. The patient, whose wife had turned to the telephone to summon aid, succumbed before the doctor could reach him, but the telephone call which had been made to save his life was responsible for saving the lives of four other persons.

ONLY SIXTEEN TELEPHONES IN SYRACUSE THEN

Syracuse, N. Y., recently observed the fifty-fifth anniversary of the installation of the first telephone in the city. The number of telephones in Syracuse has grown from 16 in 1879 to more than 42,000 at the beginning of the present year.

Department of Agriculture Answers
Thousands of Calls for Information

Left: Information operator and chief operator of the Department of Commerce. Below left: The Department switchboard. Below: The Department's dial equipment.

Interest in agricultural pursuits resulted in more than 4,200,000 telephone calls being made through the private branch exchange switchboard serving the Department of Agriculture in Washington during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934. This government department, with its 10,600 employees, is served by approximately 3,000 telephones.

Equipment Handles Millions of Calls
Without the modern quick-action telephone, the emergency activities of the U. S. Department of Agriculture would have been immeasurably slowed down, according to J. L. Koehl, in charge of telephones and telegraph. More than half of this great volume of calls—4,200,000—were made within the offices of the department, which is an indication that it is a pretty busy place even without the telephone calls from the outside.

The number of incoming calls is nearly double those outgoing, the approximate figures being 1,341,000 as compared to 721,000. This, Mr. Koehl believes, is partly because of the thousands of requests for information which the department gets by telephone.

All Sorts of Questions
A farmer wants to know if firecrackers in refuse will be injurious to hogs. A hunter calls the Biological Survey to ask about the new restrictions on duck hunting. A housewife calls to ask about "some queer white bugs" in her kitchen and is referred to the Bureau of Entomology.

A householder having trouble with his well is asked to talk to an agricultural engineer. A bride finds difficulties in meeting kitchen problems and calls the Bureau of Home Economics for assistance. And people without number call the Weather Bureau, especially when it's too hot or too cold or too dry or too wet. But within the department there is always much need for quick exchange of information. Scientific or economic research, impersonal as it may be in reports, is an intensely personal activity. An intricate investigation may require quick information from half a dozen men, each an authority in his own field, and the telephone is used.

Economists and statisticians, even more than laboratory scientists, depend on the telephone. It is of just as great importance to administrators of all department activities and to those who gather and distribute information on the current agricultural work.

Both Operators and Dial Equipment
In emergencies the telephone serves well. There is never a year but that the department takes advantage of telephone service in major emergencies affecting thousands or even millions. This was true during the past year when extensive efforts were being made in production adjustment and in relieving drought sufferers.

Operators in the department handle nearly one-third of all calls made. These consist of all incoming calls and all long distance conversations. Some idea of the way in which this work for operators has increased can be gained from the fact that the number of "positions" at the department telephone switchboard increased last year from four to seven. All inter-departmental calls as well as all outgoing local calls are handled by dial equipment.

Proves Value of Service
"However," says Mr. Koehl, "I doubt if these facts and figures interest people much. They take the telephone for granted."
"But," says another department employee, "it may also be taken for granted that if anything happens to halt telephone service, you will hear from them just as soon as they can get a call through."
