COMMENT AND CRITICISM

A BOY AND HIS DOG

By Guy Dishaw of Waterford

Every morning, past my window,
Strolls a small boy and his dog,
And, methinks, as I behold him,
That is the noblest work of God.
I sometimes watch him from my window,
Till he passes out of sight,
And again I often see him,
When he is coming home at night.
He is headed for the school house,
And whether going there or back,
That faithful collie dog of his,
Is always on his track.
As he steps out on the highway,
With his dinner pail in hand,
I imagine I can see him,
When he comes to be a man.
He is a huskie little fellow,
And he strides off like a man,
Who is headed for some future goal,
Bound to get there, if he can.
He never loiters on his way,
And he seldom makes remarks,
That chum of his is close behind,
Though he seldom ever barks.
I don't know who this boy may be,
But I think he has a Dad,
And that he surely must be proud,
Of this charming little lad.
A brighter little lad than this,
You will not often see,
Sometimes I wonder to myself,
Would they give that boy to me?
But I know that they would not do that.

For they'd think the same as I,
That this little boy is a treasure,
They'll be needing by and by.
When their hair has turned to silver,
And they find they're getting old,
Then they will realize this boy of theirs
Means, to them, far more than gold.

In future years I see this boy,
When he has older grown,
A loving wife is by his side,
But the collie dog is gone.
Each coming year he roams back home,
To see his Dad and mother,
That little boy of theirs is gone,
But they bring to them another.
When he is coming up the pathway,
Sees his Mother in the door,
His memory wanders back again,
To those boyhood days of yore.
As long as Dad and Mother live,
And with life and health to him,
Each year he will ramble home again,
And they will always welcome him.

HIGH SCHOOL GAB

Mr. Ivan Ivanovich Dragon Shirraef delivered a very interesting talk Tuesday on amusing things about Russia, such as, the way the Russian boys made love. He also told of conditions in Russia at present and those in the past. Mr. Ivan Ivanovich D. Shirraef left Tuesday with these parting words: "Pardon my Russian Accent!"

We seem to have two good detectives among us. They are especially good in tracking people.

Miss La Forge: What was Napoleon's second wife's name?

Louis P.: Her name was Mrs. Napoleon Bonaparte.

Mr. Shirraef told us that Russians don't have a "line". But we think different when we look at some of the girls' books that he autographed. "Tch! Tch!"

This girls' feud is a funny thing; one minute they are all right and the next minute they are looking daggers at each other. And calling each other pet names such as "Cream Puff", etc.

You ought to see B. M.'s new sweater. It sheds hair worse than a dog.

Who's the little girl who is stealing away all the boys' hearts? How about it, Angie?

Eastern Star Chapter Installs New Officers

Tokens of Appreciation Given Retiring Worthy Matron

A special meeting of the O. E. S. Joseph C. Bird Chapter was held Monday in the Masonic Temple. The advance officers filled the chairs for initiation at 4 p. m. and at 6:30 a dinner was served in the dining room to about 50 members and their friends.

In the evening a public installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. Rie Sanderson, of Pontiac, as installing officer; Miss Dorothy Newton, of Pontiac, as installing organist; and Mrs. Helen Gundry acting as installing marshal. The officers installed were: Worthy Matron, Mrs. Evadina Richardson; worthy patron, William Russell; associate matron, Mrs. Cora Skarritt; associate patron, James Bennett; secretary, Mrs. Myrtle Yost; treasurer, Mrs. Idell Skarritt; conductress, Mrs. Vera Craven; associate conductress, Mrs. Gladys Porritt; chaplain, Mrs. Winifred Porritt; marshal, Mrs. Gladys Gundry; organist, Mrs. Hulda Trueblood; warden, Mrs. Margaret Belitz; sentinel, Lee Porritt; Adah, Mrs. Isabelle Baynes; Ruth, Mrs. Jean Douglas; Esther, Mrs. Lila Hopkins; Martha, Mrs. Jewel Gundry; Electa, Mrs. Fannie Dunston.

The invocation was given by Rev. C. E. Edwards.

Mildred Russell, retiring matron, was presented with the jewel, a basket of flowers, and a gift from the chapter in appreciation of her work for the past year and a half.

CONTRACT LET FOR IMPROVING M-87

Barling & Dull of Pontiac have been awarded the contract for the first step in the improvement of M-87. It consists of 3.1 miles of 20-foot oil aggregate surface from Olive Branch to U. S. 10, and the contract price is $54,277.58. Work will be begun and pushed as fast as weather conditions permit. The road will be over an entirely new route, nearly straight between the two points, cutting off several bad curves, and lessening the distance 1.4 miles. The Dixie Highway terminus will be about half way between the Canteen and Austin Corners.

The road when completed will consist of a 5-inch oil and gravel base, with a 3-inch asphalt top, which is said to be as durable as cement paving.

Contract for the asphalt top remains to be let but the work will follow the grading and foundation construction as soon as possible.

Plans for improving the remainder of the length of M-87 are practically settled but the contracts will not be let this year.

Smiths and Rosells Honored at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stewart of White Lake Entertained Last Saturday Night at a 6 o'clock Dinner, Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Rosell who expect to leave soon for Florida where they will spend the winter.

The house was decorated profusely with yellow and white chrysanthemums and a bouquet of mums formed the centerpiece for the dinner table. The evening was spent socially and there was so much to be talked of before the trip south that the evening seemed much too short.

PROGRESSIVE CLASS HOLDS MEETING

Miss Ada Scrae and Mrs. Elizabeth Ronk Are Hostesses

On Wednesday evening the Progressive Class of the Clarkston Methodist Sunday School met at the home of Miss Ada Scrae with Mrs. Elizabeth Ronk acting as co-hostess. There were 19 present. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Ray Clark. The members were glad to see that Mrs. Clark was able to be with them again. Mrs. C. E. Edwards and Mrs. Earl Walter led in prayer. The regular business was taken care of. The class decided that the different members who had old papers to sell for the class should deliver them at E. L. Porritt's on Miller Road. The task of collecting so many was too great for the committee.

Mrs. D. M. Winn, Mrs. Walter Barrows and Mrs. Lee Clark were appointed on the flower committee. Mrs. Howard Huttenlocher, Mrs. Butters and Mrs. F. E. Davies were appointed on the membership committee.

Miss Virginia Le Forge was appointed assistant secretary.

The December meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Walter Barrows with Mrs. Chas. Hutton assisting and the January meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Irving Ronk with Miss Virginia Le Forge assisting.

At the close of the business meeting, the hostesses presented a program. Mrs. Lee Clark very ably gave a book review on "The Rim of the Prairie", by Bess Streeter Aldrich. Mrs. Clark told the story so completely and pictured the characters so well that the listeners really enjoyed the book more than if they had read it themselves.

Then several of the ladies gave papers on the different types of music and the origination of each. Mrs. C. E. Edwards told about the folk songs, after which Mrs. Lee Clark, Mrs. Wilhelmina Reynolds, Mrs. Archie McIntyre, Mrs. C. E. Edwards and Miss Ada Scrae sang and whistled "The Girl I Left Behind Me." Mrs. Winifred Perrin was the piano accompanist.

Then followed a brief outline of mountain music and this was followed by the group singing "She'll Be Coming 'Round the Mountain."

Mrs. Wilhelmina Reynolds then read a paper on War Music and the singing of "Till We Meet Again" followed.

The spirituals were then discussed by Mrs. Lee Clark and the group sang "I Ain't Goin' to Grieve My Lord No More."

Mrs. Archie McIntyre told about the Cowboy songs and then followed the song "Home on the Range."

Of course the modern age had to be discussed and so Mrs. Ray Clark spoke on "Jazz". The group then sang "Oh You Beautiful Doll". While the hostesses were preparing lunch the class amused themselves with a musical guessing game.

Refreshments were served and Mrs. C. E. Edwards poured tea.

While there was a good attendance at this meeting the class is looking forward to a larger one on the evening of the second Wednesday in December.

LADIES' AID SERVES DINNER

Another Chicken Dinner Enjoyed at Seymour Lake

The Seymour Lake Ladies' Aid was quite pleased at the attendance they had at their dinner on Wednesday. They usually serve a chicken dinner every fall and this one was no exception as far as being good is concerned. Just to be different they served creamed chicken and everyone enjoyed it.

Mrs. Clark Miller who was entertaining her bridge club took the group to the community house for lunch and then to her home for the bridge game in the afternoon.

The Ladies' Aid felt repaid for all their hard work because they cleared $26.00 which they figure is a good profit for such a small community. They wish to thank everyone who helped make it a success.

Crhysanthemums In Full Bloom

Waterford Hill Greenhouse Has Beautiful Display

The Waterford Hill Greenhouse is a feast for the eyes at the present time. On entering one is faced by a large number of bronze and yellow blooms, the names of which to a great many are not familiar. The "Melba" is a large bloom with shaggy petals which are shaded from a light yellow or orange to a deep red at the outer edge. Alongside of these plants are the perky little blossoms called "Ethels," which are a beautiful bronze; then there are what is known as the large bronze and these are really a bright yellow color and each plant bears many blossoms.

Down the center of the Greenhouse is a mass of white ball "mums," which almost take your breath with which almost take your breath with as the "Chattanooga" and is certainly an emblem of purity.

Alongside of these beautiful white flowers are the "New Yorks" and "Distinction," which help to complete the picture.

The "White Yuletide" and "Xmas Gold" are in a row by themselves, and will not be in full bloom until a little later.

All flower lovers should make a trip to the Waterford Hill Greenhouse and view this fine display.

MRS. H. A. HUEY HOSTESS TO CLUB

A Musical Program Was Amusing and Instructive

The Clarkston Literary Club met on Nov. 13th with Mrs. H. A. Huey of Waterford and enjoyed an exceptionally fine program. It was Music Day and a number of short talks were given on Folk Songs, Mountaineer songs, war songs, spirituals, cowboy songs and jazz by Mrs. C. E. Edwards, Mrs. W. Reynolds, Mrs. A. McIntyre, Mrs. Ray Clark, Miss Ada Scrae and Mrs. Lee Clark. This group accompanied by Mrs. Winifred Perrin sang songs characteristic of each type of music.

The next meeting will be "Pioneer Day" and will be held Nov. 20th at the Clarkston Baptist Church.

FARMERS CAN GET MARL VERY CHEAP

Meetings to Discuss Plan to Be Held in the County

The Oakland County Welfare and County Extension Service are cooperating in a new program for marl use this Fall and Winter, according to an announcement made this week by K. D. Bailey, County Agricultural Agent.

The plan, briefly, is as follows: Welfare labor will be free, to strip the marl bed ready for working, to repair and maintain roadway to the marl; and to load on trucks and wagons. The marl will be furnished at 25 cents per cubic yard.

"This is the cheapest and easiest land liming we have ever known," says Mr. Bailey, "and is the best break farmers on acid soils have ever had. Lime in the soil is the first step in getting alfalfa for feed and pasture. Liming well done should last from 20 to 25 years. Most all Oakland County soils are very acid and marl at 25 cents per yard with help in loading is a tremendous buy."

A schedule of meetings has been arranged at which the plan will be discussed in detail and orders will be received. All farmers interested are urged to attend. The meetings will include the following in this part of the county:

Brandon Town Hall, Ortonville, 7:30 p. m., Wednesday, Nov. 14th.

Clarkston Town Hall, Clarkston, 1:00 p. m., Thursday, Nov. 15th.

Holly Village Council room, 7:30 p. m., Thursday, Nov. 15.

Davisburg, Town Hall, 8:00 p. m., Thursday, Nov. 15.

White Lake, Town Hall, 1:00 p. m., Friday, Nov. 16.

FAMOUS MALE CHORUS COMING TO ANN ARBOR

The fifth transcontinental tour of the internationally famous Don Cosack Russian Male Chorus, which will be heard in Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor, November 19, started on October 7 in Montreal, and has been a continuous march of triumph. From Quebec in the East to Vancouver in the West, down the Pacific Coast and to the border of Mexico, sold-out houses have been the rule. Enthusiastic audiences have packed the largest available halls, and hundreds have had to be turned away. New records of attendance and box-office receipts have been established.

Junior Lit Club Impersonate Stars

The Clarkston Junior Literary Club Held Its Regular Meeting at the Home of Marian Terry

Roll call was answered by nine members.

Plans were discussed for a tea to be given Nov. 23 at the home of Helen Walter.

The program was "Impersonating Radio Stars". Bernice Thomas impersonated Kate Smith and rendered "Memories of France". Grace Rockwell, Frances Scott and Doris Hemingway impersonated "Clara, Lu and Em."

The meeting was adjourned. Light refreshments were served and the evening was very much enjoyed.

ARMISTICE DANCE WELL ATTENDED

Old Time Dances Enjoyed by Many

Last Friday night the Armistice Dance sponsored by the American Legion Post and the Ladies' Auxiliary was well patronized and all in attendance enjoyed the peppy music. Many were on the floor for every dance and those who missed the modern dances made sure to enter into all the old time dances.

At eleven o'clock the dancing ceased and silence reigned while taps were sounded and the crowd paid respect to the soldiers who gave their lives for their country in the World War.

At 11:30 lunch was served and mostly everyone took a few minutes to indulge in a cup of coffee, doughnuts and sandwiches.

Some of the committees who helped make the dance a success were—the music committee composed of James Saylor, George Rosenquist and Elmer Collins and the Hall committee, Chas. Roehm, Ben Comstock, Ted O'Roark, Alex. Solley, Mr. Taylor, Herb Baynes and Frank Molter.

MRS. F. J. SANFORD ENJOYS EXPOSITION

Her Ancestors' Gowns and Bonnets Were on Display

Mrs. F. J. Sanford of Moon Valley Subdivision attended the Women's Exposition in Detroit and enjoyed seeing some of the old-fashioned clothes that had been worn by some of her relatives.

Among the gowns and bonnets that had been worn in the past two centuries there was one blue gown that belonged to Mrs. Sanford's great, great aunt. This aunt's marriage took place in her father's home, that of William Warren Howland and stood on Broadway Avenue just back of the J. L. Hudson Co. store.

There was also an old cap which was worn by Mrs. Sanford's grandmother, Mrs. Robert Maxwell of White Lake Township, who with her husband and family came to Michigan in 1834. These were modeled by Mrs. Sanford's niece, Mrs. Roy Hathaway who is a teacher in the Highland Park School and also a vice president and chairman of the Women's Junior Club of that city.

Clarkston Hunters Again in the North

All Have Departed in Quest of Yearly Quota

Clarkston's hunters are out again to secure their quota of deer and bear. A large delegation numbering some who have gone every year since they were old enough to hold a gun is roaming the woods of Northern Michigan. We understand if they are successful, they went hunting, if they are not successful—well—they were just spending their vacation.

We trust we will be forgiven if some names are omitted. The list we have secured, we believe, contains the names of all hunters, this year. Perhaps it does not matter so much who went as who came home with a deer.

The list of licenses issued includes the following:

- Ervin Baker.
- Ferris Holcomb.
- William Hunt.
- Frank Howland.
- Glenn Petty.
- Floyd Andrews.
- Raymond Jarvis.
- Bert Corey.
- W. T. Horne.
- R. A. Alger.
- Walter Barrows.
- Joe Perry.
- John Beemer.
- Russell Walter.
- Katrus MacDonald.
- K. P. Anthony.
- Orson Coe.
- John Visgatis.
- Orson Young.
- Kenneth Shattuck.
- Allen Orr.
- Helen Orr.
- Alton Orr.
- Louis Chamberlain.
- Lee Boucard.
- Allen Storons.
- Wm. Belitz.
- Sam Morgan.
- Judd Skarritt.
- James Beaulair.
- Ward Dunston.
- Dale Coryell.
- Ira Jones.
- J. S. Waterbury.
- Frank Leonard.
- B. H. Comstock.
- C. G. Sutherland.
- Carl Irish.
- Louis R. Terry.
- Harvey Porritt.
- Ewerby Clark.
- Best of luck everyone.

HOW MANY OF THESE CAN YOU SPELL?

The spelling champion of the State of Pennsylvania is a telephone man, William T. Baldwin, Jr., Commercial Representative at Lebanon. In a recent statewide spelling bee held at Harrisburg in connection with the centenary of Pennsylvania's public school system, Mr. Baldwin won his title from forty-eight spelling champions representing various parts of the state. The contest required several hours and finally narrowed down to Mr. Baldwin and J. R. Brotherton, a lawyer living in Luzerne County. The lawyer missed on the word "diatetics," and Baldwin then became the winner, having triumphed easily over such words as lackadaisical, ricocheted, eleemosynary, nephritis, etc. He has been awarded a parchment scroll from the state superintendent of public instruction.

Millions Heard Dramatic Reports as Accident Balked Flight to Upper Air

Above: The "Bowl" in the Black Hills near Rapid City, S. D., from which the stratosphere balloon ascended.

Right: The stratosphere balloon as it descended over the fields of Nebraska. Note the torn fabric of the balloon, just above the gondola. This photograph was taken from an accompanying army airplane by Lt. J. F. Phillips. © National Geographic Society.

"The balloon is falling fast. It's down!" And, a few minutes later: "The fliers jumped and landed safely by parachute!"

When telephone men flashed those two brief statements over telephone wires, it was the first information concerning the landing of the stratosphere balloon and the fate of the three army balloonists who, in an airtight gondola, had left the ground near Rapid City, S. D., on July 28 in an attempt to rise higher above the earth than man had ever gone before. And it brought to a dramatic climax the telephone's big part in the flight.

Heard Details of Flight
 It was by telephone and radio that anxious listeners throughout the country were kept informed of the progress of the flight. In one of the most dramatic broadcasts ever put on the air.

For radio listeners heard details about the start of the flight, the filling of the big bag with pure hydrogen gas and other preparations.

They heard the three army officers, sealed in the airtight gondola, talking to each other, discussing various phases of the flight.

Most dramatically of all, they heard the pilot calmly describe the big gap torn in the bottom of the bag, a gap that forced the balloonists to descend and that got bigger and bigger as they dropped closer to earth.

Pilots Tell of Balloon's Fall
 And after the fliers had jumped for their lives in the nick of time and the bag and gondola had crashed to earth on the Ruben Johnson farm near Loomis, Neb., listeners heard the pilot tell about those last few exciting moments when the gondola dropped earthward at mile-a-minute speed while the men squeezed through a small porthole and dropped in safety by parachute.

For weeks before Major William Kepner, pilot, Captain Orville Anderson, co-pilot, and Captain Albert Stevens, scientific observer, all of the United States Army Air Corps, rode the balloon out of the natural "Bowl" eleven miles from Rapid City, plans had been completed for constant communication with the balloonists and for periodic broadcasts.

Preparations for Broadcasts
 Short wave radio receiving equipment was available at different parts of the country to pick up the broadcasts from the balloon and feed them to Bell System program circuits which in turn would send them to National Broadcasting Company facilities. Two army planes with short wave equipment also were available to pick up the broadcasts and send them to ground stations if the balloon got out of range. During a part of the afternoon, the Department of Commerce radio monitoring station at Grand Island, Neb., picked up the broadcasts, special facilities being installed by the Bell System for feeding the broadcasting network from the receiving equipment.

Telephone men had been requested to keep in constant touch with the flight and to stand by for any help they might be able to offer. They played a bigger part than had been anticipated.

Telephone Man Spots Landing
 As the balloon dropped faster and faster and got closer and closer to earth, radio contact with the fliers was lost. It was then that A. L. Dodds, wire chief at Holdrege, Neb., watching the balloon from his office window, saw it drop a few miles away near Loomis. He quickly relayed the information to J. W. Sherwood, wire chief at Grand Island, who got in touch with the Omaha office of the telephone company, which relayed the information, through New York, to the NBC. It was also picked up and broadcast over the temporary short wave station at Rapid City.

Almost as the fliers reached ground, C. E. LeMasters, wire chief at Lexington, Neb., and two combination men were on the scene. They had followed the balloon in their automobile ever since it passed over Lexington. As Captain Anderson and Captain Stevens landed after their parachute jump, Mr. LeMasters picked them up in his car and then hurried over to the gondola. There they joined Major Kepner.

Mr. LeMasters immediately took the fliers to the Johnson farm home. There he quickly got Mr. Sherwood, and then the Army's Seventh Corps area headquarters in Omaha, on the telephone and gave first information that the fliers were safe.

Establish Circuit to NBC Network
 This done, a telephone connection was established from the Johnson home to Rapid City to enable Major Kepner to talk with his wife and assure her of the safe landing.

Meanwhile other telephone people had been in action and, hurried conferences by long distance, it was decided to have Major Kepner talk from the Johnson farm, connecting that line to the NBC network by way of Holdrege and Loomis. That was how the nation heard Major Kepner give first hand information of their landing.

Thousands Saw Take-off
 Thousands of persons visited the scene of the take-off to view the big balloon. During the evening preceding the take-off, it was estimated that 30,000 people arrived. Most of them stayed all night and looked down from the top of the cliffs to see the start of the flight. On that same evening, more long distance telephone calls were placed from Rapid City than on any other night in the history of the city. And during the time the balloon was in flight, thousands of persons all over the country called press associations, newspapers and radio stations for information regarding the intrepid fliers.

Such was the interest in the flight of the big balloon and in the fliers themselves. The whole nation listened in to their daring flight and their more daring attempt to bring a collapsing balloon down to earth.

GOOD SEED STOCK VERY IMPORTANT

Farmers Are Cautioned About Use of Inferior Stock

Scarcity of quality seeds of several farm crops have led to a great deal of discussion about the possibility of using seed stocks more than a year old, and people who have this old seed are advised by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture that storage for a few years does not ruin most seeds.

The original quality of the seed has more influence upon its ability to germinate at the end of three or four years than the period of time which has elapsed since the seed ripened. The percentage of germination of any seed can be safely determined only by one method, actual testing.

Seeds which have been stored where the atmosphere was hot and moist is less apt to retain germinating power than if it is kept in cool, dry storage. Seeds placed in storage while containing excess moisture are apt to deteriorate badly. All seeds should be thoroughly dried before storing.

Tests made in Ohio showed that only 62 per cent of five-year-old alsike clover seed germinated, while alsike seed which had been kept 10 years gave a 90 per cent germination. Nine-year-old alsike, in the same test, only sprouted 13 per cent of the seeds. These trials prove that the age of the seed is not the determining factor in seed viability.

In Colorado, where storage conditions are favored by a cool dry climate, wheat lost only 7 per cent in germinating powers in 10 years of storage. Barley lost 14 per cent of its sprouting ability in Colorado, and oats decreased only 13 per cent in the ten-year period.

Corn appears to lose value as seed more rapidly during the elapse of long storage periods than other grains and seeds. Four-year-old corn gave good germination percentages, in the tests, when the corn was well matured and dry when stored; but the seed decreased rapidly in value after the fourth year.

Stories about seeds being recovered from Ancient Egyptian tombs and producing healthy growth when planted should be regarded with doubt. Chemical changes which constantly occur in stored seeds make them worthless as seed after the passage of very long periods.

Seed testers should become an important part of farm equipment this year. Test the seed early to find if it will grow, so a better supply can be procured if the tested stock is low in vitality. Make sure the tested seed which proves to be good is then kept under favorable conditions of storage.

ANALYZING THE RESULT

For the first time in generations, the Administration party has more than a two-thirds majority in both houses of Congress. Confronting the usual rule that a party swept into office on a presidential landslide loses from thirty to sixty seats in the off-year congressional elections, the Democrats have actually added nine or ten seats in the Senate and increased slightly their already overwhelming majority in the House.

With the accession of this tremendous power comes responsibility for its use. Primarily the victory is one for President Roosevelt. The favor of the voters seems to have gone with very few exceptions to candidates who committed themselves to his program and his leadership.

It is important to know to what extent this program has been interpreted as one of unlimited spending. Such an interpretation would be contrary to Mr. Roosevelt's announced intention to balance the budget as soon as possible, and his observation that too many liberal governments have foundered on the rock of loose financial policy. From a cursory scanning of the new faces in Congress, it would appear that most of the Democratic members are as much committed to follow the President in retrenchment, if he chooses that course, as to support him in spending.

The initiative more than ever rests with Mr. Roosevelt. True, the apparent solidity of his party representation conceals actually a variety of schisms between conservative and radical Democrats. And divisions in Congress may be along these lines:

NEW GOVERNOR TO STUDY PROBLEMS

Resigns as Secretary of State to Consider Important Matters

Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald set a precedent when he announced immediately after election that he would resign from his present post and devote the rest of the year to the study of state affairs.

In the state's history one other secretary of state has resigned for entirely different reasons. One secretary of state has been removed from office. Mr. Fitzgerald intends to spend the remaining weeks of the year to the formulating of policies and plans to present to the legislature in January.

At Mr. Fitzgerald's request, Governor William A. Comstock has announced that Deputy Secretary of State Clark W. Browne will be appointed secretary for the balance of the year.

Mr. Fitzgerald will assume the governorship under conditions different from those faced by any incoming chief executive. Four of the seven members of the state administrative board will be of a different political faith. The state senate, according to unofficial reports, will be composed of 21 republicans and 11 democrats, while the house of representative will contain at least 48 republicans and 51 democrats. The vote in Iron county was a tie in early returns.

In announcing his resignation Mr. Fitzgerald declared that he expects the entire administrative board will work in harmonious manner. "The people of Michigan," he said, "have elected their state officials because they believe they will receive good government from them. I know I speak for every member of the board in declaring that we will attempt to follow the mandate of the voters in this regard."

For Homemakers

Up-to-date equipment and labor-saving tools will lend a modern touch to the kitchen which does not include all the latest conveniences, according to home economics extension home management specialists of Michigan State College.

The mixing bowl is one of the most important kitchen utensils. When shopping for one, or a set of three or five, choose one made of earthenware rather than of aluminum, tin or enamel, because metal ones will mar with beating unless a wooden spoon is used.

The Dover beater is satisfactory for whipping eggs, potatoes and batter. The faster the circular blades turn in proportion to the revolutions of the handle, the less energy is required to operate the beater. Beaters with four wheels whip in more air and consequently give greater volume than the styles of egg beaters with one, two, or three blades. Thin, sharp blades increase volume, and will whip to a finer texture. The cogs on rotary types should mesh smoothly, and the beaters should fit close to the bottom of the bowl. For whipping egg whites for souffles and angel food cakes, whisk beaters may be more satisfactory, as they give the most volume of any beater, although they produce a coarser texture and require much more work than the rotary types.

It is well to have both a glass measuring cup and the graduated type made of aluminum. A metal cup should be rustless and heavy enough so as not to dent easily. Nests of measuring cups are now available, so that fractions of cupfuls may be measured more easily.

When selecting graters, choose either tin or aluminum ones. Drilled holes are more satisfactory than punched ones as they are easier to clean and cut the food better.

MANY NEWSPAPERS ARE NOW REPRESENTED IN CAPITAL

Washington is now recognized as the world's center of important events, and, naturally, the city has more newspaper men in it than ever before. The classified section of the current telephone directory for Washington lists 243 newspapers, press associations and news photo services.

From the very beginning of telephone communication, newspapers recognized the value of this service in news gathering and dissemination, and a one-page telephone directory issued in Washington in 1879, the year after the telephone was introduced in the city, carried the listings of the Associated Press, Chicago Tribune, New York Herald, New York Tribune, New York Times, New York Sun, Philadelphia Inquirer, Washington Post, and Washington Evening Star.

BOYS AND GIRLS AT CHICAGO LIVESTOCK SHOW

RECEIVERS RESTING ON OBJECTS CAUSE TROUBLE

Rural boys and girls from 44 states will attend the 13th national 4-H Club Congress this year at Chicago. The Congress is held in connection with the International Live Stock Exposition at the Chicago Stock Yards December 1 to 8.

They will travel to Chicago on free trips awarded them for their achievements at state, county, and district fairs in the states from which they come. Winners at the Chicago show are the national champions of the year.

The packers, civic and commercial organizations in Chicago, the hotels and railroads, the National Committee on 4-H Clubs, and the Chicago Union Stock Yards will all cooperate to provide daily banquets and a full educational and entertainment program for the boys and girls, in addition to the many activities that will engage their time at the International Live Stock Exposition.

The style review contest for 4-H girls will attract increased attention this year. The state winners will model outfits of their own handiwork as a feature of the Exposition's matinee Horse Show on Wednesday, December 5.

Headquarters for the young people will be provided in a new building, adjacent to the new International Live Stock Exposition amphitheatre.

With an area of over 3,500,000 square miles, the Sahara Desert in Northern Africa ranks as the world's largest desert.

RECEIVERS RESTING ON OBJECTS CAUSE TROUBLE

Books and ash trays often cause telephone trouble

This is due to the fact that the desk or table on which the telephone is usually located quite often has on it some books or an ash tray, or both. After someone has taken the telephone receiver off the hook, the instrument is usually pushed to one side a little bit, and when the conversation is over, the person falls to notice that the receiver is not put back properly on the hook. Its weight may rest on a nearby book or ash tray or not pull the receiver hook all the way down.

The effect is the same as if the receiver were left entirely off the hook. Under those circumstances, no one can make a call to or from that telephone. The line is reported "out of order," and if it is a party line, all telephones connected with it are put out of commission until the offending receiver is properly replaced on the hook.

In the State of Connecticut, for example, this happened nearly 46,000 times last year, and in over 4,000 of these cases it was necessary to send a repairman to visit the premises in order to find out what the trouble was and to correct it.

The power plants generating electricity from the Niagara Falls section furnish light for 500 cities.

It Isn't the Heat, It's Humidity That Bothers Glass Insulators Too

Telephone wires are supported by glass insulators mounted on the crossarms of telephone poles. When the weather is humid, a film of moisture forms on the surface of the insulators; the higher the humidity, the thicker the film—and the more electric current leaks away. Important factors governing the amount of leakage are the chemical nature of the glass, its age and shape, and the amount and kind of dirt on its surface. This photograph shows a rack of glass insulators being exposed to the weather on the roof of the Bell Telephone Laboratories in New York, where tests are being carried on to determine the most efficient type of insulator.

Liberty Theatre
Holly

Back in the days of bangs and stays the rules for love and marriage were very different from what they are today, and young people frequently had their mates thrust upon them by their parents. This situation forms a part of the plot of "The Age of Innocence", Sunday and Monday's feature at the Holly Theatre.

Irene Dunne and John Boles are the stars of this drama, which was adapted from Edith Wharton's Pulitzer Prize winning novel of the same name. When first published in 1920, the book was the subject of widespread discussion. Later it was dramatized and served as one of Katharine Cornell's most successful starring vehicles authored by Margaret Ayer Barnes.

A tender romance that stirs the heart with its depth of human feeling is offered in "Have a Heart", first starring vehicle for Jean Parker. The picture shows Tuesday at the Holly Theatre.

As "Sally," the crippled doll maker who finds love in spite of her handicap, Miss Parker plays a complete range of feeling from depths of pathos to sparkling comedy.

James Dunn, in the male lead as Jimmie Flaherty, vendor of "Have a Heart" ice cream, is warmly sympathetic and makes an ideal romantic partner.

All Operators Volunteer for Duty While Flames Sweep Town at Night

Some of the telephone operators and men employees who voluntarily reported for duty during the disastrous Newburyport fire.

Every telephone operator in the city volunteered her services during the recent $350,000 fire in Newburyport, Mass., the worst conflagration in that city since 1811.

Starting in the middle of the night, the fire swept a quarter of a mile or more along both sides of Merrimack street. Immediately, the local telephone office was taxed to its utmost by the volume of calls. At the time, there were only two telephone operators on duty—enough to handle Newburyport's infrequent calls between midnight and 6 A. M. But it didn't take much time for the town to realize the seriousness of the situation. Even before their help was requested, every one of the 30 operators regularly employed in the Newburyport central office, and five part-time operators, reported to offer their services.

Several employees of the plant department also arrived to offer their aid in the emergency.

It was an unusual sight which greeted Traffic Manager Louis G. LaPointe when he arrived upon the scene from his home in Salem. Along the length of the entire switchboard were girls attired not only in ordinary street dresses but in evening gowns and even in pajamas and bathrobes. The latter were worn by operators who had hastened from bed to help at the switchboard, while the evening gowns were worn by some who had been attending a dance and who came directly from the dance floor to the telephone office.

City officials, including the mayor and chief of the local fire department, commended the operators for their service in calling fifteen outside fire departments and for their help in securing other assistance.

Facts About the Telephone

San Francisco was first connected by telephone with the state capital at Sacramento on March 1, 1884, just a half century ago.

The telephone office at Cairo City, Nev., occupies the site where Adobe Stockade once furnished settlers a refuge from attacks by the Indians.

Fifty years ago Louisville, Ky., boasted of the fact that it had as many as 1409 telephones. Today, the city has approximately 53,000 telephones.
