POPULAR STARS TO APPEAR IN PICTURE

Film Brings Together Bing Crosby and Miriam Hopkins

A brand-new, popular, starring combination comes to the screen in Paramount's "She Loves Me Not," the film version of the smash Broad-Sunday and Monday to the Holly that trial by jury should be abolished Theatre, with Bing Crosby and and be replaced by judge. We are all roles. Acting the role of a love-sick; chivalrous Princeton student, Crosby sings and woos his way to the great romance with the daughter of the university dean, after Miriam Hopkins, as the madcap, flamboyant little night-club dancer, enters his life, and leaves him a sadder but wiser college lad.

Reginning with an utterly fantastis and ludricous situation, the film in its rapid progress pokes derisive fun at colleges, the motion picture industry, the newspapers, communists, gangsters and most of the familiar American institutions. Yet there is not a trace of rancor or bitterness in its sparkling comedy.

A distinguished cast, including Warren Hymer, Lynne Overman, Judith Allen, George Barbier and Vince Barnett, supports Crosby and Miss Hopkins. "She Loves Me Not" also features several brand new tunes by Rainger and Robin, and Gordon and Revel, and a number of duets by Crosby and Miss Carlisle. Elliott Dec. 19. Nugent directed.

Has Meeting

On Wednesday evening the Progressive Class of the Methodist Sunday School held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Walter Barrows. Although the night was cold there was a fairly good attendance. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Ray Clark and the regular business was taken care of. The class was reminded to take all old papers to the Porritt home on Miller road. The Christmas program was discussed as was also the missionary Sunday in January. After the business meeting the hostess had the group participate in some contests which brought out very forcibly the individual's sense of observation as well as the memory. This created quite a good deal of amusement. Several other games were indulged in and then the hostess served refreshments.

Miss Nancy Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parker, was a resident at the Kerns Hotel and so was among those who made a frantic fight for life. It seems that Miss Parker managed to get to the stairway and had started to descend when she fell in a faint and was luckily picked up by someone and carried to safety. She was rushed to the hospital and later released and the report is that she will be allright when she recovers from the shock and some bad burns. Miss Parker and a friend had, just day or so before the fire, rented an apartment in the hotel and had decided to stay there for this winter. Miss Parker's friend who was rescued and rushed to the hospital died Wed-

TELEPHONE MEN SAVE FOUR TRAPPED BY FIRE IN HOME

A bed-ridden woman and her three grandchildren, ranging in age from eight to 13 years, who were trapped in a second floor bedroom when fire started in a Philadelphia residence. one morning recently, were saved from suffocation by the prompt rescue efforts of two telephone linemen, John Burkholder and John Kane Hearing shouts of "Fire!" the two telephone men ran to the scene and upon learning that the woman and children were unable to escape, Burkholder immediately opened the front door. The smoke was so dense that he was forced to drop to the floor in order to breathe. Unable to see, he crawled on his hands and knees until he found the wainscoting and then followed it to the foot of the stairway. Slowly he made his way to the second floor, where the frantic cries of those imperiled directed him to the room.

In the meantime, Kane had found a ladder and placed it against the bedroom window so that, by the time Burkholder had reached the room, Kane had lifted the three children through the window and carried them to safety. The two telephone men then directed their attention to the grandmother, Mrs. Ashland Cuple, who was confined to her bed because of rheumatism and who was suffering from suffocation. Burkholder picked her up and carried her to the ladder, from which point Kane removed her to safety.

in directing firemen within burning buildings, and in issuing oral instructions under similar circumstances. classically loud sounds of nature.

When the American yacht "Rainbow" defeated the English yacht "Endeavour" in the International Yacht Races off Newport, last September, a newly developed loud speaker, so powerful that it can magnify the human voice a million times, was in operation for the first time. It was used aboard the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter "Tampa", to warn shipping off the course and to issue instructions to spectator craft. While the "Tampa" used the new sound projecting device at less than its full power, it has been so designed that it can be made 500 times more powerful than the ordinary loud speaker. At full power it hurls sound into the air with the force of a 50-pound hammer blow. Over flat terrain, in still air, it can project intelligible speech a distance of several miles.

The volume produced exceeds the

The voice can be made louder than a clap of thunder. Measured at the horn's mouth, the sound is about 1,000 times louder than the roar at the foot of Niagara Falls. The new loud speaker not only carries over distances beyond the reach of existing speakers but will penetrate a din which would drown out the most powerful equipment heretofore available. Clarity is obtained in spite of the tremendous power because the design intentionally emphasizes those voice tones which contribute most to making speech intelligible, while filtering out the other frequencies. This enables the output of the new speaker to pierce through a tumult of other noise and reach ears which already may be receiving a virtually deafening burden of sound. Use is foreseen for the new speaker in directing throngs of people either too vast, or in the presence of too much noise, for the ordinary loud speaker to be heard. Fire fighters within burning buildings, dealened by the crackle of flames, could be directed by the giant voice. A rescuing vessel at sea could bellow in structions to a distressed crew or to persons in life-boats. In place of the fog horn's simple warning, the loud speaker could give spoken directions.

The new loud speaker is a recent development of scientists and engi-neers of the Bell Telephone Labora-tories, in connection with their researches in the transmission and projection of sound. The horn is made of cast aluminum, and aboard the Cutter."Tampa" is mounted on a swivel mast and can be pointed in any direction. Despite its tremendous power, the system is com-pact in design and simple to operate, being entirely controlled by a single push button.

THE WORTHINGTON SISTERS With a combined record of 84 years worked side by side since 1893. .

A record of 84 years of telephone work is enjoyed by the Misses Grace and Gertrude Worthington, sisters employed by the Southern New England Telephone Company. Even more remarkable than the length of their service is the fact that since 1893 they have worked together. They began their telephone careers as operators in Bridgeport, Conn., Grace in 1891 and Gertrude in 1893. In 1909, still working side by side. the sisters were transferred to the Westnort, Conn., central office, where Grace was made chief operator and Gertrude was made supervisor. A BROADCAST, A TELEPHONE CALL, A SALE

A certain radio singer for Station WTIC at Hartford, Conn., had promised a life insurance salesman to take out a policy if he got a new job, for which he was then negotiating. Some little time thereafter the prospect disappeared, and the insurance salesman was unable to locate him. Not long ago, the insurance salesman was listening to Station WEAF when he heard an announcement to the effect that a new singer, Mr. B---, was to sing "The Last Round Up." Surprised and elated at locating his lost prospect, the salesman put in a telephone call to the broadcasting station in New York for the singer at the conclusion of his program. When the singer was called to the telephone, the salesman congratulated him on his performance, reminded him of his promise about the policy, and asked for an appointment to see him in New York. The interview was held on the following Saturday and the salesman was successful in selling a
