COMMENT AND CRITICISM

A homecoming, sponsored by a veterans' organization, reminds one of the bonus and thinking of the bonus we are glad to offer the following poem:

"Why, Billy, your room is as cold as the hut
We had by the swamp and river,
Where we lost our major, and Tim,
You know,
And sixty more with the fever."
"Well, Tom, old fellow, it's hard enough,
But the best at times knock under;
There's ne'er a stick of wood in the house
But that crutch in the corner yonder!

"Sorry I listed? Don't ask me that,
Tom.

If the flag was again in danger,
I'd aim a gun with an aching stump
At the foe, were he brother or stranger.

But, I say, ought a wound from a shot or shell,
Or a pistol bullet, by thunder!
Forever doom a fellow to want,
With that crutch in the corner yonder?

That crutch, old comrade, ought ever to be
A draft at sight on the Nation
For honor, respect, and the friendly hand;

For clothing, quarters, and ration!
My wife, she begs at the Nugget House,
Where the bigbugs live in splendor
And brag, o'er their wine, of the fights that brought
Such as that in the corner yonder!

And Charlie—he goes to some place up town,
Some ticket-for-soup arrangement;
All well enough for a hungry boy,
But Tom, its effect is estrangement!

I'd sooner have kicked the bucket twice o'er,
By a shell or a round ten-pounder,
Than live such a life as I'm doing now,
With that crutch in the corner yonder.

There's ne'er a thing left to pawn or to sell,
And the winter has closed on labor;
This medal is all that's left to me now,

With my pistols and trusty saber;
And those, by the sunlight above us,
Tom,
No power from my trust shall sunder,

Save the One that releases me at last
From that crutch in the corner yonder.

I can raise this arm that is left to me
To the blessed Heaven above us,
And swear by the throne of the Father there,
And the angels all, who love us,
That the hand I lost and the hand I have

Were never yet stained by plunder,
And, for love of the dear old flag, I now
Use that crutch in the corner yonder.

Do I ask too much when I say we boys,
Who fought for the Nation's glory,
Now that the danger is past and gone

In comfort should tell our story?
How should we have fought when the mad shells screamed,
And shivered our ranks, I wonder,
Had we known our lot would have been to beg,
With that crutch in the corner yonder?

There's little we hear of nowadays
But pardon and reconstruction,
While the Soldier who fought and bled for both,
Is left to his own destruction.

'Twould be well, I think, in these nipping times,
For those Congress fellows to ponder,
And think of us boys who use such things

As that crutch in the corner yonder.
The above, which is peculiarly apropos of the present "bonus fight" is contributed by Mrs. J. A. Morley, who found the same in a scrapbook which had belonged to her grandfather, William Marvin of Northville, Mich., and who was a member of the G. A. R.

We believe advertising pays. We have not mentioned this in this column for quite a spell but we still believe it is true. The array of merchants advertising in this issue shows we are not alone in our belief.

Clarkston School to Open Tuesday, Sept. 3rd

The Clarkston Public Schools will reopen Tuesday, September 3, with several new subjects being offered. Manual training and modern business will be taught for the first time next year. Chemistry, shorthand and home economics which were not offered last year will be offered again this year.

Manual training and home economics will be limited to junior high pupils for the present. This work has been made possible by employing teachers who can teach these classes along with the classes formerly taught as no increase has been made in the number of high school teachers.

Every high school teacher holds at least a four year degree and every teacher in the school has had one or more years of teaching experience. The grade faculty will be increased to four teachers as a result of the increase in enrollment last spring and the prospect for an increase this fall. Mrs. Dunston who came into junior high school when the grade staff was reduced to three teachers will return to her former work in the fifth and sixth grades. This shift and the resignation of Eva Dorr left two vacancies in high school which will be filled by Harold Bauer and Marjorie Walton. Mr. Bauer will teach commercial and shop and assist with athletics while Miss Walton will teach home economics and junior high school work.

The following staff of teachers have been employed for the coming year:

D. M. Winn, superintendent.
Robert Waters, science, math and athletics.
Harold Bauer, commercial and manual training.
Gertrude Durand, English and Latin.
Virginia LeForge, social science.
Marjorie Walton, home economics and junior high school.
Frank Bach, instrumental music.
Prudence Dunston, Emily Beardslee, Margaret Rockwell and Charlotte Hutton will have charge of the grades.

Clarkston Literary Club Honors Three Members

A Farewell Party Is Given at the Home of Mrs. D. R. Teggerdine

Last Friday afternoon the Clarkston Senior Literary Club had a social gathering at the home of Mrs. D. R. Teggerdine on North Main St. honoring Mrs. H. A. Huey, Mrs. W. J. Murray and Mrs. E. Fisher.

These three members are leaving Clarkston and the club took this opportunity to tell them how much they will be missed and just how much their help has been appreciated. Each of the honored guests gave a few remarks and expressed their delight in being able to do their part and told how happy they had been with the club members.

Refreshments were served on the beautiful grounds in the rear of the Teggerdine home. There were 28 or 30 present and all enjoyed an afternoon of visiting. Several pictures were taken.

Mr. and Mrs. Huey will be in their new home in Ann Arbor the first week in September. Mr. and Mrs. Murray are leaving the 7th of September to make their home in San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher have already moved to Ortonville.

DELINQUENT TAX DRIVE PROVING SUCCESSFUL

The man closest to the nerve center of Michigan's governmental finances believes counties, cities and towns will soon be able to pay their overdue bills, reduce debts, slice future budgets and get out of the red.

The belief is that of Theodore I. Fry, State Treasurer. It is based on the indication that the State's August drive to collect delinquent taxes is proving successful.

Latest reports from the Auditor General show that more than $12,000,000 in back taxes have been returned to the paying column by property owners taking advantage of the plan whereby delinquencies for 1932 and prior years can be paid over a period of ten years.

Mr.-Mrs. W. J. Murray To Leave for California

Maple Row Farm Has Been Leased to a Family from Detroit

On September 7th, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Murray will say adieu to Clarkston and start for San Francisco where they intend to make their home. Mr. and Mrs. Murray have been here about two years, just long enough to renew all their old acquaintances but the climate here does not quite suit either of them and Mr. Murray's health is much better when he is in California. This summer has been an exceptionally busy one at Maple Row Farm and both Mr. and Mrs. Murray are greatly in need of a rest. They have had the pleasure of having Mrs. Murray's daughter Mrs. H. T. McDaniels and little son of San Francisco with them for most of the summer. A week ago Monday Mr. McDaniels arrived and spent a couple of days at the Murray home before he and his wife and son left for South Carolina to visit his parents. Mrs. McDaniels was honored at many pleasant affairs during her stay here. Mrs. D. M. Winn and Mrs. David Newlands were among the hostesses who entertained in her honor. The McDaniels expect to be at their home in San Francisco about the first of September. The morning they left here they told the Murrays they would be ready to welcome them in San Francisco in a few weeks. The Murrays will be greatly missed by their many friends in and around Clarkston.

Fish Hatchery Project Started at Drayton

Many Men to Be Employed

Work was started last Friday morning on the $110,000 expansion project at the State Fish Hatchery at Drayton Plains.

This is the first project under the Works Progress Administration in Oakland County, and will make the Drayton Plains Fish Hatchery from which lakes and streams of seventeen southeastern Michigan counties are stocked the largest bluegill and bass hatchery in the world.

150 business and professional men attended an outdoor breakfast on the banks of the present spawning pools preceding the beginning of the work on additional pools and buildings, altering of the channel of the Clinton river which now runs through the hatchery property.

Many prominent men were present. Harry L. Pierson, of Detroit, Michigan administrator of WPA; Dr. William Haber, state FERA administrator and deputy to Pierson; A. B. Cook Jr., field supervisor of fish operations of the state conservation department; Ernest S. Batterson, architect for the conservation department; and municipal and county officials from throughout Oakland County. Mayor Frank B. Ruff of Pontiac, president of the Outdoor Sportsmen's Association of Oakland County, was toastmaster.

Bob L. Foresman, vice president of the Sportsmen's Association, and A. T. Stewart, superintendent of the Fish Hatchery and in charge of all fish hatcheries in southeastern Michigan area, planned the breakfast.

For a long time the Outdoor Sportsmen's Association of Oakland County has advocated the enlarging of this hatchery in order to properly restock the lakes and streams of southern Michigan.

Mr. Pierson explained that the $16,000 of the $110,000 to be expended on the expansion will be paid by the state conservation commission.

President Roosevelt purposed inaugurating the Works Progress Administration so as to provide for the various local community projects of which this is the first one started.

It is the plan of the organization to employ around 125 men for a year in raising the present hatchery buildings, and erecting new, rearranging and enlarging the present ponds and building new ones. This when finished will be the most modern hatchery in the world.

All employees are to be men whose families are now on relief rolls.

Mayor Frank Ruff, Bob L. Foresman, S. S. Skelton, emergency relief administrator for Oakland County; Doctor William Haber, W. B. Cook, Ernest S. Batterson, A. T. Stewart, and William H. Loutit, chairman of the state conservation commission, gave brief talks.

The first sod for the project was turned by Bob L. Foresman and Arthur T. Wilson, secretary of the association.

Interlude

By ROBERT McLAUGHLIN

Eddie saw them when he turned the corner and quick anger bubbled inside of him.

Betty was leaning back against a lamp post, her slim hands behind her. Leaning over her, braced with one hand against the post was Sid Wise, his street-gambling face white and pasty in the light.

Betty was the first to notice Eddie's angry approach. She ducked beneath Sid's braced arm. "Hello, Eddie," she said doubtfully.

Sid Wise came around more slowly. "Lo, Ed," he offered.

Eddie went up to him. His finger jabbed Sid beneath the collar bone. "Scram!"

The word came out harshly and Sid went back on his heels a trifle from the prodding. "What's a matter?" he asked.

"You know it—well what's the matter," Eddie told him. "Now move."

"Now Eddie..." said Betty.

Sid Wise shrugged as a man does when faced with complete unreason. He flashed a smile at Betty and turned abruptly away.

"Gee, Eddie," said Betty. "We were only talking. What's wrong with that? I was waitin' for you, Eddie, and Sid just happened to come along."

"Come on," said Eddie roughly.

"I don't know what's the matter with you," she said. "I'm old enough to take care of myself. What harm can Sid Wise do talking to me on a public street?"

"I don't want that weasel near you," snapped Eddie. "I've said it before and I'll say it now."

"I get kind of sick of this, Eddie," she said slowly. "It's no fun for me to work all day and then wait till ten o'clock before you're through school. I don't mind waiting—but she went on hurriedly—but you ought to let me talk to somebody."

"You can talk to people," he said in exasperation. "But why does it have to be Sid Wise?"

She shrugged. "You acted the same way about Tony Herro and Buck Civak."

He stopped, took her arm. "Listen, Betty. You know what I want. I want to get us both out of this neighborhood. I'm graduating this year and can get a decent job. We'll get married and move up north. Until then you can at least stay clear of Sid and Buck and the rest of those hoods. That's all I ask."

She stared back at him: "What do you want me to do? Talk to a bunch of grannies? The girls all go with those fellows. They're none the worse for it. They're—"

Eddie released her arm as though burned. "If that's what you think, you'd better stick down here. It's where you belong. I'm going to make something of myself, not be a cheap hood all my life. You can do what you d—n please."

She sighed and continued on her way. She and Eddie had been fighting a lot lately. Of course it wasn't easy for Eddie, handling freight all day and going to school at night. But it wasn't any fun for her either. She'd give anything for one night of music and laughter!

"Hello, beautiful," said Sid Wise. She stopped and he stepped from the car at the curb. Buck Civak was at the wheel.

"Where's Eddie?" asked Sid. "He's gone home."

"Well, well. These students! Buck and me are going to the Dreamland; want to come along?"

"No, I'm tired," said Betty. "Come on, if you're goin'," called Buck.

Sid was lighting another cigarette. "Well?" he said.

Betty shrugged. "All right. I'm leaving early though."

She sat between Buck and Sid in the front seat and Sid's arm was carelessly crooked over her shoulder. "We'll have some fun, eh baby?" he said.

Betty didn't answer. She was thinking of Eddie hunched at his desk; she could almost picture his bent, earnest face. He had told her that he slept fitfully while his head whirled formulas and a schriek light shone behind his closed lids. Betty suddenly felt very small and a little mean.

"Come on, baby," said Sid. "Look alive. We're out for some fun."

"How about stopping for a drink?" asked Buck.

"Good idea. That'll wake Betty up."

"No, wait a minute," said Betty. "I've got a better idea. There's a new girl working at the store. She's cute. Let's get her for Buck."

"Sounds good to me," said Buck. "I can always use a new filly."

"Where's she live?" asked Sid.

Betty gave the address. Sid is right, she told herself, I should wake up.

When the car pulled to the curb, Betty got out. "Be with you in a second," she told them. "We won't be long."

Sid was on his third cigarette when he said: "Orphee! what's keeping those dolls. Hook the horn, Buck."

Buck's hand hesitated over the knob. He peered with sudden intensity at the house. "S—y..." he said slowly. "Ain't this the place where Eddie lives?"

Sid stared in turn. He flung away his cigarette. "Start the motor," he barked. "And if there's one crack outa you I'll bust your head."

BLUEBERRY CROP UNUSUALLY LARGE

Pickers Go North From All Sections of State

The alchemy of weather, having transformed the plains of northern Michigan into fields of "blue gold" tens of thousands of residents of the state, young and old, among whom always are residents of this vicinity, have moved into the open for the cash-crop blueberry harvest, which to many means food and clothing for the winter months.

Weather conditions have been so favorable this year that a bumper blueberry crop of exceptionally high quality was predicted, especially for the upper peninsula. Tent villages have appeared in many localities where the berries are plentiful and in a number of instances these temporary towns have populations of several hundred persons.

Whole families move into the plains during the berry season, getting up tents, brush shelters and shacks of different descriptions and each member of the family goes to work.

The berries are sold mainly to truckers who purchase the fruit and transport it to the larger cities, some of the best markets being located at Minneapolis, St. Paul, Chicago, Detroit and Grand Rapids.

INFORMATION FOR MICHIGAN FARMERS

Poultry, Butter, Grass Seeds Are Subjects Considered

Poultry owners in Michigan face an unusually favorable prospect for better returns for eggs and meat, according to the economics department at Michigan State College.

The combination of reduced numbers of hens, smaller storage stocks of eggs, and more reasonable prices for poultry feed will all work to the advantage of the poultryman.

Good flock management practices will pay extra profits as egg and meat prices improve. Culling the laying flock to retain only the best producers from the old flock and to remove nonproducing pullets will be important.

An improvement in the demand for butter is expected to prevent further decline in prices and may result in more than the usual seasonal rise, according to the economics department at Michigan State College.

Exceptionally good pasture conditions have permitted herd owners to obtain high milk production from herds this year, while last season's drought was cutting down the milk supply. Feed grain prices have declined so it is now possible to supplement the pasture with grain.

Supplies of grass seeds commonly used by Michigan farmers will be much more ample this year than in 1934 when unfavorable weather conditions caused a very short crop, according to reports from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The timothy seed crop is expected to be seven or eight times as large as the record small crop of last year and acreage is much larger this year than last.

Growers indicate quality of the 1935 timothy crop will be good. Conditions for harvesting were excellent in most sections. Prices to growers averaged $3.35 per hundred pounds the latter part of July as compared with $9.05 last year and a 5-year (1928-1932) average of $3.55.

Janitors, office boys, charwomen and garbage men in England are searching through waste for Jubilee stamps which they sell to dealers who in turn wash them and place them on sale. Some dealers report as high as 20,000 salvaged stamps a day and more than 200,000 have been shipped to United States dealers.

Late figures place the sale of Jubilee stamps in Great Britain at 1,035,500,000.

Some one with a flair for figures has made the statement that every forty-first person you meet is a would-be stamp collector, or at least that is the average. There are 3,000,000 listed collectors now in the United States, about 125,000 of that number adults and the majority of that number males.

The first commemorative coins struck in this country honoring an event or relating to an event was the "Columbian Half Dollar" released in 1892 in conjunction with the Columbian World's Fair held in Chicago. The silver coin bore the inscription "United States of America" and a bust of Columbus and below the words "Columbian Half Dollar". The reverse side was inscribed "World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago" with a sailing ship and below the two hemispheres, dividing the date "1492-1892". Beneath this was the date "1892". The same coins were struck again in 1893, only the date changed. C. E. Barber designed the coins.

OUTDOOR OPERA IS IN ITS LAST WEEK

Season Will End at Navin Field on Sunday Night

Opera Under the Stars is finishing its first summer season of outdoor musical shows in a blaze of glory. The season ends on next Sunday night, September 1, with the final performance of the sparkling musical comedy "The Gay Divorcee", which is proving to be one of the biggest hits of the summer.

The idea originated last Spring when a large group of prominent Detroiters gathered together and laid careful plans, determined that Detroit needed and would have outdoor musical entertainment during the summer months.

Detroit is the first city in the country to utilize a baseball park as a theatre with a mammoth portable stage, and the second city to enjoy such summer entertainment. Now that the season is practically at a close it can be said that the initial effort has met with success in every sense of the word. The portable stage proved effective, the public took to the idea of outdoor shows and the season has been a successful one.

Detroit approved of the idea so heartily that it was necessary to hold over for a second week two of the shows, both "Rose Marie" and "Vagabond King". Adverse weather has caused little or no serious difficulty. The first few weeks were unseasonably cool but that did not daunt either the spectators or the actors. Only on one occasion was it necessary for a performance to be postponed and that was necessary because of an unusually cold night. It rained not only one night, but several nights; however, the cast, living up to their motto "the show must go on", went cheerfully through showers and storms while the audience watched from their protected seats.

Ten shows were given during the twelve week summer season. Originally twelve were scheduled but the popularity of both "Rose Marie" and "Vagabond King" necessitated their being held over for a second week. The ten productions presented were: Student Prince, Rose Marie, My Maryland, Bitter Sweet, Blossom Time, Last Waltz, Countess Maritza, Vagabond King, Naughty Marietta and Gay Divorcee.

With the close of the season at hand it is natural that the question should arise as to another year. Will there be another season of outdoor musical shows in 1936? That alone can be answered by those who have witnessed the shows this summer—if they want another season, it rests entirely in their hands. Assuming that there might be another year, many have suggested that through the cooperation of City and Civic-minded citizens, that Detroit could possibly have a great outdoor theatre in which Opera Under the Stars' performances, as well as many other events could be held. There is a need for such a place in the city, but this again depends upon whether it is sufficiently desired.

Opera Under the Stars takes its leave, after having made the entire theatrical world bow to a bold idea and provided genuine entertainment that the public enjoyed.

For Homemakers

Cucumber pickles, which add zest to meals or lunches when carefully made, are sometimes spoiled by causes which could be avoided, according to home economics experts at Michigan State College.

The shrivelling of pickles may be caused by vinegar which is too hot or too strong. Too strong brine or too much sugar are other reasons for shrivelled pickles. Sweet pickles often shrivel due to overcooking or too much sugar.

Bacterial action causes softening of pickles. Weak brine or storage in warm places help the bacteria to become established and to multiply. Boiling vinegar for considerable periods weakens it and permits bacterial growth in pickles preserved in such vinegar. Pickles which are exposed above the surface of the liquid in pickling jars also become soft.

Large quantities of spice or boiling of spice too long in vinegar may cause bitter flavors in pickles. Scum forming on the surface of liquids in which pickles are being soaked should be removed frequently.

Attempting to obtain a brighter green color in pickles by heating them in a copper utensil is not recommended. Copper acetate is formed when this is done and this material is poisonous. The use of alum to make pickles crisp is also a poor practice because the same result can be obtained without using double substances. Pickles can be made crisp by soaking them for 24 hours in a brine made of one pound of salt to one gallon of water.

The distinction of being the oldest person to apply for a resident fishing license in Michigan goes to Thomas Gordan, 449 Myrtle street, Grand Rapids. Gordan gave his age as 105 when he purchased his license on the fifth of July.

All matters handled thru the Probate Court require a certain amount of legal publication in one of the county papers. Foreclosing a mortgage entails publication of the foreclosure notice in a county paper.

Either the probate court officers or your attorney will have your legal publication carried in The Clarkston News if you request it.

We solicit the privilege of carrying such legal publications. This form of advertising is valuable to us. When you support us in this way we are able to give you a better paper week by week.

Although these two realize that there is this fundamental difference between them, they cannot help being drawn together by love. As the picture progresses, Fonda's fortunes prosper and he prepares to withdraw from the canal. TWO BIG FEATURES COMING TO HOLLY

Starring Janet Gaynor, Dick Powell and Joan Blondell

Civilization marched westward over the turbulent Erie waterways in four-mile-an-hour boats and strong men hammered out an empire and held the love of beautiful women with their brawny fists.

That is the glamorous, action-filled picture of America in the roaring 1850's which Fox Film's "The Farmer Takes a Wife" brings on Sunday to the Holly Theatre.

About the tender love story of Janet Gaynor and Henry Fonda, all of the excitement, humor, romance and near-tragedy of this never to be

A grateful public is paying its taxes and saving its homes

FROM all parts of the state come gratifying reports of the way the Michigan public is responding to the current tax-collection drive. Men and women everywhere are determined to save their homes, and benefit by the savings that a thoughtful legislature has provided.

Few indeed are the property-owners who cannot now pay their back taxes, either in full or on the ten-year plan.

If you have not yet made arrangements to take care of your back taxes SEE YOUR COUNTY TREASURER AT ONCE. Bring him your old tax-bills, or at any rate, the legal description of your property. He will tell you quickly the amount that you owe and advise you as to how you may meet this important obligation. Upon request he will give you a descriptive folder that tells in simple terms just what you must do to save your home.

REMEMBER! September first is the last day on which you can pay your back taxes for 1932 and prior years without interest or penalties. It is also the last day on which you can put these taxes on the "TEN-YEAR PLAN" without incurring additional interest. ACT NOW. Delay is dangerous.

By co-operating with your state in this far-flung tax-collection drive you SAVE YOUR HOME, SAVE 27% TO 45% AND EVEN MORE in interest and penalties, and save yourself from worry over the possibility of losing your home. ACT NOW. Help yourself while helping your State, County, City, Village, Township and Schools.

John J. O'Hara
 Auditor-General
