COMMENT AND CRITICISM

The King is dead. Long live the King. With this age old remark ringing around the world, England's King, George V, passes to rest and the Prince of Wales, now King Edward the 8th assumes the high position of serving a large portion of the population of the world. To us, so far removed from kingdoms, it is difficult to judge the merits or lack of merits of the late ruler. Perhaps our best method of reviewing the reign would be to say that while other countries were deposing their rulers, forming dictatorships, forming republics and adopting such other and perhaps new forms of government as seemed to suit the needs of the respective countries, Great Britain saw fit to retain the services of their King. King George V was the first ruler to broadcast over the radio. King Edward the 8th was the first of England's rulers to travel by airplane. So much has been accomplished in the last few years it is interesting to ponder on what step of science or advance of civilization it will be possible for the present ruler's successor to distinguish his or her ascent to the throne. With respect and sympathy for the departed, for the present aeronautical enthusiast and for the Kingdom perhaps the best wish might be "Happy Landings".

There is many a slip between the cup and the lip, but at this writing the Veterans Adjusted Compensation Act (Bonus to you and me) seems slated for prompt and speedy passage. There are two things that are interesting to us. After the World War, when the United States was getting out of debt, yes even when a number of years later when the public debt was perhaps the lowest it had been for some time, it was impossible to consider paying the veterans. Now after the battle of the depression with perhaps the greatest public debt the United States has ever had, what's two or three billion more so the bonus is to be paid. The second interesting thought is why Michigan's two Senators voted against the payment. Both are up for reelection in a way. Couzens will come up for reelection for a certainty and there is hope in many Michiganders that Vandenberg will be raised to the position of President. In view of the urgent demand of the veterans and the popular demand of the popular vote to pay the bonus, (either because the people felt the ex-soldiers were entitled to it or to get it out of the way) the least we can say is that it took courage on their parts—or were they just stubborn.

This is our last opportunity to "blow in here" and watch it go "down and around" and "come out here" at the amateur show being given at the Clarkston High School Auditorium Thursday, Jan. 30th. It should and will be a good show. There are two ways you can enjoy it. Either attend as part of the audience or call James Bennett and put on an act yourself.

In an attempt to spread some of the benefits of the WPA to this community the following letter received by Postmaster Andrews, in answer to one answering the State Director's inquiry as to activity, its self explanatory.

The National Emergency Council,
Jan. 14, 1936.

Postmaster Floyd Andrews,
Clarkston, Michigan.

Dear Mr. Andrews:
Thank you for your reply to my letter of January 10 in which I have requested a critical appraisal of Government Activities in your community.

Your comments as to a lack of projects in your community have been forwarded to Mr. Harry L. Pierson, W. P. A. Administrator for the state, for his consideration and for whatever action he deems necessary.

Sincerely yours,
Abner E. Larned,
State Director.

Clarkston School News

Athletic News
The Clarkston Boys were defeated by Farmington last Friday night by the score of 21 to 19 by the first team and 16 to 9 by the second team. Although our boys were beaten, they played one of the best games of the season the score being tied up until the last minute. Bill Parker was the high scorer of the evening making five baskets or ten points. Yost and Molter both scored a basket.

In the second team game Adams was the high scorer, making four points, and Spencer next making two.

There will be a game this Friday night Jan. 24th at Keego. This is a hard team and I'm sure we will see lots of pep and plenty of basketball.

Clarkston Locals

Everyone will be sorry to hear of the illness of Mrs. Frank Dunston. On going to press it has been reported that her condition is serious. She is at her home.

Miss Carrie Buckindale, of Seymour Lake, a near relative of Mrs. Floyd Andrews, recently fell and broke her hip. She will be in the Goodrich hospital for some time and friends will be most welcome to call.

On account of the storm on Tuesday evening very few attended the Ladies' Auxiliary meeting at the home of Mrs. Percy Craven. However several items of business that needed immediate attention were discussed and a pleasant social time was enjoyed. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. John Shaughnessy served a very dainty lunch.

In calling at Goodrich hospital last week Rev. C. E. Edwards discovered that Mrs. Joseph Chapman, wife of a former pastor of the local Methodist Church, has recently undergone a very serious operation there. She is making a good recovery and the many friends of Rev. Chapman join in the hope and prayer that she will quickly be restored to health.

The cold gripped Clarkston on Wednesday afternoon and a very strong wind blew from the north-west making some of the side roads almost impassable. The thermometer took a big drop in the early evening and many cars were stalled along the highways. All wreckers were kept busy. Winter sports were at a standstill because of the snow drifting across the skating ponds and the toboggan slides.

TRAFFIC COUNT IS NOW IN PROCESS

Survey Will Include All Kinds of Roads in the State

Traffic recorders at 32 strategic points through the state began counting cars and trucks Monday morning in the most comprehensive traffic survey ever conducted in Michigan.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, said that this was the first step in a state wide traffic count to be conducted by the state highway department as a part of the highway planning survey inaugurated last fall.

A total of 415 stations have been set up covering all of the state trunk line highways in every county of the state. When the peak of the project has been reached, approximately 4,000 stations will be in operation at least part of the time providing counts on county and local roads as well as trunk-line highways.

Fred C. Taylor, Director of the Planning Survey, and D. Grant Mickle, his assistant in charge of the traffic count, stated that counts on trunk line highways would be started immediately. They expect to inaugurate counts on county and local roads within ten days.

At 14 points throughout the state, shelter houses have been erected where recorders will be on duty 24 hours a day for the next year. Sites for these stations were selected to provide data on representative trunk line highways. Farm to market lanes, tourist roads, industrial routes and metropolitan arteries are all represented. Men at these posts will classify traffic as to whether it is from Michigan or other states, passenger cars or trucks, and if trucks, as to what type.

There are 2770 stations on the trunk line system which will be visited periodically. Fifteen men have been assigned 18 stations each and they will make regular circuits spending one day at each station. This means that each of these stations will be visited 14 times during the year.

Night parties will visit these stations at regular intervals but will take in larger circuits and consequently night counts will not be so frequent.

Trucks have been specially fitted out for weighing parties who will cover the entire state paying special attention to commercial traffic. These parties will be accompanied by a state police officer who will assist in handling traffic. Trucks and busses will be stopped and weighed. Drivers will be asked to give their starting point, destination and the type of commodity carried. No attempt will be made to apprehend any trucker for overloading. These parties will operate both at night and in the daytime.

The traffic count is the third phase of the highway planning survey inaugurated by the state highway department last fall in cooperation with the United State Bureau of Public Roads. It is being financed as a WPA project. The physical inventory and financial study, first two phases of the project, are already under way. When completed Commissioner Van Wagoner expects to have basic information for a comprehensive road program for the next 15 to 20 years.

DRIVER MUST SHOW CURRENT LICENSE

In Order to Obtain His Auto Plates for 1936

Once again the time has come when it is necessary for the motoring public to make application for re-licensing of their vehicles. It is probably well known throughout the State that Orville E. Atwood, Secretary of State, has issued an extension of time on the 1935 plates until February 1st, 1936, and no doubt the majority of the motorists in the state will take advantage of this month's grace, figuratively speaking, and the result will be that at about the expiration period, there will be a mad rush to obtain the necessary plates. Space has been provided on the application for license plates for the number and date of expiration of the operator's license.

The smart motorist, to save himself some individual delay, will help greatly in expediting this burden placed on the staff of the Secretary of State by seeing that his driver's license is in good standing at the time he makes application for the purchase of plates.

Some months ago the Secretary of State made it known that at this renewal period it was the intention of his office to ask the person applying for license plates to show a valid driver's license at the time of making application. Records on file show that there are a great many unlicensed drivers on the highways of the state. The majority of these individuals are not driving while unlicensed because of any deliberate intention of violating the law; they have simply failed to take note of the license that they carry and familiarize themselves with the expiration date, which is plainly printed thereon. As a result, thousands of persons are driving with licenses which have expired and are doing so in violation of the law. It was for this reason that the Secretary of State deemed it advisable to rather forcibly call the attention of Mr. Every Citizen to the expiration date on his license, by asking him to present a valid license at the time of renewal of his license plates.

For Homemakers

Sleep at frequent intervals is necessary for children before the school age, according to Mary Lewis, instructor in Home Management at Michigan State College.

Miss Lewis recently outlined essential conditions for good sleeping habits and placed a strenuous day at the head of the list.

"I would venture to suggest," she stated, "that the child's ordinary daily experiences are as strenuous, as stimulating, and as demanding in frequent adjustments as that of an adult, while on his first tour through foreign lands."

"In order that children may react towards the interests of what appears to us to be a very ordinary day with the abandon characteristic of healthy intelligent youngsters—they must have enough sleep at frequent enough intervals to permit their bodies to recover from the constant stimulations of their waking hours."

Miss Lewis insisted, however, that the sleep periods should not be dragged out since it might interfere with night sleeping habits.

Other conditions necessary for good sleeping habits were given as follows:

- (1) regular hours for sleep should be established by parents;
- (2) care should be taken to prevent depletion of energy to avoid restlessness and, in extreme cases, tantrums;
- (3) sleeping rooms should have rapidly changing currents of air;

TWENTY thousand dollars' compensation for slipping on the ice in front of his own grocery store!

Mr. Pagnetta dropped his hold black eyes to tell their exultant gleam.

"My client," Attorney Rubinsky stated, "only desires compensation for the wrong that was done to him."

Mr. Pagnetta darted a sly look at the defendant and took pleasure in Mr. Schwabacher's increasing discomfiture.

Mr. Pagnetta's resentment had been accumulating ever since Mr. Schwabacher had opened a delicatessen next to his grocery store, with a window display of canned goods. When day after day he saw one or the other of his erstwhile customers come out of the store next door with an armful of bundles and a smile that reflected Mr. Schwabacher's expansive good humor, he could no longer be civil.

"There's not room for two grocers on this block," he told his competitor one morning when he saw him out on the sidewalk awkwardly wielding a broom.

"Mine iss delicatessen," Mr. Schwabacher corrected with a friendly smile.

"You're stealing my canned goods trade. There oughta be a law—"

"Togedder we bring more trade into the block," the other interrupted placidly. "We both benefit."

One winter morning he stepped out to survey his icy sidewalk, and found Mr. Schwabacher from the vantage of his own already ash-strewn premises doing the same thing.

"You better, the ashes lay before the customers commence," Mr. Schwabacher advised after a hearty "good day."

"And you better mind your own business," retorted Mr. Pagnetta.

"The ice iss everybody's business," Mr. Schwabacher contended good-humoredly.

Mr. Pagnetta turned about with a violence that sent his feet from under him. The result was a broken leg.

During subsequent days in the hospital his chief diversion was planning how to get the better of his rival.

"Can I collect damages," he asked the lawyer Rubinsky, "for my hospital and doctor bills, and the loss of time from business?"

Rubinsky shrugged his thin shoulders up to his large ears. "You can sue, and maybe you collect. How did it happen?"

Mr. Pagnetta described how his competitor, Mr. Schwabacher had come out of his store, picked a quarrel, and finally struck him, knocking him down and breaking his leg.

"Have you witnesses?" Rubinsky wanted to know.

"Yes. Several people heard him call me a lousy wop and other names."

"Witnesses to the blow?"

"Well—" Mr. Pagnetta thought of Bagnoni who would witness anything for a consideration, and of Pappas who would welcome the chance to cancel a long-standing debt. "Yes. I know of two."

Mr. O'Ryan, counsel for the defense, now wanted to know just how the blow had been delivered, exactly where it had landed.

"Just indicate it," he suggested.

"How?" With his right hand—

"Right fist!" Mr. Pagnetta corrected emphatically.

"With his right fist he delivered a blow on your left jaw behind the ear. You are sure it was his right fist?"

When the plaintiff's testimony had been fully corroborated by his two witnesses, Mr. O'Ryan faced the jurors. "Gentlemen of the jury," he said, "you have seen the blow which could have been delivered only by a good right from the shoulder—the blow for which the plaintiff asks twenty thousand dollars' compensation."

At the mention of compensation Mr. Pagnetta moistened his lips while his thoughts strayed into green pastures of anticipation. But when Mr. Schwabacher, red faced and visibly nervous, took the stand he was all attention again.

"Gentlemen," Mr. O'Ryan addressed the jury in hushed voice. "I want to call your attention to the fact that the defendant is one of our war heroes."

He reached over and touched a little cross pinned on the lapel of Mr. Schwabacher's coat. "And I am going to prove that this war hero not only would not, but could not strike a blow with his right fist. Mr. Schwabacher, will you kindly remove your coat and roll up your shirt sleeve?"

While Mr. Schwabacher struggled out of his coat, Mr. Pagnetta sat forward uneasily.

"This cross—" Mr. O'Ryan held his client's coat up and turned slowly so that all could see the small medal—

"was given in compensation for a wound won in combat," flinging out his free hand he pointed dramatically to the arm which Mr. Schwabacher had just exposed to view.

Mr. Pagnetta in company with every one in the room, looked—and his gaze remained transfixed. In his mind's eye he was seeing again those awkward movements of Mr. Schwabacher as he swept his sidewalk, while the voice of the counsel for the defense beat into his ears.

"Mr. Schwabacher suffered a serious wound in his upper right arm. So serious that the bone between the elbow and shoulder had to be removed. As you can see, the arm is practically useless—"

"your honor, I demand the arrest of the plaintiff and his witnesses on charges of perjury."

TELEPHONE RATES ARE NOW REDUCED

They Affect Sunday and Night Calls of Two Classes

Extension to all day Sunday of the same reduced rates which have been in effect on long distance station-to-station telephone calls after 7 o'clock each night, and the establishment of reduced rates every night and Sunday on person-to-person calls, become effective January 15. These changes will mean a large annual saving to Michigan telephone users, according to P. J. Becker, manager here for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

This additional discount in rates, which affects most calls between points on which the present station-to-station day rate is more than 36 cents, is the sixth major long distance telephone rate reduction offered by the Bell System since October, 1926.

This also is the first time that discounted rates have been offered on station-to-station day-long distance calls on Sunday and the first that discounts ever have been established for person-to-person calls for any period. A person-to-person long distance call is one on which the operator is requested to locate a particular person at the distant telephone, while a station-to-station call is one made to a telephone by number rather than to some person in particular. A station-to-station call requires less time for making the connection than does a person-to-person call and therefore the rate is considerably less.

As an instance of the savings made possible under the new schedule Manager Becker says that the day person-to-person rate from Holly to Grand Rapids heretofore has been 95 at all times. Now the same call can be made nights and Sundays for 75, a saving of 20.

The weekend discount period on both types of long distance calls will extend from 7 o'clock Saturday nights until 4:30 o'clock Monday mornings.

PRESIDENT'S BALL ONE WEEK AWAY

The proceeds of the ball will be divided between the Warm Springs Foundation and local organizations interested in child welfare. The Foundation will receive 30 per cent and the local communities 70 per cent.

The seventy per cent of the receipts from the Ball will enable Oakland county victims of infantile paralysis to receive treatment at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor. The hospital is now installing a new therapeutic swimming pool.

The pool is being built in the basement of the Hospital and is the gift of the Rackham Fund of Detroit. It will give the institution facilities similar to those at Warm Springs, Ga., and other sanitariums, for the care of victims of poliomyelitis and related diseases.

Treatment of certain types of paralysis by submersion of the patient in water is based on the fact that the water tends to support a large part of the weight of the limbs. This enables the patient to move, with little effort, any good portions left of his wasted muscles. In some cases muscles retaining but five per cent of their pre-sickness strength can be exercised and gradually be redeveloped until they are more or less useful again.

The water in the new pool will be constantly circulating and purified with chlorine. It will be warmed to ninety degrees, to prevent chilling of the patient and to increase the circulation of his blood. Massage, light and heat treatments are also combined with exercise and this Hospital is relocating these departments near the pool.
