COMMENT AND CRITICISM

Because the Nation is entering a presidential campaign year, the News believes that its subscribers should be informed on the terms used in politics. After much preparation we have compiled the following, which, while not perhaps complete, will aid in reading the political news of the day.

Democrat: the ins.

Republican: an out; perhaps the strongest faction of the outs, wanting in.

Socialist: One who is meekly waiting to inherit the earth.

Communist: One who is so impatient to inherit the earth, he may wreck it in attaining his goal.

Third-party: a party made up of men who as children refused to play unless they could boss the game.

Black-Legion: Promoters of good reasons why the candidate will not seek re-election.

Progressive: One who makes bigger and better promises each year.

Reactionary: One who believes last year's promises were good enough.

Ward Healer: The boy who really does the work.

Stand-patter: One who stands for anything.

Voter: The one who pays the bills.

Ins: The ones in office.

Outs: Not in office but trying hard.

Convention: A chance to get away from home once in four years, shout oneself hoarse, yes-yes everyone, vote for a candidate, and disarrange radio programs.

Walk-out: A bluff used to threaten the organized party to make it play the game the way you want to; the act of a traitor to your own party; an act of heroism to the opposition.

Favorite son: Something to keep the voters interested until a trade can be made and the real show starts; something like the overture to an opera.

Campaign fund: Money advanced in an attempt to own a share in the spoils; in small donations, what is called sucker money.

Sucker-money: a term borrowed from horse-racing to describe the boy who bets two dollars on a long shot; in politics the boy who contributes a dollar to prove he belongs to some party.

Mud: Any statement that hurts your cause.

New-Deal: A new way of doing things.

Rugged-individualist: a man who believes that Heaven helps him who helps himself.

Publicity: means of advising voters of your ambitions; composed of the following mass means of reaching the public.

Conservative papers: Your party's paper.

Yellow journal: the opposition paper.

Independent paper: a weakling sheet whose editor is afraid to admit you are right.

Radio: a wonderful thing if used by your party; something that should be censored or cut off the air if used by the opposition.

Cards: Something for your friends to pass out to their friends, and claim for ever after that they placed you in office.

Petition: something to sign so that those signing after you will know that you take an interest in public affairs; a good way to make a sucker list.

Average citizen: a man who reads campaign material and believes it.

Royal Neighbors Met Wednesday

Mrs. Emma Barnes and Miss Margaret Hangee of Waterford were hostesses.

The Royal Neighbors held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Emma Barnes and Miss Margaret Hangee in Waterford on Wednesday.

At one o'clock a pot-luck dinner was served. After the business meeting a real social time was had. It happened to be Mrs. Barnes' birthday so the group presented her with a pretty gift.

Not only did the older group have a good time on Mrs. Barnes' birthday but her four grandchildren, Margaret, Louise, Dick and Bud Shaughnessy and their friend Donald Smith enjoyed a picnic dinner and an afternoon of fun on the beautiful grounds at the Barnes' home.

The next meeting of the Royal Neighbors will be held on September 9th at the American Legion Hall on North Main Street.

HOLLY THEATRE

O. Henry once remarked there were only three cities worth writing about—New York, New Orleans and San Francisco.

Comes now another authority on interesting cities, a world-traveler, who declares there are only six cities worth writing about—New Orleans, San Francisco, London, Cairo, Shanghai and Washington, D. C.

He is W. S. Van Dyke, film director who has led motion picture companies to all corners of the earth and who has visited and lived in most of the interesting cities of the world. His latest picture, "San Francisco," opens Sunday at the Holly Theatre with Clark Gable, Jeanette MacDonald and Spencer Tracy starred.

"San Francisco ranks among the most colorful cities," he said, "because of its exciting past. It was born on the mud flats in the days of the gold rush. It is today the only real cosmopolitan city in the west."

"That is why Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer chose San Francisco as the setting for the musical drama, 'San Francisco,' co-starring Clark Gable, Jeanette MacDonald and Spencer Tracy.

"The city's ability to rise out of the ruins a bigger and better San Francisco, following the disaster that leveled it in 1906, was the inspiration for the story and screen play by Robert Hopkins and Anita Loos. They saw in the hectic Barbary Coast period prior and through the earthquake and fire an admirable dramatic theme for a motion picture."

Last Saturday afternoon the grounds at the home of the Sam Beardslees of Sashabaw Plains was the scene of a gala affair when over a hundred gathered for the eighth Beardslee reunion.

A self-serve pot-luck dinner at about 1:30 p. m. was the first interesting number on the program. The guests ate their dinner at long tables on the grounds near the house.

In the afternoon a business meeting was held and officers were elected. Senator Reid of Detroit was re-elected as president and Mrs. Carrie Larned of Pontiac was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The program that followed was composed of community singing, a reading by Charlotte Ann Maybee and a talk by Charles Beardslee of Elkhart, Ind.

The youngest guest at the gathering was just four weeks old and the oldest was eighty some odd years.

Guests were from Pontiac, Detroit, Fenton, New Jersey, Indiana and Clarkston. Those from Indiana were Charles and Arthur Beardslee from Elkhart.

This is something you will not want to miss because it is going to be one of the biggest and best reunions ever held here. The president and her committees with the co-operation of the school board are planning a great day.

You will most likely meet some of your old school friends, perhaps some you have not seen in many months. Remember the date, Saturday, August 15th.

Holly Flower Show To Be August 26-27

The Holly Flower Lovers' Club extend to the people of Clarkston an invitation to attend their annual show to be held in the gymnasium of the high school, on Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 26-27 from 3 to 10 p. m. The show is free. The first night is usually the best time to attend as the flowers are fresher then. They expect to have music both evenings.

Since the show is dedicated to beauty and the cultural things of life and also to form a closer community interest, all competition will be eliminated from this year's show. No award will be made to any entry. The club is hoping to have a new floor plan and to make other changes. They think the show will be as good as any they have ever given or better.

Historic Train at Cleveland Fair

A PROMINENT FEATURE of the spectacular pageant "Parade of the Years" at the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland is this exact reproduction of the De Witt Clinton, first passenger locomotive built in America. It was lent by Henry Ford to the exposition and went to Cleveland from the Edison Institute Museum at Dearborn where it is part of the vast collection of historic vehicles and railroad apparatus telling the history of transportation. The photograph was taken with the pageant actors in correct costume for the early 19th century period of the train.

Interesting Letter Comes From Santa Ana

Former Clarkston Resident Enjoys Life in California

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bird of Holly received a letter from their daughter Mrs. Ralph Leighton who lives in Santa Ana, Calif. and on account of Mr. Leighton having lived in Clarkston at one time she thought that some of the news would be of interest to the folks in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Leighton and their four children recently moved from Los Angeles to Santa Ana where Mr. Leighton is the District Manager of the Pontiac Motor Sales.

The letter goes on to say "I am sitting out in the backyard writing this under an English walnut tree. We are living in Santa Ana about 40 miles from Los Angeles. It is a small town about the size of Pontiac I guess. It is quite warm here but I like it better than any place we have ever lived. We have a very lovely house and a yard just made to order for the children. In front of the house is a large orange and walnut grove mixed. On one side are orange trees and in the back is another walnut grove about a block deep. We are the second house from the corner.

Ralph is on his vacation. His aunt and uncle came down last Saturday morning for breakfast and stayed until Sunday night. We had our breakfast and supper out in the back yard where we have a regular fireplace. Ralph did the cooking and it tasted better than any meal I have had in California. It reminded me of the time we went up north. We spent the day at the beach.

But of course there would be something to take the joy out of life. Sonny went to Boy Scout camp the same day Ralph started his vacation, a week ago Monday. He arrived at camp at 12:00 noon and the next day one of the boys came down with infantile paralysis. They brought him back to the hospital and he died on Sunday. Of course they quarantined the camp right away and the boys will have to stay about 2½ weeks. Sonny was only going to stay a week. I suppose he will think it is the first break he ever got. Guess they can do all the things they had planned, horseback ride, fish, swim, etc. They keep two doctors right there all the time. They burned all their clothes and bedding (those two nice red blankets). They can't even write home. The camp is about 100 miles from here. This is the first time he has ever been away and probably the last.

Now back to our lovely yard—we have six orange trees which are loaded, 2 walnut trees, 1 fig and one peach. The night before we expected Ralph's aunt he and I went out and picked about 2 dozen oranges for juice for breakfast and coming in I wondered if I was dreaming. You can't imagine how grand it is to look out and see orange trees loaded. We are right in the center of the orange district and I have seen trucks and trucks of solid oranges go by. Ralph says when the walnuts get ripe he is going to send you a sackful."

Evidently the Leighton family is thoroughly enjoying life and from this letter one would imagine that they were living in a very beautiful part of the country.

Mr. Leighton is a brother of Mrs. Clarence Smith of Clarkston.

For Homemakers

Three simple ideas of timesaving are offered women by members of the home economics extension service at Michigan State College. One is the construction of a service wagon, another is a mop pail chariot and the third is a suggestion for fixing the bottom of a drawer to eliminate the necessity of replacing soiled papers used for lining.

Besides framework, the suggestions for construction of the home-made service wagon include three-ply wood for the shelves, two stationary wheels from a baby carriage or a child's wagon, two swivel wheels such as from a basinette, the handle from the towel bar of an old wash stand, linoleum cemented on shelf, enamel paint and perhaps plate glass from a broken windshield cut to fit the top of the tray.

 Uses for the service wagon range from carrying food and dishes to and from the dining room, for stacking dishes before washing, table for bathing the baby, a place to stack ironed clothes and then used to put them away, serving food to the sick, serving refreshments in other rooms than the kitchen or dining room.
 The simple suggestion eliminating the use of papers to line the bottom of drawers is worthwhile. A permanent finish in the bottom of the drawer will do the trick, also permitting easier cleaning. Linoleum can be used, cemented to the bottom of the drawer. Or a washable paint, spar varnish, oilcloth pasted down, or a penetrating finish are recommended.

ALFALFA GROWING JUMPS IN MICHIGAN

Crop Is Now One of the Most Important in State

In celebration of Michigan's national leadership in the use of alfalfa for high quality feed and pasture, the Farmers' Day program held recently on the campus of Michigan State College brought back to thousands of farmers memories of the methods used to introduce the crop in projects begun more than fifteen years ago.

The state then had about 750,000 head of dairy cattle and dairymen found the crop offered many advantages. The seedings increased year-ly until it now is estimated at 1,040,-

000 acres. The dairy cow population now is about 934,000 animals.

One of the newest developments in the use of alfalfa is in silage. In normal seasons alfalfa cannot always be cured as high quality hay. To preserve the feed Huffman recommended the method of ensiling the cut crop. Sixty pounds of molasses to a ton of the wet or green feed is mixed with the cut alfalfa to aid fermentation.

DELINQUENT TAX COLLECTION IS ON

Second Year of Ten-Year Plan Promises Great Results

With the campaign on in every county in Michigan to collect the second installment of taxes due under the ten-year plan, State Treasurer Theodore I. Fry predicted today that the payments will aggregate $16,000,000. A sizable army of taxpayers already has begun marching on the various county treasurers, demanding a "paid" stamp on their bills. Early collection reports all have been good. "On the basis of our experience a year ago, when the ten-year plan was inaugurated, I have no hesitancy about saying that this year's drive will be a big success," Treasurer Fry said. "I look for collections to top last year's total of $15,000,000 and to reach possibly $16,000,000. "Business conditions are better generally, some individuals have kept their bonus money to pay the tax installment, and an investment in real estate is well worth protecting at this time. I am sure that practically everybody who paid his first installment on back taxes will realize the necessity for keeping up the payments. "One of the purposes of the campaign is to acquaint those who failed to pay the first installment with the fact that they may still do so, with only a slight extra charge. A third group, who are now financially able to do so, will pay the whole thing up, in this way saving large amounts of interest and clearing the title to their property." The rush of the public to pay in advance of the September 1 deadline recalls last year's jams at the treasurers' offices. All indications are that again this year eleventh-hour visitors will have to wait in line and take their turn. Officials point out that those who pay now not only gain the comfort of knowing that their property is protected, but save themselves this trouble of waiting. The onslaught of the taxpayers gives visible proof of a thriving public realization that the State of Michigan is offering a bargain. Under the plan, taxes for 1932 and prior years—for state, counties, villages, townships, and all cities except Detroit, which has its own seven-year plan—are lumped and then divided into ten annual payments. All the heavy interest on these old taxes has been cancelled. The next interest amounts to only four per cent per year on each installment, figured from September 1, 1935, when the plan went into effect. Those who are just starting in and making the two payments put themselves on an equal footing with the rest, getting another eight years to meet the balance owing. The ten-year plan, embodied in the Moore-Holbeck Act, was the happy solution of an extremely serious tax problem. Many, many millions of dollars in taxes lay uncollected, and apparently uncollectable, on the tax rolls. Accumulated for years, the taxes in their net amount were so huge that the property owners, despairing of ever paying the total, refused to pay any one year's delinquent tax. Interest and penalty on the older unpaid taxes ran as high as 60 and 60 per cent of the original amount, a fact which further discouraged payment. Governmental units needed the money which these taxes represented. A tax title sale would have raised funds, but thousands of families would have lost their homes and life savings. Pledging the delinquencies for a good-sized loan was also considered and rejected, because paying back the interest and principal on the loan would just have added that much more of a burden on the already overburdened property owner. Then the part-payment idea was evolved. The state went right to its own property owners for assistance, and made the paying of taxes popular. Of the $15,000,000 collected last year, about ten per cent went into the state treasury, while the other ninety per cent went into local treasuries. The $15,000,000 was actual cash. Through payment of it, $55,000,000 in taxes was "revived" and shifted from dead to active rolls, with collection of the whole amount merely a matter of time. So successful has been Michigan's new method of collecting delinquent taxes that it has commanded nationwide interest. All county treasurers have the machinery of their offices geared to provide a maximum of service, knowing that the tide of taxpayers will be a rising one right up to the last minute. The campaign, for which $27,000 has been appropriated this year, is again being handled by Milton M. Alexander of Detroit.

DAVISBURG

The Centennial held Saturday, August 8 in honor of Davisburg's one hundred years of existence as a town was one long to be remembered. There was a gathering of old time citizens of the little burg from far and near and a happy renaissance of old acquaintances. There was a feeling of sadness too, for there were many faces missing at this reunion. Over one hundred of the citizens of Davisburg and vicinity have joined the "Great Majority" in the past forty years. The parade was an important feature of the Centennial representing old times when Davisburg was new. Mr. Newman, who drove a sulky and who in his younger days was a lover of good horses, showed that he was still capable of handling the reins in spite of his ninety-odd years. The program was excellent. Judge Neibal, who gave an address, is a son-in-law of the late Laverne Davis, one of our best known and dearly loved Davisburg "boys". Much credit is due the committee and its president for the successful manner in which the Centennial was conducted. John Dereamer, of Bay City, and George Dereamer, of Pinconning, former Davisburg boys, with their families, were week-end guests at the home of their nephew, Leon Clark. Ambrose Harpley, who dropped dead on Saginaw street in Pontiac last Wednesday morning, was a former Andersonville boy and a brother of Mrs. Philip Rohm of this village. He was buried in Anderson cemetery last Friday afternoon, the funeral being held in the Andersonville Church. Miss Lena May Stevens, of New York, is making an extended visit with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, and her uncle, Lyle Stevens. A little daughter was born last Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. James Haslock.

Big Program For Exposition Farm Week

Waving fields of grain and iron ore and machinery will blend symbolically at the Great Lakes Exposition when Farm Week is celebrated at the Exposition from August 17 to August 22. Agriculture and industry, which make for the greatness of the Great Lakes area, will have a holiday together in the full program which has been arranged for the entire week. Boys and girls of the rural area will have a chance to see at first hand how iron and steel are made and how machinery is produced and their city cousins in turn will learn about the raising of the crops that provide them with food and clothing. The entire week will be a holiday for the rural population of the Great Lakes region. It will be their opportunity to enjoy the entertainment, exhibits, displays, buildings and educational features of the Great Lakes Exposition, already enjoyed by over one and one-half million people from all sections of the country. Featured on the program of the opening day of Farm Week, which is Agricultural Day, will be a health contest to select the healthiest boy and girl; a style show for the best-dressed girl and the best costume created by a girl; and an identification contest to identify a wide variety of implements, articles and crops found on the farm. Prizes will be awarded at a special ceremony which will be held on the stage of the beautiful Marine Theatre of the Exposition. The 4-H Clubs are actively participating in planning and conducting these contests and programs. Throughout the entire week there will be concerts and entertainment in the many colorful spots of the 150 acre grounds of the Exposition. TELEPHONES FROM JAPAN TO ARRANGE GOLF TOURNAMENT

George Jacobus, golf professional at Sarasota, Fla., and president of the Professional Golfers Association of America, answered his telephone one day this past February, and the next moment found he was talking with Shun Manura at Tokyo, Japan. Mr. Manura is the head of the Japanese Golf Association. The Japanese had decided that they wanted to send a golf team to tour the United States and they desired to have the trip sponsored by the Professional Golfers Association. It takes a long time to send a letter from Japan to Florida, but it requires only a few minutes to put through an overseas telephone call, and the Japanese used that method to arrange their tentative plans for an invasion by the Oriental links stars.

New Liner Queen Mary Has Double Ship-to-Shore Telephone Circuits

The S. S. Queen Mary, pride of England's shipping industry and largest man-made thing afloat, is, of course, the last word in maritime equipment. Included among the numerous arrangements for the convenience and comfort of her passengers is the most extensive telephone layout aboard any vessel.

This super-liner is equipped with apparatus providing not one but two independent ship-to-shore telephone circuits, making it possible for passengers to carry on simultaneous conversations while at sea, with friends in America and in Europe. During the Queen Mary's maiden voyage westward, ending in New York City on June 1, a total of 284 telephone calls were completed from and to the ship, and it is estimated that about half that many more were not completed because of the difficulty of locating passengers who were not in their cabins.

The liner was in contact with New York's "Long Distance" at frequent intervals from the time she left Southampton until after she had dropped anchor at Quarantine. Conversations with the ship linked passengers with telephone subscribers on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, in the Middle West, and in Canada. In addition to the telephone conversations, numerous radiobroadcasts from the vessel were transmitted over the ship-to-shore telephone circuits to the broadcasting chains on land.

All of the 700 first class passengers have telephones in their staterooms, and the 1,400 passengers in the other classes are served through telephone booths in all parts of the ship. In addition, the entire personnel of the ship is provided with telephone service. Calls are handled through a three-position switchboard, similar to that in a large hotel, located on A Deck. Four young women operators and a male night operator are required to care for the telephone business of the ship, which on the maiden voyage averaged 2,000 "local" calls a day.

The Queen Mary brings the total of ocean liners having telephone connection with the Bell System up to nineteen. This comprises practically all of the large transatlantic liners.

Ship-to-shore service in the Atlantic is handled on the American side by two stations on the New Jersey coast. These stations maintain contact with ships on four different frequencies, the frequency used in any given case depending upon the distance of the ship from the coast and the time of day or night. In general, the greater the distance, the higher the frequency.
