

Happy Christmas

CLARKSTON, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1936

COMMENT AND CRITICISM

Hello! Merry Christmas! Good Bye! In other words, we present our Christmas issue, wish you the season's greetings and say farewell to 1936 all in the same issue. This will be the last paper for 1936.

'Twas the night before Christmas, And all through the House Every creature was stirring, Even the mouse.

For believe it or not there are quite a few little tasks that can be done by members of the family to aid Santa in his annual visit.

We are reliably informed that cold winter officially died this last week for A. B. Wompole, at Tombstone, Ariz. We are further informed that in celebration of the event A. B. stored his red woollens. This information is by postal card bearing a picture of the paper published in the said town. This publication is called the Tombstone Epitaph and claims to represent the only town in the world where you can read your own epitaph before breakfast.

If Christmas is somewhat of a task then you should take time out and read Dickens' Christmas Carol. It will cheer you, will remove that down and out feeling, and make you want to help Santa hitch up his reindeers. After all Christmas is one bright spot in a year that makes you want to help the other fellow.

Legion and Ladies Have Christmas Meet'g

Junior Auxiliary to Be Organized in January

On Thursday evening of last week the local Legion Post and Ladies' Auxiliary held their regular meetings and enjoyed a Christmas party. At seven o'clock the members met at the Masonic Temple where they had a chicken supper and from there they went to the Legion Hall for the business meetings and distribution of Christmas gifts.

Both organizations welcomed several new members. Arrangements were made to send gifts to the Otter Lake Billet and a committee was appointed to help spread cheer in our own community. The Ladies voted to organize a Junior Auxiliary at the Legion Hall on Saturday afternoon, January 23, at 2:30.

After the business meeting the group enjoyed receiving the Christmas gifts. Some of the men gathered around the piano and had a good time singing some of the old songs while the rest of the group visited for a couple of hours.

The next regular meetings will be held at the Legion Hall on Tuesday evening, January 19th with Mrs. Clarence Smith and Mrs. James Saylor as hostesses.

Mrs. John Gundry of Royal Oak was in town last Friday to attend the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Cora Smith. Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Clara Carpenter of Mt. Pleasant also attended the funeral.

Christmas Program Presented Sunday

Clarkston Choral Club Assisted With the Music

Last Sunday morning a very lovely Christmas program was presented at the Methodist Church.

The program was opened with Mr. Boyns' class singing carols. Each class then took a part. The Kindergartners recited "Little Jack Horner" and sang "Santa Claus is coming to Town". Miss Phyllis Boyns' class—Henry Ronk did the announcing; Helen Denton and Frank Ronk recited; Henry Ronk, Frank Ronk, Spencely Butters and Ruth Davies sang; and then the whole class sang "Silent Night". Mrs. Elizabeth Ronk's class—Barbara Andrews did the announcing; a pageant, "The Christmas Star" was presented by Betty Taylor, Marion Chamberlain, Mary Craven and Phyllis Walter. Mr. Warden's class was represented by Stewart Baynes who recited. The Clarkston Choral Club sang four numbers, "Beside Thy Cradle here I stand", "Now let every tongue adore Thee", "When the Sun had sunk to rest" and "Shepherds' Christmas Song". Rev. C. E. Edwards told a short Christmas story which everyone enjoyed.

Many commendable remarks have been made about the beautiful decorations. Mrs. F. E. Davies and all her helpers should get the credit. The glistening white cross that held the center position at the front between the lighted candles made a very effective background. Candles and festoons of evergreen were used along the rail in front of the platform. Evergreens, wreaths and small trees bedecked the front and the sidewalls of the church.

Sunday School Classes Meet at the Irving Ronk Home

On Monday evening two of the Junior classes of the Methodist Sunday School had a joint Christmas Party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Ronk on Church Street.

The teachers, Mr. Casper Warden and Mrs. Elizabeth Ronk were unable to entertain the children on Monday eve and so the Irving Ronk home was opened to the children.

There were thirteen boys and girls present and what a good time they had. They played numerous games and exchanged gifts which were taken from a prettily decorated table Christmas tree. Dainty refreshments were served and when it was time to go home each child was given a little sack full of candies and nuts furnished by Mr. Warden.

There were many fine selections given, as each member of the class took part. Some of the members of the third period class attended the program of the fourth period class and vice versa. Both programs had just odles of Christmas verses, stories and readings.

CONSERVATION OF SOIL AGAIN IS UP

Farmers Offered More Favorable Terms Than in 1936

Announcement of the 1937 national soil conservation program with phases similar to that used in 1936 but with changes which appear favorable to Michigan's farmers is to be followed by a series of sectional and county meetings arranged by county soil conservation committees. According to Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, the soil plan for next year, pays more attention to the practices of handling range and grass lands and provides larger payments for growers of vegetables and fruits. Like the 1936 program, the 1937 outline again offers payments to those farmers who meet specified conditions for shifting land from soil depleting to soil conserving crops and for carrying out approved soil building practices.

Wallace has pointed out that "although Congress authorized payment of $500,000,000 in benefits annually, the actual appropriation remains to be made, so that the program is dependent upon the action of Congress."

Michigan remains in the area designated for administration of the soil conservation act as the North Central Region. This includes the other states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota.

The plan of establishing bases for soil depletion on farms is to be continued. These bases are considered the yardstick by which diversion from soil depleting to soil conserving is measured. Crops again will be classified as to their effect upon conservation of fertility. Another continuation is the plan to pay county administrative costs out of the total payment allotted to farmers in the respective counties.

Any producer, no matter how small his farm, will have an opportunity to earn at least $20, twice as much as the limit in 1936. Michigan, with its large areas in hay and pasture lands has many farmers who will be able to participate more generally in 1937 because of greater attention to be paid for soil building practices on such lands.

Spearing on the inland waters becomes legal in Michigan Jan. 1 for a two-month period, conservation authorities say. The law permits spearing through the ice only during the months of January and February.

Great northern pike, grass pike or pickerel, lake trout, muskellunge, suckers and the various species of non-game fish may be legally taken from the waters where the spear is permitted.

The spear is permitted to be used through the ice only and without the use of lights. Where lakes open to spearing during the two month period do not freeze over, if such happens, the spear automatically is illegal.

The legal open season for hunting rabbits in southern Michigan counties comes to an end New Year's day. Jan. 1 is the last day on which rabbits may be hunted south of the north line of Town 16 north and east of Saginaw bay, including all of the Thumb district, conservation authorities announce. North of that line and west of Saginaw bay, including all of the upper peninsula, the rabbit hunting season continues open to and including Jan. 31.

ALMANAC ISSUED BY TELEPHONE CO.

Varied Contents Make It Publication of Interest

Among the first almanacs for 1937 to make their appearance is the tenth issue of the Telephone Almanac, which is ready for distribution at the local offices of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, according to P. J. Becker, manager for the Company in this area.

Made up, illustrated and printed in the style of the old time almanacs, the Telephone Almanac is highly interesting and attractive both as to contents and appearance. There are shown the usual monthly calendars found in all almanacs, a historical reference of importance being noted opposite each day of each month. There also are shown the twelve astronomical monthly calendars for the coming year, including the calculations for sunrise and sunset, moonrise and moonset, and the phases of the moon. Instructions as to the use of the astronomical calculations also are given.

Tables of normal temperatures and rainfall data for representative cities in the several states are shown, as are the signs of the zodiac, information as to eclipses during 1937, a statement as to the chronological eras, and other valuable information. Contrasted throughout its pages, are illustrations picturing events and customs of the early years of the nation's history, and scenes from modern times, together with interesting descriptive matter pertaining to both. A rebus for the young folks occupies two pages.

There are presented also twelve historical events in the history of the United States which serve to illustrate the importance of communications in shaping the destiny of the nation and in bringing its several commonwealths together into a single, united national community, together with items relative to the part the telephone has played in bringing America into closer touch with other nations of the world.

Some drivers feel that their ability to get out of a tight spot is a demonstration of skill.

Reckless driving is not a demonstration of skill. A driver may get a thrill from getting out of a tight spot by quick and expert handling of his car. He should not boast about it or get "cocky" from this experience.

A good driver never gets in a tight spot. He is always careful on the approach to intersections, schools, crossroads, and other places where there may be a possibility of meeting other drivers.

The anticipation of an accident at these possible spots makes for careful driving. It's smart to be careful.

INFORM FARMERS OF NEW PROGRAM

Soil Conservation Meetings to Be Held for Purpose

Educational programs to inform farmers of the 1937 federal soil conservation program in Oakland county are to be started soon after the first of the year, according to information received by County Agricultural Agent Karl D. Bailey. A meeting of the state agricultural conservation committee already has been held at Lansing. District meetings are to follow, after which the county soil conservation committee will "go to school" to learn details of the program. With a three months start on the program over 1936, plans are being made to help individual farmers plan their farming operations in 1937 to obtain maximum benefits or grants if they are interested in participation. More attention is being paid in the new program to orchard operators and vegetable growers in Michigan to enable them to build up soil fertility and conservation practices and earn benefit grants.

Only a few years ago sweet clover generally was considered a noxious weed, but it now is playing an important part in Michigan agriculture, says County Agricultural Agent Karl D. Bailey. In this county it is used as a pasture. In the opinion of H. H. Bennett, chief of the federal soil conservation, sweet clover now occupies a high place among legumes for pasture and soil improvement.

TRAILERS CREATE VARIED PROBLEMS

That of Taxation Is Not Only One to Be Solved

The question of automobile house trailers is one that will occupy the attention of many state legislatures this winter. According to a staff correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, it will also be a problem for service station operators as well. The coming of the trailer, he writes, will require more space, not only on the ground, but up and down. Most of them are higher than the standard car height. They are also usually wider. Gas stations will have to be sure their canopies are high enough, and that there is space between lines of pumps and between pumps and buildings to care for the extra width.

They must see also that there is more room for turning.

"If a million trailers take to the road next year, oil company officials say, it means there will be some 3,000,000 new American pioneers who travel, sleep and eat in their covered wagons. There will be more gasoline and oil used, and more tires. The travelers themselves will be eating outside of hotels more, and occupying outside parking space more often. There will even be a demand for kerosene for stoves and lamps and such things."

It is in supplying one of the foregoing listed articles, stoves, that a Holly concern, the Foremost Products Co., is interested. Mr. Owen, the manager of the company, has invented a very practical stove for trailers which is now in production and is meeting with an increasing demand.

Peering into the future many editorial and feature writers are speculating upon the change that the trailer bids fair to make in our civilization. Closing a long article on this subject in the last issue of the Ingham County News, V. J. Brown writes:

"If Mr. Stout is right and Roger Babson says he is wrong only in that the transition will come within twenty years, what will happen to our present residential sections and to the vast investments made in them. What is to become of the so-called building trades and the furniture mart?"

"Some taxation officials are worrying about how to force trailer dwellers to pay their share of the cost of operating the schools, maintaining police and fire protection, health service, and other essentials of modern society. Some city councils are considering ordinances to control the location of these homes, the registry of their occupants and other matters of control. It is quite likely that before another ten years will have rolled around they will be wondering why they worried over such inconsequential factors."

"If Mr. Stout is right or Mr. Babson is right or the signs of the industry are correct, then our whole urban civilization is due for revolutionary change. Who shall say also that rural America may not see remarkable changes in its social and economic affairs by the coming of the home on wheels?"

"There is more to the car trailer problem than the mere matter of affixing a tax."

OAKLAND COUNTY SENDS 202 TO M.S.C.

Enrollment at East Lansing Shows Large Increase

Oakland county's student enrollment at Michigan State College is considered a part of the growth made at East Lansing which emphasizes the building and equipment needs at the college where a total of more than 4,600 enrolled this year, more than 600 increase over a year ago.

In a survey received by County Agricultural Agent Karl D. Bailey, the students enrolled from Oakland county number 202.

Application is to be made to the legislature this winter for an increased allotment for operating expenses and for an appropriation of nearly five million dollars for a six year building program. It is estimated that enrollment in the fall of 1937 will be 5,000.

A study of the present enrollment indicates the growth of the college. There are students enrolled from all but two counties in the state. There are others enrolled from 35 states and from the District of Columbia as well as from Canada, China, Cuba, Denmark, Australia, the Philippines and from Puerto Rico.

Operations of the college are threefold. There is the education of the men and women students in the four year and in the short term courses and graduate study. Through the agricultural experiment station further service is rendered including substations at South Haven, Grand Rapids, Augusta, Lake City, Chatham and Sault Ste. Marie. The third phase is the extension service including county agricultural agents, home demonstration agents and the 4-H club program.

FISHING AND HUNTING ITEMS OF INTEREST

Spearing on the inland waters becomes legal in Michigan Jan. 1 for a two-month period, conservation authorities say. The law permits spearing through the ice only during the months of January and February. Great northern pike, grass pike or pickerel, lake trout, muskellunge, suckers and the various species of non-game fish may be legally taken from the waters where the spear is permitted.

The spear is permitted to be used through the ice only and without the use of lights. Where lakes open to spearing during the two month period do not freeze over, if such happens, the spear automatically is illegal.
