COMMENT AND CRITICISM

Brutus tells us that Caesar was ambitious.

History tells us that Hitler, Mussolini and John L. Lewis were and are ambitious.

We can forget Caesar, Hitler and Mussolini. What this country is up against right now is the ambition of Lewis. Lewis, it is admitted, controls a part of the A. F. of L. A part is not as large as the whole. Therefore as long as there is a group of labor called the American Federation of Labor; another part that will never belong to any group and the C. I. O., there will never be a dictator of labor, representing all branches of labor.

You have heard of the book about communism entitled "It can't happen here". Personally we believe there is no room for dictators, either of people, courts, property rights or labor in this country. Or is there?

And in the words, brought down to date, of Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday we celebrate in a few days we remark: "This country is now engaged in a struggle to decide whether this republic can long endure or will endure a dictator of labor."

—after two thousand years, court decides that a man or corporation owns his or its own property and can eject trespassers.

—man takes bride aged 12.

—man takes bride aged 9.

—old maxim proven wrong. Might DOES make right. One man trespasses and is prosecuted. A group trespasses and goes unpunished.

The question as to whether the northern half of Clarkston Estates Sub'n is in the Village of Clarkston or not has not been settled and keeps bobbing to the surface every now and then.

Independence Township was named after Independence, New Jersey. Proof: At a meeting of attorneys in Detroit honoring Hon. Raymond L. Van Syckle, Van, who is a son of the American revolution, explained the same to me. Van, a teacher of yours truly, many years ago, explained that his grand-mother is buried in Sassaabw Cemetery.

Perhaps the most convincing proof that the world still is possessed of a heart is the manner in which the Nation has responded to the request for aid.

A Trip to the Flooded Area

by REV. HOWARD JEWELL, Waterford, Mich.

Rev. Harold Dakin of Ortonville, Mich., and myself left Waterford on Monday, Jan. 25th for the flooded area and Ashbury college at Wilmore, Ky., which is located one hundred miles south of Cincinnati, Ohio. We had little hope of being able to cross over into Kentucky when we left, but it was necessary to go, so we went in spite of the hopeless outlook. We had a radio and heater in the car which made the trip as comfortable as if reclining at home. The news came over the radio while we were driving that the suspension bridge at Cincinnati was closed at midnight Monday to all traffic but would be open again on Tuesday morning. The reason for closing being that the flood waters came up over the entrances of the bridge which is normally eighty feet above the water. The bridge is much like the Ambassador bridge at Detroit. During the rest of the night the men worked hard with sand bags and walled up the water on the Cincinnati side so that when we drove over the bridge we could look out from our car window almost on a level with the flood waters which came up seventy-eight feet. The sand-bags took the place of the concrete railing where the water broke over the bridge. The entrance on the Kentucky side was more under water than on the Ohio side. Hence, it was necessary to build a ramp of sand-bags from a new angle to the bridge. This was about twelve feet wide with no railing but with water of considerable depth on both sides. This is what we had to cross in order to enter Covington, Ky. The water was so deep in places in Covington that only the chimney of one house protruded above the surface of the water. Another house was tipped over on its side so that only the edge of the roof appeared above the water. The roof of a building floated down from somewhere into one of the streets and almost completely blocked the street from even row boat traffic. The power being shut off we had no traffic lights to tell us when to go and stop in Cincinnati and Covington. It required careful driving. In some apartment buildings, water came up even into second stories or floors and on the upper floors people would be waiting in the windows for someone to rescue them with a boat. Mothers and fathers with little children huddled around them on higher land could be seen looking down into the muddy waters of the Ohio as it almost completely covered their homes. I'm sure that they were wondering if they would ever be able to enter those homes again as their own.

Our trip on down into Kentucky was attended with great comfort and enjoyment since the weather was much warmer and the lawns and fields were green. Likewise spring birds were singing, spring flowers were either in bud or in full bloom. The buds on the trees were nearly bursting from their winter quarters.

Our return trip to Michigan was dangerous as we had to drive between one and two hundred miles in the fog at night. We nearly drove into a moving freight train because there were no red flickers at the crossing and as far as we could ascertain there were no railroad crossing signs. We managed to stop within eight or ten feet of the moving train and with such a sudden stop that one young man was thrown from the back seat onto the floor. However, no injuries were sustained. By this time we were quite convinced that there was no place like home, especially if you lived in Michigan.

If you have any questions to ask me, you may address me at Box 135, Waterford, Michigan, and I will attempt to answer them for you next week.

Rev. Howard Jewell.

THE HILLTOPPER

VICTORY FOR SPORTSMANSHIP!
As you probably already know, "sportsmanship" class meetings were held in all the classes Friday in preparation for the basketball game with Milford.

A "sportsmanship" assembly was also held Friday and various students gave talks on sportsmanship, its meaning, its value, and how we can acquire it.

At the game that night, Clarkston showed Milford what real sportsmanship is. Milford was given a cheer and a hand clap. . . there was no booing and razzing between spectators. . . there was no trying to out yell the other spectators when they were giving a yell for their team. . . Milford was welcomed into our school instead of being met with a series of jeers. . . as a whole, sportsmanship was displayed throughout the evening by both teams and spectators.

So, although we lost all three games on the scoreboard (not by so very large scores as that), we won an important victory as far as sportsmanship is concerned and after all, ask yourself which is the most important.

SPORTS

Clarkston vs. Milford

Clarkston was defeated by Milford on the home floor by a score of 29-22. The main trouble seemed to be in the fact that the boys didn't quite get started in the first quarter. At the end of the first quarter the score was: Milford, 12; Clarkston, 0. In the second quarter our boys got 9 points to 3 for Milford, giving a score at the half of 15 to 9 in favor of Milford. Both teams played evenly during the third quarter, each chalking up 5 points. In the last quarter the Clarkston five put up a hard fight and gained on Milford. Their fight was rewarded with 8 points to 9 for Milford; the final score being Clarkston, 22; Milford, 29.

Second Team
The Second team played a closer game with a final score of 15 to 14 with Milford on the top. During the first quarter Clarkston fell back, much like the first team, and at the end of the quarter, Milford led by a score of 6 to 2. In the second quarter they advanced nearly up to the Milford "5" and at the half the score was 11 to 8, still in favor of Milford. The second team boys went back in there determined to do something about it, and did. In the third quarter, Clarkston got 4 points, while Milford failed to score, this giving Clarkston a lead of 12 to 11. In the final quarter, both teams scored several times and until the last few minutes, Clarkston led. Milford scored 4 points to Clarkston's 2 in this quarter, giving them the necessary lead to win the game.

Girls Basketball
Last Friday the Clarkston girls were defeated by the Milford team. Our girls held the opposing team 2-0 until the end of the 1st quarter. Milford tied the score in the 2nd quarter 4-6. Clarkston made another basket and the score then remained 4-6 until the last quarter when Milford got possession of the ball and "sunk" their baskets. A fine defensive game was played by both teams. Clarkston made one substitution—Shaughnessy went in for Douglas in the last quarter. The final score was 15-8 in favor of Milford. Clarkston's starting lineup was:
Bradford, Dunston, Beardslee, forwards.
Coy, Yost, Douglas, guards.

A large crowd watched this game and apparently our efforts for good sportsmanship were not in vain. The next game will be with Brighton, in the Clarkston gym. We know you will all come and develop further this growing school spirit.

FLYING ACES CLUB

The Flying Aces held their first meeting at the school last Wednesday evening. For their captain, the boys elected Hamilton Newman. They also chose 3 Flight Leaders, A, B, and 1 respectively, Marion Beemer, Howard Boyns, and Frank Russell. The boys voted to have dues of ten cents to buy the supplies and equipment needed.

A new flag now decorates our room. We have learned the flag salute and choose a member of our class to lead us as we salute the flag each morning.

SOCIAL NEWS

What's in the social news this week? Oh, just another Sunday School party. But—What a party. It's really surprising how many children attend the Sunday School parties but it's even more surprising to know that they all go to Sunday School too. The sophisticated menu consisted of the famous hot-dog and cocoa. The games played were ping pong and Karem. They all danced and sang to the tunes of popular music by Genevieve Beardslee and Julia Edgar. Prizes were given out to the winners of the games but the winners are unknown. One of our new pupils Bill Wilson seemed to be the life of the party with his novelty dance. Of course we all had lots of fun and the guests seemed to enjoy it too.

FEATURES

Looking In at C. H. S.
The Books ordered by the American Literature class and purchased by the proceeds from their Bake Sale, have arrived, ten in number, and all looking so deliciously interesting in their shiny newness that we Literature students were in a quandary as to who should get them first; what with 10 books and 26 of us. But Mrs. Walter overcame that difficulty, as usual, with the bright idea of making 26 slips, 10 checked, 16 plain. We then drew lots and the lucky ones were allotted not over 2 weeks reading time on any one book. The students are planning to give the books to the school library at the end of the term. The class selected the following Books as appropriate additions to their reading list: Horn and Lewis—"Trader Horn"; Manghan—"Of Human Bondage";

Sandburg—"Abraham Lincoln, The Prairie Years";
Hobart—"Oil for the Lamps of China";
Lewis—"Main Street";
Jackson—"Ramona";
Lawes—"20,000 Years in Sing Sing";

Buck—"The Good Earth";
Ferber—"Come and Get It";
Young—"So Red the Rose";
The Music Dept. promises a surprise to come up around March 11; and very few know what it is about.

In the corner of the gym at the Pep meeting of Jan. 29, Sheldon Baker, Ralph Kennedy, and Stan-wood Radog were distinguished from the rest of the cheerers by their loud and out-standing cheering.

Violet Coy seems to be going back to her old stand-by who lately has found it hard to resist Shirley Douglas's charm.

A "1934" graduation ring which belongs to Leo Jencks, is flashing around on Ruth Borst's finger.

Maxine Scribner and Jean Conklin have a secret—Confidentially ask them how they like the Ortonville boys.

What Seniors have taken to jumping posts to and from school?

Marie Tremper and Neil Parker are together again.

Patricia De Lap is back in school. Isn't that grand! Everyone is sorry that Joe Caswell has left.

When as dainty a little girl as Charlotte Sue falls down, can you blame Charles Perry and George Dupee for coming to her rescue?

Herbert Molter likes lemons—to suck on during basketball games.

"Missing basketball practice" is Lyle Walker's favorite habit.

Dan Addis pulls into school at 2 minutes before nine each morning.

After studying Physics, Laura Robinson has been worrying about lightning striking her house.

Russell Wilson is evidently caught in the meshes of Betty Williams, Clarkston High's most dangerous woman of charm, at least we can not account otherwise for the ardent looks and winks he sends her across the two whole tables in Session Room. We also notice with interest the delightful response to those winks.

Richard Craven likes to sell candy—when Alice Williams is holding the other end of the box.

The singing led by Dan Addis and Laura Robinson at the Milford game was grand, and the yells led by Evelyn Walz and Lester Spencer really raised the roof.

Florence Williams could not convince the door keeper at the game that since she wasn't staying at the game and couldn't find the certain somebody she was looking for, she deserved her money back.

Pete Secord and Angie Marcora; Bill Wilson and Doris Morgan; Russell Wilson and June Dunston all seem to have a good time at the game.

Much to Eleanor Baynes' embarrassment, her orange satin pajamas fell out of her grip on the floor at school the other day. We don't know whether her face or the bystanders were the brightest red.

Betty Chamberlain seems to have her eye on a certain Junior.

The Junior play committee has been chosen by the president of the class, Hamilton Newman, who by virtue of his position was chairman of the committee, to choose the annual play with the help of Mrs. Walter, their coach. The committee consists of: Mary Lindsay, Betty Ellen Chamberlain, Hamilton Newman, Chuck Perry, and Clinton Russell.

Recent Visitors of Clarkston High Friday—A group of Ortonville students. The boys just seemed to be on the edge of their seats all during their visit—incidentally the visitors were five good-looking girls! They also held the sidewalk down in front of O'Dell's after school.

Tuesday—Mary Jean De Long, a late student of C. H. S. and now enrolled in Denby High, Detroit, visited her old class mates during the afternoon session.

Tuesday—Miss Louise Toumey, private tutor at Cranbrook, visited some of the classes.

"I'm Glad I Did It!"

Surely, I might have kept my old fashioned range. I might have put up with all the bother of its many inconveniences. I might even have kept my eyes closed to its out-of-date unattractiveness. But... I didn't. I had read about these new modern gas ranges.

I took advantage of the free trial plan and, without any cost to me, either for rental or installation, I gave it every conceivable test in my own kitchen. I was so impressed with its many advantages, with its positive economy, with its outstanding beauty, that I couldn't resist buying it, especially after I compared notes with some of my friends who have other so-called modern cooking methods.

It actually costs less than 10c a day, and I am paying for it along with my regular gas bill. That's why I repeat . . . "I'm glad I did it." And, I'd suggest that you, too, call at or phone the Consumers Power Co. There's no reason in the world why your cooking duties can't be made as pleasant and worry-free as mine are.

FARMERS TOLD TO CHECK SEED CORN

Timely Advice Comes From M. S. C. Experts Warning Michigan farmers seeking a seed corn supply to check the pedigree of any seed offered them for purchase, A. R. Marston, extension specialist in farm crops at Michigan State College, offers information on what will happen from haphazard selection. Ears from a crib of harvested hybrid corn are not to be trusted, nor can farmers in Michigan afford to buy unadapted hybrid seed even if the latter is the first cross, says Mr. Marston. "Farmers in doubt probably will be better off to take seed corn ears out of the crib of ordinary commercial strains that are adapted to Michigan. The only precaution is to test for germination. "Ask the state agricultural experiment station whether a particular hybrid offered you has been tried in this state. To prove satisfactory, seed must be from strains that will grow well in Michigan. Marston recently returned from a conference of scientific corn breeders held at Columbus, Ohio. Michigan is far behind other states in the production of hybrid seed corn, he found, and only a small percentage of the corn acreage in the state is being planted with hybrids for grain or silage. In a survey in the Ohio meetings it was found that remarkable expansion is contemplated by hybrid seed corn growers. They estimated that in 1936 farmers in various corn belt states used but one to thirteen per cent hybrids in planting their corn fields.

HOLLY THEATRE

Romantic and glamorous, teeming with danger, excitement, thrills, warlord bandits, and Shirley Temple as a little waif who talks and sings Chinese, Twentieth Century-Fox's new film, "Stowaway", comes today to the Holly Theatre. As Ching-Chang, the adopted daughter of a missionary couple killed in a rebel raid, Shirley is picked up by Robert Young, a care-free young millionaire, who is touring the world in a vain attempt to get away from himself. Shirley, accidentally stowing away in Young's car on a cruise ship, is instrumental in his meeting Alice Faye, pretty fiancée of stuffy young Allan Lane. While waiting for Allan to join her at Hong Kong, Alice tours the town with Young and his little protegee, all of them having a glorious lark, which culminates in Shirley's winning a prize in a Chinese amateur show, singing in the native language. Allan then appears to claim his bride-to-be, but they part in a fierce quarrel. Meanwhile Young is told by Chinese authorities that he cannot adopt Shirley, being unmarried, and must put her in a local orphanage. Determined not to part from her, he proposes to Alice that she become his wife in name only, then proceed to Reno for a divorce. This she does, but Young, realizing he is really in love with her, follows her to Reno and, with Shirley's artful aid, wins her consent to stay married. Shirley's strong supporting cast includes, in addition to Robert Young and Alice Faye, Eugene Pallette, Helen Westley, Arthur Treacher, J. Edward Bromberg and Astrid Allwyn.

For Homemakers

Coeds at Michigan State College prove they are comparatively practical if a fur coat census is any indication. In a survey made by Miss Hazel Strahan, assistant professor of clothing at the college, 93 per cent of a representative group of 250 women students wear cloth coats although 25 per cent of the girls reported they had fur coats. Four out of five who have fur coats wear them only on special occasions on the campus at East Lansing as they also have cloth coats. Miss Strahan probed the college girls' habits in coat buying to find out what they paid for their coats, how long they expected them to last and did mother or father or friend assist them in the purchase. Four out of five of the girls took help along when they went shopping for winter coats. Miss Strahan comments that this probably is due to the fact that much of the shopping occurs before school opens when a more or less complete college wardrobe is purchased. One in five shopped alone. The girls expect their cloth coats to wear three years but those with fur coats estimate the garments will be attractive for at least four years. What did they cost? The cloth coats were less than $20 for 27.55 per cent; 38.94 per cent spent from $20 to $30; another 25 per cent were between $30 and $50, while 8.6 per cent spent more than $50. Fur coats ranged up to $125.

According to last year's stock census Texas was the leading sheep state with 7,026,543 head; Montana was second and Wyoming a close third. California was fourth, Utah fifth, Colorado sixth, and Ohio completed the seven leading sheep states.

"How to Live Alone and Like It"

If you are single or if you are married, you will have a wonderful time if you read "Live Alone and Like It", the book sensation of the year, by Marjorie Hillis, beginning as a serial in the February 7 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.
