The marriage ceremony was performed out-of-doors. The terrace was lighted with colored lights and large baskets of flowers made a beautiful garden setting.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Helen Adamson of Detroit was gowned in blue lace and carried Johanna Hill roses while the bridesmaid wore peach lace and carried talisman roses.

Bonnie-Lou Edwards, from Detroit is spending a week visiting with her grandparents at the Methodist parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. William Vliet were entertained at dinner at Meadowbrook Club in Northville on Wednesday evening. Several members of the Oxford Garden Club visited the Twin Elm Nursery on Monday and enjoyed seeing the beautiful display of gladiolas. The Club had discussed "Growing Dahlias and Gladiolas" at their meeting and so were interested in the especially lovely blooms that Mr. Miller has this year. Miss Donna Lowrie who has been in the Goodrich hospital for about two weeks after an appendectomy is expected to return to Clarkston or go to her sister's home in Grand Blanc on Saturday or Sunday. Her condition is improving slowly but it is thought that with plenty care and perfect quietness she will be alright. Miss Jean Lowrie and Miss Frances Ship of Pontiac returned on Friday from a most interesting trip to the west coast. The girls enjoyed every minute of the time and the only trouble they had with the car was one puncture and that did not bother them very much as they figured that was one of the joys of motoring. They visited many places of interest and had such a good time they are already planning to make the trip again in two years.

Surprising Exploits of an English Ex-Rector How he led a blameless life until around 60, then made ardent love to pretty working girls, went around in a barrel, starved in a glass coffin and finally made the fatal mistake of stepping on a lion's paw while playing "Daniel in the Lions' Den", is told in an article in The American Weekly, the great weekly magazine with the August 29 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times. The first supply of the revised game-law digests for 1937-1938 has been received by the department of conservation from the state printer. A million copies are being printed and distribution of these together with the new hunting and trapping licenses to license agents will be started September 1.

AN ELECTRIC RANGE USER SAYS:

"Before we bought our electric range, we had to decorate the kitchen every two years. I bought my electric range six years ago and have not decorated the walls since. I have 34 plants in the house, all growing beautifully. I wouldn't be without my electric stove!"

THE ELECTRIC OVEN

Many women who use electric ranges comment on the ease and certainty of oven-cooking. Whether you are broiling a steak or baking a cake, you will be pleased with the results achieved in your electric oven. One housewife says: "It is almost impossible to point out any one feature that I like better than the others—unless it is the oven. My electric range is such a source of enjoyment to me!" (See the new electric ranges on display at department stores, electrical dealers and all Detroit Edison offices.)
