joy this hour of song. There will be a free will offering taken and this will be placed in the General Treasury of the Auxiliary.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Church will hold their October meeting in the Church parlors on Thursday, Oct. 7th. The hostesses will be Mrs. Chas. Roehm, Mrs. W. Secord and Mrs. John Meyers. The Roll Call will be answered with Poems or Prose concerning October. The membership committees are working diligently on the drive for members. Make an effort to attend the regular meetings.

The first meeting of the Waterford P. T. A. for this season was held on Thursday evening of last week. This was a "Get Acquainted" meeting at which time the parents could meet the new teachers and chat with those who were just returning to resume their duties. Two new teachers were introduced, Mrs. Hahn, 1st grade teacher and Mrs. Ludwick of Pontiac who is helping with the High School work and the office. There was a splendid attendance. Howard Burt was Master of Ceremonies and Kenneth McVittie acted as recreation chairman. Everyone had a good time, the housewife and the business man forgot that they had done any work that day and entered into the spirit of the evening most heartily. The program committee served refreshments consisting of doughnuts, cider and coffee. Mrs. C. Dailey was appointed Menu chairman for the rest of the year.

The Good Will Club was delightfully entertained for their September meeting at the home of Mrs. F. M. Thompson last Friday. Ten members and two guests Mrs. Raunt and Mrs. Grace Grow, enjoyed a lovely two course luncheon at one o'clock. The table was very attractive and was centered with a mixed bouquet of fall flowers. Following the luncheon the meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Mehlberg. The members were quite pleased to have Mrs. Mehlberg with them again after being absent for the July and August meetings. Plans for the Christmas work were started. After the business meeting Mrs. Mehlberg and Mrs. E. D. Spooner gave a word picture of their trip through the west. They exhibited specimens of rock and petrified wood that they had collected. The group enjoyed the trip west to Seattle and then down the coast to California. They all had a good time returning home. Mrs. Mehlberg and Mrs. Spooner made their talks very interesting. The October meeting will be held with Mrs. Spooner. The program will be in charge of Mrs. H. F. Buck.

The H. B. Mehlberg family were visitors on Sunday at the home of Mr. Mehlberg's brother-in-law and sister, Rev. and Mrs. Vernon Dean and family in Lansing.

Mrs. Percy King entertained at a family dinner on Thursday night honoring Mr. King on his birthday. Mr. King was pleasantly surprised. The guests included the children, Mr.

and Mrs. Glenn Campbell and family, Miss Margaret King and Ferris King.

Mrs. Adeline King is busy these days disposing of the furniture in her home on Airport Rd. She is selling as much of it as possible. She has sold the home to the Fullerton family.

Hana Kojima was a proud young lady when her mother entertained her little schoolmates on her birthday. The young folks had a delightful time and were quite pleased with the lovely birthday cake which was used as the table centerpiece. During the afternoon they played many games. Hana received many pretty gifts and the best wishes of her little friends.

Waterford School News

The enrollment has reached 304. 125 of the pupils are in H. S. Room. There will be a free movie of an educational nature at the school at 8 o'clock Friday evening. It is sponsored by the Tidewater Oil Co., and last about 45 minutes.

A very interesting exhibit of Indian relics is on display this week in the fourth grade room. The collection is loaned by John Stone's grandfather. We are very pleased to have these things for they help us a great deal in our study of the life of the American Indian.

Mr. Burt announces the recent receipt of a gift of money from the Mt. View Park residents. A fund of twenty-five dollars was raised under the leadership of Mrs. Weatherwax who, we understand, devoted much time and energy in sponsoring the campaign. Park residents enjoyed immensely the Park paper "Over the Back Fence" which was edited by Mrs. Weatherwax in connection with the fund-raising event. In accepting the gift the School Board voted unanimously to match the amount, making a fund of fifty dollars available for much needed playground equipment. The Waterford School patrons unite in hearty thanks to Mrs. Weatherwax and Mt. View Park residents for their fine gift. This example of real public spirit is to be highly commended.

The Boy Scouts owing to the disagreeable weather here on Saturday did not attend the football game. Had they known that the sun was shining in Lansing and the game was going on they would have been with the crowd.

For Homemakers

For the first time in the history of gardening there is a scorecard for field judging annual ornamental plants, due to the ingenuity of C. E. Wildon, in charge of floriculture studies at Michigan State College.

Recently he submitted a simple scorecard to the Michigan State Florists' association which members promptly adopted for use in garden and field judging. The association was seeking such a scorecard to assist members in selecting "All American" annuals. The scorecard is used for all types of flowers which fall into the annual and ornamental class. At present members of the Society of American Florists are considering adoption of the same system of field scoring.

Two divisions are permitted in the scorecard. One allots total possible points for the different judging angles for cutflower plants, while another set of total possible points are allotted to bedding plants.

For the cutflower specimens, Wildon allows as much as 20 points for color, 10 for form, 5 for distinctive color or form, 20 points for stem, 15 for foliage, 15 for substance, 10 for floriferousness and 5 for uniformity.

For the bedding plants Wildon has arranged his scoring differently. He permits 20 points for color but only 5 for form, 5 for distinctive color or form, 15 for habit of plant, 10 for stem, 10 for foliage, 5 for substance, 15 for floriferousness and 15 for uniformity.

CONSERVE SOIL BY SEEDING LAND NOW

Practice Will Prove of Advantage to Michigan Farmers
 Immediate seeding of rye and wheat to be used as a winter cover crop and then plowed under in spring for green manure is a practice that can help Michigan farmers conserve their soils and also be eligible in 1938 for federal soil conservation payments.

Although complete details of the 1938 payment are to be explained later, this one new practice is considered so beneficial that James Porter, soils extension specialist of Michigan State College, is sending out the suggestion now. Meetings later will explain details of the rest of the 1938 program.

Through the office of Maurice Doan, chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Conservation association, the announcement comes that this program includes payment for "green manure crops of which a good growth is plowed or disked under."

Fields likely to remain bare this winter unless sowed to a cover crop include those which this year have produced corn, potatoes or beans and similar cultivated crops. In an open winter, especially, valuable soil will be blown or washed from such fields unless a cover crop holds down the soil. The crop that can make green manure next spring will check wind and water erosion, will save plant food and will add organic matter to the soil.

No specified rates of seeding are listed in the soil conservation program. At the college it is considered good practice to use six to eight pecks of either rye or wheat seed to the acre to insure a good stand.

Have you ever caused someone to be injured? Have you ever been called upon to perform the painful duty of notifying the mother of several children that her husband has been killed in an accident?

If ever you are assigned such duty, you will realize the importance of safety and accident prevention. The grief that can strike a home so suddenly should make us all realize that we are a part of this entire scheme and that each and everyone of us should cooperate with everybody else in the prevention of accidents on our highways, in our home, and at our place of work.

Will you gamble with the happiness of your family? The man who takes chances with his own safety gambles with the future happiness of his wife and children.

From No. 1 Broadway, near the southern tip of the Borough of Manhattan in New York City, to No. 6771 Broadway, where the famous thoroughfare crosses the line at the upper end of the city, is nearly 18 miles.

New York City's Broadway, "the most talked about street in the world," also talks the most! It has more telephones than any other thoroughfare in the world.

From No. 1 Broadway, near the southern tip of the Borough of Manhattan, to No. 6771 Broadway, at West 262nd Street in the Borough of The Bronx, where the famous highway crosses the boundary line between New York City and Yonkers, is about 18 miles. In the offices, stores, hotels, apartment buildings, residences and other premises along this great artery of travel are some 82,000 telephones. That's more than there are in any one of a dozen States of the Union.

68 Pages of Listings

The telephone directory listings of subscribers served by Broadway's 82,000 telephones are equal to some 68 pages in the Manhattan and Bronx directories. While along each of various other great thoroughfares in this country and in European cities are many thousands of telephones, in no case does the total approach the Broadway figure.

Broadway talks about many things, but mostly about business. Its telephones reflect its character as one of the world's greatest business thoroughfares. Most of the telephones are concentrated in the towers of business and finance forming the famed "canyon" through lower Manhattan, in the many big stores and hotels, and in the theaters and movie palaces along the "Great White Way" in midtown, where people from everywhere mix their "business with pleasure." Some of the large business subscribers have hundreds of telephones, linking them with their far-flung enterprises.

High Above the City
The highest telephone on Broadway is located on the fifty-eighth floor of its tallest skyscraper, the Woolworth Building. From this location one can view the great street almost from end to end on a clear day. Down below, and quite nearby, are New York's historic City Hall and St. Paul's Chapel and in the vicinity are the great Singer, Equitable, and American Telephone and Telegraph buildings. One can also see from this location, high above bustling Broadway, the East River with its famous bridges, Ellis Island and the Statue of Liberty, welcoming to New York Harbor a steady stream of ships from all the ports of the world.

Once a Network Overhead
Even in the early days of the telephone in New York City business found a real use for the service. Only a few years after the first central office was established in the city, lower Broadway was festooned with telephone wires. These were the days before the development of telephone cables, and the wires were suspended from poles more than 50 feet high, carrying as many as 15 cross-arms, or from foot fixtures placed atop the six-story "skyscrapers" of 1887. Below, the street was a jumble of horse cars, drays and shiny brokers' vehicles, while above there was a network of telephone wires that darkened the sky.

Telephone men were already working on the problem of relieving the overhead congestion of the telephone wires in the city streets, however, and the nineties saw the last of the open wire lines on lower Broadway.

Broadway derives its name from the Dutch "breede weg." Three hundred years ago, when Dutch burghers played at bowls on the "bowling green," there were only three huts on Broadway. The street was first paved in 1740, and almost a century later the first paved sidewalks in New York were laid on Broadway between Vesey and Murray Streets.

Street Where "Things Happen"

Broadway was New York's pride in 1846, when Edgar Allan Poe, in the first issue of his "Broadway Journal," said: "Broadway is confessedly the finest street in the first city of the world. All the elegance of our continent permeates through it." Broadway has changed a great deal since the days of Edgar Allan Poe. Today the name is no longer symbolic of elegance, but of activity. Broadway is known as a street where "things happen." In the many and varied activities along the world's most famous thoroughfare its 78,000 telephones play a very important part.

can Tune in any temperature on my new Gas Range

FLEXIBLE TOP HEAT, TOO

Yes, ANY amount of heat you want on ANY top burner of your Modern Gas Range—depending upon the job to be done.

Pans vary in size from several quarts down to cups. Also pan frying requires very intense heat, whereas the steaming or boiling process, once the boiling point is reached, requires very little heat to maintain boiling. Flexible topheat is therefore essential.

Today we suggest a combination of pan frying and simmer cooking as an illustration.

PORK CHOPS AND RICE

- 4 or 6 pork chops (3/4 in. thick)
- 1/2 c. rice (washed)
- Salt and pepper
- 1 T. fat
- 2 1/4 c. tomatoes (or No. 2 cans)

Place skillet that has tight cover on any top burner, turn valve so burner flame is high. Put 1 T. fat in the skillet. When melted and a trifle hot add the chops. Brown the chops, turn, salt and pepper, and brown other side. Remove from skillet and add rice and tomatoes. Place chops on top of rice and tomatoes. Place cover on skillet and turn flame very low—to a "bead flame". This low flame will be sufficient to create steam for the cooking process. Set timer for 30 minutes. At the sound of the bell the food will be done.

This is No. 4 of a series of ads prepared by the Home Service Dept. of your gas range dealer.
