Paving Question To Be Decided Monday

Village in Fine Financial Condition to Pave at This Time

There is a rumor that Holcomb Street will be paved regardless of the outcome of the vote on the Bond Issue. The News is informed that if the pavement is voted down that absolutely no paving will be done in the Village at this time. Obviously the amount to be needed to pave Holcomb cannot be raised in taxes in one year without a bond issue. However, regardless of the vote on the bond issue, the W. P. A. project will continue. The streets will be graded and gravelled but the residents will have to make the best of the dust problem.

Monday property holders of the Village of Clarkston will vote at a special election whether to bond the Village for $10,000.00 or not to pave the streets. While the average person one meets believes the streets will be paved, it must be remembered that under the law, votes rather than street opinions are needed to carry the project.

The committee of the council who were appointed to investigate say that now is a favorable time to pave the streets because of the financial position of the Village. There are no delinquent taxes to speak of and no debt. Payments to be repaid over a period of ten years, including interest will be about $1,350.00 the first year and less each year thereafter.

The cost to properly repair the streets each year if they are not paved will run as high and the residents will not have the pleasure and comfort of pavements.

The present condition of the streets has been unsatisfactory for some years if one can believe the complaints that have poured into the council, with requests that something be done. There is a lot of traffic on the streets and resulting dust has been a real problem to those living near the unpaved streets.

Clarkston has a number of expensive and beautiful homes and with three bodies of water within its limits, attracts many summer visitors. Many of these visitors have made and are making this their permanent home. In this connection, it has been pointed out, the only things lacking are good streets.

Because the council does not desire to add any more cost than necessary, the pavement will consist of a twenty foot center pavement, similar to the paving on main street, although not concrete.

We are printing in this issue the proposition, including streets to be paved, as it will appear on the ballot.

Proposition to issue $10,000 Street Improvement Bonds of the Village of Clarkston, to pay the cost of paving certain streets in the village.

Shall the Village of Clarkston borrow the sum of ten thousand ($10,000.00) dollars to pay the cost of paving with bituminous material the following streets in the village by the issuance of general obligation bonds of the village, pledging the full faith and credit of the village for the payment thereof?

North Holcomb Street from Washington Street to Miller Road. Miller Road from Holcomb Street to Main Street. Robertson Court from Main Street to Orion Road. Washington Street from Main Street east (approximately 975 feet).

BEES BEGGING FOR SWEET MORSELS

Need Assistance Until Clover Crops Are in Bloom

Billions of bees in the state are almost begging out loud for a little extra sugar syrup to eat over spring colds.

"They'll repay the attention a thousandfold as soon as clover, starts blooming, reports R. H. Kelly, extension beekeeper on the staff of Michigan State College.

No one has ever taken an exact bee census and no one ever will, but it is probable there are at least 2,775,000,000 bees in the estimated 185,000 colonies in Michigan. By midseason the honey-makers likely will number nearly 10 billion.

"A cool spring has left the bees wondering where to find food. Strengthening them now with half sugar and half water, perhaps a gallon to a colony at the rate of a pint every other day, is prescribed by Kelly as insurance of thrifty colonies for June and July. The syrup is sprinkled over the comb with a sprinkling can.

"With no honey in immediate sight he also recommends getting extra supers ready. He cites the "wet May and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walter of cated Michigan may get a bumper honey crop if colonies are ready to go out and gather the materials.

June 15 to July 15 usually is the period in which about half of the surplus or marketable honey crop is gathered by bees. If they are not ready to get out and hustle when warm weather arrives, Kelly warns beekeepers, they will first have to build up strength of the colony before going to work for the owner.

Many motorists absolutely disregard the property of others. During the last week the lovely grounds at the VanSycle home have been damaged. Many plants were destroyed and a tree was broken down. A beautiful hydrangea and a snow-ball bush were destroyed. Motorists going at an excessive speed turn the corner on two wheels and instead of going by way of the pavement they cut right across the corner of the VanSycle lawn.

FARMERS MAY JOIN IN SAVING OF SOIL

By Cooperating They Receive State and Federal Aid

Farmers in Michigan now can gain assistance in farm planning for soil conservation by taking advantage of the provisions of the Soil Conservation District act passed by the 1937 state legislature.

This legislation permits farmers to organize for mutual protection against wind and water erosion and to receive financial aid and other cooperation from federal and state agencies. First of its kind is the recently authorized area in Ottawa county.

Best estimates indicate an area three times the size of the state of Michigan has been destroyed for agriculture in the United States by wind and water erosion.

In Michigan large areas of valuable fruit land have been made unfit for future fruit growing.

Storms in the Grand Traverse cherry region last year destroyed cherries worth thousands of dollars, says E. C. Sackrider, state coordinator of the soil conservation service which has its Michigan headquarters at Michigan State College.

Far more of a loss, he reports, was the washing away of valuable topsoil by the same rains that destroyed the cherries.

"Erosion is more than an individual problem. The loss of soil and farm fertility requires community action which is permitted under provisions of the new district law."

SAFETYGRAMS

The three C's of traffic, Care, Courtesy, and Control will help every driver on the highway.

Every other driver on the road may be a fool but that is no reason for making it unanimous. Never try to pass the car ahead until you are sure you have the room, the time, and the ability.

Slow down before you reach the intersection, not after you are in it. Take your own sweet time when pulling away from the curb; you may be glad you waited.

It's smart to be careful.

ANNUAL LEAGUE MEET TODAY AT MILFORD

This afternoon the Clarkston track squad will go to Milford to participate in the Annual Southwestern Oakland County League Track Meet.

This meet is the climax of the track season and the squad has been training carefully for it. The Clarkston squad is the best that C. H. S. has ever produced; it has lost but one meet this year and it should make a fine showing at the league meet. Not only will the local supporters have a chance to see our crack athletes performing, but they will also be able to watch the stars of the other schools in the league. There are some especially good track men in the league this year and the coaches anticipate that new records will be established in several events. The mile will be a particularly exciting event for the league has several good milers. Coach Waters plans to take most of his squad to Milford.

ALGONAC WINS CLASS "C" TRACK TITLE

Algonac High School captured the Class "C" track title at East Lansing on Saturday, May 28. In Class "A" Saginaw High School took the title, while Belding and Bloomfield Hills won the titles in Classes "B" and "D" respectively. McIntyre, a half miler, was Clarkston's only entry. He placed eighth in his heat in which he was competing with fifteen other of the best half milers of the Class "C" schools in the state. King's time was 2:14. The winner of this heat ran it in 2:01.6. The outstanding event in the meet was the half mile in the Class "B" division in which Belsford of Birmingham set a new record in the exceptional time of 1:57.6.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET TONIGHT

The annual Junior-Senior Banquet will be held tonight in the gym of Clarkston High School. The Juniors have worked fast and furiously in order that it may be a huge success.

A very appetizing and original menu has been prepared by the so accommodating Mothers of the Junior students, and we would like at this time to thank those Mothers for the way they have cooperated in helping make this banquet the success we hope it will be. We, of the Junior class, are indeed very grateful to you.

The program will consist of the class will by the Senior class, the Prophecy (which will be given by the Junior class), and the other usual things that are found in the Class Night exercises. We are sure that these will prove both interesting and humorous. Dancing will follow the program the music being furnished by Dan Addis and his Rhythmic Rascals.

CLASS ROOM NEWS

Mrs. Walter

The seniors have found in Economics class that to gamble on the stock market is not a picnic; the majority of the class lost thousands of dollars but a few smart ones gained thousands proving themselves to be good business men or merely fools for luck!

The History students are finishing their textbooks this week but not for long for reviews start next week for the final examinations.

The English Literature class is now

reading modern short stories, poems and plays.

Mr. Willoughby

Mr. Willoughby has found that in the High School orchestra there are thirteen seventh grade students so he plans to make an orchestra out of them to carry on for the next five years.

Mrs. Strait

The two high school Home Ec classes are each sending a girl to the Home Economics Camp at Hastings, Michigan. On Friday night, May 27th, they put on an All-School Party to earn money to pay the expenses of the girls who have been chosen.

The members of the first year class have each completed at least two garments for summer. Some of the girls have done as many as four or five dresses, culottes, and blouses. They have done some really fine work.

The second year group has planned several meals such as a buffet luncheon, and luncheons on different costs and time levels. They prepared these meals and served them to get practice in planning, preparation, types of serving, and entertaining.

GRADE NEWS

Miss Wade is glad to announce that twenty-two pupils of her thirty-seven pupils are back in school. Twelve of these pupils entered their classes this week. Almost all of the class was absent during the last two weeks with the measles.

LOOKING IN ON C. H. S.

Lyle Walker has had more trouble with his injured leg muscle and will not be able to participate in the track meet. This is unfortunate for C. H. S. because we were counting on his placing in the dashes and the broad jump.

Talking about bad luck! Pud C. is exposed to the measles and has to stay over at Carmen Clark's house for about 12 days.

Now days you are lucky if you can even peek in the gym. The windows are covered with paper most of the time because of decorating for various social events.

Mrs. Walter could start a green house with all the cut flowers she has received from the children.

Everyone will be decked out in his (or her) finery tonight for the biggest social event of the year. Then there is always the interest shown in the "who is coming with whom" problem. Don't be surprised if some of those enterprising "freshie and Sophomore girls are very much in evidence.

Mr. and Mrs. Strait entertained the faculty at a clever nautical party on Tuesday night. We understand that the usually dignified faculty participated in many amusing games.

Did you know that Mrs. Durand, Miss Elzinga and Miss Wade journeyed east over the week end to see the famed Niagara Falls?

Lots of visitors are roaming about school these days for many schools have already closed for the summer.

It seems strange to think that school will be over in two more weeks. Always at this time of the year we wonder where the year has gone for it hardly seems possible that another graduation time has rolled around.

Everyone enjoyed the holiday over Memorial day. Many came back to school more tired than when they left on Friday.

The baseball season is over so a few summaries might not be amiss. Of all the regulars Walker had the best batting average—.417. The team batting average was .205. The fielding percentage of the team was very good—.894. F. Russell with .940 had the best individual record but C. Russell's .857, Walker's .818, Yost's .812 and Beemer's .810 also looked good. Clint Russell's pitching record was also impressive. He pitched 7 games and, though he won but 2 of these, he struck out 59 men, walked 22, allowed 28 hits and only 13 earned runs.

Nature Chats

By Mona L. Hungerford

The song of the birds bring a constant increasing pleasure. People and places are continually changing. Friends and locations are a constant disappointment but the birds are ever with us. Every spring we are always sure that our feathered friends will return and not disappoint us. March will always bring the robin, April will bring the meadowlark and May will bring the Baltimore oriole. They will not change their schedule or decide to go elsewhere. The constancy of the birds is noticeable and through them brings us within the ennobling influences of Nature.

The Baltimore Oriole

(Icterus Galbula)
The Baltimore oriole is often called the Golden Robin, Hangnest, English Robin and Firebird. The colonist named it after Lord Baltimore as his livery was orange and black. This bird winters in Central America and is found after the first of May in the lower Peninsula of Michigan. Its note is a ringing whistle and it will respond when anyone answers back with a similar whistle. The nest is a bag about six inches deep made of thread and fiber and built on the branches of elm and tulip poplar trees. The oriole always returns to the same location if possible. The eggs are pale bluish-white with black and brown streaks.

The Baltimore oriole nests as near as possible near dwellings and seems to be a sociable bird. Nature has endowed the female with subdued colors of gray and yellow so that she like all bird life is protected while nesting and rearing her young.

The diet of the oriole is composed of worms and bugs that prey on the fruit trees and plant life. They are also fond of grapes and apples but not to such an extent to make him a menace to the fruit grower and farmer. His rich mellow whistle is always a delight to the bird lover and when the Baltimore oriole arrives we know that apple blossom time and cherry blossom time is near.

James Russell Lowell has said of him: "My Oriole, my glance of summer fire, Is come at last, and ever on the watch, Twitches the pack-thread I had lightly wound About the bough to help his house-keeping, Twitches and scouts by turns, blessing his luck, Yet fearing me who laid it in his way. Nor, more than wiser we in our affairs, Divines the Providence that hides and helps. Heave, ho! Heave, ho! he whistles as the twine Slackens its hold, one more, Now! and a flash Lightens across the sunlight to the elm Where his mate dangles at her cup of felt."

PLANS TO COMBAT LOW WOOL PRICES

Are Being Advanced by State Marketing Association

Ways to beat the present low trend in wool market prices are being stressed by leaders in the Michigan Cooperative Wool Marketing Association.

In spite of a higher quality wool, Michigan fleeces are not bringing the necessary premium to encourage selling now. Leaders in the state cooperative recommend applications by wool growers for consignment to the wool marketing corporation with subsequent government loan at low interest rate and opportunity to wait in selling until the fall rise in price. Information is available from county agricultural agents.

"Michigan's 1938 wool crop is exceptionally fine and should bring a premium over that of other states. Prices of 24 to 25 cents a pound have been dropping several cents a pound and open market sales have gone as low as 16 and 17 cents a pound," reports Stanley Powell.

More than 25,000 farmers in the state are interested in sheep, lambs and wool, according to the last census. The wool clip usually is around eight million pounds or about a two million dollar crop.

In the loan process, a wool grower applies and signs a marketing agreement. He then is eligible for a loan of 15 cents a pound. After a quick but accurate appraisal and warehousing in the government approved warehouse in Boston a further advance will be made according to value of the wool. A charge of four per cent is made on the loan, but the grower retains equity in the wool until it is sold and then receives the possible balance of the sale price.

Ford Exhibit At New York World's Fair

THE theme of the Ford Motor Company's exhibit building at the New York World's Fair in 1939 will be prophetic of the advances America may expect in transportation in coming decades, according to an announcement by Edsel Ford, president of the company.

Based upon an exposition of the institutional character of the Ford company and the fundamental policies which have directed its growth during the past 35 years, the fair exhibit will reach its climax in "The Road of Tomorrow," an elevated highway more than half a mile long, rising upon a series of spiral ramps, traversing the borders of a patio and finally circling the main building on a deep setback at the top of the walls.

The exhibit, in four rather distinct parts, will include an entrance rotunda, facing the main west gate, a spacious Manufacturing Hall, a patio, with pools, playing fountains and large rest areas, and the elevated road. From the west side of the patio, steps will rise to a broad mezzanine. There Ford V-8 and Lincoln-Zephyr cars will load passengers for the ride over "The Road of Tomorrow."

From the loading platform the cars will pass to the south, enter the spiral ramps, climbing to the upper level, and following the elevated highway as it passes over the mezzanine, west along the south wall of Manufacturing Hall, through a tunnel lined with photomurals; thence circling the top of the building, through a glass tunnel high in the Rotunda; down the ramp to the second level, around the patio and back to the starting point.

At night flood lighting will fall upon the cars as they circle the highway high on the walls of Manufacturing Hall, playing moving shadows on the building walls, in full sight of the whole fair grounds. The building will occupy the highest location on the grounds. It will be decorated in white, red and blue and will be floodlighted at night.

PREVENT GULLIES BY RIGHT PLOWING

Here's an Explanation of How It May Be Done

If farmers framed all mottoes that applied to soil conservation, "Lift the plow and prevent a gully" would occupy a prominent space in the front room, according to R. C. Behymer, manager of the Fenton Project Erosion Control Area.

That motto has already been adopted in practice by thousands of farmers cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service and is already guiding many farmers in the demonstration area.

When farmers come to a natural waterway in plowing a field, they lift the plow and leave a wide strip of grass or other vegetation, he explained. They drag the plow across and continue the furrow on the other side. This leaves the waterway with a sod-protected channel — ideal insurance against gully washing.

"Of course, this practice can be used only when plowing across the slope," he said. "But that's the way our cooperating farmers are plowing nowadays, following around the slope on the natural contour."

The vegetated waterways are not taken out of production. Farmers are cutting one or more crops of hay from them each year. To establish erosion control in the waterways they are frequently seeded down, limed, and fertilized. Once established, Mr. Behymer pointed out, there's not much chance of a gully starting in a well-sodded waterway.

Air Mail Week, that was so extensively advertised all over the country, undoubtedly set a record in the sale of stamps. 211,564 first day covers were mailed from St. Petersburg, Florida, and Dayton, Ohio, and 123,637 mint copies were sold by the Philatelic Agency. It will take some time to check on the final results.

James Power Sankey, 91 year old Civil War veteran of the Union Army, has the honor of being the model for the design that will appear on the Gettysburg commemorative half-dollar that will be struck off in connection with the 75th reunion celebration at Gettysburg. Mr. Sankey, now living at Crafton, near Pittsburgh, Pa., fought in the battles of the Wilderness, Cold Harbor, North Anne River and Spottsylvania. Although he escaped the war without a single wound, he has been struck five times by automobiles.

HOLLY THEATRE

Norman Taurog says that his engagement to direct David O. Selznick's technicolor production, "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer", due to open Tuesday at the Holly Theatre, realized one of his fondest ambitions—to bring to the screen a cast of children in color.

"Ever since I saw 'A Star Is Born'" said the rotund jovial megaphonist, holder of an Academy award for his direction of "Skippy", "I have wanted to direct a cast of children in a picture suited to realizing the possibilities of the new developments in technicolor, which allow color to be kept in the proper place, a dramatic complement to story values without being obtrusive.

"I believe that Mark Twain's story has a fantasy element that can be fully captured only with the use of color. The boy's world of Tom Sawyer, or any adolescent boy, has more than the delicate flavor of nostalgia which has endeared it to millions of adults. The growing boy lives in a world peopled with figures, and adventure, of his own imagination.

"In his own mind Tom Sawyer was never a bucolic schoolboy but a dashing Mississippi River pirate. Becky Thatcher was not the girl who sat across from him in school but a golden-haired princess needing the services of a stout-hearted knight.

"It takes color to capture the clear eyes of youth, the peach-bloom quality of young complexions, to suggest the imaginative psychology surrounding childhood.

"To have photographed the flashing blue eyes of Tommy Kelly, the 12-year-old discovery from the Bronx who has the role of Tom Sawyer, in charcoal would have been a chromatic tragedy. Then there's Ann Gillis in the part of Becky Thatcher.

"Ann has brilliant red hair, tiger-green eyes, and red freckles. Think what technicolor does for a child of this coloring!

"In addition color permitted us to

For Homemakers

Modern mothers ask questions when they select fabrics for the children's clothing.

Will the cloth shrink, fade, wear well or soil easily? These are some of the things they want to know.

They may expect very little shrinkage from sanforized preshrunk fabrics, advises Margaret Partlow, instructor in textiles and clothing at Michigan State College. Likewise they may expect that colors will stay bright from vat dyes and that durability is promised by firm, even weaves.

Are fabrics as firm as they look? By rubbing the cloth between the fingers or washing a sample, a finish such as sizing will disappear. Mercerized cotton, however, has a permanent luster.

"Brother and sister" suits often appear in pique, broadcloth, linen, percale, seersucker, gingham or Indian head cloth. Dainty dresses for little girls may be made from dotted Swiss, lawn, organdie or fine linen.

Suits to be true to name ought to have tops of coarse mesh fabric or marquisette, Miss Partlow reports. The more open the weave, the more sunshine reaches the child's body.

Two new stamps are in the offing that are surrounded with considerable mystery. It was definitely understood that last year's Northwest Territorial Stamp commemorating the signing of the Ordinance in 1787 would be over-printed for this year but it became known a few days ago that an entirely new stamp had been authorized. Then there is to be an Iowa Centennial Stamp that will celebrate the establishment of the Iowa Territory. The news of this stamp is a surprise to collectors as there had not been the slightest rumor up to a very recent date. A New York World's Fair stamp has also been authorized but that will not appear until the first of next year.
