Odds and Ends

446 years ago, Christoph Colon, better known as Christopher Columbus, the Lindbergh of his time, sailed Westward, to prove the world was round and to find a new country. He proved enough to make explorers follow and finally this continent was found. Two interesting things stand out as a result of the expedition of Columbus. He took back some tobacco, thinking it was some medical herb. . . since then the world has been trying to decide whether he was right or not. The argument centers around whether or not the herb is poisonous to the human system. The second thing that stands out is that a number of our ancestors came to this country apparently against our will as we have been trying to go back to the old country or at least stick our nose in their business ever since.

Credit where credit is due. The postoffice, the bank and the G. A. Walter store flew the American flag on October 12.

We are advised by Ed Seeterlin that the new black-top pavement to the school is NOT a race track. This applies to students and citizens who are trying to make a roller coaster (with accent on speed) in going up and down the valley on the way to the school subdivision. Speed must be noticeable by its absence or someone is going to be telling Justice Morley about it and collecting John's autograph on a receipt for a fine.

Speaking of skunks, Clarkston is not the only habitat of these little creatures. A few lines from Lansing this last week read: "Skunks Raid College Town"—so many skunks have taken refuge within the city limits of East Lansing that professors are wrinkling their foreheads and weighing their abilities as marksmen. One reason for the influx is said to be the dog quarantine. Another attraction seems to be the well cared for lawns surrounding many homes. The skunks are digging neat little holes in search of white grubs. That part of their work may be beneficial, yet the skunks fail to replace the divots. In addition, they are so fearless of humans that strolling along walks and on lawns after dark offers scented hazards.

And that's that for this week.

HOLLY THEATRE

Bringing the world-famous team of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers together once more, RKO Radio's "Carefree" present a glittering, joyous and song-studded film romance embellished with Irving Berlin melodies, startling dance routines and a deftly-handled story.

Because Ginger keeps breaking off her wedding date with Ralph Bellamy, the latter asks Astaire, a psychiatrist, to fix up any lurking inhibitions the lady may have on the subject of marriage. The pretty patient complicates matters by falling in love with Fred instead of with Ralph.

When the psychiatrist fails to respond, the actress starts a hectic series of madcap adventure, the doctor meantime falling in love with her himself, only to find that he has a new resistance to overcome. How the seemingly lost cause is won at the last moment makes for the uproarious climax of the picture, which is said to be both the funniest and most entertaining of all the Astaire-Rogers vehicles.

The two stars, with cleverly drawn roles to enact as the psychiatrist and the actress, have unusual opportunities to display the talents that made them the world's premiere dancing duo, and Ralph Bellamy as the lawyer forms the third corner of the tumultuous triangle in what is perhaps his finest role to date.

The brilliant supporting cast is Four of Irving Berlin's catchiest headed by Luella Gear, noted Broadway comedienne, and Jack Carson, tunes are featured in the picture.

The dance numbers of "Carefree", following the Astaire-Rogers tradition of introducing spectacular routines into their vehicles, are unusually diversified. They include the Golf Dance, a solo novelty by Astaire; the "Change Partners" routine, a sensational romantic ballroom dance; a dream fantasy number, and "The Yam", a colorful but simple ballroom routine, the first dance the two stars have ever presented which can without revision be performed by the general public, and which has caught on widely.

Rally Day Draws Largest Attendance

Rally Day in the Church School of the Clarkston Methodist Church resulted in the largest attendance recorded, 128 children and adults were present. The offering from the Clarkston and Seymour Lake Church Schools, amounting to $10.00, was sent to support the State program of religious education. In the morning service, over fifty percent of the local resident members were present to answer the unique Roll Call by Years. Three members were honored, as they stood at the call of the year 1889, Mrs. E. A. Urch, Mrs. Hattie Walter, and Mrs. Josephine Smith. Rev. Large presented each with a lovely copy of Albrecht, Durer's famous drawing "The Praying Hands", suitable for framing.

Democrats Hold Rally Wednesday

Joe S. Seeterlin Acts as Master of Ceremonies

A scheduled meeting of state and county officers, minus Governor Murphy, who was detained in Detroit on business, was held in Clarkston on Wednesday.

Among those present was the Auditor General, who said that Albert Gundry of Clarkston was a relative of his. Attorney General Starr was then introduced and said that almost everyone he had met in Clarkston was a Gundry. Samuel Backus, candidate for Congress and some of the county officers gave brief talks. J. S. Seeterlin introduced the speakers. Just before the meeting a car, which had been converted into an ambulance for the purpose of bringing an admirer of Governor Murphy to town, parked near where the meeting would be held. This chap, Van Wallace, had broken his neck, diving into shallow water, 15 years ago, and has been unable to sit up since, but he wanted to see the Governor and had been brought here from near Mt. Clemens for that purpose.

This group held a scavenger hunt and at 8:30 left the starting point to visit the homes of the townsfolk where they thought they would be likely to find some of the relics called for. They were given one hour to make the rounds and report to the judges with all the articles listed. The judges were Chester Fiske, Casper Warden and George Harris and they were very exact in their work. Mr. Warden even carried a measuring stick to make sure that the six inch cabbage head was exactly so. Everyone had a fine time and the winners were awarded a tray of homemade chocolate fudge made by Mrs. Orlo Willoughby.

After the hour of fun the regular business meeting was held and future activities were discussed. The meeting on November 9th will be held at the home of Mrs. Orlo Willoughby.

Surgery—Sixth Floor

The air was seriously tense with expectancy. The room large and spotlessly clean, filled with the almost sickening-sweet aroma of ether and antiseptics. Gathered round a modern operating table were those who are directly involved in an operation, the skilled and well-known surgeon, Dr. James Trent; his assistant, Dr. William Whitney, better known as Dr. "Bill" to all his young patients; and the assistant nurses; the head of these nurses being Shelia Barbour. Working feverishly with Dr. Trent and fulfilling correctly his curt orders.

"Sponge." At this order Nurse Barbour immediately snapped up the forceps and put the sponge into his hands.

"Scapel." The instrument was slapped sharply into his hands. Deftly he exercised the instruments; quickly he applied the sponges; swiftly but carefully he meditated his next move. He had every confidence in his strong, beautifully shaped hands, in his brilliant mind, as did all those surrounding him.

"Pulse 65, Doctor," said the nurse, keeping her attention strictly on the patient's heaving chest and on the ether mask over his mouth.

"Sponge!" Quickly it is transferred from nurse to Doctor.

"Scapel!" Again a sterilized instrument is deftly passed to the Doctor.

"Silk sutures," commanded Dr. Trent. Skillfully he stitched the soft flesh and then dressed the wound. The table was stripped of the new bloody sheets; the ether apparatus removed from over the patient's mouth and nose. Quickly he was wheeled out, said Dr. Bill.

"Could have been worse, Bill, I've seen bad cases of peritonitis in my operating career."

Shelia Barbour came over to the doctors, who were removing their surgical gowns and gloves with some difficulty. "Here, here, let me help you. It puzzles me how you doctors can perform the most difficult operation, come through with flying colors and then fumble with the few strings on a surgical gown trying to take them off. You'd think they were actually clumsy. Hold still, Dr. Trent!" she exploded.

"Well, Shelia, that's the most I've ever heard you say in one breath," laughed Dr. Trent.

"Yes, and what's more," said Dr. Bill, "she looks rather angry, even exasperated!"

"You bet I am," Shelia almost shouted, "I'm tired of seeing you take Dr. Brown's patients and then get an ungrateful grumble for thanks from him. He's probably out enjoying himself right now—too bad the Medical Board doesn't know of his little capers!" she said bitterly. "I tell you Jim—ah—I mean Dr. Trent, you're a blundering fool!"

"Shelia, Shelia, what are you saying?" said the aghast Dr. Bill. "Calmly, calmly now, Shelia."

Doctor Trent was amused by Shelia's outbreak, and then more seriously, "It's my duty to take any case of Dr. Brown's, Shelia, you know that he is still my boss, I won't be on my own until next year—until then $ take orders just as you do."

"Oh yes, I know it's your duty—but it seems to me that after working from six A. M. to nine P. M. and then taking all emergencies, that

Mrs. Ann J. Scrace Celebrates 83rd Birthday

The home of Mrs. Elizabeth Ronk was the scene of a gala occasion on Sunday when she entertained at a family dinner honoring her grandmother, Mrs. Ann J. Scrace, who was celebrating her 83rd birthday. More than twenty guests partook of a delicious dinner with the usual birthday cake trimmed with candles adorning the table.

Mrs. Scrace was pleasantly surprised on Saturday evening when her sister, Mrs. Israel Blood and son, John, arrived from near Lansing to extend their best wishes. Mrs. Blood recently observed her 78th birthday. Then on Wednesday Mrs. John Nichols and son, Lawrence, and Mrs. William Nichols of East Lansing arrived to spend the day and wish their aunt, Mrs. Scrace, a happy birthday.

Mrs. Scrace received many very lovely gifts and best wishes for many more happy birthdays. She had lived in this community for 60 years and has children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, constituting four generations living in the vicinity, namely, Mrs. Ann J. Scrace, Mr. William Scrace, Mrs. Clarence Bearislee and her three children.

Twenty-Fifth Anniversary Observed Last Sunday

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hopkins celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Johnson of Wixom entertained in their honor. Twenty-two relatives and friends gathered at the Johnson home where they enjoyed a mock wedding and a lovely luncheon. A shower of silver coins expressed to Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins the best wishes of the group.

should rightfully be Dr. Brown's patients, and operating at 1 A. M. on an infection appendectomy; well—really, it's not fair or just!"

During all this they had finished washing and had come out of the operating room and entered the automatic elevator to descend to the Main floor. They were now at the information desk.

"Dr. Whitney you are wanted on 3rd floor—Room 332 immediately," said the crisp uniformed clerk.

"Thank you," answered Dr. Bill. "I'll see you in the morning, Jim, right now you're going to take Shelia home and tell her Mother to put her to bed after a hot bath so she'll sleep this all off." To Shelia, "When do you come on duty tomorrow, Shelia?"

"At 7 A. M.," wearily smiled the spent Shelia.

"You bet she's going to bed! I'm going to ask that a student nurse can be substituted for her tomorrow morning so she can rest. Been working too hard and too long hours, Shelia."

"I surrender Dr. Trent, please take me home now. 'Night Dr. Bill."

They walked home in silence, too tired to talk, too content and happy with their thoughts. At last when they almost reached the sidewalk that led to Shelia's door, Dr. Trent stopped, turned and looked at Shelia.

"You are tired, aren't you? Poor kid. The life a good nurse lives is a tough one! You're so frail and small and lovely, Shelia. Somehow tonight you revealed your true self to me—no not when you blew up over the operation—but when you said so pleadingly, 'I surrender, Dr. Trent, take me home now,' I felt that you were a small child in desperate need of someone to take care of you, to take you away from the hospital, the ether and smell of antiseptics, from all the blood, pain and suffering."

"No, Doctor, I love my work—Oh sometimes I get disgusted with everything and think I'll quit it all but it's in my blood, Dr. Jim, in my thoughts just as in yours. We can't free ourselves of its charm, we love it too much to give it up. You love it too, don't you?"

"Yes, dear, Shelia, you know I do only at times it's so useless, so helpless—Well, it isn't getting you to bed, is it? Here let me unlock the door for you. Good night Shelia, and do sleep in, because Nurse Dean will take your place in the morning. I'll call you at 12 o'clock and you can go on duty at one. Have lunch with me?—Please." He clasped her small hand for a brief moment, then turned and walked briskly down the walk.

Shelia leaned against the door and sighed happily, then she whispered softly, "You dear, sweet boy, I'm terribly fond of you." Then she turned, went into the house and closed the door.

Grade News
by Harlan Day
The fourth grade has completed their movie, "Our Journey to Nandala's Land"

We have been learning to do spatter work in art class. This week we made maple leaves. Our Goldfish have been named Sophie and Slushy in honor of Dr. Doolittle's famous seals.

We have a new boy in the fifth grade. His name is Earl Ganther. Earl's mother visited school Monday morning. We would enjoy having more Mothers visit our room.

Mrs. Beardslee's Room

Our boys and girls made cat-tail posters, free-hand cuttings of grapes and leaves in their Art Classes.

Some of the songs we are learning are:

- "Signs of Fall,"
"The Owl,"
"Hallowe'en,"
"The Rain Dove."

Second Grade News

We were pleased to have Mrs. Breakie visit our room Monday afternoon.

Charles Jarvis and Robert Brian brought us very pretty bouquets of flowers for our room this week.

Barbara Jarvis brought us some lovely waxed leaves. The boys and girls in the first grade are now finished with their "Before We Read" books and are reading in their new "Dick and Jane" books.

Grade News

Mrs. Walter
Civic: By the time this goes to press the civics class will have run off the school election that is: running the booths, the counting of the votes, instructions to the voters. They are doing this for a class project.

Senior Scholastic: The Seniors: Iva May Sommers, Bob Smithson, and Oliver Johnson have taken over the class and discussed the topics in the Scholastic.

8th American History: The 8th grade are enjoying their Junior Scholastic very much. In this Scholastic they are printing a series on the United States. In the last few issues they have had Land of Liberty, Virginia, Boston, New England, New York City. Each one takes up the History, Occupation of the people, industries of the city, animated maps about the section.

Mr. Thayer

We have a new addition to the Senior class Evelyn Van Epps. She enrolled Monday. Mr. Thayer plans on giving his test this week on account of the Teachers Institute next Thursday and Friday.

Class Room News

Miss Wellington:
In eighth grade English we have been writing descriptions. Some original and rather unusual work has been done by Ann Russell, Mazy Wompole, Norma Davison, and Stanley Perrin. Later on we shall print some of the noble efforts.

Mrs. Strait:
Home Economics 2 class is planning an all school party for Friday Night. We are doing this so that we can earn money to buy materials to make curtains for our windows. We have problems in selecting materials and making the curtain.

Home Economics 1 class is studying luncheon menus to see that menus follow the dietary requirements. Also they have been studying where different foods come from and how they are manufactured.

Mr. Winn:
The geometry class has now completed the five theorems that may be used to prove triangle congruent.

Miss Cohen:
In Public Speaking we are studying poems and means of obtaining emphasis in speaking.

In Latin 1 we are studying Roman clothing. We have learned to count to 15 in Latin. Yesterday we learned the names of several farm animals. English 9 and 10 are reviewing grammar.

Last Year's Seniors

by Charlotte Sue Miller

Would you like to know what the Senior class of '38 is doing? Mary Lindsey, the president hasn't decided on anything definite yet, but Betty Ellen Chamberlain, the vice-president has. She has a permanent job, and has changed her name to Mrs. John Keith. The treasurer, Evelyn Walz is planning to enter Ypsilanti soon, and the secretary, Violet Coy, from all I can gather, is still trying to make up her mind. Well, that covers the class officers. Next in order comes the honor students. The valedictorian, Charles Perry, is going to Business Institute. Chet Adams is taking a Post Graduate course at Pontiac High School. Bettieann Comstock has gone to a Detroit school of Nursing. Of course we should mention the President of the Student council, Clint Russell. He is working on the Ann Arbor Construction Company project and is going to start college next year. Gus Yost, that all around athlete, has a steady job peddling milk, and our pride and joy, King McIntyre, has gone to Michigan State college at Lansing. What do you think! Les Vliet has started at Ypsi.—the teachers' college and he is going to be a teacher. Mary Gassick is at Business Institute. Alice Williams is working around town. Ruth Olsen has landed herself an office job in Pontiac. Speaking of Pontiac, Dan Addis, Chet Adams and Paul Shaughnessy are all taking Post graduate courses at Pontiac High School. Earl Lawson is working in Tennessee and his pal, Lyle Walker hasn't decided on anything as yet. Hazel St. Clair is taking life easy.

The Senior Play

The only comment we have is "We hope your Senior Play is as good as the Junior Play last year."

Magazine Sales Campaign

By Betty Taylor
The magazine campaign is over for another year with the "Sophs" on top. Although they only earned half of their quota they earned twice as much as the next leading class. The leading salesman of the school is Elaine Waterbury a 10th grader, who sold 11 subscriptions. The total of all the sales in the school was only half as much as we wanted! but you must admit we did our share.

The totals for the classes were as follows:

- 12th grade—$8.05 to the school
11th grade—$8.22 to the school
10th grade—$16.99 to the school
9th grade—$2.82 to the school

Senator Vandenberg To Speak in Pontiac

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg will open the Oakland County campaign in behalf of the Republican party, when he will address a meeting to be held in the Pontiac High School auditorium.

The Senator, who is recognized as Michigan's favorite son for the Republican presidential nomination in 1940, is making a speaking tour of the state. He will also speak in other states under the direction of the National committee.

What is the "Right-of-way?" Who has the "Right-of-way?" I will not attempt to answer these questions because conditions and circumstances are involved that make one answer inapplicable to all cases. However, the safest bet and the wisest course is to give the other fellow the right-of-way rather than argue or have an accident.

What does a delay of a few minutes mean compared to a safe journey? Why gamble on the possibility of a serious accident just for the satisfaction of having the right-of-way?

If you arrive at an intersection at about the same time another motorist does and he signifies his intention of crossing, let him, even though you know you have the right-of-way.

It is much better to follow the safe course, and it leaves you in a better frame of mind.

Word Psychology From Greek
The word psychology is derived from the Greek words "psyche," mind or soul, and "logos," study or discourse.

Organ Recital at Davisburg Church

Through the courtesy of Grinnell Brothers of Detroit Davisburg people are to have their first experience with the now celebrated Hammond Electric Organ.

Grinnell Brothers are supplying an electric organ for the church service next Sunday morning and are sending an experienced organist with the instrument to give a special organ recital beginning at 10:15 o'clock. Please note that the recital begins fifteen minutes earlier than the regular church service.

Eugene Goossens, composer and conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, says this of the new Hammond Organ, "The Hammond Organ, with its resonant volume of tone, range of color and astonishing mobility, is to my mind the most important instrumental development in music in recent years."

Tito Schipa, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Association, says, "The Hammond Organ is a magnificent musical instrument and provides ideal accompaniment for a singer. Its flexibility and beauty of tone and range of color are inspiring."

It is said that this small compact electric organ using vacuum tubes can give all the tone effects of the largest and most expensive of pipe organs. We invite all to come out and hear this new development in musical instruments.

Big Crop of Apples Is Being Harvested

Thousands of bushels of apples will be marketed in Michigan this fall. The crop is large and the quality excellent. No state produces apples of a finer flavor than Michigan. New York apples are close but Western apples do not rank at all. The only advantage these have had has been in their preparation for market, and Michigan growers are getting wise to that fact.

Six of the new regular series of postage stamps will be issued during November leaving four out of the 32 to come in December, usually a blank month. An all time record has been set by the Post Office Department and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in turning out such a great number of stamps in such a short time. The first of the series, the 1 cent Washington, was placed on sale April 25, and since that time, including the present month, October, 22 of the regular series have been issued besides the 6-cent airmail and four commemorative stamps. Thirty-seven stamps will have been offered for sale at the end of this year, the greatest number in the history of the P. O. Dept. Those to appear in the November program are:

The 18 cent Ulysses S. Grant, red brown, on sale November 3; the 19 cent Rutherford B. Hayes, lilac, November 10; the 20 cent James A. Garfield, dark green, November 10; the $5 Calvin Coolidge, red border with black center, November 17; the 21 cent Chester A. Arthur, steel blue, November 22, and the 22 cent Grover Cleveland, dark red, November 22. It will be noted that although there are two stamps issued on November 10 and November 22, yet separate orders must be sent for each denomination to the postmaster at Washington.

24,766 stamps of the $2 Harding series were sold the first day, Sept. 29, at Washington, D. C., and 19,895 covers were cancelled.

The 24 cent Benjamin Harrison, the 25 cent William McKinley, the 30 cent Theodore Roosevelt and the 50 cent W. H. Taft remain to appear in December.

800 Species of Parrots
There are approximately 800 species and subspecies of parrots.

OTHER TIMES, OTHER Telephones

Since 1878, the telephone instrument has continually improved in efficiency and convenience... and all the other equipment went through the same process. This was largely due to the constant research of the Bell Telephone Laboratories and the manufacturing skill of the Western Electric Company.

Membership in the Bell System, which puts these improvements at our disposal, has enabled us in the past... as it will in the future... to keep your telephone service on a par with the best in the world.
