Vocational Survey May Help Unemployment Problem

Approximately 2,000 young people residing in Springfield and Waterford Townships will be interviewed, starting next week, as a part of Michigan's state-wide vocational survey, it was announced today by Charles H. Cripps, district supervisor. The survey is being made in an effort to solve the unemployment problem of youth 16 to 24 years of age.

The survey is sponsored by Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, who asks the cooperation of the young people and their parents in obtaining the desired information. This will be held strictly confidential, he points out, and no identities will be revealed in any reports based on the survey.

"We are simply trying to find out," said Dr. Elliott, "how many young people are out of school and without jobs, in order that appropriate agencies may equip them for work when it becomes available and put them on the road to good citizenship. The survey also will enable us to appraise the existing vocational training facilities in our schools and should indicate what changes, if any, are needed to make them more effective."

The survey has the hearty endorsement of H. T. Burt, superintendent of Waterford schools, and school officials throughout the state. Cooperating agencies include the State Board of Control for Vocational Education, the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission and the Michigan State Employment Service, the School of Education and the Institute for Human Adjustment of the University of Michigan, the Detroit Board of Education, Detroit Council for Youth Service, the Michigan Child Guidance Institute, the Michigan Secondary School Association, and various state colleges.

The National Youth Administration of Michigan is taking an active part in the survey, which will employ about 700 young people as enumerators, and funds are being furnished largely by the Work Projects Administration.

As usual in such studies, the survey will be made on a sampling basis. About 150,000 youth, or one in every five of those in the age group selected, will be interviewed. The canvass will include all cities with a population of 3,000 or more, and sample villages and rural areas in each of the 83 counties in the state. In the sparsely settled areas it will be possible to visit every home, but in cities like Detroit, Grand Rapids and Flint about one in every 10 youth will be interviewed.

It is expected that the field work will be completed by the end of the year, and that the compiled data will be available to school authorities and the other interested agencies before the beginning of the 1940 school year.

HOLLY THEATRE

A world of girls on their own, with the life of a million parties giving them a new slant on life, rolls merrily into the Holly Theatre on Tuesday in Elsa Maxwell's "Hotel for Women".

This Cosmopolitan Production for 20th Century-Fox marks the famous Elsa's film debut and describes in gay and thrilling terms a side of life you've never seen—dozens of smart, beautiful young things, girls who'll go to your head, girls who'll go to your heart; office girls in love with their bosses; girls on the make for fame; girls who want a good address—and a liberal education; girls looking for life in a penthouse—and girls longing for love in a cottage.

Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck lined up a fine cast to be co-featured with Elsa, including Ann Southern, Linda Darnell (new screen discovery), James Ellison, Jean Rogers, Lynn Bari, June Gale, Joyce Compton, Elsa herself, John Halliday, Katharine Aldridge, Alan Dinehart and Sidney Blackmer.

Gregory Ratoff directed "Hotel for Women" from a screen play which Kathryn Scola and Darrell Ware prepared, based on a story by Elsa Maxwell and Miss Scola. Raymond Griffith filled the associate producer's post.

"Whistle a Little Old Melody", the song played and sung by Miss Maxwell at the cocktail party she throws in the film (yes, Elsa gives you a typical Maxwell party!) was also composed by her.

Class of '39 Honors Milton Fiske

State Park Pavilion at Ortonville Is the Scene of Party

Last Friday evening a group of the graduating class of '39 of the Clarkston High School gathered at the State Park pavilion at Ortonville to honor Milton Fiske and bid him "Farewell" before he leaves for California. The hostesses were Misses Pearl Olson, Mary Jane Gulick and Phyllis Beardsley. Mr. and Mrs. William Gulick were the chaperones.

The room was decorated with Halloween colors and motifs and a bright fire in the fireplace made it cozy and home-like. A well planned program of appropriate games, dancing and a treasure hunt furnished an evening of fun. The group presented Milton with a remembrance gift and he made a very gracious response. Refreshments were served.

Besides Pearl Olson, Mary Jane Gulick and Phyllis Beardsley the group included Evelyn Jencks, Bob Smithson, Howard Boyens, Kenneth Grate, Marion Beemer, Dick Tee, Dick Craven and the honoree, Milton Fiske.

Quick Education

My boy had started off to school, His face was stern and grave, He knew not of the way they rule, Or how he must behave.

At first he had a lot of fun— He liked to romp and play, With other children he would run, And whiled away the day.

Each morning found him full of vim, He was a busy boy, And we were mighty proud of him, He filled our hearts with joy.

It only took just three short days For him to get so wise, That he knew all the children's ways, And clear outgrew his size!

One morn he woke and said to me, "I'm done with school I guess." In three short days he thought that he Had met with his success. Grown folks there are that I have seen,

Who act like this wee lad, Who start in business full of steam, To carry out their fad.

But when they come up face to face, With just the cold bare facts, They're not equipped for such a pace, And cannot stand the tax.

They haven't got the stuff they need, To take it on the chin, So Ma and me have both agreed We couldn't much blame him.

If when he faced a job so tough, He couldn't see it through, This world he'll find is mighty rough, And he's like me and you.

Let him do it just so long, And keep away the day, Until the pressure gets so strong, That he'll be on his way.

The Hilltopper

TEACHER'S CONVENTION

Again our teachers have partaken of an educational repast by their attendance at the annual Teachers Convention of District 6 at Detroit. From all reports each one spent a very profitable and enjoyable two days.

Here are some of the interesting highlights of the Convention: The meeting of the science teachers at Wayne University was most interesting and beneficial. The first part of the program was on color photography and its use in the school. The later part of the meeting was devoted to a round-table discussion concerning the place of Mathematics in the teaching of science. This discussion was of value to the group for it outlined the tendencies and practices followed by science teachers in both large and small schools.

The music sectional meeting of this year's institute was far more interesting and more practical for the teacher in the average public schools than the conventions of previous years. The meeting opened with several fine selections by the A Capella Choir of the Ferndale High School.

Two selections by a brass quartet and two selections by a woodwind quartet. Following the musical portion of the program, a former member of Sousa's Band discussed the possibilities as well as the problems which sometimes arise in the teaching of Clarinet.

The Pontiac Band, who performed at the general meeting, was especially acceptable, and Oakland County should be proud of it, as this organization is a credit to any county.

An interesting talk on "Your Professional Citizenship" was given by John S. Page, Superintendent of Howell, Michigan and president of the Michigan Education Association.

Phil LaFollette, ex-governor of Wisconsin, addressed the convention on the subject of leadership. His talk was interesting, stimulating, and very worthwhile. Ex-governor LaFollette was his usual democratic and charming self. His warning that we must concern ourselves with our 12,000,000 unemployed and not with an imaginary invading enemy was well taken.

Miss Marjorie Wilson's chat on "Charm and Personality" seemed to be a favorite among our teachers. Miss Wilson said that the great bulk of rules of etiquette are superfluous, that the one really essential thing is to make the other person or persons feel comfortable. Isn't it true that much of our formal observance does quite the opposite? Her talk was inspiring and informative. She made us conscious of little gestures which would tend to improve awkward ways of sitting and walking as well as inspiring us to develop personalities which would be labeled individual.

The Art meeting was most interesting. There were many worthwhile exhibits and posters on display at the Institute of Arts to inspire the elementary teacher.

At the Commercial meeting Friday, Mr. Clark, Manager of Industrial and Public Relations Department, United States Rubber Co., Detroit, talked on the qualifications of beginning office workers. Mr. Clark has placed between 500 and 600 thousand people in this company and has been at this kind of work longer than anyone in the United States.

He was very outspoken in his criticisms and very informal, smoking his pipe, and being seated. He also stressed the things a manager looks for when hiring office workers. He emphasized the importance of Parent and Teacher cooperation and suggested that Commercial teachers interview office managers to find out what they expect of beginning students.

E. E. Gallup, the executive secretary, Future Farmers of America, was supposed to give an address, but failed to appear.

Also of interest was the speech entitled "Trends in Early Elementary Education", by S. A. Courtis, from the University of Michigan. He said the most important trend of all is the growing confusion and distress among teachers as they come to realize that the most vital function of education is not development, not equipment and organization, important as those functions are, but inspiration. The school must interpret life to children and give them worthwhile purposes to live for. But how can a teacher discharge this function if she herself needs the same type of guidance? "What are teachers and the schools going to do about religion?" is potentially the problem most loaded with power to cause conflicts and distress.

Sewing Circle Met At Williams Lake

Mrs. Louella Leighton Was the Hostess

The commercial exhibits were helpful and suggestive, and last but not least, all teachers enjoyed seeing and visiting with other teachers from different schools, particularly with former associates. Although we breathe a sigh of relief that its' over for another year, again we shall look forward to next year's teacher's convention which promises to be even better than this year's.

ROLLER-SKATING PARTY

Monday, October 23rd was a gala evening at the Orion Rink, for each student besides having a good time, helped make the event profitable for the school. Over $25.00 was made which will be used to pay for the Majorettes Uniforms and to help purchase new school instruments. In November there will be another such party so watch for the announcement!

BLOOMFIELD HILLS DEFEATS CLARKSTON!

Last Wednesday, October 18, Clarkston was defeated by Bloomfield Hills by a score of 12 to 0. Due to a little motor trouble Payne and Ross did not arrive in time to get in the starting lineup, but came a few minutes later and went in for Sherwood and Cubley. Both Bloomfield's touchdowns were due to passes, otherwise the Clarkston defense looked very good. Clarkston had a couple of good scoring chances but failed to take advantage of them. All the boys want another chance to play Bloomfield Hills this year, if a game can be arranged.

The line-up for Clarkston was:

- LE—Sherwood
- LT—Johnson
- LG—Skarritt
- C—Shaughnessy
- RG—Lowrie
- RT—Morgan
- RE—Wainman
- QB—Russell
- HB—Cubley
- FB—Bird

Owen Payne and Edward Ross came in as substitutes.

Fifty-Fifty was played during the evening with awards going to Mrs. James C. Sutton, Miss Helen Salchert and Miss Mardelle Burrill. Following this the guests were highly amused as each shower gift was held over the head of the honor guest by Mrs. Earl Adams and the recipient had to decide just what she would do with the gift, before she could unwrap it.

The explosion of a water pressure tank in the home of Loyal Lumby on Waterford Road last Tuesday ripped up the dining-room floor, tore off a door between the dining-room and kitchen, shattered a buffet full of dishes, broke the dining-room table and a chair and narrowly missed injuring their five year old daughter, Marjorie, who was playing in the room. The force of the blast shattered two large timbers beneath the floor, but might have done much more serious damage to the home if it had not been for the protection these timbers afforded. The bottom was blown completely out of the tank.

TURKEYS SHOULD BE FED ON GRAIN

Michigan turkey growers who hope to face plump and tasty turkeys at their Thanksgiving feasts or who hope the birds in their flocks will add to the year's profits had better feed, from now to dressing time, all the grain the birds will eat.

Cooler weather in Oakland county is certain to whet any healthy turkey's appetite. Mixed grains, such as whole corn, wheat, oats or barley make a good fattening feed.

In cafeteria style there should be a good quality mash available to the maturing turkeys. Clean drinking water is another necessity.

Turkey production in Michigan has been on the increase in recent years. Estimates place the probable crop within the state this year at more than half a million birds.

"Sell finished birds," advises Professor Card. "The Michigan turkey can have superior quality if it is properly finished before it is marketed.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Butters were called to Boston, Mass., on account of the death of his mother. They left Clarkston on Wednesday morning.

Everyone is glad to know that Percy Craven's health is improving and he is able to be back at his work again.

Work has started on reconstructing the Clarkston Feed Mill. Stone walls are being laid on the east and north sides.

Mrs. Ray C. Ainsley entertained the local Past Matrons' Club at her home on Thursday. Luncheon was served at one o'clock.

Mrs. William Watson entertained a number of her friends at a one o'clock luncheon and bridge at her home on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thayer spent the week-end in the north. On Tuesday evening they were hosts at a pheasant dinner at their home.

Your hair won't turn white in a night; or stand on end with fright; or grow after you're dead; blondes aren't more sensitive than redheads or brunettes; explains Dr. Donald A. Laird, among other things—but worry can make you bald. Read this interesting article in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald-American.

For Homemakers

Have you a few of those mighty friendly carpet beetles in your home? Then don't blame moths unless an entomologist agrees.

It's quite possible thousands of Michigan homes are inhabited by this pest who chews holes in such things as swimming suits, breakfast food and floor coverings. Much of this eating is done so quietly that moths get the credit for what the carpet beetle does.

Enough complaints and requests for help have reached the entomology department at Michigan State College recently to encourage Professor E. I. McDaniel to draw up a description of this beetle and give some general directions on control within the home.

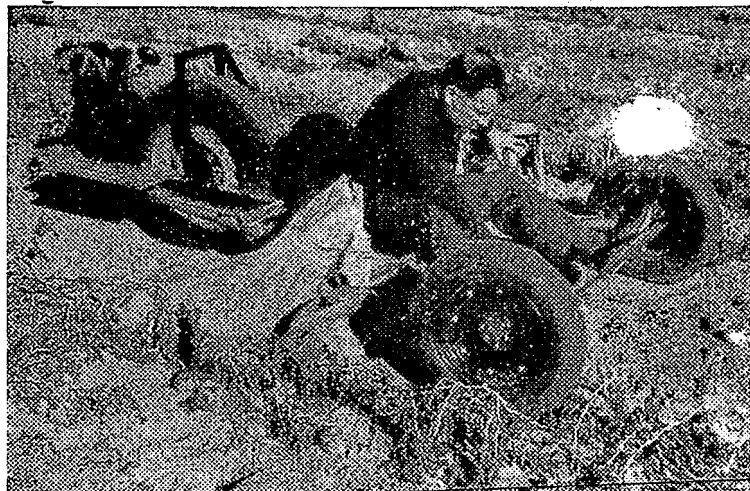

A carpet beetle has a segmented body but can be either long-tailed or short-tailed for there are nine kinds within the family. The long-tailed adult is coal black, while the short-tailed adult is a pepper and salt color with a dash of red on his back. Carpets usually are their last resort, for they really prefer bathing suits.

The pests congregate in hiding places such as under a wainscoting, in cold air chutes, ventilating flues or in the linings of a vacuum sweeper.

Control then is by dusting their hiding places with derris powders and by packing clothing in crystal gas, which has paradichloronazene. If breakfast foods are infested the packages should be thrown out. Use of a fly spray behind a wainscoting helps. In the spring, says Professor McDaniel, the beetles will migrate to the outdoors to feed upon the pollen of flowers. They may return in summer or fall, or they may go to visit the neighbors.

POTATO MEN HAIL M.S.C. IDEA

In early tests, use of this three wheeled crawler to pick up potatoes seems to make play of what has been a back breaking job ever since potato production began. Agricultural engineers at Michigan State College have shown this machine to but a few of the many thousands of farmers in the state, yet the idea has been given a hearty welcome. Speed can be varied from one-tenth to nearly two miles an hour. Cost, if some used materials are adapted, could be about $50. Floyd Linebaugh, technician, above, is testing the ease of picking up the crop while sitting down.

The scientific observatory on the Jungfrauoch has the highest telephone in Europe.

There are more than 42,000 telephone employees in the metropolis of New York City, of whom 21,000 are women. Of these, nearly 11,000 are operators.

An underground telephone cable is being laid between Paris and Bordeaux in France. The cable will be capable of transmitting simultaneously toll calls, radio broadcasts, and television.

Before the handset telephone was introduced in the Bell Telephone System, the Bell Laboratories measured the faces of 4,000 persons in order to determine the correct distance between the mouthpiece and the receiver of the instrument.

This is the time of the year when windshield equipment is necessary for proper vision.

Late in the afternoon of one day a short time ago, while we were riding with a friend we ran into considerable fog and rain. The windshield wipers were not in working order, and as a result we had very poor vision.

Fall weather brings fog and rain, and in some sections sleet. Get your car tuned up for winter driving, and when you do so, do not fail to check your windshield equipment.

It's smart to drive carefully.

Murdered by an Unseen Enemy
Police were baffled by the mysterious killing of a spectacular captain of finance on his wedding day . . . but a newspaperman's unwelcome sleuthing finally broke the case and a crafty murderer was brought to justice, as is told in an exciting serial novel of love and intrigue, "A Picture of the Victim", starting in The American Weekly with the October 29 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

If you missed the show at the High School last night be sure and see it tonight. This show is being sponsored by Cedar Lodge No. 60 F. & A. M.
