breaking." Miss Gettemy does give credit to quality for appearance sake. Fine china has qualities of hardness, clear lustrous glaze and translucency. For centuries the potteries of Europe and England and in recent decades those in the United States have been trying to produce the fine china that comes from the Orient. As a result, it is pointed out, the English bone china has gained an international reputation for beauty and fineness of texture. The use of bone ash, which literally is the ashes of burned animal bones, gives to this china a hardness which apparently makes it less apt to chip or break. The ash serves as a flux which trans-fuses the ingredients into a solid mass which does not have to be glazed after firing. Improvements in American made pottery are evident, although the traditional quality and reputation of foreign dishes until recently have outshone the more modern manufacturing in the United States. The Woodrow Wilsons were the first to introduce fine domestic china to White House service. One of the best tests, Miss Gettemy concludes, is to hold a piece of pottery to the light. Even if it is comparatively thick, if it is of good quality one can see the shape of the fingers through the material.

HOW TO CONTROL LICE AND MITES

Lice and mites know all the tricks necessary to put a poultryman's books into a maze of red ink, but an entomologist at Michigan State College knows how to take care of the pests. Two treatments a year, fall and spring, are recommended, although commercial poultrymen find that it often pays to take necessary precautions more frequently. Remember that lice live on the birds and that mites inhabit the coop and the roosts, suggests C. B. Michigan State College, for this reason two separate treatments are required. A simple control for mites after a coop is thoroughly cleaned is to spray the interior with half crack-case oil and half kerosene. The spray must penetrate cracks and crevices and cannot be applied with a paint brush. Lice are controlled by treating the birds. The simplest method, says Dibley, is to place a thin line of nicotine on the coop perches just before roosting time. The body heat of the bird releases the nicotine which penetrates the feathers. This treatment must be repeated in 14 days but it will kill all forms of lice found living on Michigan flocks.

The repeat treatment is necessary to kill those that hatch from nits or eggs present at the time of the first treatment.

Recently the safety department of the Wisconsin Highway Commission stated that the "man on the street" is less careful about oncoming cars than the woman pedestrian. The safety department reports these findings: "The safest place to walk on a rural highway is on the left side, facing oncoming traffic. "The most dangerous place to walk on a rural highway is on the right side, with traffic coming from behind you. "The safest place to cross a city street is at a marked intersection, with the traffic signals. "The most dangerous place to cross is in the middle of a block." Statistics prove conclusively that these are the prominent causes and some of the prominent causes of automobile accidents. Laws will not abolish them. It will require the definite safety conduct of each and every one of us to help eliminate some of these causes of accidents from our highways. "It's Smart to Drive Carefully."

There are about 19,100,000 tele-phones in the United States or one for every seven persons. Cambridge, Mass., second largest candy-making center in the United States, manufactures more than 500 different varieties of sweets. Kearney, Nebraska, is the midway point between Boston and San Francisco.

Toast is Tops at Breakfast

By BETTY BARCLAY

Perfect toast — hot, golden, luscious — starts the day off right! As an all-American breakfast favorite, it probably stacks higher than any other single food. Did you ever hear of anyone who didn't like toast? Well, neither have I. But I bet you never guessed just why toast tastes so good the very first thing in the morning. Yes, it's hot and it's crunchy, and its flavor is delicious with your breakfast coffee, tea, or cocoa — it's a swell excuse for jam or marmalade, too. But these aren't the real reasons you crave your morning toast, you know. The fact of the matter, so nutritionists tell us, is that toast is an energy-food (something you need to get going), that sits extremely easily on an empty stomach (something you have at 7 A. M.). According to Dr. James A. Tobey, prominent health authority, toast is one of our best and most easily digested forms of energy food. What's more, it agrees with practically everyone. This combination of energy-elements and easy digestibility explains, too, why toast has long been on the preferred food list for children and invalids.

For Reducing
When you want to lose weight, toast is an ideal food in your reducing diet — just remember to go lightly on the jam and the butter. The average slice of dry white, whole wheat, or rye toast contains only 65 to 70 calories, in case you're counting them. Yet its mineral and protein content supply you with valuable nutrients that you need for good health.

Make it Correctly
Many people are just as particular about the way their breakfast toast is made, as they are about the length of time their eggs are boiled. So here are a few tips on making toast come out the way it's wanted:

Soft, golden toast: use very fresh bread, toast quickly at high heat; spread immediately with softened butter.

Crisp, brown toast: use fresh bread, toast slowly at moderate heat; butter immediately.

Dry, crunchy toast: use bread at least a day old, toast slowly at low heat; butter each slice as eaten.

Serve It Right
If you bring your electric toaster right to the table, you can have the luxury of toast piping hot without a bit of worry. If the toast is made in the kitchen, however, arrange it on a plate in a row of overlapping slices; cover with a folded tea napkin, and place in a warm oven until ready to serve. Leave the crusts on for breakfast toast. And never stack it or it will steam and become soggy, if it isn't eaten at once.

"On Toast" Specials
Ideal for snappy mornings are "on toast" breakfast specials! Butter slices of toast, leave the crusts on if you wish, arrange on a platter or individual plates, and then heap the toast high with fluffy scrambled eggs, hot creamed chipped beef, creamed codfish, or creamed finnan haddock.

To learn more about toast in reducing diets, send a postal to Department of Nutrition, 1135 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Ill., for their interesting free booklet, "The Right Way to Right Weight."
