Why work more than one day a week? Roger Payne, "The Hobo Philosopher," asks the question in a book that is making a stir among economists and politicians. He believes that work is not a blessing but that laboring long hours should be discouraged and prohibited. BANKING HOURS

9:00 to 12:00 1:00 to 3:00 except Wednesday afternoons

Many people think of "bankers hours" as an extremely short working time because we're open only part of the day. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Early in the morning and after we close in the afternoon hundreds of accounts must be balanced, checks cleared, investments analyzed plus many other duties. That's why we ask our customers to kindly adhere to banking hours so we may give their business our undivided attention. We know you will cooperate.

A Modern Treasure Chest

Mr. Burpee at the Treasure Chest Photo of Single Bloom

By RICHARD S. BOND During many years of Luther Burbank's life he cherished an iron-bound trunk in which he religiously stored little sacks and packets of his experimental seeds. This romantic old relic, battered and scarred by journeys with Burbank since 1875, is really his legacy to the world's flower lovers. Time alone can tell the horticultural wonders that may emerge from this treasure chest of a famous man.

Today it is owned by David Burpee of Philadelphia, who by this way is not only a horticulturist of note but a cousin of Mr. Burbank. The chest still contains many packages of rare seeds, carefully labeled by the original owner. Among them Burpee found seeds of the Giant Zinnia in pastel shades — the offspring of zinnia seeds once secured by Burbank from David Burpee's father. Last year there were only fifteen ounces of the new David Burpee Zinnia seed in the world. This year the seed is comparatively plentiful and the David Burpee Zinnia will be grown in thousands of gardens. It is an astonishing flower, five and a half to six inches across, and sometimes four inches deep. Actually, it looks more like a big Chrysanthemum than a descendant of the "Old Maid" grown by our grandmothers in their little plots of ground.

PUZZLE---Where to Hold 161 Events

Dean E. L. Anthony, left, and Short Course Director E. W. Tenny, right, commanding generals for the 26th annual Farmers' Week to be held at Michigan State College, January 29 through February 2, may have worried expressions. They are trying to find places for the 161 scheduled events, embracing general sessions, contests, demonstrations, crops and livestock shows and entertainment. The 1940 theme selected is "How Michigan Farmers Succeed." Interspersed will be the college's contribution to show a virtual panoramic view of the progress and present status of modern agriculture within the state.

That Luscious Lima Bean

By BETTY BARCLAY

We force ourselves to eat many foods because we are told they contain some vitamin or mineral we need. So far as Lima beans are concerned, we eat them because we like them—a mighty good reason for eating any food. Check the orders in your favorite restaurant when Limas are listed with the vegetables, and see how consistently they are ordered.

Yet that luscious Lima bean is far more than an enjoyable food. It tops the list of alkaline-reaction foods that are needed to offset acidity. It contains more calcium than lean beef or eggs; more phosphorus than milk or lean beef; more sulphur than milk or potatoes; and more iron than any of these other foods. It's an excellent source of those minerals so necessary to perfect health.

Now that cooked dried Limas are available anywhere in cans and hot nutritious dishes are particularly desirable to protect the body from cold, the following recipes for Baked Limas with Marshmallows (see illustration) and Lima Chowder, are presented to you as tasty treats for nineteen forty:

Baked Limas with Marshmallows
3 cups cooked dried Limas
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 tablespoons butter

3 tablespoons brown sugar
1/4 cup hot water
3 strips bacon
3 to 6 marshmallows
Put Limas in a buttered casserole dish, adding water and stirring in salt, butter and brown sugar. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for about 20 minutes (until thoroughly heated). Then place bacon strips over top, dot with marshmallows and place under broiler flame until toasted a golden brown.

Lima Chowder
2 cups cooked Limas
2 cups diced potatoes
2 slices fat salt pork
1 small onion, sliced
1 cup boiling water
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
3 cups hot milk
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Cut salt pork into dice. Place in a saucepan and cook 5 minutes; add onion and cook until just turning yellow, then add potatoes and boiling water. Cook until potatoes are tender, then add Limas. Melt butter, add flour, stir until smooth, then add hot milk; cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened, then add Lima mixture and seasonings.

Proposed Subjects for Discussion at Town Meet

1. Is township or village government desirable?
2. The Huron-Clinton Planning Board. What could it do for our community? What steps should be taken to get this area included in the plan?
3. Schools, particularly the state finance problem.
4. Local and county finance issues (budget and taxes).
5. State finance issues (budget and taxes).
6. Federal finance issues (budget and taxes).
7. Is the present wage-hour law fair in its present form? Is the National Labor Relations Board unprejudiced?
8. Should social security be further liberalized? What is its actual cost? How large an old age pension is practicable?
9. Are subsidies to the farm problem?
10. Efforts up to the present time have done little to alleviate the unemployment problem. Are there other possible plans which hold promise?
11. Have present Federal policies injured business as is claimed?
12. Public utility problems—75 per cent of our railways are now bankrupt—something is wrong. What can and is being done? Federal competition with private electric power companies.
13. What should be America's policy toward the European war?
14. How far should the United States go in supporting and developing its present Pan American policy?
15. Are Secretary Hull's trade agreements beneficial or harmful to American business and farming?
16. Is there a Nazi, Fascist or Community threat to the United States?

FEATURES!!

It certainly is too bad that "Doc" Thayer didn't get the pair of roller skates he was promised. He got in quite a lot of practice at the Leap Year Skating party so he ought to be able to whiz around the halls and get to classes on time.

The class was surprised when a certain freshman girl gave a definition of a drawing car as being the car on a train where the passengers go to draw pictures of the scenery. The other day she surprised them again by defining legal tender as being a person who runs a hotel.

What made the boys so peppy at the basketball game last Friday? Ask Glenn Minton or Don Tee!

WARNING!! Don't shake hands with Jack Tee.

Who were Betty Waid and Doris Batten out with Saturday night? Hey Henry!!

My, My, it seems that Cliff Bennett has his share of bad luck. He gets stuck with the car; then on another occasion something goes wrong with the car and he gets burned. You have our sympathy, Cliff.

Just to see those public speaking students running around with their toys and stuff makes one feel sorry for the poor things—then they tell us they are to use in Public Speaking. Poor excuses.

These 9th grade kids are really going out now days. Shows, parties, skating, and everywhere you turn you run into one.

What is this phrase that some (I should say a couple) of girls are using that they picked up in Flint. You know—ay, Gaites. There it is all in a nutshell. Now you know what they are trying to say, ay, Gaites.

Why, oh why, must Gerry Weston be so bashful? That's what some of the girls are saying. Oh, Gerry we are pleading with you, please act a little nicer with us, just a little bit.

Why did mostly all the Senior boys have a headache the day after party—Why?

The Freshmen girls seem to have taken it pretty seriously about See and Irene with Byron and Edward Ross.

Flash—Russell (Spearpoint) Morgan took a girl (Santa Claus must have been good to him) none other than Betty Smithson; and Dick Lowrie took her sister Helen.

Why were some of the Freshman girls mad Saturday nite? My, they certainly are a jealous bunch, ay, Gaites.

It seems that our handsome Romeo, Mr. Don Tee, escorted Sue Miller (anyhow that's the way we heard it).

Who is it that takes (who) to be more like her own self? Ay—Carm.

After the Eng. Lit. Class read a correct view on women the girls decided to write a correct view on men.

What Senior girl has a parody to the song "Oh Johnny"?

For Homemakers

There'll be no neglect or lacking in the programs arranged for the rural women who attend the 25th annual Farmers' Week program at Michigan State College, Jan. 29 through Feb. 2.

By using staff members, borrowing authorities from other departments and by arranging for capable guest speakers, the home economics staff at the college is planning a rounded out series of sessions.

In acquainting visitors with what is happening out in the world, Dr. Marie Dye, dean of home economics at Michigan State College, has scheduled Dr. M. M. Kappen, head of the college history department, for a talk on the current European situation. Another of similar note will be presented by Darrel Brady, world traveler and lecturer, who will present a lecture illustrated with motion pictures on present conditions in Europe.

Student showing of costumes made in fall term college work is another feature during the week.

Staff members will not neglect suggestions about how to make purchases, how to better manage homes, how to cook meats.

"Food Fads and Fallacies" is the title of another feature scheduled twice to accommodate those who attend. "Planning Our Family Life" is the subject assigned to Mrs. Lydia Ann Lynde, formerly on the college staff and now extension specialist in parent education for the United States Department of Agriculture.

General Motors Builds 25-Millionth Unit

Brief ceremonies were held in the Chevrolet assembly plant at Flint, January 11, marking completion of this car, the 25-millionth unit built by General Motors. In behalf of the thousands of workers who had a hand in its manufacture, 75 members of the final assembly line crew handed M. E. Coyle, Chevrolet general manager, a commemorative scroll for presentation to W. S. Knudsen, president of General Motors. Veteran Chevrolet employees, and executives of the Buick and AC Spark Plug divisions, were present as special guests.

Mrs. Jessie Walter has gone to Pontiac to spend the winter with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Walter.

Jan. 26th-Friday afternoon at 2:00 the Clarkston P. T. A. will sponsor a card party and tea in the school auditorium. The admission is small. There will be table prizes and door prizes. The public is invited.

Last Sunday Mrs. E. J. Miller, her son, Donald, and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Scott went to the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Reese near Holly and celebrated the birthdays of Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Reese.

Word from the W. S. Barrows last week said they were at Manatee, Fla. They were feeling fine but the weather had been quite cold with plenty of rain. Word from Bradenton, Fla., says that Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Miller of Clarkston are already among the guests in the "Trailer Park" awaiting the big Florida West Coast Event, the 10th annual A. T. A. Convention. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Jones of Clarkston are again settled in St. Cloud, Fla. A card from them says Mr. Jones is getting along good and they hope to spend the rest of the winter there.

Young, small fish are fry and fingerlings, not minnows. Minnows are a distinct kind of fish marked by lack of teeth in the jaws, lack of scales on the head, lack of spiny rays in the fins, and a single fin on the back of less than 10 rays.

Dressing-Room Chat with Josephine Hutchinson:

It was in a dark corner of the big stage, but the little glow of lite indicated Josephine's dressing-room was there. She looked all of 16 as she held out her hand in greeting, for her dress was of rusty-rose alpaca cut in the fashion of the 90's and her hair was drawn softly back to a knot held by a bow at the back. The little dimples right at the corners of her expressive mouth helped the effect. The costume was for her role of "Nellie" in the Edward Small production, "My Son, My Son", in which she appears with Brian Ahefne, Louis Hayward, Henry Hull and others.

"Nellie is not at all complicated," she confided. "I had read the script, tho', and I knew that "Nellie", in the hands of a less competent actress, might become a depressing heavy. She went on, "She is really a very simple girl. If she'd married the butcher she's probably have led a dull but pleasant life. She made her mistake in marrying an artist, like William Essex (Brian Ahefne). She was sorry and frightened and tried not to show it by acquiring a glacial surface." You can see the character must be an interesting one and that Josephine has analyzed all its attributes.

Among Josephine's favorite plays are Ibsen's. "I played the 'other woman' in both 'Hedda Gabler' and 'Master Builder' with Eva Le Gallienne, and the latter has always been one of my favorite plays, too," Josephine served her apprenticeship in the theatre, you know, with Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory.

An assistant director poked his head in the door, "they want you on the set, Miss Hutchinson" and the doubt and discouragement. The day before Christmas you'll probably see me running into the shops and insanely ordering, 'Send six of that to so-and-so and a dozen of that to such-and-such!'"

With red poinsettias seasonably flamboyant against the white walls of the stage outside, conversation turned to Christmas shopping. "I looked in the shops last week", said Josephine, "trying to decide what to get for whom. I looked and looked and didn't buy a thing, but went home full of maid came in to hastily adjust Josephine's dress and to tuck in a curl that I hadn't even noticed as being out of place. "They did something interesting on the street set with water and mud yesterday", said "Nellie", on her way out, "but I wasn't in on it. I was sitting in my dressing-room being very dull." I chuckled. It was hard to imagine this actress-lady being dull any of the time.

Los Angeles housewives are getting free glimpses of some of the radio lights around town at the cooking school conducted every week at Grauman's Egyptian Theatre. Once Don Wilson, the portly announcer for Jack Benny, was master of ceremonies. Ken Carpenter and the Music Mads from Bing Crosby's program appeared; and another time Jack Lecoulie and his Grouch Club cohorts paradoxically sent the ladies into hysterics.

EROSION CONTROL MEANS BIG SAVING

Conservation Authorities Planning Goal for Year 1940

Today's goals in soil conservation in Michigan are to put what's left of our poor lands to the best use, but more important, to direct attention to the conservation of the more valuable acreages in what still is comparatively good farm land.

With that statement, E. C. Sackrider, Michigan State College representative and state coordinator in the soil conservation service of the United States Department of Agriculture, uses total acreage figures, not to alarm landowners, but to prove points of the 1940 goal.

In the most accurate nationwide survey to date, Michigan is credited with a total of 619,000 acres on which severe erosion has made the land economically of no use for crops or grazing.

Contrast that with the state's total farmland acreage of more than 18 million. It doesn't seem serious. But on 4,497,000 other acres some serious erosion has occurred. Control measures must be applied to insure continued productivity.

Michigan deserves close study and considerable better management, other states have suffered far more," says Sackrider. "For the nation with its total of 1,908,176,620 acres, the survey shows 775,678,000 acres seriously eroded, plus 282,218,000 with severe erosion and another 144,768,090 acres in mountains, badlands and mesas of which Michigan has none. Within this state, too many farmers still crop the toplands and hills but pasture the bottomlands. These fertile cultivatable bottomlands likely have equal productive possibilities with less susceptibility to erosion, and the toplands can grow the pasture."

Nowhere can we find accurate comprehensive countrywide figures on the relationship of alcohol to traffic accidents. The reasons for that are: 1. One state reports that 18.4 per cent of drivers involved in fatal accidents "had been drinking." 2. Several courts state that their studied opinion shows that liquor was involved in a certain percent of all traffic accidents. 3. Some courts, in the same states, state that liquor was involved in even a higher per cent of accidents. Therefore, police estimates, legal definitions, and court interpretations of the terms "intoxication" and "under the influence," are so variable that it is impossible to obtain definite figures.

All of us agree, however, that a man who has had two or three strong drinks certainly cannot have the accuracy and the alert judgment that he would have under normal conditions. We hope the time will soon come when driving after drinking will be placed in the same category as carrying concealed weapons, robbing, and similar infractions of the law.
