Spirit Brothers

Dedicated to Elsworth Spooner and Byron Howland

It's been my pleasure to have known Two men who've long been neighbors; And now that they have older grown And finished life's hard labors,

They've come to be the best friends And share each other's pleasures. The one, his wealth most gladly lends To build the other's treasures. And all thru life I've never seen A man who had a brother, Who showed for him so much esteen As one does for the other. Thru fair and stormy weather, Though they were never any kin, They struggled thru together.

Spirit brothers are these two---Alike in soul vibration. The one is always pleased to do All things in this creation To see the other fellow right,

And make life's burdens lighter. To watch them is a pleasing sight That makes the world look bright er.

To think of all the glory, As they go down life's further slope

THE CLARKSTON NEWS

Against the destruction wrought on European farm lands by tanks such as those pictured here, there is no insurance. But under the crop insurance feature of the national farm program, Henry J. Mizga, Clinton County farmer, pictured here with his grandson, Raymond, 8, is assured of protection against damage to his wheat crop from even natural causes. Hail completely ruined Mr. Mizga's wheat crop this year, but Federal all-risk crop insurance assures him of 75% of his normal yield.
