HOLLY THEATRE

McGinty, the mythical character of song and story, the gent who figuratively "went down to the bottom of the sea", has come to life, and, as a politician of the shadier sort, follows his counterpart in his rise and fall in the new Paramount picture, "The Great McGinty", which opens Sunday at the Holly Theatre.

McGinty of the movies is a two-fisted so-and-so who, after being plucked from a breadline, wins favor with the boss of the city by virtue of a good left hook and his eagerness to use it on anyone, including the boss himself.

Mr. McGinty punches his way up the political ladder as second in command of the city in the collection and division of political spoils. He goes from Alderman to Mayor, and from Mayor to Governor of the state. This latter post, however, does not materialize until he marries his secretary, an idea advanced by his only superior as a means of assuring the feminine vote, which favors married men in office.

"Steam-rollered" into office, and finding that being married to his former secretary isn't bad at all, McGinty decides to go straight at his wife's suggestion, which, in the long run, turns out to be a very bad idea, at least for McGinty and his Boss. They both land in jail. They're still able to pull a few strings, however, and finally find themselves on a "liner", destination unknown. It happens that they stowed away on a banana boat and wind up in a South American republic sans everything but the clothes they stand in.

"The Great McGinty" starts the beginning of the end on this note, and much of the tense drama that permeated the film to this point gives way to some hilarious comedy situations.

VIADUCT WILL BE READY VERY SOON

Big Highway Project at Grand Blanc Nearly Completed

Dedication of the new $385,000 Grand Blanc viaduct on US-10 at the Pere Marquette railroad is tentatively set for about November 1, Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, announces.

Construction, which started a year ago, has been completed but paving of the roadway at the underpass will not be finished until early next month. The railroad intersection, along the heaviest traveled route between Flint and Pontiac, has been the scene of numerous fatalities.

The Grand Blanc project is one of four in the Flint area for which the highway department has allotted over $1,000,000 in the last year, said the commissioner.

Concrete paving of the remaining four miles of the Flint South Belt from US-23 to M-78 will be finished late in October at a cost of $245,000. This includes two new bridges on which bids were opened Sept. 25. The bridges will not be completed when the road opens, but turnouts will allow traffic to use the beltline, Van Wagoner said.

Included in the beltline cost is extra right-of-way of 50 feet on one side of the road and 100 feet on the other side. This is to provide for future construction of a divided-lane road with a center parkway.

A viaduct for the Grand Trunk railroad at the west end of the beltline is proposed for the future, Van Wagoner added.

The first step in the plan to build an underpass for M-10 at the Grand Trunk railroad in Flint, at S. Saginaw and Fourteenth Streets, will be completed November 1 when the $45,000 Thread Creek Bridge and channel relocation for the Barton Street extension opens access to M-10 for residents who will be "trapped" by the elevation of the railroad tracks.

"We hope to let contracts late in October for the railroad viaduct", said the commissioner.

"Negotiations with the railroad are nearly completed. The project will take about a year and cost around $448,700. That includes $168,700 for right-of-way, on which the city will pay 50 per cent."

Conservation Note

Preparation for the winter sport season is underway at Grayling, where CCC workers are building toboggan slides and a toboggan house, and preparing to begin a "junior jump", first feature of an extensive ski jumping and trail development. CCC and WPA work continues in 20 other parks, with earth fills on low areas of Mitchell park near Cadillac, parking facilities and new entrance for Hayes park, and parking space, paying and a new bathhouse in Muskegon park among the principal projects.

More than a million tons of fruit and vegetables go into juice each year, according to estimates.

Announcing the big
NEW FORD 1941 FORD

In some years, some cars take a big jump ahead. The Ford does that for 1941.

It has jumped ahead in size. It's the biggest Ford we've ever built, inside and out. It's wider. It has a longer wheelbase. Its seating room is wider by as much as 7 inches. It has new wide doors and semi-concealed running boards.

You'll notice also a new beauty, achieved by a skilful blending of mass with longer flowing lines. Larger windshield and windows give better vision all around.

One of its biggest advantages is the new soft ride.

New, slower-action springs give a slow, gentle, gliding movement. A newly designed stabilizer helps absorb road shocks, and maintains balance on sharp curves and in cross winds.

More rapid acceleration to match its familiar speed and power makes this new Ford an even livelier car to drive.

These are only a few of this new car's outstanding features. It represents all the rich experience gained in building more than 28 million motor cars.

Any Ford dealer can give you many good reasons for making this your 1941 car.

Romance For The Jelly Glass

By BETTY BARCLAY

With all of us cooks agog to make new-fashioned jellies from old-fashioned herbs, it's fun to recall the legends connected with the favorites... Basil, for instance, is the sacred plant of households throughout India — and so highly is the herb regarded by rustic Italians that no lover would think of going courting without a sprig of basil hung over his ear. Then there's rosemary, once brewed into a drink to "strengthen" the memory — that's why the herb stands for remembrance today.

In addition to the romantic background of the fragrant plants, we know that gentlemen love the taste of such new and different jellies when they accompany beef, pork or fowl — and as long as the road to a man's heart is where it is, you can't go wrong on making up a batch to try!

Jellies like these are foolproof, require but a 30-second boil, and have all the summery flavor of sun-dried herbs. Please note, too, that from three cups of sugar you get four medium glasses of the finished spread.

Basil Jelly
(Makes about 4 medium glasses)
1 cup basil infusion
1/4 cup vinegar
3 cups sugar
Coloring
1/4 bottle fruit pectin
Pour 1 1/2 cups boiling water over 2 tablespoons basil. Cover, let stand 15 minutes, strain to remove herbs.

stand 15 minutes, strain to remove herbs.
Measure infusion into 8-quart saucepan, adding water if necessary, to make 1 cup. Add vinegar and sugar, and mix.

Place over hottest fire and while mixture is coming to a boil, add coloring to give desired shade. Use coloring which fruit acids do not fade. As soon as mixture boils, add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/4 minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once.

BEAN STACKING GOOD FOR 1940

Originated in 1926, It Works Well in Wet Season

With a short crop and "unusual weather" (apologies to California for any copyright on that phrase) the stacking of beans to cure them in the pod this fall is going to pay dividends to Michigan farmers.

Late planting and the uncertain weather this fall have puzzled the bean plants to such an extent that field stacks for curing will aid quality and make threshing easier, comments H. R. Pettigrove, Michigan State College bean growing authority.

"Rains and resultant new growth even after the pods are mature," says Pettigrove. "If the ends of the pods are in contact with the damp soil, damage will occur. Heavy dew or rain adds to harvest difficulties. Even cloudy weather slows up the drying process."

At that rate this year will see new tribute paid to a Michigan man who devised a stack that protects the crop while it cures in the field. The system was popularized by O. J. McNaughton of Mulliken, Mich. He pioneered in 1926 in urging field stacking of beans with what is now known as the McNaughton system.

Beans are pulled and rolled into windrows with a side delivery rake. Four windrows are piled into a single row of stacks. Equipment consists of a wagon loaded with straw and steel or wooden posts. At intervals a post is driven in firmly and a straw base laid four feet in diameter around this post. Straw should be six inches thick when settled. One good stacker is better than two, for the stack should be straight sided and well-capped. Special Bulletin 276, "Field Stacking for Michigan Beans," describes the process.

For Homemakers

Ways to make Michigan fruit seasonable and tasty all year are suggested by Ruth M. Griswold of the home-economics staff of Michigan State College.

"Many persons think fruit is best when it is eaten fresh and raw," comments Miss Griswold. "While fruit is in season it is wise to eat it freely and to use it for cooking. After that, the surplus may be canned for winter

Duck Hunting Season Opens October 1

Sportsmen should have reason to thank the weather gods who deluged Michigan with record rains this season when duck hunting season opens October 1, according to men of the conservation department's game division.

As a consequence of heavy rains, pot holes and ponds that are ordinarily dry in fall months should attract waterfowl this season. The result will be that ducks will be more scattered, and more hunters will be able to enjoy their sport nearer home.

Indications are that wildfowlers' success will be at least as good during the approaching season as it was last year, a season that was generally regarded as the best in several years. The hunters will enjoy a 60-day season this year, ending November 29.

AMERICAN BOY IS COMPANION TO THOUSANDS

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than as a magazine.

"It is as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum," writes one high school senior. "THE AMERICAN BOY seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. I made our school basketball team because of tips I read in THE AMERICAN BOY."

Many famous athletes in all sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boy's clubs also recommend THE AMERICAN BOY enthusiastically. They have found that as a general rule regular readers of THE AMERICAN BOY advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile characteristics than do boys who do not read it.

Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in THE AMERICAN BOY, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

THE AMERICAN BOY sells on most newsstands at 25 cents a copy. Subscription prices are $2.00 for one year or $3.50 for three years. Foreign and Canadian rates 50 cents a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance direct to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

Preparedness

The mechanism behind your telephone is so intricate that it cannot possibly be assembled hastily. It must be planned ahead and built ahead. That is why preparedness is a long-time policy with us — almost as old as the telephone itself. It is due to preparations made yesterday that Michigan's telephone service is so fine and dependable today. Today's preparedness makes us ready to meet tomorrow's unpredictable demands.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Reality" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, September 29.

The Golden Text (Luke 12:32) is: "Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalm 104:24): "O Lord, how manifold are thy works; in wisdom hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 472): "All reality is in God and His creation, harmonious and eternal. That which He creates is good, and He makes all that is made."

Bagdad Cream Delights

By Frances Lee Barton

WHEN Junior's lips break into smiles and Dad's eyes are gleam; when Ruth and Grace squirm with delight, I'm serving Bagdad Cream. The children's plates are magic rugs. The Caliph's wand, a spoon. While "seconds please" calls for meal time — night or noon.

Bagdad Cream
1 package orange-flavored gelatin; 1 1/2 cups hot water 1/4 cup prune juice; dash of salt; 1/2 cup heavy cream; 1 cup cooked prune pulp; 1/2 cup canned crushed pineapple.
Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add prune juice and salt. Chill until cold and syrupy. Fold in cream, whipped only until thick and shiny, but not stiff. Fold in prune pulp and pineapple. Chill until slightly thickened. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with whipped cream. Serves 6.

Economy Desserts

By Frances Lee Barton

HERE is a recipe for a dessert that may be made any morning from ingredients always on hand. Set it aside to cool and serve it either at noon or at night, or at the bridge luncheon if you wish. Best of all, it is easy to make, very easy on the pocketbook, and particularly delicious.

Canned Grapefruit Tapioca
4 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca; 2 1/4 cups fruit juice and water; 1/2 cup sugar; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 1 cup canned grapefruit; 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Combine tapioca, fruit juice and water, sugar, and salt in saucepan and mix well. Bring mixture quickly to a full boil over direct heat, stirring constantly. Remove from fire. (Mixture will be thin, do not overcook.) Add fruit and lemon juice. Cool, stirring occasionally — mixture thickens as it cools. Chill. Serves 6 to 8.

STAMPS

The date of the first day sale of the new Defense stamps has been changed from October 12 to October 16.

A joint stamp for United States and Canada has been proposed by patriotic organizations to exemplify the neighborly friendliness of the two nations that now exists. Such a stamp featuring the International Peace Gardens would be timely and probably would have a tremendous sale.

Deer hunters planning their trips north are assured of camp grounds in 12 state forests. Thirty-four of the state forest chain of 40 camp sites, each accommodating 10 to 25 parties, are in deer country. Portable camping equipment at these sites is not removed for winter storage until the deer hunting season closes.
