Inspectors' Report Received by School

Very Few Changes Recommended by Professors

The Clarkston School was recently inspected by Professors Edgar G. Johnston and H. T. Price of the accrediting department of the University of Michigan. Mr. Johnston is the official High School visitor for the University of Michigan and an accepted authority on educational practices, with a background acquired by visiting in most of the accredited schools of the state.

After spending a day visiting classes, talking with teachers and pupils, discussing administrative practices, checking equipment and supplies, a detailed report has been prepared and mailed to the school.

The following quotations were taken from the report:

"Professor Price and I very much enjoyed our visit to your school and were most favorably impressed with the many evidences we saw of effective instruction and sound administration. Among the points especially worthy of commendation are the excellent school plant including auditorium-gymnasium and ample play space, the wholesome relationship evidenced between pupils and teachers, and the generally superior level of instruction in the classes observed. It was our feeling that the quality of instruction was in general most satisfactory, and in some instances outstanding."

They further commended the Board of Education on its policy of securing well qualified teachers and paying salaries as good as the finances of the districts would permit. Again quoting Professor Johnston, "The results of this policy are to be seen in the excellent quality of instruction and in the small amount of turnover in your teaching staff for the current year." Unnecessary turnovers are wasteful and usually end in lowered efficiency of the school.

Recommended changes included shop courses for senior high school boys to meet the need of boys who do not go to college; classes in physical education and art; regular clerical help for the school office; the purchase of a sound moving picture projector for class-room instruction.

The carrying out of these recommendations would require some additional expenditures. However, superintendent D. M. Winn, who is secretary and treasurer of the Oakland County organization of school men working in the interest of smaller schools, reports that the new bill before the Legislature would allot a much better share of state aid to schools of our type. If the bill is passed in its present form Clarkston's share of the state school aid would be increased by several hundred dollars. Superintendent Winn urges all those interested in our school to support this bill, now being referred to as the Michigan Education Association's bill.

HARTLAND AREA DRAMATIC CLUB

Will Present Two One-Act Plays at Music Hall Sunday

The Hartland Area Dramatic Club will make its second appearance of the season at the Music Hall Vesper Program on February 2nd, at 3:30 p. m. Two one-act plays, "Neighbors" by Zona Gale, and "El Christo" by Margaret Larkin will be presented.

The two plays vary widely in character, each one driving home a thought not easily forgotten. "Neighbors" is a homely story of what happens in a neighborhood when an emergency arises. It brings vividly to the minds of everyone some particular time when people become more than just people, and prove themselves to be real "neighbors".

"El Christo" is a drama based on the customs of Los Hermanos Penitentes (the Penitent Brothers), a fanatic religious order which exists in New Mexico. The order was founded in Spain some three hundred years ago for religious study and conversation. By slow degrees the once godly order shrank and grew deformed until the present fanaticism has developed. The Penitentes creed demands that one of their number be chosen at Easter time each year to be scourged and suffer on the cross as a form of penance for the whole order. If the one chosen is able to live through the ordeal he is rewarded by being given some high political office such as sheriff or clerk. The play was the winner of the David Belasco Cup in the National Little Theatre Tournament.

Mrs. Keith Léak and son, David, have both been ill with the flu and have been confined to their home on Middle Lake Road.

Veterans' Graves To Be Marked

It is the wish of the Oakland County Council of Veterans that all veterans' graves in Oakland County be marked either with a stone bought privately or one furnished by the United States Government.

An Outdoor Meal Is Planned for Saturday

On Wednesday afternoon the Girl Scouts met at the school. The meeting was exceptionally interesting. There are three patrols and each patrol decided to take charge of an activity. The scouts are to meet at Flynn's at twelve o'clock and then go to the Lee Volberding home on Deer Lake Road where they will prepare and enjoy an outdoor meal. The other patrol with Adrienne Volberding as the leader will have charge of arts and crafts.

Game committees composed of two from each patrol were elected to plan the recreation for the scout meetings.

Red Cross Reaches Membership Goal

Byron R. Wabb, Chairman of the 24th Annual Roll Call of the Oakland County Chapter, American Red Cross, announces that recent reports of the 1941 Roll Call show 16,982 members and a fund of $23,924.66. This is not entirely final as complete reports from one or two townships are still unavailable. The goal of 17,000 members in Oakland County has apparently been reached. The Oakland County Chapter is thus assured that its responsibilities for the coming year will be met.

Production workrooms of the county under the direction of Mrs. O. W. Kay, Production Chairman, have resumed work following the Christmas Holidays. The present quota is well under way for completion and a new quota will undoubtedly be assigned within the near future. Garments, knitted articles, and layettes are being shipped regularly and undoubtedly many have been received in Europe.

Recent reports from the American National Red Cross state that Red Cross War Relief Headquarters have recently been established in Athens. Work here is proceeding in cooperation with the Greek Red Cross. Report is also made that in accordance with arrangements agreed upon by the British Government the American Red Cross will send a shipment of fruit and milk to unoccupied France. Articles contained are to be principally for children. Negotiations are at present time under way with the chief of the Spanish state to ship a cargo of wheat and flour to meet the immediate needs of the civilian population. Representatives of the American Red Cross will visit Spain to cooperate with the Spanish Red Cross and other similar institutions in the distribution of supplies.

The March of Dimes

True, these be strange and hectic times,
Though lightened by the march of dimes,
That flow in an unending stream
To bolster up some cripple's dream;
That he might live as others live.
"A dime's not much for one to give."
Your dimes buy clothes for them to wear—
Or else supply a needed chair,
A crutch or two or iron brace,
Or this or that to fit the case.
Just things of earth that they might live,
"And dimes are little things to give."
Yes men and women by the score,
Have seen this demon at their door,
And knew that once he entered in,
They never had a chance to win,
And helpless bodies fought to live,
"And prayed for dimes that you could give."

To tell the world that I am sure
From this disease there is a cure—
That nature holds within her hand,
That's free to every seeking man,
That unaimed, man might always live,
"Then all my dimes I'd gladly give."
Robert C. Beattie.

HOLLY THEATRE

As if in answer to a jitterbug's prayer, Fred Astaire, America's most popular dancing favorite, has created a new dance.

The new routine is danced by Astaire and his now screen dancing partner, Paulette Goddard, in the new Paramount picture, "Second Chorus", which opens Sunday at the Holly Theatre, featuring Artie Shaw and his band, Burgess Meredith and Charles Butterworth.

Astaire fashioned the dance, which is called the "Dig It", after a song written by Johnny Mercer, "I Ain't Hep to That Step But I'll Dig It", one of the hit tunes of the new screen entertainment.

While in reality it is a gay, simple dance, its steps give the impression of being spectacular. But Astaire so devised the dance that it can be done even on smaller dance floors, with only a bit of modification for the more conservative dance enthusiasts.

Of the incorrigible jitterbug, the dance, which has already begun to invade the nation's dance halls, should be a sensation. In the picture, Astaire and Miss Goddard go through the routine with easy grace, but the confirmed rug-cutter will probably add the violence of movement characteristic of their gyrations.

For the past two years jitterbugs throughout the country have sent Astaire letters complaining about a dearth of new dance fads to keep their feet occupied. Dance floors everywhere, they pointed out, have witnessed a revival of many types of dancing discarded long ago, such as the rumba, but which have come back strong because of the dance dearth.

Clarkston Locals

A large crowd attended the evening service at the Clarkston Baptist Church last Sunday to hear the special speaker, Roy Doyle of Pontiac and also the very fine musical numbers by the Griffin boys quartet.

Word was received here on Sunday of the death of Mrs. Ursula Holcomb of Plymouth, Mich., formerly of Clarkston. The funeral service was held in Plymouth on Tuesday afternoon with burial in Lakeview cemetery, Clarkston.

Ford workmen started draining the mill pond about a week ago. The water level is now lowered considerably and although there is quite a sheet of ice over the top it is unsafe and skaters have had to resort to nearby lakes and ponds.

SHORT TIME LEFT TO FILE REPORTS

With February 15 the deadline for return of compulsory game kill reports by Michigan resident and non-resident hunters, considerably less cards have been mailed to the conservation department than had been received in late January last year.

Falling off of these returns which reflect hunter success or lack of it may be explained, in part, by possible declines in sales of deer and small game licenses last fall. Delay of license dealers in reporting such sales has held up final tabulations but conservation department auditors will not be surprised if it is shown that increased employment has kept some hunters out of the fields and woods in recent months. As of January 20, this year, 40,345 small game and 32,823 deer hunters had complied with the law which requires the return of report cards attached to hunting licenses. On the same date last year 46,886 small game and 43,842 deer hunters had reported.

The law provides fines and jail penalties, either or both, but last year, instead of seeking conviction, conservation officers were supplied with names of 100 hunters in their locality who had failed to report.

Reasons given for such failures were forgetfulness, claims that the cards had been mailed, or had been lost, and unawareness of the law as the more important excuses.

Chicken Dinners Are Greatly Favored

Michigan families get their share of chicken dinners if the poultry produced and marketed in the state is a good guide.

According to members of the Michigan State College poultry department, approximately 24 million birds are fattened or culled out of poultry flocks each year within the state.

Commercial hatcheries put out 19 million baby chicks annually. Best guess is that this is 80 per cent of all the chicks hatched annually in Michigan. Settings of eggs under farm hens have become a smaller percentage in recent years.

The total then is approximately 22,750,000 chickens grown specifically for meat or culled out later and replaced because of inefficient egg production.

With the state's population approximately five million persons, each one of them gets a proper share, consumes about five chickens a year.

GLIMPSES OF HOLLYWOOD

By HELEN RAETHER

For his second venture into the producing field, Boris Morros, erstwhile head of the Paramount music department, presents Fred Astaire, after much too long an absence from the screen. Fred has another new dancing partner—briefly—in Paulette Goddard, who will be compared, inevitably, to Ginger Rogers.

Friendly enemies—more enemies than friendly—are Astaire and Burgess Merideth in this film. They are perennial college boys who have a band yielding such a comfortable income they try their best not to graduate and avoid that catastrophe successfully for seven years.

Their credits catch up with them, finally, and they are projected out into the cold world, sans band. They try to land trumpeting jobs with Artie Shaw's band, whose manager is their ex-secretary and mutual heart-beat, Paulette.

Events lead up to Shaw's swing concert, "angled" by playboy Charlie Butterworth, with Astaire dancing and conducting at the same time. He wins Paulette, too, an agreeable feat.

There are bright comedy moments, with Astaire, the master light comedian, having as deft a touch with his comedy as with his nimble feet. Merideth's comedy is broad, by contrast, and recalls a part he did in "Spring Dance" for MGM a couple of years ago.

Paulette Goddard shows marked improvement in the sureness of her acting, and steps nicely with Astaire; Butterworth is his usual, vague, dry self, and Artie Shaw's music will attract the younger swing addicts.

Stand-Out Scenes: Merideth—very much, "between engagements"—tootling on his trumpet for the horses at the race-track; Astaire done up as a Russian, doing a song-and-dance in a Russian Restaurant; when the two conspirators try to get rid of Butterworth for Paulette, who is anxious to cultivate him for the sponsorship of the band.

Legal magic that turned doughnuts into dollars and back again. How a modest little lawsuit between the inventor of a doughnut machine and a lady friend grew to huge proportions, involving a crowd of more or less innocent bystanders, and then shrank to its original size. Read about this wholesale litigation in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

Who Must File A Tax Return

In order to determine whether an individual is required to file a return, it is necessary to know just two things: the taxpayer's marital status and the amount of the gross income.

The following persons are required to file a return:

1. Single persons if the gross income is $800 or over.
2. Married man not living with wife if his gross income is $800 or over.
3. Married woman not living with husband if her gross income is $800 or over.
4. Married man living with his wife during the entire year if (a) his and his wife each has a gross income is $2,000 or over, or (b) come and their aggregate gross income is $2,000 or over.
5. Married woman living with husband during the entire year if (a) her gross income is $2,000 or over, or (b) she and her husband each has a gross income and their aggregate gross income is $2,000 or over.

6. Joint return. A husband and wife living together at the close of the taxable year may file a joint return, even though one has no gross income. The net income of a joint return is the net income of one spouse plus the net income or minus the net loss of the other. If a joint return is filed, the husband and wife are each liable for the entire tax.

7. Factors not taken into consideration: Whether the taxpayer is the head of a family, the number of dependents, and the amount of net income are immaterial in determining whether or not a return must be filed. As stated above the only tests are the taxpayer's marital status and the amount of the gross income. Gross income and gross receipts are not synonymous.

Persons who do not have a return blank may secure one by writing the Collector of Internal Revenue, Detroit, Mich. That responsibility is up to the individual.

STAMPS

The philatelic program of the year will open on March 4, with a stamp commemorating the 150th anniversary of the admission to statehood of Vermont. The stamp will be of the customary 3-cent denomination but design, color, and place of first-day sale are yet to be decided.

Bennington, Montpelier, and Brattleboro have been considered as possible first-day cities and the designs submitted are many. Perhaps one of the most popular suggestions is a portrait of Ira Allen, brother of Ethan Allen of Revolutionary fame, who founded the Vermont University in 1791, the year the State was admitted to the Union.

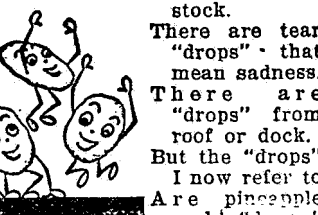

The first trip of the Highway Post Office Service will be inaugurated on February 10, between Washington, D. C., and Harrisonburg, Va. Arrangements have been made for first trip covers, the southbound designated as "Trip 1", from Washington, D. C. to Harrisonburg, and the return northbound as "Trip 2". Round trip covers are not procurable. All cover requests must be in the hands of the respective postmasters of the trip desired not later than noon of Feb. 9.

The many radio broadcasts from the University of Michigan will not be heralded by the playing of two of its most famous songs, "The Yellow and Blue" and "The Victors". Both of these songs come under the ban placed by broadcasters on music of the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, and, unless special arrangements are made with ASCAP, friends and alumni of the University will not hear these traditional songs.

Drop Cookies Appeal

By Frances Lee Barton

THERE are "drops" that mean bad weather. There are "drops" that mean poor stock.

There are "drops" that mean sadness. There are "drops" from roof or dock. But the "drops" I now refer to are pineapple cookie "drops."

As a lunch-box treat or evening "snack," these little "drops" are "tops."

Pineapple Drop Cookies: 2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour; 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder; 1/2 cup soda; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/2 cup butter or other shortening; 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed; 2 eggs, unbeaten; 3/4 cup canned crushed pineapple, well drained; 1 teaspoon vanilla. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda, and salt, and mix again. Cream butter (softened), add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Add pineapple and vanilla. Add flour, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Drop from teaspoon on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 10 minutes, or until done. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

Ribbon Salad: 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin; 1 pint hot water; 3/4 cup cottage cheese; 1/2 cup chopped walnut meats; 1/2 cup chopped stuffed olives; 1/2 teaspoon salt; dash of cayenne; 2 tablespoons heavy cream. Spread cheese mixture over firm gelatin. Turn slightly thickened gelatin over cheese mixture. Chill until firm. Unroll on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise. Serve in slices. Serves 6.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Love" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, February 2.

The Golden Text—(Jeremiah 31:3) is: "The Lord hath appeared of old unto me, saying, Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love: therefore with lovingkindness have I drawn thee."

Among the Bible citations in this passage (I John 4:7,8): "Beloved, let us love one another: or love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p.275): "The starting-point of divine Science is that God, Spirit, is All-in-all, and that there is no other might nor Mind,—that God is Love, and therefore He is divine Principle."

Vicalloy, new magnetic alloy developed at the Bell Telephone Laboratories, can hold more permanent magnetism than any other commercial material. The tiny semicircular magnet of vicalloy shown in this picture is holding up two iron bars. The new material takes its name from the initial letters of its three components: vanadium, iron, and cobalt. It is composed of from 6 to 16 per cent vanadium, 30 to 52 per cent iron, and 36 to 62 per cent cobalt. It is heat treated to develop its magnetic properties, and can be drawn or rolled.
