Clarkston Girls Graduated Thursday

Bettieann Comstock and Mary Gassick Receive Nursing Diplomas

Among the 27 graduates from the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac who received their diplomas in Detroit on Thursday were Miss Bettieann Comstock and Miss Mary Gassick of Clarkston.

Commencement Day program on Thursday opened with solemn high mass at the St. Joseph Mercy College on East Grand Blvd. in Detroit and following this a white breakfast was served to the graduates in the dining-room at the college. The commencement exercises were held in the main auditorium of the Masonic Temple in Detroit at 2:30 p. m. preceded by an academic march of 103 graduating nurses of Mercy College with which the Pontiac nurses are affiliated. The diplomas of the graduation were conferred by the most Rev. Edward D. Mooney, D. D., archbishop of Detroit. Dinner was served at 7:00 p. m. in the crystal ball room of the Masonic Temple to the members of the graduating class and their escorts. Commencement day concluded with a formal ball in the crystal ball room with dancing from 9 until 12.

The graduates were ready to relax when commencement day closed as they had not only been preparing for this big day for the last three years but during the last few weeks they were excitedly making plans besides faithfully doing their duty at the hospital. A week ago Monday night Dr. and Mrs. Christie entertained the graduates at dinner at Devon Gables when Margaret Warren, a graduate of St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, acted as chaperon. Last Monday night Sister Iilene was hostess to the graduates at a former dinner in the auditorium of the hospital.

Miss Gassick and Miss Comstock are Clarkston girls and graduated from the local high school in the class of '38.

Farmers Are Given Seeding Advice

"Seed winter cover crops now in cultivated orchards and other row crop fields," is the advice of soil conservationists working in the Fenton Soil Conservation District.

Fields covered with small grain crop during the fall, winter and spring months will lose less soil and have more organic matter to turn under than soil exposed for several months and subjected to the snow, rain and frost.

The seeding of rye and oats at the rate of 1 to 1 1/2 bushels per acre is not only an inexpensive form of soil protection, but is one direct way of returning fertility to the land by plowing under a good growth of rye in the spring as a green manure crop.

This defensive action taken in late summer or early fall will prevent some leaching of soil minerals before freezing weather sets in and will hold the soil in place when freezing and thawing occurs along with heavy spring rains. This saturated condition of the top few inches of soil, along with the frozen soil underneath, makes the uncovered sloping land susceptible to severe sheet erosion. Besides the soil protection afforded in late fall and early spring, some grazing is provided for livestock.

A winter blanket of close growing small grain is a good "ounce of prevention" from erosion.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Andersonville Church will sponsor a homemade cake and ice-cream social at the Community House on Friday night (tonight) at 7:30.

Vacation Days

For one whole week I didn't hear that telephone ring in my ear;
For one whole week with nothing done
Except to gather up some fun.

For one whole week I've bent my ways
To rest myself from busy days.
We've seen a lot and travelled far
By Great Lakes boat and motor car.

Yes, we have sat in steamer seats,
And travelled smoky crowded streets.
The museum and Chinatown,
They both are spots of great renown.

And now, I sit upon a boat,
The sleekest one, they say afloat.
It slips along with ease and grace,
And water spray falls on my face.

I have no cause at all to kick;
Although the gal below is sick.
I have always had a wish
That I could feed the Great Lakes fish.

But seeing what that gal has done,
I am convinced it is no fun;
Unless there is another way
To feed the fishes in the bay.

MICHIGAN LOSING CHESTNUT TREES

Blight Threatens to Destroy All That Remain in State

Michigan's few remaining large isolated plantations of the American chestnut, finally are feeling the touch of the dreaded chestnut blight.

Infection in the old Satterlee orchard three miles west of Greenville on the Montcalm county line was discovered recently by P. A. Herbert, head of the Michigan State College forestry department. Other infections are appearing in plantations in western Montcalm and eastern Kent counties.

American chestnuts may disappear in Michigan within the next decade, Herbert warns.

The disease is caused by a fungus known as Endothia parasitica. This originated in the Orient and has spread westward from New York since 1900. Michigan's chestnuts have endured longer than those in other states because the chestnuts here are out of the natural range for American chestnuts. An infected orchard in southern Ionia county is thought to be the source of the newer infections in Kent and Montcalm counties.

Forestry authorities mourn the loss of the species because the wood has extreme durability.

At the college attempts are being made to perpetuate the species by growing small seedling chestnuts and planting them out in the field, far from any known native chestnuts. It is hoped the disease will die out with the death of the natural stands and older plantations and that the new isolated stands may survive. Similar attempts are being made in Wisconsin by Albert Johnson, an alumnus of the Michigan State College forestry department.

A very pretty wedding took place last Saturday evening at eight o'clock in the Central Methodist Church in Pontiac when Sadie F. Lake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lake of Pontiac, became the bride of Ralph E. Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Marshall of Clarkston. The Rev. Oren F. McClure performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with baskets of gladioli and garden flowers, flanked by candelabrum.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a street length dress of deep water blue chiffon velvet, a matching pill-box hat with a large veil and a corsage of gardenias, bridal roses and stephanotis. The bride's only attendant, Miss Etaien Marshall, sister of the bridegroom, was dressed in blue chiffon velvet with a small matching hat.

The two candle lighters, Evelyn Kimball and Betty Lou Lake, sister of the bride, wore blue crepe and taffeta dresses respectively.

Lloyd F. Lake, brother of the bride, assisted Mr. Marshall as best man. Lyndon Salathiel presided at the organ. Lewis Warden of Clarkston sang "Because".

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and was centered with a tiered, heart-shaped wedding cake. Silver candelabra were used at each end of the table. Garden flowers were used in profusion about the house.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Lake wore dark blue taffeta with yellow accessories and a corsage of gladioli and yellow roses. Mrs. Marshall chose a navy blue suit with rose accessories. Her corsage was of gladioli and pink roses.

Nuptial Vows Are Spoken

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. McNamara of Dabivurg was profusely decorated with great baskets of gladioli and other garden flowers for the wedding of their daughter, Mae C., to Leo Petherbridge, of Grand Blanc, son of Mrs. Peter Frick of Ortonville, which occurred on Saturday, August 16, at 4 p. m.

Mrs. Lorabelle Maguire of Dabivurg was at the piano, playing requested selections preceding the wedding march, and the floral altar before which the bridal party took their places was the work of Miss Freda Johnson of Holly. It was a lovely affair made up in white gladioli against a background of ferns and flanked by seven stick candelabra filled with white cathedral lighted tapers.

Rev. Harold Pailthorp of Clarkston read the service and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The wedding gown was of frosted marquisheer over satin, cut on princess lines with flounced skirt ending in a train. The sleeves were of leg-o-mutton style, the neckline sweetheart, and the finger tip veil of English illusion fell from a Mary Stuart bonnet. Her bouquet was of Briarcliffe roses and larkspur.

Miss Winnie Stack, the only attendant, wore mist blue silk net over satin cut with full bodice, embroidered midriff, puff sleeves and full skirt. She wore a Mary Stuart bonnet with blue velvet streamers and carried a mixed bouquet.

Herbert Hokans of Holly assisted the groom and Evert McNamara of Dabivurg and Robert Crosby of Grand Blanc served as ushers.

Mrs. McNamara wore green and white printed crepe with white accessories with gardenia corsage and Mrs. Frick wore blue crepe with navy accessories and gardenia corsage.

A reception for the 75 guests followed with Mrs. Elmer Greenwald of Dabivurg and Mrs. George Lawson of Clarkston serving punch and Mrs. Meta Kubersky of Holly cutting the cake.

The wedding table was covered with lace centered by the 3 tier wedding cake encircled with roses and silver candelabra with white tapers.

The bride wore a going away gown of brown wool crepe with brown accessories. Following a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Petherbridge will make their home in Holly at 301 Cogshall where their apartment was furnished and ready for occupancy.

Guests were from Selfridge Field, Pontiac, Drayton Plains, Grand Blanc, Ortonville, Holly, Clarkston, Waterford and Fenton, and a brother of the bride, Dale McNamara, and Don Clark came from Scott Field, Ill., and Malcolm Boynton from Fort Wayne, Ind.

enjoy cool, filtered air for a few cents a night!

Hay fever is more uncomfortable than dangerous, say physicians—but that is small consolation to the victim who must undergo the torment of streaming eyes and running nose, of raw nostrils, sneezing days and sleepless nights.
"If I could only get a good night's rest," moans the sufferer, "I could stand the next day!" But tossing and turning in a hot bedroom leaves little chance for sleep... and morning finds the patient tired and worn, irritable and with nerves on edge, facing the ordeal of another day.

Fortunately, a large measure of relief is now available for those who cannot flee north with the advent of the hay-fever season. Thanks to a compact window unit you can install in your bedroom for cooling, dehumidifying and filtering the air, pollen and dust are removed in such quantities as to afford almost complete relief to many sufferers from hay fever and asthma. Also adaptable to a small office, this window unit does a complete job of air conditioning in one room—and it sells at prices around $125 and up.

Any air conditioning dealer will be glad to tell you about it—and to install one in your home or office today. Telephone him without delay. The Detroit Edison Company. (We do not sell or install this equipment.)

PRIZES OFFERED TO MICH. WOMEN

State Fair Project in Which Service Men Will Profit

Here is special message to Michigan women. If you do not procrastinate there is still time to share in the fun of entering some of your needlework or cookery or canned products at the Michigan State Fair—with the added thrill of a possible prize.

Send at once for a free copy of the premium book, since you may enter only the articles listed therein. Mail your request to: Woman's Department, Michigan State Fair, Fairgrounds, Detroit. Be sure to give your full name and address and write very plainly. Mrs. Fred L. Wright of Bad Axe, only woman member of the State Fair board, and Miss Mary Humphrey, Director of the Woman's Department, are particularly anxious for a fine display of home-canned products in this defense year, so enter some product and try for a prize, being careful to follow the rules.

Women who are adepts with the crochet hook will want to try for the $50 prize at the annual speed crochet contest Friday, Sept. 5 at 1:30 p.m. Second prize is $25; third prize, $10. Send 3 cents in stamps for copies of the design, complete information and an entry blank. There is no charge for entering but you MUST register in advance as the contest is limited to 500 women.

Miss Mary Barber, nationally known home economist and food consultant in the office of the Quartermaster General, United States Army, will come from Washington to speak at the Fair on Friday, August 29 at 2:30 p.m. Her subject will be "Three and a half million meals a day; how the American soldier is fed."

Miss Barber's talk should prove especially interesting because of the Boxes For Boys Contest being conducted by the Woman's Department of the fair. The idea was originated by Miss Mary Humphrey, director of the Woman's Department of the fair, to provide a collection of home-made goodies for the young men in Fort Custer, Selfridge Field and Fort Wayne. 80 awards or prizes will be given to Michigan women whose entries are selected by the judges as the best. But even if you are not awarded a prize, you will have the fun and experience of having a finger in the pie.

The entries will all be examined, judged and placed on exhibition, for three days, after which they will be taken by trucks to their various destinations. The purpose of the contest is not only to provide a big treat, but also to show the thousands of visitors at the fair how best to plan prepare and package for transportation any distance, boxes of "eats" for their own boys.

Only women and girls who are residents of Michigan may compete for a prize.

Contents of every box must be home prepared. Items must be something that will keep fresh at least one week—and the longer the better. Wrapping of canned and preserved products is optional, but all candies, salted nuts, cakes, cookies, etc., must be in separate containers or cellophane wrappings so that they may be seen clearly without unwrapping, to be judged.

Containers must be of cardboard or tin, not wider than 12 by 15 inches nor higher than 6 inches. (Such a box will hold 12 one pint jars, allowing for corrugated partitions—hence canned and baked products could be easily jacked in it.)

Boxes may be brought or sent to the fair without wrapping or they may be wrapped in plain paper, but must be tied or otherwise closed so as to be easily opened for judging.

Each entry must be accompanied by a typewritten or hand-printed list of contents. Name and address of sender must be enclosed in an envelope. Another card with name and address of sender may be included to remain in box when forwarded to camp.

No individual contestant may enter more than three boxes. A single box may be entered in one, two or three names, provided all had a part in preparing it. In such a case, if an entry awarded a prize, it would be given jointly.

Every box submitted in the contest will be examined and judged, but judges will not know the names of senders until after the judging has been completed. Their decisions will be final. Names of prize winners will be announced as soon as the judges complete their task.

No boxes will be returned to the entrants. They become the property of the Michigan State Fair for the sole purpose of distribution among the army camps of Michigan.

A Friendly Tip about your 1942 Income Tax

Right now Congress is putting the final touches on income taxes that will come due in 1942. Many who have never paid one will do so for the first time. Those who have will dig down deeper than ever before.

To figure your tax requires a complete record of all income and expense. The easiest way to do this is through a checking account that tells how your money goes and to whom. The best place to keep one is in a strong bank—our bank.

FLINT—Fastest growing Telephone City of its size in America

★ Among the industrial centers working night and day in the national emergency, none is busier than Flint.
★ A year ago there were 31,500 telephones in Flint. Now there are 38,500 — an increase of over 22 per cent. And telephone growth is still climbing faster than in any other American city of comparable size.
★ As a part of the soundly financed Bell System, the Michigan Bell is enabled to obtain capital funds with which to meet that growth. The Company will spend more than $1,000,000 in Flint this year for new equipment, cable lines, and an addition to the Central Office building. But Flint is only one of many places in Michigan where such situations must be met. $11,000,000 is programmed to serve camps, arsenals, factories, and others engaged directly in defense work. And the Company's total 1941 plant construction program exceeds $26,000,000.

★ The telephone has a little part in almost every National Defense effort. And a little part in every effort adds up to pretty big figures.

For Homemakers

Always a busy canning time, mid-August, should be busier than ever this year, say members of the Michigan State College home economics extension service. They point to a nation-wide campaign to save food for future emergency needs.

The government has urged every community in the country to save surplus vegetables and fruits. This food may be distributed later in the community, particularly through school-lunch programs.

Whether canning is done on a large or a small scale, a steam-pressure canner is a recommended piece of equipment if there are non-acid vegetables to be processed. Only by use of pressure is it possible to get the high temperature needed to kill organisms in non-acid vegetables that, if not destroyed, are liable to cause spoilage. Practically all vegetables but tomatoes are in the non-acid class.

In many gardens, snap beans, lima beans, green table soybeans and corn are available now in quantities for canning. All may be put up safely in tin cans or glass jars in the steam-pressure canner. Tomatoes, also available now, may be put up in jars or cans and processed in a water-bath canner.

For complete canning details with handy time and temperature tables for processing, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has available a free bulletin—Home Canning of Fruits, Vegetables, and Meats. This is Farmers' Bulletin 1762 and may be obtained by writing to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

HOLLY THEATRE

Combining the versatile talents of Clark Gable and Rosalind Russell as co-stars, M-G-M's "They Met in Bombay," coming Sunday to the Holly Theatre, is a romantic melodrama graphically keyed into international complications in the Orient.

With this headlined news front seething with intrigue and violence as their dramatic background, Gable and Miss Russell, as a pair of intrepid adventurers, are given wide latitude in bringing their unusual talents to the screen.

Gable's role is cut smartly to the dictates of his outstanding work as a two-fisted man of action. Here, as a one-time British army officer, he assumes with equal nonchalance the part of a clever modern crook operating in smart social circles.

Miss Russell forsakes zany roles to invest her versatile talents and charm in the unusual part of a feminine Raffles matching her cleverness with Gable's.

Their involved adventures are backgrounded in Bombay as the story opens. Colorful India, enhanced by the celebration of Empire Day, is divertingly pictures with its lavish display of festival garb and custom. The actionful panorama then takes the principals to sea and to Hong Kong for later episodes.

With Hunt Stromberg as producer, and under the directional expertness of Clarence Brown, "They Met in Bombay" is given lavish scenic embellishment. The teaming of Gable

SEVEN POINTERS FOR POULTRYMEN

Following Them Will Result in Increased Revenue

One of seven pointers on how to put Michigan's seven million new pullets into laying quarters this summer and fall is that if an enterprising and healthy pullet tries to keep smaller sisters away from the feed bucket out on the range, put the "boss" into early fall laying quarters.

The domestic hint comes from J. M. Moore, poultry extension specialist at Michigan State College.

Out of more than 11 million birds that will be in farm and commercial laying flocks this fall and winter, Moore estimates seven million of these will be pullets, young birds less than a year old.

Other pointers offered by Moore indicate a farm flock operator ought to select well developed pullets that carry plenty of healthy yellow color in shanks and beak. Uniformity of size is a good flock indicator.

Pullets ought to be free from lice. Treatments two weeks apart to take care of eggs not hatched when the first lice treatment is given is recommended. A clean house for the newly housed birds is another factor.

Pullets, according to Moore, ought not to be subjected to any infections that older birds in the flock may have had. Hot water and plenty of elbow grease are suggested for cleaning and this is to be followed by a thorough disinfection of the laying house.

There's no need to change immediately to a laying mash. Gradual changes in diet are best.

Pullets may try to lay eggs on the floor. Moore says put the birds on the nest, quietly.

Get them all on the perches at night. If overcrowding is apparent, thin them out. Keep the birds confined until they become accustomed to their new quarters—a process that usually takes three to four weeks.

and Miss Russell is accented by the performances of Peter Lorre, Jessie Ralph, Edward Ciannelli, Rosina Galli Jay Novello and Reginald Owen.

While the story is essentially vital action drama, its twin theme of romance is deftly developed as the play swings toward a smashing climax in which Gable, returning to the service of his colors at a critical point in the tide of international affairs, acquits himself heroically to redeem his honor and position in society.

Soap nuts, which grew on trees in India, have been used there since ancient times to wash textiles and jewelry.
