HOLLY THEATRE

Joan Crawford, Robert Taylor, Greer Garson and Herbert Marshall come to the screen as a notable all-star cast in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "When Ladies Meet", opening Sunday at the Holly Theatre.

Miss Crawford plays a sentimental woman novelist, loved by Taylor. She "falls" for Herbert Marshall, her publisher. The jealous Taylor gets an idea and arranges for Miss Crawford and Miss Garson, who plays Marshall's wife, to meet. Not knowing they are love rivals, the two women become great friends.

The story is played in ultra-modern New York settings and in one of the most attractive homes ever designed for the screen. It represents an old grist mill, which has been rebuilt into a charming cottage while still keeping the effect of the old mill, which dates back to Colonial times.

FARM MACHINERY DEFENSE ADJUNCT

Appeal Made to See That All Is in Good Repair

When Oakland County farmers are contacted by AAA farmer-committees this fall in connection with the 1942 farm defense program canvass, they are being urged to repair their farm machinery this fall and winter in order to avoid delays next spring and to release needed metals for other phases of the defense program.

Walter R. Cook, Chairman of the Oakland County USDA Defense Board, reports that adequate metals have been assured for repair parts, but the amount of new farm machinery which will be available is still questionable.

He said that farmers will be asked to check over their present machinery for necessary repair work and to order the parts needed as soon as possible. Farmers should notify the county USDA defense board if they cannot obtain needed parts.

Recent word from the Michigan State USDA Defense Board reveals that the OPM has assigned a defense priority rating of A-9 to specified steel products handled by warehouses, hardware stores, dealers and jobbers and that this should be of assistance to farmers in meeting their hardware needs, Cook said. He emphasized that it is not necessary for individual farmers to obtain priority ratings themselves for repair parts and equipment; that the ratings apply only to handlers of this material.

Mr. Cook said that earlier in the fall, the OPM had assigned a priority defense rating of A-10 to the deliveries of materials necessary for the production of parts for the repair and maintenance of existing farm equipment. At the same time, the highest civilian rating, B-1, was assigned to materials which appear on the priorities critical list to a manufacturer who needs them for the manufacture of new farm equipment.

It is common to overlook what is near by keeping the eye fixed on something remote.—Samuel Johnson.

Posting of land with "No Hunting" signs only emphasizes the exclusion of the general public, and in no way limits hunting and trapping on the land by the owner or his invited friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Wall left today for Midland County to spend a few days deer hunting.

The Needlework Ingathering will take place next Monday, November 17th, at the home of Mrs. Frank Jeffery, 3004 Seeley St., from 2-4. The public is invited to come and see the display.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thornburgh entertained Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Pettis of Detroit last Sunday.

The Boy Scouts of Drayton troop No. 52 have adopted the tree planting in the new park at Drayton Plains as their project. Scott Kemper, senior patrol leader, Charles Oakes, Robert Ream, David Kenter and James Elliott, patrol leaders, will plan the work for the troop. Practically all the scout troop along with a force of men reported for work at the park last Saturday morning. Fred Kemper's tractor moved a lot of earth in preparing the ball diamond. Cliff Curran and Leonard Nelson had work planned for everyone that was there.

To celebrate Armistice Day an assembly was sponsored by the Sophomores of the Drayton Plains High School for the upper grades. The speaker of the afternoon was Mr. William Kalwitz of Pontiac, whose topic was "Your Country and Mine". Those who took part in the program were: Miss Alice Sipperly, general chairman; invocation by Rev. C. J. FOR THE FARMER

There's some mighty fine gobblers and young hens that won't lose their heads in the Thanksgiving scramble. Out of an estimated 600,000 turkey crop in Michigan this year, wise farmers are sorting out some of the most likely looking birds for propagating the 1942 flocks.

Michigan has 8,000 farms on which turkeys are grown commercially, according to O. E. Shear of the poultry department at Michigan State College. He ought to know, for he knows many of these turkey growers from his extension work at the college.

Nearly all of these growers have found out by advice and experience that it is wise to save out some of the best birds for use in breeding the next year's birds, Shear reports.

The wrong practice is to get the best ones to market and then save the culls and crooked breast birds for the breeding flock.

"Birds saved ought not to be later than the May hatch," says Poultryman Shear. "These turkeys should be of good type and have short legs, well cased drum sticks and breasts and straight keels. The breeding birds also should be from those that tend to mature quickly."

Another turkey grower's success factor calls for selecting young birds, rather than saving those that are two or three years old. The older birds get lazy. The hens seldom lay as many eggs and the strutting gobblers become inactive as they take on age.
