Chairman Explains Point Rationing

"It is your patriotic duty to learn all you can about point rationing before March first," says Mrs. George W. Patch, recently appointed Consumer Interest Chairman of the County Defense Council.
How To Register For War Ration Book No. 2
 "Registration for War Ration Book No. 2 should be made by one adult for the whole family.
 "Be sure to take along the War Ration Book No. 1 for each member of the family for whom you are registering, as War Ration Book No. 2 will be issued only to holders of Book 1. All persons are entitled to a ration book, however,—adults, children, babies.
 "Be sure also to take along your declaration of excess stocks of rationed foods. You are allowed to have 5 cans, jars or bottles of processed foods for each member of the family, but all above that amount must be reported on the forms to be provided for the purpose. However, no cans, bottles or jars under 8 ounces need be reported.
 "Be sure that your list of excess processed foods on hand is as accurate as you can make it. False declaration is punishable by heavy legal penalties.
 "One 8-point coupon will be removed from your War Ration Book No. 2 for each excess can, jar or bottle you have in your possession as of midnight February 20th. If there are not enough 8-point coupons in the ration books of you and your family to take care of the excess goods, coupons will be removed from subsequent ration books.
How To Buy With War Ration Book No. 2
 "You may use one or all of your family's ration books when you shop. You may not shop with loose stamps.
 "All blue point stamps marked A, B, and C are good during the first ration period, which is the month of March. They add up to 48 points for each member of the family.
 "Point values will be assigned to each item, on the basis of supply available. The plentiful foods will have a low point value. These will be announced beforehand in the newspapers, and will be displayed in each store. Look up these point values before you plan your week's menu, and be sure to watch them when you buy in the store. Point values will be the same in all stores.
 "You will not be able to get change in point stamps; you must give the exact amount. Save up your low-point stamps for buying low-point foods.
 "Tear out stamps in the presence of your grocer, or in the presence of his delivery boy.
 "Your point allowance must last for the full ration period, so plan how many points you will use each time you shop.
Duty To Family and To Merchant
 Mrs. Patch points out that there is a double duty involved for each housewife to learn all she can about point rationing. Her first duty is toward her family. The more she learns about the point value of the rationed commodities and how to budget her available coupons, the more she will be able to buy. Her second duty is to the merchant, who will be hard pressed with the additional work involved. He also will have to make two sets of calculations for each sale, the price in dollars and cents, and the points worth of coupons which the customer will have to give up in addition to the money."

How to Take Inventory For War Ration Book No. 2
 All housewives must take an inventory of their stocks of processed foods as of midnight February 20, in preparing to register for War Ration Book No. 2. The Office of Price Administration suggests the following procedure:
 Empty the contents of your cupboards onto a table.
 Put away the unrationed foods. (See below.)
 Put away the rationed cans, jars or bottles which contain less than 8 ounces.
 Put away 5 cans, jars or bottles for each member of the family.
 List the remainder, regardless of size, on forms provided for this purpose.
 This list must be accurate; there is a heavy penalty for false returns. The registration clerk will remove one 8-point coupon from your ration book for each container, regardless of size. If there are not enough 8-point coupons to take care of your excess stocks, coupons will be removed from subsequent ration books.

WHITE HOT

in less than two minutes—

... one of the thousands of jobs Electricity is doing to win the war

The electric induction furnace is an important tool in helping to speed up war production ... and it is most unusual in its manner of operation. You can place your bare hand inside the furnace and not feel a bit of heat. But place a steel bar in the same spot, and in one or two minutes it becomes WHITE-HOT.

Induction heating has several clear-cut advantages. For example, it is useful in hardening the surface of a steel piece without affecting the toughness of the steel below the surface. Armor-piercing shells are point-hardened by this process. Engines and parts for airplanes, tanks, submarines, armored cars, etc. are made with the help of induction heating. A crankshaft whose surface has been hardened in this way will last five to ten times longer before needing attention than it would without such treatment.

Gun barrels of a certain caliber are now centrifugally cast from alloy-steel melted in an induction furnace. Stainless steels and "fussy" alloys are commonly melted in these furnaces, as are most of the high-speed and tool steels used for cutting. And bronze castings for naval torpedoes also come from the induction furnace.

Induction heating and melting represents only ONE of thousands of jobs that electricity is doing today in arsenals and war plants. Electric power is a weapon of war.

Gives the best advice this nation can take in 1943.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"How soon do you leave for camp, Bob?"
 "Next Tuesday, Judge. Bill and George are leaving the same time. We're hoping to wind up in a tank outfit."
 "Well, the way I've seen you handle a tractor, Bob, you ought to be right at home in one of those tanks. You're going to like the service—they're a great bunch of fellows. Just last week I went down to camp to see a young nephew of mine and he reduced me to some of his buddies. Fine fellows—real he-men just like you and Bill and George—from good American homes. Handle themselves well, too."
 "You know, I've been checking up on it, Bob, and I've found out that the American army today is healthier, better disciplined, better trained, better taken care of than it has ever been in its history. And you can take my word for it, Mary, he'll come back to you a fine man in great shape. Best of luck to you, Bob."

Last week the basketball squad journeyed to Redford Union, but came home with both teams defeated. Although our boys played a very good game, the Redford squad was a little faster than the boys expected.

No game will be played this week, but the team will engage St. Michael's of Pontiac on Clarkston's court next Wednesday if food rationing does not interfere.

JUNIOR HIGH NEWS
A very interesting movie was shown in the gym Monday which corresponded with the 8th grade History Studies. We hope that more of these educational movies will be shown.

The 8th grade Home Ec. class is planning to make lunches which will be nutritious as well as tasteful. It promises to be a very interesting subject.

Help Save 1,450 Hours

each day on war-busy wires!

Six out of every ten calls to "Information" are for numbers that are listed in the Telephone Directory. Those needless calls increase the load on Michigan's war-busy Telephone System by 1,450 hours of operators' and equipment time each day.

The Telephone System is a vital tool of war production, but it can't be expanded substantially because the required materials have gone to the battle-front.

So please look in the directory first. If the number is not listed and you must call "Information," write it down so you won't have to ask for it again.

MSC War Aid Offered Women

Wartime aid to the home economics extension groups which enabled Michigan State College to serve more than 67,000 Michigan families has been outlined for the 1943 program. Included in the projects which women may hear about from the college extension service this year are such problems as mending clothes for longer wear, remodeling furniture in wartime, keeping the house in repair, and time-saving meals.

Projects from which these subjects can be selected include the home economics program in clothing, home furnishings, nutrition and home management.

Food rationing, regulations concerning clothing, priorities on equipment and utensils and increased taxes all make these timely college projects of value to the households in the state, comments Edna V. Smith, state home demonstration leader.

County chairmen will outline the college offer in district meetings scheduled in March. The women in each organized group will be privileged to make a choice from the several subject titles.
