Military equipment has been radically changed through the centuries but the old saying that "an army marches on its stomach" still goes today. Food is one of the most vital supplie required by our forces, and the 212-ton GMC "six-byas " allitary truck plays a most vital part in moving it from bee blood to battle line. The average soldier eats more than 5 pounds of food daily, nearly twice as much as the average civilian. When you multiply that by the millions of men over was, you can get some idea of the tremendous task which face the Services of Supply. You can get an idea of the huge quantities of trucks that are needed, too, when you are told th. And the 2,000 are needed for every 15,000 men. The Army has islad GMC Truck & Coach to increase the production of there is sitting trucks and GMC, in turn, is asking men in the Poster area to pitch in now and help them do it.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER. How does synthetic rubber compare with natural rubber? Will it be "put on the shelf" as a discarded war emergency material when real rubber is once more available? Not at all. Used in insulation for wires and sheaths for cables, some synthetic rubbers are better than the real thing. They are unaffected by conditions which cause natural rubber to deteriorate, our Research Laboratory finds. They do not crack or check in sunlight or under exposure to the ozone generated by some high-voltage electrical equipment.

SUGAR SAVER. If you are short on sugar, try this recipe from our Home Service Department:

Maple Syrup Cake

cup maple syrup 1/2 cup milk 1 tsp. vanilla

2 thsps. melted shortening 1½ cups flour ½ tsp. salt 1½ tsps. baking powder

Beat the egg thoroughly; add the maple syrup, then the milk, vanilla, melted shortening, and lastly the dry ingredients sifted together. Beat thoroughly and bake about 45 minutes in a moderate oven-375° F.-in a deep loaf-cake pan, preferably of the tube variety. Frost with maple frosting and decorate with halved walnuts or pecans, or sprinkle chopped nuts over the frosting before it sets.

OUT OF MIND. Because house wiring is buried in the walls, out of sight, it is usually "out of mind"-and little understood. But don't think it isn't important! It carries the "life blood" of the modern house—the flow of electricity. And just as a too-small pipe can lessen the flow of water in your plumbing, so can a too-small wire choke off the flow of electricity. Don't deny yourself enjoyment of dozens of postwar electric appliances because of inadequate house wiring. If you are planning a new home, be sure your wiring is large enough to allow full use of tomorrow's electrical living.

SIVEN STORIES OF STEAM. To make the steam that drives the turbines in Edison power plants, huge steam generators are used—each one as high as a seven-story building. One such generator gulps 17 tons of coal and 40,000 gallons of water per hour.

Claude M. Koop, AOM3 c and Miss Jean Vincent of Lakeview, Oregon, spent the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emeil Koop of Dartmouth Rd., Clarkston. They left on Thursday, December 28, to return to the west coast. He is stationed at Klamath Falls, Oregon. They were on the train that was wrecked in Utah at 5:30 a. m. on Dec. 31st. Mr. and Mrs. Koop received a telegram from them saying they were badly shaken up but not hurt and a letter would follow. The letter in part said: "We were asleep when the accident occurred and we were thrown from our seats to the floor. By the time we were wide awake most of the jolt and jar was over. When we realized what it was and that we weren't hurt Claude went out to see what really had happened. They then moved us into the next coach as it still had lights. Two civilian men gave us their seats because I guess we were sort of shaken up. At about 11:00 a.m. when they had put as many of the injured as they could on to these two hospital cars we started for Reno, Nev. A little later they stopped and added two more coaches, a diner and two Pullmans for the injured that were sitting through the train. The people were all very kind and everyone was looking out for everyone else. The people who were so cut and crushed and dead were a sight we can hardly forget. Our train was 712 hours late getting to Reno. We arrived there at 3:00 a.m. January 1st, and had a 3 hour wait for our bus to take us on to Lakeview. We feel we certainly have a lot to be thankful for."

"Why, there is a telephone here!"

YES, BUT A TELEPHONE ON THE PREMISES DOESN'T ALWAYS MEAN WE CAN FURNISH SERVICE

If you move into a vacant home or apartment and find a telephone already there, you'll probably wonder why we may not be able to give you telephone service. Here's the reason:

As soon as a present customer moves out, even though the instrument may not be removed for several days, his service is disconnected at the central office. Then the equipment and switchboard space that telephone required are put right into use for war-essential or other priority service or for the next person on the waiting list.

With the armed forces taking most new telephone equipment, and with more people wanting service than ever before, we're following this fair and equitable plan provided for in governmental orders.

We'll be glad when we can again give all the service everybody wants - wherever and whenever they want it.
