Women Knitters Do Splendid Job

The women in Clarkston who have been knitting little shirts for the needy tots in Europe have certainly done a splendid job. Mrs. J. R. Campbell, who has been in charge here, appreciates what the women have done. Mrs. Campbell, too, is to be congratulated. She has been very patient in trying to keep up the yarn supply and in seeing that the little shirts have been shipped out. The last 24 that were sent brings the total for Clarkston to 80.

Our Boys and Girls In The Service

Cpl Clifford Bennett was home for a few days a couple of weeks ago from Camp Lejeune, N.C. Alvin Beardsley, WT3 c, left on Wednesday to report on the west coast for a new assignment. He enjoyed a short furlough with relatives and friends in Clarkston and Detroit.

Dr. John C. Stageman who is with the medical corps in the European theatre of operations has been promoted from Captain to Major. Major Stageman is the husband of Mrs. Leola Stageman of 8080 Allen Road, Clarkston.

Francis Sommers, Fl.c, has been home on a 27 day furlough after spending many months in the Pacific. Francis is feeling fine, but like all of the boys he is wishing for the war to end soon so that he can get home to his wife and daughter.

Last Sunday Mrs. Wm. Fielding received a telegram bearing "Easter Greetings" from her grandson, Stan Radoye, who is now in Germany.

Milo Shaw, MoMm1 c, enjoyed a short furlough at his home here. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Shaw. He returned to Ft. Pierce, Fla. for further training.

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, ITALY—Private Logan McDowell Jr. of Clarkston, Michigan, who came to Italy as a replacement, is serving in an infantry unit that utilized every conceivable means of winter warfare in combatting the Germans on the Fifth Army mountain front during the winter just ended.

He is a member of the 337th "Wolverine" Regiment of the 85th "Custer" Division.

The regiment used many ingenious devices, even evacuating the wounded by sled and ski-equipped litterbearers.

Wiremen, hastening to locate breaks in communications lines, traveled on snowshoes while other trouble shooters used skis. The conversion of skis to toboggans for transporting supplies also was a common practice.

During the winter month, many members of the regiment lived in igloos and sentries often gave the appearance of snow dummies.

Installations were shielded by white camouflage blending with the snow-covered background of the Apennine Mountain peaks. Infantrymen, garbed in white parkas, huddled close to the frozen ground to receive last minute briefings before departing on nightly patrols in search of similarly clad enemy ski troops, with whom clashes occurred frequently.

Between battles, the "snowboys" of the regiment, commanded by Colonel Oliver W. Hughes, held classes in skiing on snow-crueted mountain slopes, within rifle range of a perplexed foe. This, coupled with individual improvisation of winter sports, proved excellent diversion for the men who fought in white.

McDowell is the son of Mrs. Sarah McDowell, whose home is on Route 2, Clarkston.

March 29-15

Dear Mr. & Mrs. Stamp:
It's way past time for me to write a few lines, but the saying goes "better late than never". I've been in the infantry about 3 months now. First I trained as a rifleman and now I'm training to be a heavy weapons man. I kind of like it even with the hard work. Texas is awful wet at this time of the year. It's rained more since I've been here than it does all year in Michigan.

I received a copy of the News today and it sure makes a fellow feel good. Thanks a lot.

I also want to thank the Service Mothers' club and all those responsible for the swell Christmas package.

I must close now as the lights are about to go out.

Thanks again for the Clarkston News.

Respectfully
Keith Kerton

Modern Rummage Sale April 19 and 20

On April 19th and 20th the Methodist W.S.C.S. will hold a modern rummage sale at the Township Hall. "Modern" means that in this sale will be articles that are new, some antiques, some dishes and a large assortment of goods that have been used. Then you there will be some articles of clothing, some that are impossible to get, especially for the younger group. Watch for further details next week.

The rental on these films is $20.00. High school students pay 5c to see two sections and this amount takes care of the expenses.

I would like to introduce you to the members of the dance band. This week I will introduce our leader, Walt LaPlante. Most of you know Walt. He is about 5 ft. 8 1/2 in., in height blonde hair and blue eyes. He plays a triple role in the dance band. His first job is leader; 2nd tenor sax player; 3rd he plays the clarinet. When Walt plays some of those ad lib solos—they're just out of this world! He is very well liked around school and takes part in all activities. To sum it all up, Walt LaPlante is a swell person to have as a friend.

The seven piece band played for an Easter dance at the Community Activities Clubhouse on Monday night.

It's the Seniors' turn to sponsor a dance. This dance won't be held until April 13th, due to the Junior play. The name of the dance and other particulars will be announced later.

VICTORY WITH THRIFT
For two consecutive weeks the War Stamp sales at the Clarkston school have been over 90%. This takes in every room from Kindergarten to Seniors.

When our students buy stamps they are being thrifty as well as patriotic. Here are some things they may be thinking each Wednesday.

"It's smart to be thrifty."

CLOTHING COLLECTION
The school is ready to cooperate with local agency in the clothing drive which is set for April. Mr. Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education, writes to the school as follows:

During the entire month of April—as you may have read in the daily press—the entire Nation will go to work on a gigantic humanitarian project—the collection of clothing for the unfortunate peoples of Europe who are in dire need as a result of the devastation of war. In thousands of communities the work of organization for the drive has already begun.

Because of the splendid contribution the schools have made in the salvage of paper and scrap metal, in the selling of war bonds and stamps, and in every other drive in which school children have taken a most willing and active part, I am again writing to you to request your cooperation, and that of your schools, in this new and worthy cause.

By The Way

Easter Sunday has come and gone again for another year. The sunshine here in Clarkston all day long. Seems as though the spirit of Easter went a little deeper even than usual this year. Seemed good to see George Harris and Casper Varden at Church on Sunday; also Mrs. George Slayton, Mrs. Percy Varden, Mrs. Floyd Terry and Mrs. Addie Woolman. These folk have been shut in for many months and it was a great joy to know that they were well enough to attend the Easter service. . . . Spring frolics are over. Wonder how the kids in big cities ever get to learn about the real American system of government. Out in the country and in small towns, where they take their politics seriously, where you find the live seeds of democracy. . . . Mumps are with us again. Lee Johnson, Spenceley Butters, Floyd Towers and quite a few others have been all puffed up over things. . . . Baseball is in all swing. Standard equipment for every small boy is a baseball glove hanging from his belt. . . . You should see the new books up at the school in the newly started elementary library. Are they ever so beautiful! . . . Everyone seems to be minded this spring. Saw Eddie Francis and his shiny red tractor down plowing gardens for bonnets, O'Dells and some of the other subdivision folk. He had eight small boys and five dogs helping him. Chief among his assistants were Lanny Leak and Bob Huttenschler. . . . Charlie Robinson has breathed a sigh of relief and handed in his final report to the Red Cross for the spring drive. He's spent a lot of time and effort. Nice going, Charlie. Incidentally Independence Township contributed $2,777. . . . The barn has been torn down the old barn on the corner by Mrs. Elizabeth Backus' place and has seeded the large corner lot. Makes an imposing stretch of lawn there. Your kids look nice, Mrs. Rockwell. . . . You should see some Clarkston gardeners have new owners. Victor Johnson and Herbert Beach have sold their homes and the Walsteads and Williams will be among us. . . . This is the night of the Junior play at the school. They say it is extra good this year and the Juniors are looking forward to a big crowd. Don't disappoint them.

U.S. To Leave Most of Arms in Europe
 Will Supply New Equipment To Men Shifted To Pacific

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1. - Prospects of a speedier end of the Japanese war developed today with disclosure of a plan for a quick shift of troops from Europe to the Pacific once Germany is defeated.

Under this system, described by the Secretary of War, high caliber troops in Europe will leave the bulk of their equipment on the continent and then re-equip up there from the country.

This could mean a saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars in transportation costs and a saving in lives.

The plan would require the use of a high speed train and post-pone the arrival of troops in the Pacific.

It was pointed out that the saving of lives would be the result of a more rapid shift of troops to the Pacific.

The plan has been described in a report by the War Department.

Battle Line or Production Line . . . Every Minute Counts

To save time on the road to Tokyo . . . to save many American lives . . . the Army plans to leave much of its fighting equipment behind when it moves to the Pacific after the defeat of Germany. As pointed out in the clipping above, this plan will require huge stockpiles of additional supplies to re-arm these men when they reach the Pacific. This means that we must make every minute count on the factory front, for millions of tons of materiel must be turned out before that time arrives. Because this year calls for even greater effort in war production with schedules $500,000,000 higher than in 1944 . . . because Oakland County is a great Army arsenal . . . every war worker in this area should stick to his job. Whether he's helping to make trucks or tanks, motors or medicine, bombs or bomber parts, tools or torpedos, or any one of the thousands of other "weapons of war," he should continue to out-produce the Axis until final victory!

Dwarf Trees Ideal For The Town Lot

Dwarf trees are ideal for small lots or town and city backyards, says C. E. Russell, extension specialist in horticulture, at Michigan State College.

These midget trees have several advantages over their larger ancestors. They come into bearing earlier, produce larger fruits, are easier to spray and prune, and several can be planted in a small area to provide the home owner a variety of fruits.

The most common varieties of apples and pears are now available in dwarf size; but at present no stocks are to be had that satisfactorily dwarf peaches, plums and sour cherries. However, peach and plum trees can be kept smaller by heavy pruning; and, as a rule, most varieties of peaches, plums and sour cherries bear about as early as do the dwarf apples and pears.

In choosing varieties of apples, the small-lot owner should have at least one tree of each of two varieties to provide cross-pollination and fruitfulness. This is also true of pears and plums. Sour cherry and peach varieties, with the exception of the J. H. Hale peach, are fruitful if only one variety is raised.

The important precautions need to be observed in growing dwarf apple and pear trees. They must not be allowed to produce roots above the graft union, and the tree should be supported by a stake.

Transplant and space in other flats those plants grown from seed sown indoors in March. Most of these seedlings should be spaced 2 to 3 inches apart each way in the transplant flats. Use a soil consisting of 1-3 soil and 1-3 sand and 1-3 peat for this purpose.

Don't delay ordering or buying your seed. The best varieties are always sold out first and further delay may make it necessary to accept substitutes.

Women's Bureau of Labor Department 25 Years Old; Busy With Present and Postwar Needs of Workers

Agency Watches Over Rights and Security Of Eighteen Million

By C. V. PETERS

Eighteen and a half million women are now working for wages, mostly in jobs essential to war. Some five million of these are new to the labor markets; they have gone into factories and fields since 1940, when the nation began to buckle down for the great conflict. All in all, women have been doing a magnificent job. No task has been too dirty, or dangerous or difficult; they have cheerfully accepted all discomforts and hazards.

In World War I, when, as now, millions of women were called upon to replace men in a thousand occupations, the department of labor became interested in the special needs and problems of working women. In 1920 a permanent subdivision, the Women's Bureau, was established, which superseded the temporary Woman in Industry Service, set up in 1917.

Miss Mary Anderson, director of the war agency, was appointed head of the Women's Bureau. After developing the Bureau to its present impressive status, she retired last June at the age of 71, with 25 years of service to working women accomplished.

Under the guidance of Miss Anderson, the bureau made intensive study of conditions and problems of women workers in various types of employment—professional, business, industrial and domestic. She was responsible for calling two important conferences of women in industry, in 1923 and 1936, attended by representatives of all important women's organizations. The principles she advocated were:

1. Complete equality of opportunity for men and women on the basis of their individual merit, skill and experience.
2. Wage rates based on job content without regard to sex.
3. Establishing of precise and objective standards for determining job content as a basis for determining wage rates.

In 1918 there were eight and a half million women workers. In the looking for factory operatives turned to women.

The factories, located with a view to available power and future marketing, soon developed communities, and these attracted other workers in various lines of activity. As towns grew in size, many of the older household occupations became impossible.

The entrance of women into wage-earning occupations was tremendously speeded up by the Civil war and World War I. Of the role women played during the first World War, we have a dramatic picture. The war itself wrenched the whole industrial machine. In the quick shift from peace to war, women as well as men were rapidly absorbed by the iron and steel mills, metal factories and foundries, they were practically drafted to make munitions and other war supplies. Aerial warfare created a new industry, in which women were indispensable, and it expanded the industries that made the material necessary for aircraft manufacture. Meanwhile the army of 4,000,000 men had to be fed and clothed, and in addition the nation's industries had to continue to supply the needs of the people at home.

There are striking parallels between the first World War and the present one in regard to women workers. In steadily increasing numbers, then as now, women entered fields which had been regarded as men's exclusive province—all though thousands of women carried on in traditionally feminine food and fabric industries. Experienced women who were already in manufacturing in 1917 were utilized largely for munitions making. They helped to train new groups formerly otherwise employed, such as school teachers, who joined their ranks, as well as the large numbers of inexperienced women never before in the labor force. Growing numbers of women were hired in such industries as iron, steel, lumber, transportation equipment, chemicals, metal and metal products and others.

The Women's Bureau had recorded World War I experience in the use of women labor, so it was natural that the bureau should be recognized as the official agency for all matters relating to women's employment in the present war effort. On March 15, 1941, the Undersecretary of War indicated that he would take measures to see that the War Department take up all matters of concern to women workers with the Women's Bureau, and there has been close cooperation since that date. Cooperative relationships have been established with the Navy Department, with other Government departments, and with state organizations and war contractors.

Can Do Any Job If Trained.

The peacetime work women were doing on punch presses, drilling machines, milling machines, lathes, grinders, and polishers, as well as their high record of achievement in inspection, assembly, filing and other bench work in metal and electrical industries was well known to the bureau. The extent to which these developed skills would be useful to war-implemented industries was easily demonstrated. In the last war women had proved themselves able in an emergency to make good on any job if adequately trained.

The transfer of vast numbers of agricultural workers to the war industries, as well as the rapid induction of others into the armed forces, resulted in a growing demand for the employment of women in agri-

Rural Telephones May Get Federal Loans

Bill Would Provide For Private Expansion

By WALTER SHEAD
WNU Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON D. C.—"The Party Line," long the butt of jokes and ridicule, may be on its way out if a bill intended to "provide or improve telephone service in rural areas" becomes law under the new 79th congress.

Considerable interest has been aroused in the measure introduced by Senator Lister Hill (D. Ala.) which would provide for a special fund of 100 million dollars and create a federal agency to be known as the "Rural Telephone Administration."

This administration would administer the law and the fund with authority to make loans to telephone companies, or to individuals, corporations, states, municipalities, utility districts, or to non-profit cooperative associations, also to the Rural Electrification Administration for the purpose of financing the construction, rehabilitation, modernization and operation of telephone systems, exchange lines, or other facilities for furnishing telephone service to persons in rural areas who are not receiving adequate service. The measure also provides for improvement or betterment of existing service to persons in these areas.

Senator Hill, as a result of considerable study on the rural telewrite-ups about Roge and his bravery, and his Gary Cooperish face appeared in all the newspapers and magazines, things sure changed.

phone problem asserted that in 1920 almost 2 1/2 million farm homes had telephones and that by 1940 this number had decreased to about 1 1/2 million—a decrease of about 40 per cent. Rates for farm telephone service have increased from about $1.39 to an average of $1.80 at the present time. He also pointed out that 75 per cent of the nation's farms numbering 4,186,000 still do not have telephone service.

Some 30,000 smaller telephone companies in the nation would be the chief beneficiaries under the bill as borrowers from the fund to modernize their plants, rebuild existing lines and construct new ones. Loans would be made on a self-liquidating basis at an interest rate of 1 1/2 per cent with 35 years in which to repay the principal.

Handy Milk Stool

The strap-on milk stool will save considerable time as well as provide another step forward in proper sanitation. After the stool has been strapped on, it need not be touched again until milking is finished. Strap the stool around the waist, wash hands, then start milking. Bacteria count will be reduced considerably. If more than one leg is desired, the conventional three legs can be added to this type of stool.

Few Cheese Bandages

Shortage of cotton cloth for manufacturing bandages for cheese threatens to cause serious damage to the cheese industry. The bandage around the cheese makes the rind, explains W. W. Price, of the University of Wisconsin.

Without the bandages, cheese cannot be pressed or the rind formed without cracks. If the cheese has cracks, molds form in the air pockets and the quality of the cheese is considerably lower.

Bet on the APO

By MARION TAYLOR
McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

I DON'T know by what stroke of fortune three boys who grew up together in the same little town of Prairie Junction, Iowa, should land in the same flying outfit in the Pacific, but here we are. And one of us has become an ace with more knocked-out enemy planes to his credit than any other Yank in this theater. That's Roger Barnes. But Tom Norris still has the handsomest face and the most devilish eyes and the most broken hearts along his trail of all men on our island. That is, he did until Roger's fame and daring made headlines in most of the American newspapers.

Roge is a big fellow, six ward and six as a newborn colt. That's why he never even had a girl back in the old home town. I guess although I know plenty who would have been glad enough to step out with him, if he'd given them a chance. Especially Polly Meacham. And Roge was plenty fond of Polly, too. But the only time he ever scraped up enough nerve to ask her for a date, she already had one with Tom Norris. And he was too darn bashful ever to ask her again.

For weeks Tom had been bragging about getting the most letters from dames of all the guys in our gang. On the other hand, Roge probably got the least mail of all of us. But after all those high-powered "Dearest Roger," it said.

Of course the fellows in our tent weren't slow to let Tom know that there was one guy in the outfit getting more mail from dames than he was. Tom bet Roge two hundred dollars that, given a month's time, he could still be top man so far as such missives were concerned. Roge took him up, stipulating that everything must be on the up and up or the wager would be off.

I offered to help Roge with his answers, and didn't spare the roses. I described the moonlight and the wide sweep of sand and said how lonely I was, and how I wished they were here beside me, and we signed Roge's name. And the results were good.

But the strangest thing was that letters started pouring in by the bucketful for Tom, too. He let us examine them, and they all seemed to be the McCoy.

The worst of it was that there was a letter to him from Polly Meacham. Beside those she sent poor old Roge, it sizzled and scorched.

Things went on like this for a while, with Tom gradually rising Roge out.

I dropped a personal note to Polly, telling her about the bet and how Roge really loved her and asking her please to do a little stunting about Tom at her end.

Two days before the month ended, Roge sat on his bunk reading a long letter from Polly with smiles chasing themselves all over his face. And, after he had finished, he handed it to me with a wide, bashful grin.

"Dearest Roger," it said. "Yes, I'm going to begin my letter that way because I've been in love with you almost forever, and I think you care a little about me."

"But I have another important thing to take up with you first. The bet you made with Tom Norris."

"About a month ago a letter came from Tom, asking me to marry him. Naturally I was flabbergasted. But men are pretty scarce here, and your notes were pretty stiff and formal, so I wasn't too definite in my refusal. I—well, I thought I'd stall a bit."

"One afternoon at the Red Cross Lucy Beemis came in, her face shining like a Christmas candle. 'Girls,' she shouted, 'I'm engaged to Tom Norris and I want you to be the first to know it.'"

"Like heck you are," glared Gerrie Simons. "He just proposed to me via air mail, and I accepted him."

"There were ten girls in that one group Tom had proposed to by A.P.O."

"So, Roge, you really won. You can tell the boys that Tom violated the terms of the agreement by asking more than fifty girls to marry him just to beat the bet on the A.P.O."

It's Smart to 'Make Your Own' Enchanting New Spring Frocks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE "make your own" idea has become of nation-wide appeal among women who know how to sew, as well as teenage girls who are having great fun learning.

If, perchance, you are lagging a bit in getting at the usual spring sewing, for new inspiration try an hour or so of sightseeing among the joyous looking prints now in fabric displays everywhere, a veritable pageantry of beauty as a prelude to the spring 1945 fashion program.

A good way to start off with the spring sewing is to begin with a print that breathes the very breath of spring in its lovely coloring. The frock to the left in the picture is just such and it is so easily made even a beginner can master it. This print carries an important color message for spring in that the crepe that makes it has huge white flowers on a background in the now-so-fashionable lime green. Lime and other enchanting greens are making front-page color news for spring. The simplicity of this off-side effect is its charm.

The big sensation this year is that the trend is to conversation prints that simply dare anything in the way of novelty. For instance, in the new showings, one of the attractive numbers is the pussy-cat print which patterns little round kitten heads over the background until they give the impression of a polka dot effect. For a peppy blouse (simple patterns are easily available) the new pussy-cat print would be ever so smart—an idea that should appeal to teenage sewers.

Another gay print tells a story of pretty dancing girls, their swirling skirts in a rainbow of lovely tones and tints. A print that rivets attention has little birds winging their way over a colorful crepe background, together with fantastic little bird cages artfully patterned here and there in an outline print.

Another one that brings a smile depicts little white sheep gamboling over a color-bright crepe ground, inter-spaced with a motif made up of balls of yarn thrust through with several knitting needles. One of the most novel prints of all spaces flowers on a light background which has an all-over tracery of poetic verse, reproducing actual handwriting.

The idea of calling attention to these novelty prints is that home sewers will add a new thrill to the blouse or the dress they make, if they are style-alert in choosing prints that arouse interest and provoke conversation, rather than prints of familiar theme and motif.

The new flower prints are lovelier than ever. Their rapturous colorings seem to fairly vibrate with the very ecstasy of spring. You can make them up so effectively and print is the easiest thing in the world for an amateur to manipulate. Two intriguing fashion hints in styling a print frock is that short cap sleeves are the new rage, and some of the cleverest youthful models are given an animated silhouette with a sprightly bustle bow.

Portrait necklines give new charm to these spring whether they are made of print or plain material. Perfect for neckline dress-up is the simple two-piece dress with tuck-in blouse and dirndl-type skirt shown at the right. For this simple crepe frock neckline drama is expressed in narrow ruching that is piped along the edges with the ruffler sewing machine attachment. The short sleeves are also ruche-edged, a dressmaker trick which lifts the whole frock out of the "usual" class.

Cherry Applique Whims of Fashion

Dresses for the south are playing up color contrast for all it is worth. Butcher linens highlighting bright color themes are especially important. For example, a black sunback dress has halter straps of lime and orange.

Charming are hand-crocheted calots designed to be worn with the new pastel suits and dresses this spring. They are decorated with colored sequins and some of them even go out for extreme novelty in way of adding wee tinkling bells to the decorative scheme.

Fashion holds in promise for the future such scientific achievements as sheer woven glass hosiery, unbreakable glass-shod shoes and even very sheerest prints of spun glass are being made into blouses. As exciting news as this is the progress being made in materials derived from especially processed aluminum.

An idea that is going over big in millinery midseason showings is the "dog collar" trim on the very smart and new "sissy" sailors, position and homburg types and on youthful calots. Each little hat is completed with a veil which has a sparkling jewel-embroidered velvet or grosgrain band attached. This fastens to form a dog collar fastened about the throat, or it may be used to band the crown.

Something new that looks as if it might develop into a real fad for evening wear or with the brief cap sleeves is a jeweled arm band which encircles the arm midway between the shoulder and the elbow. It may be of wide, black velvet ribbon or of self-fabric. In either event it is elaborately bejeweled or it may flaunt an important large brooch or spray clip, or a group of whimsical little cluster pins.

"See my new pinafore dress? Mother made it!" Can't you almost hear this joyous little girl exultantly saying just that? Now that mother has started on the household spring sewing, little daughter is in for some very happy surprises in way of pretty frocks and pinafores. For instance, this cunning pinafore frock shows how a simple unbleached muslin frock can be made to look too attractive for words just by appliqueing big cherries cut out of bright red boil-fast cotton. The frail stems are stitched in green thread.

Both young and old find there is a place for them in war production. At left a middle-aged woman drills parts for Flying Fortresses in a Seattle, Wash., factory. Center picture shows Miss Nita Carlin of Weehawkin, N. J., inspecting a high-power radio transmitting tube. Miss Carlin, who is only 21 years old, is a graduate of Hunter college in New York city, where she majored in physics. She is being trained in factory engineering, and is the first girl ever to be hired for this work.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"That's news to me, Judge. From the way some people talk you would think it was at least 50%."

"No, Clem, there's the statement right here in the paper... from authorities who have made an exhaustive study of the subject. Only about 5% of the people who drink occasionally abuse the privilege... 95% drink sensibly."

"No wonder you say it wouldn't be fair to take the privilege away from the other 95%, Judge. I agree with you."

"I can't see it any other way, Clem. No more than I could see taking automobiles away from everybody because a few drive recklessly and have accidents. Or preventing the making or sale of cake or doughnuts because some folks eat too much and get indigestion."

"In the case of spirit beverages, the answer is one of education and better control."

"As a matter of fact, the responsible members of that industry are working constantly toward that end. They don't want folks to abuse the use of their product any more than we do."

The Cub Scouts paper and magazine drive is moving along fine. The last 6 tons have been sold. The boys who have their 1000 lbs. have earned the Eisenhower award. David and Bobby Minton, Lewis Rizzola, Donald Helman, Donald Denhoff and Rodney Atwater. The drive continues through the month of April. If you have any waste paper or magazines call the George Atwater home and they will have a cub scout in your district make the collection.

Easter, from sunrise to well beyond eventide, was enjoyed by all who attended Waterford Community Church. The speaker for the Sunrise service was Jack Maher of Pontiac. Mrs. Arnold Hardley sang a very pretty number. The Fellowship breakfast was in charge of the men with Arnold-Hardley as chairman. Flowers were supplied by the Bible Class under the direction of Mrs. H. B. Mehlerberg. A beautiful bouquet was sent to the church in memory of Herbert Pratt a former Church and Sunday School worker. Following the services the flowers were distributed to those in the community who were ill. The church was crowded for the morning worship. The choir sang "He Is Risen" at this service. In the evening the senior and junior choirs presented "The Easter Revelation" in a beautiful manner. They were directed by Rev. VanPlew. Special solos, dialogues, duets and readings were a part of the evening program.

AWAY FROM THAT TOOTHACHE

Because aviators with supposedly sound teeth often have toothaches flying in the stratosphere, dentists may soon be able to spot decay a year before trouble begins. Robert D. Potter, science editor, writes about it in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (April 8) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

Where will YOU fit in America's future?

You know the kind of future our enemies planned for you.

Slavery. Poverty. Despair...

By buying War Bonds, you helped prevent that kind of America.

By keeping War Bonds, you help create your kind of America—and insure your place in it!

What do you want for your country? Prosperity? Full employment? A high standard of living based on good wages and plentiful, low-cost merchandise?

Then keep your War Bonds until maturity! For those bonds not only provide weapons of war against the enemy. They are weapons against inflation—and inflation is the surest road to another depression.

What do you want for yourself? A home of your own, some day? Your own business? College and a good start in life for your children? Freedom from worry about future emergencies?

Then keep your War Bonds until maturity! They'll be worth four dollars for every three you put in. That's as good as a 33% pay raise! And, meanwhile, you'll have the comforting assurance that the money is there in an emergency!

Keep your present bonds—and keep on buying all the new ones you can, so long as the country needs your money. It's not only patriotic. It's darned good sense, too!

Keep faith with our fighters—
