Durand Ogden Dies Suddenly

Services Held Here Tuesday Afternoon

Death came to Durand Ogden late Saturday afternoon, August 31, as he was resting in his home at 43 W. Washington St. In the same quiet, unassuming way he had lived, he met the end of his travels on earth.

The son of J. Durbin and Mary A. (Bird) Ogden, Durand was born October 17, 1878, and spent his early life in Clarkston. He was a graduate of the Clarkston High School and Ferris Institute at Big Rapids. He was married to Agnes McDonald of Rodney, Ontario, who predeceased him by a number of years.

In 1925 he established the Ogden Funeral Home in Clarkston and made his home on North Main St., with his wife, Mary McVicar Ogden, whom he married in Detroit in 1933. When Harold Kennedy became associated with him in business in 1941 he and Mrs. Ogden moved to the present home on W. Washington St. He was still engaged in his chosen profession when death came.

Durand had a great interest in civic, social and fraternal affairs and always had time to help in any worthy enterprise. He had served as Justice of the Peace and on the Board of Review. He was a life long Democrat. He had been a director of the Lake View Cemetery Association before the cemetery was taken over by the township and was serving on the appeal board created by the zoning ordinance.

Although he was a Presbyterian by faith, he was a member of the Men's Club of the Methodist Church and gave of his time and energy to aiding both churches in town as well as helping financially.

He was a charter member of the Clarkston Rotary Club and had served on its Board of Directors. In the Cedar Lodge, Number 60, F. & A. M., he had held the office of treasurer for over twenty years and held the honored Life Membership Certificate. He was a member of the Joseph C. Bird Chapter of the O.E.S. and was a Past Patron of this order.

Durand had a high sense of the ethics of his calling. He loved to provide those many little gracious unexpected favors which tended to raise his profession in the esteem of the public he served. He was a member of the Funeral Directors of Michigan and had served as president.

Seldom is it the privilege of a community to have had a citizen who occupied the unique position that Durand Ogden did in this, his home community.

Regardless of the weather he greeted everyone with his stock weather report "Beautiful day". As one recalls the greeting, perhaps everyday was beautiful to him.

His hobby was wood working and one would be surprised at the number of bird houses, tables and knick-knacks he had made and presented to his friends. It should be remembered that it was not hard to be a friend of Durand. He was especially fond of children and was always doing something for his small friends. Children loved Durand.

Hardly a young man in this vicinity has not been a guest of Durand, if some nearby church was serving a chicken dinner. A peculiar fact was that he did not care for chicken and the hosts always prepared something to his liking.

Eager to do his share of any job, his duties were performed in a modest manner and quietly he shunned the praises that might be showered on him.

Surviving besides his widow, is

WAR VETERANS AGAINST TRANSFERRING LOAN RIGHTS

Veterans Administration officials warn World War II veterans against deals in which they are offered lucrative fees if they will use their GI loan guarantee to purchase property for other persons. For certain fees, often as little as $100, ex-servicemen are being lured into transferring their GI loan rights, unaware that they are barring themselves from future purchases and leaving themselves liable for the full amount of the government loan guaranty if the ultimate buyer defaults in his payments.

Kentucky, with six, has furnished more Speakers of the House of Representatives than any other state.

A brother, J. D. Ogden and a nephew, both of Clarkston.

A man can be judged by what his associates think of him and a beautiful part of the funeral service was the fact that pall bearers were brother funeral-directors he had been friends with during his lifetime. They included Clarence Bendle of Holly, Orrin Huntoon, Lee Vorhees and Clarence Brace of Pontiac, C. B. Crossman of Ortonville and Don Bell of Birmingham.

Reverend Walter C. Ballagh of the Baptist Church and Reverend Walter C. B. Saxman of the Methodist Church officiated at the funeral service. Grave services were in charge of the Cedar Lodge, Number 80, F. & A. M. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Ronald Allen of Lake Orion. Interment was in Lake View Cemetery.

The many floral tributes which arrived while his body was at his home were equalled in beauty and number when the body was taken to the funeral chapel. Those attending the last rites overflowed the funeral parlors and many stood outside throughout the services.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Large Crowd Enjoys Talk on "Quilts"

A large group gathered at the Methodist Church on Wednesday to enjoy a lovely luncheon at noon and the quarterly meeting of the W. S. C. S. in the afternoon. The Mary Circle was host for the occasion. The luncheon tables were graced with pretty bouquets of garden flowers. Mrs. Iva Miller and her committee served a delicious luncheon. Rev. Saxman asked the blessing.

Mrs. Lee M. Clark, president of the society, called the meeting to order and opened by having the group sing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds". Rev. Saxman read a passage of scripture and then Mrs. Clark welcomed all visitors. She then asked each Circle chairman to appoint a Calling or Hospitality committee. The following were appointed as a nominating committee: Mrs. Charles Robinson, Mrs. Arnold Mann, Mrs. Kenneth Johnson and Mrs. Wm. H. Stamp. It was announced that a box of boxes would be sent to the Philippines.

Mrs. William Mansfield sang three pretty numbers, "Will 'O the Wisp", "Homing" and "The Quilting Party". Adele Thomas played the piano accompaniment. Mrs. William Johnston, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. James G. Kinney and her mother, Mrs. Sara Forrester, both of Pontiac. Mrs. Kinney started her talk by reciting a pretty poem about great grand-mama and her quilt. She then told the history of how she and her mother started exhibiting quilts and talking to groups about them. The story of the many quilt patterns was very interesting and especially so because Mrs. Kinney had many, many blocks to illustrate what she was talking about. Many of the stories about the various patterns were amusing. One she told was about the "Bear's Paw" pattern: "A suitor on his way to visit his best girl leaned his gun against a tree and stopped to gather wild flowers. Suddenly he looked up and there stood a bear between him and his gun. He took the only way out and climbed a tree where he had to remain all night. When he was rescued in the morning his sweetheart designed a quilt block the shape of the huge bear paw print in the mud at the base of the tree." In Long Island there were no bears so the identical pattern became, in that locality, "Duck's Foot in the Mud".

Mrs. Kinney told about patterns in all parts of the country. It seems like she mentioned more than a hundred patterns and had blocks for most of them. There were the many star patterns, the tulip patterns, mosaic quilts, his-toric quilts and one could go on indefinitely describing the many beautiful and interesting patterns that have been developed by those who have followed this homely art.

At the close of Mrs. Kinney's talk she compared the quilt and its many pieces to life. She said that the beauty of the finished quilt depended on how the deft fingers worked out the pattern, just so it is with life. We are given the pieces to work with and it depends on the person what pattern they follow, what the outcome will be.

Mrs. Johnson then thanked Mrs. Kinney and Mrs. Forrester for their interesting exhibit and the splendid talk and presented each of them with a token of appreciation from the group.

Some of the members of the W. S. C. S. had quilts to exhibit and the women spent an hour or more examining the many beautiful patterns.

Wedding Vows Spoken Thursday

At eight o'clock on Thursday night of last week the Clarkston Methodist Church was the scene of a pretty wedding when Jeanette M. Vliet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ransom T. Vliet of Clarkston and Robert G. Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Morse of Drayton Plains, spoke their marriage vows at a candlelight service before about 200 guests. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend Harold Pailthorp of Howell, Mich., before an altar banked with baskets of white gladioli and palms.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white organza fashioned with a square lace yoke forming a V at the waistline in the back, long sleeves gathered at the wrists and a full skirt with a court train. Her full length veil of fine net was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried white gladioli, gardenias and white roses.

Laura Vliet was her sister's maid of honor. Her blue gown had a jersey fitted bodice and a full net skirt. Her headpiece was of matching blue net with small ribbon bows and she carried a bouquet of peach gladioli with blue streamers.

Serving as bridesmaid was Marjorie Vliet, also a sister of the bride, in a gown similar to the maid of honor's but in a lighter shade of blue. She wore a matching headpiece and carried peach gladioli with blue streamers.

Just before the ceremony the bride's cousin, Mrs. Margaret Harris sang "At Dawning" and "Because". Mrs. John Skarritt presided at the organ.

Assisting Mr. Morse was his brother, William Morse, as best man and Emerson Vliet, the bride's brother, and Kenneth Soucraite seated the guests.

The bride's mother wore a dusty pink, printed crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of white camillias. Mrs. Morse chose a dress of black crepe with black accessories and a corsage of pink camillias. Mrs. L. I. Coon, the bride's aunt, with whom she made her home, wore a blue and white printed crepe dress with black accessories and her flowers were peach camillias.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth and was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. The cake was on a large mirror encircled with a wreath of small green leaves and white gladioli set in rosettes of white net. Lighted white tapers in silver candelabra graced the ends of the table. Mrs. Linsley I. Coon of Clarkston and Mrs. Donald Harris of Detroit poured. The Mary Circle of the Woman's Society for Christian Service of the Methodist Church assisted with the refreshments.

The young couple left on a short honeymoon in northern Michigan and on their return they will make their home in Big Rapids where they are both enrolled at Ferris Institute. For traveling the new Mrs. Morse wore a checked, wool dressmaker suit with black accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Our Brother's Gone

(In Memory of Durand Ogden)

Our brother's gone from mortal state
And passed into a higher plane,
Where there's no jealousy or hate
Or need for planning money gain.

We'll miss his kindly, guiding hand
As we work onward thru each day,
Yet thank our God we understand,
In spirit he's not far away.

He was symbolic of our town,
A pillar, where one corner stood,
It's footing resting in the ground,
Upholding everything that's good.

He linked the past with present times
Enriching both with knowing touch,
Yet kept the pace as progress climbs
With gracious deeds, which meant so much.

With village life he's so entwined
That though we miss his presence here,
Each time some project's brought to mind
We know we'll feel his influence near.

SCHOOL DAYS ... the Golden Age

Drive Carefully--Spare A Life

DON'T snuff out a budding career or inflict a terrible handicap upon a child by reckless driving--especially in the vicinity of a school. Every year thousands of accidents occur involving children on their way to school. Almost without exception these regrettable mishaps could be avoided if only the driver of a vehicle would be a bit more cautious when turning corners or approaching intersections where children are crossing... You wouldn't want your own child to be struck down by a passing car--so why take chances. USE YOUR BRAKES INSTEAD OF YOUR HORN!

Sycamore Trees Have Long History

The sycamore, or button-ball tree, which shades thousands of sidewalks and yards, has a history stretching back a hundred million years.

Fossil displays at the University of Michigan Museums tell the story of the sycamore's development through the geologic ages.

The first known sycamore lived in the geologic period known as the Upper Cretaceous, 100 million years ago. Two fossil specimens of this ancestor of today's sycamore, secured in Kansas, are owned by the museums and show the leaves to be more rounded than those of the present familiar species.

In the second stage of the tree's development, the familiar irregular, notched leaf appeared, much like the leaf of the sycamore now common in Michigan. Fossils from early Tertiary of Wyoming, about 55 million years ago, illustrate this stage in the tree's development.

The California sycamore, a different species from that seen in Michigan, developed from an ancient tree of the geologic Miocene period, nearly 40 million years ago. Fossils from Oregon on display at the University Museums show the leaves of this tree to be larger and more irregular in outline than those now known in the Eastern United States.

NAVAL OFFICERS MAY REQUEST TRANSFER

All naval officers who desire to request transfer to the Regular Navy must submit their applications on or before Sept. 15. Secretary of the Navy Forrestal announced today.

This includes eligible officers on inactive duty and those now on terminal leave, but does not apply to officers who request transfer as law specialists, officers who have completed less than one year's commissioned service or officers who receive their first commissions subsequent to Sept. 15.

A deadline of July 20 had previously been set for chief warrant and warrant officers who desired to transfer to the Regular Navy.

Movies Used in Speech Training

Veterans enrolled at the University of Michigan for a four-week refresher course are going to the movies to improve their reading.

The movies in this case, however, are a series of specially prepared "reading films" designed to increase reading speed and the ability to understand and retain what has been read.

The reading film, when projected on a screen, flashes words and phrases in rapid-fire order, forcing the reader to move his eyes quickly along a line in the same manner as though he were reading a book. Tests help the veteran to detect any weaknesses he may have in retaining what he has read.

The reading instruction and practice is a part of the refresher course now being given to 514 veterans at the university. Also popular is a survey course which helps brush up study habits, techniques of preparing for examinations, and similar problem-solving to the university after service in the armed forces.

TOMATO BLIGHT LATEST FOOD THREAT

Small, shriveled tomatoes, on left, were harvested from blight struck tomato field. Healthy tomatoes, on right, came from field protected by fungicide from the ravages of blight.

FOR the first time in history a mold which wrecks entire vegetable acreages is now destroying tomato crops in northern United States. This fungus has already wiped out half the tomato crop in Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.

Important Florida tomato areas have suffered the worst crop failure in years, and in one area only three growers were able to salvage a crop. Now the blight has spread north, and is devastating acreages as far west as Idaho. The disease, which can be fatal to the entire crop in two weeks, has been reported from Texas to Maine, and has also attacked celery, cabbage, and tobacco.

Until recently the only weapon against blight was copper fungicides. However, in 1944 a synthetic fungicide, Dithane, was introduced by Rohm & Haas Company of Philadelphia. Potato growers used this synthetic fungi killer on a large scale, and around Homestead, Florida, they are said to have averaged yields 150 to 175 bushels per acre higher than when only the old copper treatment was used. Due to this success the fungicide was called on to aid the threatened tomato crop, and it is rapidly stopping this new menace. Three growers in Florida, who abandoned their fields, belatedly tried the new synthetic and closed the season with good crops, and one grower who abandoned his tomatoes to blight after copper fungicides failed tried with a $30,000 return.

New System Urged For Labor Disputes

Labor-management disputes should be settled by a government-managed judicial process, an economist at the University of Michigan believes.

Prof. J. Harold Finns, a visiting member of the University faculty, points to the disruption of national economy as a result of unregulated labor-management conflicts. During the war, Prof. Finns was associated with the War Labor Board.

and management for a show-down fight brought near chaos during the strikes of last winter and spring, Prof. Finns comments.

The fight in reality has proved nothing except the inability of labor and management to settle their disputes to the public benefit without the aid of an impartial third party, he says.

Prof. Finns believes that a system of "labor courts" should be set up, providing a parallel to the judicial process which is used to settle other disputes.

The Hittite Code discovered in Babylon, Asia Minor, set ceilings for wages and prices in 1350 long-standing desire of both labor and management.

Preserving Tips for Michigan Peaches

Michigan homes can enjoy a taste treat from tree-ripened peaches grown right at our own back door. Mary Woodward, Oakland County home demonstration agent, recommends home canning and freezing and suggests best preparation methods.

To have luscious, sweet fruit next winter, peaches should be picked exactly ripe. The following method of canning, keeping you well within the 1946 sugar allotment, is recommended by the Michigan State college extension service:

Peel the peaches by putting them into a wire basket or cheese cloth and dip for a minute or two in boiling water, then quickly into cold. Slip off skins take out pits and slice or cut in halves. To keep from darkening dip in a gallon of water containing 2 tablespoons of salt and 2 of vinegar, drain.

If the fruit is juicy, add 1/2 cup sugar to each quart of raw fruit and heat to boiling. For less juicy fruit, drop into a boiling hot, thin to medium syrup (1 cup sugar to 3 cups water), and just heat through. Honey may be used for 1/2 the sugar or white syrup for 1/3 the sugar. Pack hot, cover with boiling liquid, adjust lids and process 20 minutes in a boiling water bath at 212 degrees F.

If the peaches are to be frozen the variety must be considered. Only J. H. Hale, Halehaven, Fertile Hale and Elberta are safe in Michigan. Fruit should be harvested a few days later than for market.

Only careful and rapid handling will result in an excellent frozen product. Peel as for canning, and pack quickly into containers, leaving as little head space as possible. Cover with 50% syrup (4 cups sugar to 4 cups water). To help prevent browning of the fruit add 1/4 teaspoon crystalline ascorbic acid to each quart of syrup.

ESCAPE FROM THE OLD "GRIND"

Electrically

You save time—labor—and money when you use an electric hammer mill to grind your own feed. Simply fill the hopper with grain and snap the switch—the mill grinds automatically while you do jobs that need your supervision! There's no waiting for the grinder truck to come around, no hauling grain into town to be ground, no mill tolls, no tying up a tractor to provide grinding power.

Just compare the costs! Farmers tell us that tractor power averages over $1.00 per ton of feed for fuel alone. Electricity will do the same work for 30 cents. And you'll have fresher, better feed when you grind your own. There's an electric hammer mill to fit every budget.

Ask your Edison Farm Service Advisor to arrange a demonstration for you—not in a salesroom, but on a farm, where you can talk over performance and actual operating costs with its owner. While you're at it, ask the Edison man to help plan your long-range program for letting electricity do other chores too! There's no obligation to you.

Michigan is Set for Big Hunting Season

Preparing for the biggest hunting season since before the war, the conservation department next week will begin the mailing of 1,288,100 licenses, 147,000 more than last year. Back tags, game law digests and seals are being shipped with the licenses, and all 2,500 of the state's license agents are to be supplied by mid-September.

In this second postwar season, the first in which former servicemen will participate in great numbers, conservation officials are without a "yardstick" for accurately forecasting the number who will go gunning in Michigan for small game and deer. First estimates of fishing pressure this season proved too conservative, and an original printing order for 750,000 resident fishing licenses had to be boosted during the season to 879,000.

The 10 types of licenses and the numbers to be mailed, beginning August 26, are: resident hunting, 800,000 (65,000 more than last year); nonresident hunting, 13,000; north nonresident hunting, 9,000; resident deer hunting, 375,000 (50,000 more than last year); nonresident deer hunting, 20,000; resident bow-and-arrow, 10,000; nonresident bow-and-arrow, 1,000; trapping, 50,000; camp permit, regular deer season, 10,000; bow-and-arrow camp permits, 100.

Fisheries Society To Meet in St. Paul

Three pressing local fisheries problems will be subjects of side conferences among lake states fishermen concerned when the American Fisheries society and the International Association of Fish and Game Commissioners meet in St. Paul September 9-13.

The value of artificial propagation of lake trout will be threshed out among men from states bordering on Lake Michigan and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife service. A third annual planting of finclipped lake trout fingerlings is to be made in Lake Michigan next month, and a reward of $2 has been posted for recovery of finclipped specimens.

All lake states fisheries men are concerned about practical and economical ways of combating the lamprey eel, a parasite of lake trout and other food fishes that has grown to damaging abundance.

The third common problem of the lake states fisheries men is the scarcity of bait minnows. Michigan has pioneered in developing information on this subject which may encourage private minnow dealers to raise their own.

The St. Paul meeting of the two international association is the first since 1941, and marks the end of the first interruption in American Fisheries society meetings since its founding in 1870. Presidents of both societies are Michigan men: P. J. Hoffmaster, director of the Michigan conservation department, heads the association of Fish and Game commissioners; and John Van Oosten of the Fish and Wildlife service office in Ann Arbor heads the fisheries society.

private ownership. Income from leasing these lands for mineral production—and some of them have produced hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of gas and oil—has gone into the state treasury.

The current flood of requests of the conservation department for mineral rights that cannot be sold is attributed to the ever-growing number of new owners of lands purchased from the state. While the department advises the surface owners that the 1909 policy still stands, it can assure them they will be protected against any damage that might result from the state's development of oil, gas, iron, limestone, sand, gravel or other mineral on property to which they own surface title.

The department has a thorough understanding of the surface owner's position. Of 4,500,000 acres it manages throughout the state, about 500,000 are owned subject to mineral reservations.

New Starting Hour Helps Pheasants

A better break for the hens should be one of the chief benefits of the 10 a. m. starting hour on the first two days of pheasant season this fall, according to conservation department game men. With good light at the late starting hour there will be no excuse even for beginners to mistake hens for cock pheasants. The late starting time also is expected to spread the kill over more days and give the birds a sporting chance.

ant hens is needed to speed recovery of the pheasant stock from its heavy 1944 losses, there is no fear of "overshooting" cock pheasants. Field checks have shown enough cock birds survive the ordinary Michigan hunting season to provide an adequate sex ratio the following spring.

A late starting hour is not unusual among other states. Ohio hunting seasons for years have opened at noon, and pheasant shooting in South Dakota is not permitted on any day of the season before 10 a. m.

State Retains Rights To Minerals in Land

State-owned lands—abandoned once by owners who did not think them worth the taxes—at times can be bought for cabin sites, hunting lands, forestry and in some cases for farming, but purchasers are advised flatly that no oil or other minerals are included in any such bargain.

Meet our Boss: MRS. ROE

Who's the Big Boss of any business? That's easy—the person or persons who own the business!

In the case of Michigan Bell, our Big Boss is "Mrs. Richard Roe" and thousands of other thrifty folks who have invested in Bell System securities and provided the money for enlarging the system and improving the service.

Now let's see what Mrs. Roe's investment helped make possible. Here are just a few examples:

- From 1920 through 1945, it has permitted the Bell System to increase the number of telephones in service from 8 million to 22 million—almost 16 telephones for every hundred people in the United States.
- It has provided the facilities for handling a record-breaking billion and a half toll calls in 1945, compared to 360 million in 1920.
- It has financed the development and installation of dial telephone equipment so that now 4 out of 5 telephones in Michigan, for example, are dial operated.
- It has paid for the construction of 75 million miles of wire and cable throughout the nation, and accomplished many other improvements too numerous to mention.

If this progress is to continue—more money will have to be obtained from more investors through the sale of additional Bell System securities. And, since investors naturally want a fair return on their savings, telephone rates should be sufficient to permit paying a reasonable rate of return.

Michigan Bell's "cost of living", like yours, has been rising rapidly. If it continues to go up, rate increases may become necessary to insure adequate earnings. In any event, Michigan Bell wants telephone rates no higher—and no lower—than necessary to operate the business efficiently... pay good wages... give a fair return to investors and, thereby, protect the future quality of the service we give you.

ADVICE ABOUT KEEPING WELL

★ "The man who thinks to conserve his health by uselessness and ease does not differ from him who guards his eyes by not seeing, and his voice by not speaking... Least of all is it to be assumed that laziness is healthful, if it destroys what health aims at; and it is not true that inactive people are more healthy."

This excerpt from Plutarch's essay Advice About Keeping Well, written over 2,000 years ago, might have been written yesterday. Had medicine and pharmacy been as well developed then as they are today, we are certain he would have stressed the value of a periodic physical examination by a qualified physician. By the same reasoning, it is wise to take your prescription to a registered pharmacist for expert compounding. We are prescription specialists.

SOFTBALL SEASON ENDS WITH SODA GRILL AS CHAMPS

The 1946 season of the Drayton Plains Softball League has finally come to a close with the Soda Grill again winning the championship. Thursday they shut out Oasis with a 2-0 victory, George Bishop allowing five hits. They were so scattered none of the runners were able to get home. H. Kieth also allowed only five hits but a little loose playing by his teammates, allowing four errors, made it bad for Oasis. This gave the teams a game apiece. The final game was played Friday with Soda Grill the victor, 10-5. Soda Grill backed up George's pitching by sending out two home runs, one in the second by Tom Dion and another in the sixth by Bert Roy. Oasis also got a home run in the third by Don Herr. Bishop and Lovelace for Soda Grill and H. Kieth and Parker for Oasis. We can now close the books on softball for '46 and other sports will take their place in line, but you can bet after the first thaw in the spring everyone will be wondering who will be the champs of '47.

Pickle-Making Gets Into Full Swing

Crisp, juicy pickles add much interest to meals and this is the pickle-making season in Michigan. Cucumbers of all sizes are now available and Roberta Hershey, extension foods and nutrition specialist at Michigan State College, suggests the homemaker try a few of the varieties that require little or no sugar.

Tangy dill pickles and old-fashioned cucumber slices are two good examples of popular pickles almost everybody likes. Either cucumbers or green tomatoes may be used for the dill pickles and they require no sugar. For mildly-sweet cucumber slices, only one-half cup of sugar is necessary for an entire peck of cucumbers.

There are hundreds of recipes for making all kinds of pickles, but Miss Hershey recommends the U. S. Department of Agriculture bulletin AWI-103, "Pickle and Relish Recipes" to those who have no recipes to follow. It is available from the county extension office or from the Bulletin Office, Department of Public Relations, Michigan State College.

Cucumbers and green tomatoes are best when they're pickled within 24 hours of picking. A good, clear standard vinegar, free from sediment should be used. And if you're using grandmother's recipes you should remember that standard vinegar of today is stronger than that made 15 to 20 years ago. That may tend to make your pickles a little sour, unless the vinegar is diluted.

Whole spices keep their flavor longer and are better for pickle making than ground spices. Tie them in a sack to cook with the pickles, but do not pack them in the jars because they will turn the pickles dark.

Livers of female sharks have a far greater content of vitamin A than the male.

CARE URGED IN FODDER FEEDING

Dairy farmers should avoid feeding corn fodder which has been treated with DDT to milk-producing cows.

Samples of corn fodder, sprayed or dusted with DDT for corn borer control, have been analyzed by the agricultural chemistry department of Michigan State College. They were found to contain DDT in amounts varying from 3.7 to 38.6 parts per million.

While this seems like a small amount of DDT, chemists feel it is enough to contaminate milk if the fodder is given to dairy animals.

A legal tolerance of 7 parts per million has been established for apples and pears marketed. No tolerance, however, has been established for dairy products and a trace of DDT in the milk may be enough to make it unacceptable for commercial use.

DON'T STORE VEGETABLES TOO EARLY THIS FALL

It is well to consider storage of some of the garden surplus for winter eating, but Jack Rose, Michigan State College extension specialist in home gardening, warns against storing vegetables too early.

Whether in basement storage room or outdoor pit, cool weather is necessary for good results. Crops in storage give off some heat which must be replaced by cool air. One warm spell may cause the entire crop to be lost. Rose advises temperatures for most vegetables in storage from 34 to 48 degrees.

INFORM AMPUTEES HOW TO GET CARS

Further information is now available concerning the law recently passed by Congress to provide automobiles for World War II amputees. The sum of 30 million dollars has been appropriated for this purpose.

The law states that the Veterans Administration will pay for an automobile, or other conveyance, at a cost not to exceed $1,600 including necessary attachments and devices, for each World War II veteran entitled to receive compensation for the loss, or loss of use, of one or both legs at or above the ankle. However, each such veteran must prove his ability to operate the vehicle, and must be able to obtain a driving permit before the purchase will be approved. Repair, maintenance and replacement of the vehicle is the obligation of the veteran.

Any American Legion service officer (there's one for each of the 150 posts in Michigan) can explain provisions of the law in detail, and inform the veteran where application blanks are available.

ADVICE ON OPENING A RETAIL APPAREL STORE

Veterans considering opening a retail apparel store should not set their sights at the "merchant price" level but should plan to develop slowly, according to a report recently issued by the U. S. Department of Commerce. Plan carefully, start cautiously, operate efficiently, promote with originality, sell effectively, and expand slowly to promote success, the department suggests. This advice is given in "Establishing and Operating an Apparel Store", a practical manual issued recently for the guidance of persons about to enter this line of business as producers. It is available from the department.

VETS MUST ENTER APPROVED TRAINING

Veterans who are beginning on-the-job training courses under provisions of the GI Bill should determine definitely that they are entering approved training establishments, VA officials said today. Veterans Administration regional offices are in position to direct veterans to approved establishments for the different types of training. Veterans should make sure of the state approval before signing up for training in any firm, otherwise they may find that subsistence allowances cannot be paid by the VA.
