CLARKSTON, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1946

NUMBER 9

IT IS YOUR DUTY TO VOTE NEXT TUESDAY

By The Way

The tall, lonely peak of earth that has been a landmark at the northeast corner of Dixie and the Depot Road is being leveled and what was once the remains of a gravel pit will pass from view. The new owners of Caribou Inn will take possession of the Inn about November 5. For a while it will be maintained as an inn but as soon as possible the new owners, Fred Hancock and R. M. Parker, will open an up-to-date dining room on the premises. We were regretting that Halloween fell on Thursday evening, too late for any news for this paper. Certainly with a graduated party sponsored by the Rotary including a torch parade and bonfire, not to mention judging of the costumes of youngsters, after which they could go home while the older people went into the school auditorium for entertainment and a dance, Halloween would be a pleasant memory with no rough stuff. However gentle readers we regret to say here is the Halloween story. Jumping the gun by one night, Thursday morning found the streets covered with cornstalks. Enough work to keep a man all day cleaning up. Windows were properly or improperly soaped or waxed, including the screen doors to the business places. Incidentally this practically ruins screen doors. A Freeman ice cream sign from the lockers was stationed in front of O'Dell's Drug Store. They sell a different brand of cream. What dated the mischief makers was the fact that they had to follow old time customs of trying to put Walter's Ice truck on the bank steps—not even good old time stuff. A few of our grey hairs remember when the vehicle would have to have been placed on top of the building or the stunt would not have been done right. Well it takes time to educate some people and when our nose reporter jokingly asked a few citizens for a contribution to help make the regular party a success, lo and behold we were taken seriously and contributions were offered. Incidentally if the parties who took the garbage pails belonging to Mrs. Blanche Walter and Garnet Poulton are done playing with them the owners would appreciate having them brought back. Poultry has been purchased for the Legion and Rotary benefit feather parties. Rotary will hold their party Nov. 16 and the Legion on Nov. 23. Grandpa says some people will never forget a favor—that is, if they did the favor for you!

Waterford-Drayton Rotary Club News

At Tuesday's meeting of the Waterford-Drayton Rotary Club Walter L. Fry, Detroit manufacturer, was the principal speaker. He chose as his subject the present serious conflict between capital, labor and government. Mr. Fry asserted that the solution of the labor situation requires the thoughtful thinking of all good Americans, a responsibility resting equally with capital and labor. Continued wrangling, he continued, will not solve anything but rather places us in a more precarious position in regard to world trade since even now we are unable to compete with the cheap labor of the other countries of the world and lack of world commerce may ultimately lead to unemployment and depression. His final remarks dealt with the necessity of union responsibility in their contractual agreements. Among the guests were E. A. Moore, C. W. Grimes, Charles Robinson and the Reverend Walter C. B. Saxman.

Spenceley Butters Has Been Awarded Heroism Certificate

A Certificate of Heroism has been awarded by the National Court of Honor to Scout Spenceley Butters of Clarkston, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Butters.

On June 29, 1945 at 3:30 in the afternoon several boys were swimming in the Clarkston Mill Pond. One of the boys, Donald Lord, was unable to help himself after he was seized with stomach cramps while about at the middle of the pond. He called for help, whereupon Spenceley Butters, who was near at hand, swam over to him. Apparently the victim did not become panicky but followed directions as given by Butters who, incidentally, was taking a Red Cross Life Saving Course, instructions being given at Deer Lake. Butters then towed Lord to the west shore of the pond and the boys were rowed back across the pond by a man who had not seen the rescue but was attracted by the excitement. Very few witnesses actually saw the rescue.

Spenceley was 14 years old at the time of the rescue and a second class Scout in Troop 49. He is now 15 and holds the rank of Star Scout. He is an Apprentice in the Explorer Post No. 49 of Clarkston.

World War II Veterans' Bonus Goes Before Voters on Nov. 5

On November 5 the voters of Michigan will decide the question of a bonus to World War II veterans. The matter will appear on the ballot in the form of Proposal No. 3 to amend the state constitution. The proposal reads as follows: "The state shall borrow not to exceed $270,000,000 for the purpose of paying to each person (or survivors) who served in the military, naval, marine or coast guard forces of the United States, between September 16, 1940, and June 30, 1946, the sum of $10.00 for each month of service in any state of the United States, and the sum of $15.00 for each month of service outside any state of the United States, but not to exceed a total payment of $500.00 to any one person."

Veterans' organizations are supporting the proposal. The Veterans of Foreign Wars has set up a state-wide committee with representatives of all congressional districts. Conservation Men Set the Stage For 1946 Christmas Tree Season

The Department of Agriculture inspectors from the Bureau of Plant Industry will again be required to enforce the provisions of Act 124, Public Acts 1933, known as the Evergreen Tree Director Christmas Tree Law, says Director Charles Fry. We are co-operating with the Department of Conservation, the Michigan State Police, and local enforcing agencies in the enforcement of the Act.

Cut Christmas trees are not required to be inspected but must be accompanied by a Bill of Sale. Some 30,000 forms are being mailed to Conservation headquarters, State Police headquarters, County Agents' offices, County Sheriffs' offices, U. S. Forestry Service, or the forms may be obtained by writing directly to the Department of Agriculture at Lansing.

No person is allowed under this law to cut, remove or transport Christmas trees, evergreen boughs or other parts of plant material without obtaining the permission of the property owner and be furnished with a Bill of Sale by person owning the property to show that this permission has been granted. However, any tree or plant material with roots attached constitutes nursery stock and must not be moved or transplanted in Michigan until it has been inspected by an official inspector of this Department and a certificate issued indicating its freedom from disease and insects.

The Department of Agriculture will establish highway police posts operating on a 24 hour basis each day throughout the season where this material will be checked by Department staff inspectors, says Director Fry. We are appealing to all hunters, particularly deer hunters, as well as those interested in this law from a commercial standpoint, to comply with the provisions of the law.

The penalty for not complying constitutes a misdemeanor and upon conviction, the offender can be fined not less than $25 or more than $100 for each offense, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a period not to exceed three months.

Lee Kittredge, who is a student at Ferris Institute in Big Rapids, spent the weekend at his home in Clarkston. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Jones went to Brown City on Tuesday and attended the funeral of her brother-in-law, Shirley Powell. Mr. Powell died suddenly at his home one mile south of Oakwood on Saturday.

Have You Given To the U.S.O.?

As long as we have boys in military camps in this country and in far away lands then we at home must do our bit to see that something is done for their welfare and as much as possible to provide a home away from home. The U.S.O. is the best solution to this problem. Perhaps it hasn't filled the need in some cases but it does serve the majority and the more we support this organization the more can be done to furnish these servicemen with entertainment, spiritual guidance and just a touch of home.

Many of the boys who are far away have more leisure hours than those who were in the fighting lines and so have need of places to go and things to do. The U.S.O. fills the bill only if those at home co-operate.

Alfred Lee is chairman of the U.S.O. drive in Independence Township. He is not desirous of making a house to house canvass unless absolutely necessary, so is asking each of you to leave your donation at the Clarkston State Bank. The Township has a quota to meet and a little from each citizen will help. Some donations have already been received and are very encouraging.

In Waterford Township the Waterford-Drayton Rotary Club has taken charge of the drive with Norman Roth as chairman.

We must all remember that until every boy is home and we have world peace then we have a job to do. Give today and feel that you are doing your part.

Halloween Party Held Saturday

On Saturday, Oct. 26th, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Powell and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cheeseman entertained 20 of their friends at a Halloween party and weenie roast. The delightful affair was held in the basement of the building that Mr. Cheeseman is remodeling for his future home on Orion Road.

The room was beautifully decorated in the Halloween motif. After the weenie roast and supper the group enjoyed ping-pong and other games and dancing.

Halloween

Now somewhere lying in one's mind Are truths a person keeps suppressed, Pretending he is stricken blind To facts the human mind possessed. He's conscious that some things exist, Fantastic though, for mortal, sane, That gives the facts of life a twist, So thoughts pursue a different train.

On Halloween man once believed, That ghosts stalked freely on the earth, To do bad deeds, they had conceived, For causing anguish and much mirth.

For ages now, the young and old Have set this spooky night aside, To relive stories that we're told Of goblins and the witches' ride.

They little know, how near they're right, That spirits do come back to call, Yet not just for one ghastly night, But ever present with us all.

NAVY WEAPONS OF THE FUTURE

The first peacetime Navy Day in five years emphasizes the Navy's preoccupation with scientific advancement as a means of preserving the security of the nation it fought to insure between Pearl Harbor and V-J Day. Highlighting the development of offensive and defensive weapons and devices accelerated by World War II are robot aircraft such as the "Globe," "Gordon," and "Gargoyle," heralds of a super-sonic age in which only the mind of man can match the speed of the deadly creatures his genius has conceived. Largest member of the trio is the "Globe," or glider-bomber (above). The LBE-1 is a television-controlled aircraft which will stand 300 miles an hour in a four-G dive. (Official Navy Photograph)

MR. BONNER

May we present Mr. Leigh Bonner? The black eye is temporary and was acquired during the course of his duties. Glenn Davidson's foot got in his face at football practice.

Mr. Bonner hails from Traverse City, where he played high school football. He spent an extra year at Traverse City High School taking a postgraduate course. During this year he coached the school's Freshman football squad. For a year or more after graduation Mr. Bonner toured upper Michigan in a professional football and wrestling.

From Traverse City he came to Michigan State Normal at Ypsilanti. A "greeting" from President Roosevelt never reached Mr. Bonner. He enlisted in the Army Air Corps July 3, 1942. Late now became one more after another for him. He saw most of Southeastern United States while he was studying navigation. Later he instructed in Italy. He acquired 10 hours college credit at the University of Miami. On January 7, 1944 high altitude flying got the best of Mr. Bonner. He said, "We flew up there where it's dark all the time, and cold." So cold it seems that he suffered from frost bitten lungs.

Released from the hospital, Mr. Bonner returned to Ypsilanti, where he completed his degree in February 1946. As Clarkston's social science instructor, Mr. Bonner is a teacher, his first teaching in public schools.

Hunting and fishing are Mr. Bonner's chief hobbies. He and "Doc" Thayer have been trying out the Cranberry Lake region which is near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bonner. The only other member of the Bonner family is "Wolf", Mr. Bonner's trick dog.

EIGHTH GRADE—Billy Bliven, Jim Huttelocher, George Mantyla, Donald Palmer, Robert Rose, Mary Beattie, Pat Carpenter and Sylvia Peterson.

SENIOR PLAY

As the time draws near for the opening curtain, seniors are busily on preparations for the play, "Seven Sisters." Mrs. Monzillo Clark's comment, "everything is going swell" was proved true at the preliminary dress rehearsal Wednesday night. The play is to be presented Friday, Nov. 8.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS

Today at 3:30 the Clarkston Wolves meet the Bloomfield Hills eleven at Clarkston. Our opponents come to the game with a win over Auburn Heights and the rest losses.

"Doc" Thayer gave the probable line-up for today's game as: Stitt, Adams, Sutphen, Anderson, Dubats, Kidder, Ludwig, Backfield, Davidson, Greathouse, Westover and Smith. Bent will carry the bucket.

BIG BEAVER

The Clarkston Wolves bowed to the night of Big Beaver last Friday to the tune of 19-0. Thirteen of the Big Beaver points were scored by their star, Chet Losey, who dashed like greased lightning for two touchdowns and kicked the extra point after the third score.

Twice in the second half Clarkston threatened to score, once by shifting and dodging of McGee and once on line plunges. The attempts, however, were unsuccessful.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

"Doc" Thayer presented the 46-7 basketball schedule for publication this week. Since Clarkston is the only school in the league with a gym, five games will be

Model Contest Open For Young Geniuses

The Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild today announced its 1947 model Napoleonic coach competitions in which youthful craftsmen throughout the nation will compete for eight university scholarships and 1,176 cash awards aggregating $85,000.

The amount of money being offered to stimulate creative ability and fine handiwork in the country's teen-age youth has been increased by approximately $10,000 over the 1946 competitions because of the outstanding success of the educational program this year.

As in the competitions for 1946, the 1947 program will be divided into two age divisions. The junior division includes boys from 12 through 15 while from 16 through 19 are in the senior group. Boys who became 16 after Sept. 1, 1946 will remain in the junior division and boys passing 19 after Sept. 1, 1946 still remain eligible as seniors.

The youths may choose to design and build a model automobile, or construct a miniature Napoleonic coach. In building a Napoleonic coach, the design of which is based upon two coaches used a century and a half ago by Emperor Napoleon, enrollees will compete for 588 cash awards and four university scholarships, two worth $5,000 each and two amounting to $3,000 each, divided equally between the junior and senior divisions.

In making model cars embodying their own ideas in design, Guildsmen will compete for 588 cash awards and four university scholarships, two of them being $4,000 each and the other two being $2,000 each.

In all cases the scholarships will be awarded for any university the winners may select.

Cash awards will be given to first, second and third place winners and three "honorable mentions" in each division of both competitions in the 48 states and the District of Columbia. In addition, the 36 winners in the nine regions of the Guild will be given expense-free trips to the National Craftsman's Guild convention next summer at which the scholarship winners will be named.

Both competitions close June 15, 1947. A board of judges, composed of outstanding educators, engineers, inventors and automobile style experts will decide all major awards. In any case where the son of a General Motors employee is judged to be winner, a duplicate award will be made.

Fellow representatives of the Craftsman's Guild will go into public schools throughout the country this Fall to present the Guild program to students.

Thomas P. Archer, vice president and group executive of General Motors, is president of the Craftsman's Guild, which is sponsored by the Fisher Body Division.

"The Craftsman's Guild," Archer said in connection with the announcement of the 1947 competition, "presents an unusual opportunity for youth of today to learn fundamentals and ideals of fine craftsmanship that will serve him well in the world of tomorrow."

A Big Vote of Confidence for Senator Vandenberg

We believe that the re-election of Senator Vandenberg presents a challenge to the people of Michigan. The Senator has taken the voice of our State into the highest councils of domestic affairs and into the peace deliberations of the world. He has given our State a prominence and an influence in world events that is unequalled in our history. His re-election becomes a matter of State pride.

We are proud of Arthur H. Vandenberg. We are proud that he comes from Michigan. He should be re-elected to the U. S. Senate with an extra big vote of confidence. And remember this — no matter how heavy his responsibilities around the world, he has never failed you and our home State when Michigan interests have been at stake in Washington.

Let's get out and vote on Nov. 5. Let's "tell the world" that we support our Senior Senator from Michigan.

This message is published in behalf of 100,000 citizens from all 83 Counties of Michigan who placed Senator Vandenberg in nomination in June.

Archery Season For Deer Hunting May Set a Record

Michigan's deer hunters who go at it the Indian style—with bow and arrow, are increasing rapidly. From 1944 to 1945 the number increased from 1,200 to more than 2,000. The number this year is even greater.

Dr. Arnold O. Haugen of the Michigan department of conservation and Michigan State College extension service, has prepared a small bulletin on bow and arrow hunting. Copies may be obtained by writing Dr. Haugen at the conservation department, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

The information must be authentic. Dr. Haugen was the first Michigan bow hunter to kill his deer in the 1946 season. He made his kill the opening day of the season in the Allegan forest.

Fish Supplants Meat As a Health Dish

If you're an economical housewife interested in your family's health, you're serving lots of fish this month. According to Mary Woodward, home demonstration agent, fish will give you that necessary protein you are missing these meatless days.

When you're serving those fish fried in deep fat, Miss Woodward suggests that you intrigue your family with a new recipe popular in the deep south. The recipe is for "hush puppies" and they're cooked in the hot grease along with the fish. You'll be making good use of that precious fat.

Mix 2 cups of enriched corn meal, 1 tablespoon enriched flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder and 1 tablespoon salt. To this add 6 tablespoons chopped onion. Then add one whole egg and 2 cups of buttermilk.

Drop the batter by spoonfuls into the hot grease a few at a time so the "hush puppies" will not cool the grease. When done they will float. Put on paper to drain.

How Would You Like to Live in the "Good Old Days"?

★ Back in grandfather's time, during the final quarter of the last century, things were quite different. There were no movies, no airplanes, no automobiles, few bathrooms, practically no efficient electrical appliances. If you contracted diabetes or pernicious anemia, your days were numbered. Your blood just "changed to sugar" in the former, "to water" in the latter.

There was little protection against virulent epidemics. Smallpox vaccine was the only biological on the market. When diphtheria or typhoid ravaged a community, there was nothing to do but wait it out in hope and dread.

Yes, a return to the "good old days" would mean, among other things, the sacrifice of the major portion of the contribution of medicine and pharmacy to your health and well-being.

Can you spot your state
... and how many more?

This page is framed by all 48 states. They're accurate in outline but not in relative size.

Without peeking into Junior's geography book, find your own state first. Then see how many more you can identify. (Answers buried below.) Ten right means you're bright. Twenty makes you an honor student. Thirty qualifies you as Secretary of States!

So what? So the folks who own America's business-managed electric companies live in every one of these states. They include a lot of your friends and neighbors—and probably you, too.

How come? Well, several million Americans have invested their savings in electric companies directly. Some 48 million more have invested indirectly—through savings bank accounts and life insurance policies. Banks and insurance companies, entrusted with your funds, like to put 'em to work in sound utility securities.

As a result, almost every American family has a stake in the self-supporting, tax-paying electric companies that provide most of America's power. Thanks largely to good business management, the price of electricity has come down while other prices have gone way up—and this country enjoys the best electric service in the world.

Listen to the "NEW ELECTRIC HOUR"—The HOUR OF CHARM. Every Sunday afternoon, 4:30 Eastern Standard Time, Station WJR

THE DETROIT EDISON CO.

The average family in these 48 states gets twice as much electricity for its money as it did 30 years ago!

Abuse of Scissors Can Damage Work

Much used and much abused—that's the story of scissors and shears in too many households. Miss Mary Woodward, home demonstration agent, says scissors, like good knives, are easily damaged and if used for the wrong job they usually do not work efficiently.

Scissors are ordinarily from six to 13 inches long and have one blade heavier than the other. They are designed for cutting fabric.

Scissors, however, are made for snipping and trimming and are usually three to six inches long. They should not be used on heavy fabric because it not only will dull, but will spring them. Once sprung they are permanently damaged. Of course scissors' points are not designed to pry things open. Broken or bent points are usually the result.

Scissors should be protected from rough knocks by hanging

In damp weather, they may need to be protected against rust by wrapping in waxed paper.

Scissors and shears should be oiled at a minimum of every six months. Put a drop of sewing machine oil on both sides of the screw that holds the blades together. Work the blades back and forth and then wipe off excess oil. If rust or dark spots appear, rub off roughness with fine sandpaper or steel wool and rub on a little oil.

It generally pays to take good scissors and shears to an expert for sharpening. They are hard to buy now, and if you have a good pair of either or both, Miss Woodward recommends that you take good care of them.

The home demonstration agent isn't trying to give you one of those "left-handed monkey wrench" stories when she reports that there are left-handed as well as right handed shears. They're not easy to find—but they do exist.

Shooting At Signs Is Costly Practice

Ordinarily decent citizens who would consider it vandalism to chop up direction signs with an ax think nothing of smashing them with shots from a high-powered rifle, and this quirk of hunter character costs the conservation department alone nearly $1,000 a year.

This estimate of cost is based on the fact that 10 per cent of the signs that have to be taken into the department's central repair shop at Gaylord for rebuilding or reconditioning are those damaged by hunters' guns. State and county highway departments, telephone and power companies suffer similar costly damage.

Oil and Gas Lands Go on Auction Block

Auction of oil and gas leases to 31,800 acres of wildcat lands has been approved by the conservation commission for November 1 at Lansing. The sale will be the fourth offering of state-owned lands for oil and gas exploration and development this year.

Most of the acreage offered is in Lake, Oceana and Ogemaw counties, with lesser amounts from Allegan, Arenac, Bay, Gladwin, Mecosta, Missaukee, Newaygo, Saginaw, Roscommon and Wexford counties.

Though many oil companies are relinquishing state leases on acreage far from producing areas, normal interest is being maintained in lands well within the "Michigan basin".

what about ME?

I'm no hero

Sure, I've got a gun, but here's hoping I'll never have to use it.
I'm just a newly drafted rookie

And that's O.K. by me. The other guys

We're not kicking—we're soldiers now, just as our older brothers were you so generously gave them.

Democracy Marches On

Delegates from local units representing the more than 15,000 members of the Michigan Milk Producers Association convene at Lansing on November 7 for their 30th annual meeting.

In the traditional manner of a democracy, these Delegates were elected by the general membership and speak the majority voice of all Association members on matters of major policy and administration.

Because these Delegates represent a large and important segment of all residents of this area, it follows that what is good for MMPA members likewise reacts to the public good.

The inter-dependence of dairy farmer and general public has been recognized by MMPA from its inception 30 years ago.

It has prompted Delegates to foster new scientific safeguards for public health protection;

It has led Delegates to sponsor production methods for increasing the quantity and quality of milk to meet increasing public demands for nature's best food at its very best;

It has enabled Delegates to set up administrative procedures for cooperative marketing and mutual aid which cost less than one per cent of gross sales—far less than administrative costs of the American Red Cross, Community Fund and similar activities;

It has resisted taking temporary advantage of abnormal conditions to obtain "quick money" at the expense of sound long-range planning;

It adopted more than a decade ago the base-and-excess plan which authorities on milk marketing have called the best year-in, year-out program ever devised for the advantage and protection of both milk consumer and milk producer.

Out of this background of successful operation, Delegates on November 7 will lay broad plans for sound future growth.

And action of the Delegates, you may be sure, will adhere to those basic principles of Democracy on which MMPA has operated for more than three decades—Awareness that what is good for the milk producer must be likewise good for the milk consumer.

Crowded Classes Plague U. of M.

The lights are burning late in the University of Michigan Chemistry Building this fall, as 1,750 students in beginning chemistry study where only 900 studied before the war.

The story of crowded classrooms is not a new one at Michigan or elsewhere, but the pressure on facilities for instruction in basic sciences has been particularly intense. Almost every degree program in the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts requires one or more courses in the physical and natural sciences, and the classrooms and laboratories in these subjects are overflowing.

The problem of space has been met by increasing the size of lecture sessions by one-half—lecture rooms are large enough to make this possible. In laboratories, students are doubling up, working as teams of two on experiments rather than individually. Twelve night laboratory classes have been organized. Locker space—chemistry requires considerable experimental equipment for each student—has been provided in hallways. Another emergency measure was the purchase of 300 Army surplus metal lockers in which students store equipment not in use.

Of particular gratification to chemistry professors in the increased enrollment this fall of graduate students. With the exception of persons engaged in war research, there were no draft deferments for advanced science students, with the result that the country now suffers a serious deficit of young scientists, Dr. C. E. Schoepfle, chemistry department chairman, explains.

This fall there are 115 graduate students in chemistry, and 40 of these are employed as part-time teaching fellows. They direct laboratory work and thus make possible the instruction of the enormous enrollment in beginning courses. All lectures are given by regular members of the faculty.

An addition to the Chemistry Building is now under construction as a result of the appropriation of the Legislature early this year. However, it will be some time in 1948 before the construction can be completed.

County Government Criticized in State

Four basic defects exist in Michigan's form of county government, two members of the University of Michigan Bureau of Government declare.

Robert S. Ford, director, and Claude R. Tharp, research associate, list these defects as follows:

1. No over-all administrative head.

2. A complicated administrative organization in which there is considerable duplication of functions between agencies.

3. A board of supervisors that is too large and possesses both legislative and administrative powers.

4. A "bed sheet" ballot of elective officials. One reason for the long list of elective officials is the failure to distinguish between administrative and policy-determining functions, which results in the existing practice of electing both types of officials.

"Any plan for the reorganization of county government should be judged with reference to those four basic defects and the extent to which it corrects them," Ford and Tharp assert in a pamphlet just published. It is entitled "Reorganization of Michigan's County Government."

On even the best roads—every mile you travel, the chassis of your car is taking a beating. It's a good idea to check those springs, brakes and shock absorbers at least twice a year.

First Concrete Mile Was Laid in Detroit

Ever wonder when and where the first mile of concrete pavement was laid?

According to information in the Transportation Library of the University of Michigan, it was laid in 1909 on Woodward Avenue, between Six and Seven Mile roads in Wayne County. The concrete portion of the road was 18 feet wide.

The original stretch was extended the following year, and, in 1918, was widened six feet because it was found inadequate for traffic of over 10,000 vehicles a day.

This early concrete road attracted the attention of road engineers' delegations, and city, state and county road officials from all the states and every Canadian province.

Official delegations from England, France, Holland, Java, Bornéo, Ceylon, South Africa, Japan, Peru, Australia, New Zealand and other countries visited the road and studied methods developed by the Wayne County Road Commission.

In 1922, after 13 years of carrying the heaviest traffic of any county road in America, the road was torn up. Way had to be cleared to permit the extension of expanding Detroit's standard city streets.

One of the most puzzling problems facing the road engineers when they constructed the first mile was how to allow for expansion and contraction of the concrete.

Three methods were tried. The materials which were placed between various sections of the road were: a southern pine board one-half inch wide; a composition of asphalt, still wax and pitch; and, two thicknesses of three-ply tar paper. In 1910, it was decided to use a specially prepared tar paper.

years earlier—1539. It was located in Mexico City and Zumarraga's "Doctrina Breve" is a 1543 product of it.

Mexico issued stamps to commemorate the 400th and true anniversary of the introduction of printing into America and to correct the erroneous impression conveyed by the U. S. government.

Stamp Makers Pull a 'Boner'

Uncle Sam's stamp makers made a mistake!

During the celebration of the semi-millennium of the invention of printing from movable type in western Europe, the U. S. Post Office issued a stamp commemorating the 300th anniversary of printing in colonial America, 1639-1939.

But papers in the University of Michigan's Clements Library indicate there was a printing press in colonial America one hundred

Brides Go Old-Fashioned

Traditional satin for the Fall and Winter bride—designed with panter-draped skirt and snug, shirred bodice.

THIS year's bride may seem to be wearing great grandmother's wedding dress. More often than not, it will be a case of "something borrowed" by New York's famous designers of bridal gowns—an enchanting bustle, a hoop or two, or an off-shoulder neckline—from the days of long ago. The creamy-white picture dress shown above, although as new as tomorrow's bride, might easily have stepped out of an Eighteenth Century album.

Other bridal dresses for Fall and Winter get away altogether from the heirloom or traditional type. A lovely white jersey dress is styled along long torso lines, with a trained tunic skirt, and a beautiful bridal gown of silver lame is fashioned with a high-necked long-sleeved bodice, moulded midriff and slim skirt extended into a train.

Satin continues to be preferred by most brides, and is expected to be more plentiful this season and next. Other materials, all of them used quite as effectively, are marquisette, taffeta, brocade and damask. The accompanying bridesmaids' dresses are frequently of the same fabric, or they are made of marquisette or net, and usually in vivid pastels or jewel tones.

There will be a Halloween party at the church Thursday night, Oct. 31, from 6:30 to 9:30. The children of the community are invited. There will be prizes, refreshments and a bon-fire.

On Nov. 2 there will be a congregational meeting to ratify the by-laws. Members and friends are urged to attend.

Pretty Aprons Not Always Practical

The aprons you are making now for Christmas bazaars or gifts are probably very pretty, but are they practical? Mary Woodward, county home demonstration agent, warns that every apron has a job to do and should be practical as well as pretty.

Miss Woodward, suggests that you test your pattern by checking some of the things that make an apron practical. Will the shoulder straps "stay put"? They should be anchored firmly in back, well above the waistline. A pinafore is a good style but make it with a button at the back of the neck and a tie at the waist. If it buttons all the way down the back, it will be too hard to put on.

Is the apron free from dangling bows and ruffles which are a hazard around fires and catch on everything? Ruffles and gathers also make aprons hard to iron. A belt that ties in back make aprons adjustable, but a fluffy bow will be a nuisance, so make it narrow.

Dairymen's Banquet At Waterford Nov. 11

The annual Dairymen's Banquet will be held at the Waterford Community Hall on the evening of November 11, 1946.

Final plans for the affair are completed and it is expected that between 300 and 400 farmers and other interested people will attend. The program for the evening will include vocal selections by Ray Frank of Rochester; a reading by Walter Cook, Oakland County ACA chairman; remarks by Lawrence Johnson, Dairy Extension Specialist of Michigan State College; short talks by Karl D. Bailey, Oakland County Agricultural Agent on "The 1947 Dairy Outlook" and E. W. Alchin, Assistant County Agricultural Agent on "Our Expanding Dairy Program." The main speaker for the evening will be William Otto of the Lansing Chamber of Commerce, formerly of Pontiac.

Dinner will be served at 7:30. The meeting is open to the public.

Contour Farming Conserves Soil

Here is proof that contour farming saves soil and water and increases crop yields. South West of Fenton in Genesee County test plots were set up in 1938. The plots are each one 1/100 of an acre in size and a four year rotation of corn, oats and hay is followed. Some of the plots were farmed up and down the slope and others on the contour. The results of the trial have been watched by farmers in Oakland County, who have made periodical tours to the run-off plots according to Karl D. Bailey, County Agricultural Agent.

Plots up-and-down the slope had an average soil loss eight times greater than those on the contour. Corn land farmed up-and-down the slope lost 100 times more soil than a plot planted in hay.

Run-off water has also been measured and figured on the basis of the total amount of rain falling. On the up-and-down farming of corn 43 per cent of the moisture was lost in run-off as compared to but 23 per cent when farmed on the contour. Oats planted up-and-down the slope lost 42 per cent of the rainfall while plots planted on the contour saved all but 31 per cent of the moisture.

The difference was slight, however, on hay plots. Up-and-down farming resulted in a loss of 20 per cent compared with 17 per cent in contour farming.

Meat Situation Is a Complex Thing, Experts Tell Us

The producer, the packer, the retailer and the consumer must all four be satisfied before ideal conditions again exist in the livestock industry. That is the opinion of George A. Brown, veteran head of the animal husbandry department of Michigan State College.

Declaring that prices the first few days after government controls were lifted could not and should not be maintained, Brown said continuation of such prices would result in disaster for the livestock industry.

The producer, he maintains, must receive a sufficient return to maintain adequate production. The wholesaler and retailer must be guaranteed a continuous supply and a reasonable profit. The consumer must be able to fill his needs at a price in keeping with his income.

Referring to the prices existing the first week after controls were removed, Brown said they would curtail consumption by low income groups and would cause overproduction. If these prices lasted any length of time they would be followed by ruinously low prices.

Past experience has proved, Brown says, that prices too high to the consumer, or too low to the producer, seriously hamper the industry. "It is up to the good judgement of the farmers and livestock producers of the country to see that neither of these conditions prevail," the animal husbandry department head said.

Brown predicted unstable and fluctuating livestock markets during the coming year with the general trend working lower. He believes that unless restraint is used, the number of sows bred this fall and the number of steers placed on feed may result in burdensome supplies. That would result in prices lower than is desirable from the standpoint of all branches of the industry before the end of 1947.

Troubled by the new "hazard" to game supplies in the convenience of deep-freeze lockers, "Virginia Wildlife" discusses a proposal to include in hunting and fishing licenses a pledge permitting inspection of the license holder's home frozen food lockers at any time.

Trapping Season Starts This Week Throughout State

Farmers and farm boys now collecting and cleaning their traps for the three-month trapping season that starts November 1, are again concerned about the weather.

With two years of adverse trapping conditions fresh in their memory, muskrat trappers are wondering what this summer's drouth has done to the 1946 rat population. Since southern Michigan ponds and potholes began drying up in midsummer, migrating muskrats have been turning up in odd places—killed by cars on country roads and caught by dogs near suburban homes. On Great Lakes marshes, changing water levels have killed cattails and other marsh vegetation on which muskrats feed.

Conservation department records show last year's muskrat take to be less than 500,000 pelts, where the harvest in peak years is more than a million, and worth more than a million dollars.

Mink, which are trapped during the muskrat season and hunted over a longer period, were more plentiful last season than in the year before, and good prices were paid for the 1945 crop of 53,400 pelts.

Raccoon hunters and trappers have the best prospects, as coon numbers continue to increase. Some 70,000 were taken in 1944, 88,700 in 1945, and current reports are favorable. Skunk and badger, the other furbearers on which seasons are fixed, have the smallest yields of all, about 26,000 and 2,000 pelts, respectively, in 1945.

Hunting and trapping seasons for furbearers are unchanged from what they were a year ago. Muskrat and mink may be trapped November 1-30 in the upper peninsula, November 15-December 15 in northern lower Michigan, and December 1-31 in southern Michigan, with an extra month's trapping to January 31, in Lake Erie marshes. Mink also may be hunted during November, December and January in the lower peninsula.

Badgers and skunks may be taken in any part of the state during November, December and January. There is no closed season on opossum.

Raccoon may be hunted in Delta and Menominee counties of the upper peninsula November 1-14, and in all the lower peninsula November 1-December 15.
