CONFIRMATION SERVICES AT LUTHERAN CHURCH

A very impressive service was conducted by the Rev. Philip A. Jordan at Christ Lutheran Church Sunday morning when eight young people were confirmed. Four of the class were baptized at this service and include Ronald Grover, Jean Larkin, Lucretia McEvers and Gloria DeLap. Other members of the class were Lynn Wyckoff, Tommy Eddy, Lloyd Edward Gidley and Patricia Wood. After the class had been confirmed the members received their first communion. The silver plated communion set which was used for the first time was recently given the church by Mrs. Robert Anderson of Grosse Pointe. The class gift to the church was folders to hold special music for the choir and an altar service book and stand.

 The class will be dinner guests at the parsonage on Friday. This was the third class of young people to be confirmed in this church which celebrated its second anniversary last month.
 Pastor Jordan announced during the service that there will be a service at the church at 10:00 a. m. on Thanksgiving Day.

Mrs. Virginia McGuire, high school English teacher at the village school, has resigned to move to Canada with her husband whose work carries him there. Mrs. McGuire was replaced last Monday morning by Mrs. Mary Ellen Creyts.

The choir members from Christ Lutheran Church report having had a grand time last Friday evening when Mrs. Martin Wager entertained with a Hallowe'en party at her home which was well decorated for the occasion. This was a costume party and several came in costumes which would have taken prizes at any party. One of the big attractions of the evening was the spook house which several of the boys had worked hard to make ready for the gruesome occasion. Fortune telling made lots of fun as did charades. Refreshments were served from a table decorated in Hallowe'en colors by Mrs. Albert Dryden, Jean Larkin, Lucretia McEvers and Evelyn Brill.

The next party will be at the home of Mrs. Roland Grover who will be assisted by her son Ronald and Donna Kay Lambertson and Martha Davidson.

On Wednesday, October 30, the Waterford Cubs of Pack 31 and their families enjoyed a roller skating party at the Huron Rink on M-59. Dick Gorman of den five was given first prize for the funniest mask with Jerry Callahan of den one winning second. For the funniest hat Dean Grafmiller won first and Ronny Corral second. Both boys are from den two. A grand march was led by Mrs. George Attwater and Calvin Holton and was directed by Arthur Haynes. A special treat was an exhibition of fancy roller skating by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Main of Pontiac. George Attwater, cubmaster, was chairman for this party.

A cake-walk and pie-promenade will also be featured. In the line of entertainment there will be continuous movies, fortune telling, and an amateur boxing show by the upper grades.

The highlight of the evening will be the raffle at 9 o'clock of a gold mounted Eversharp pen and pencil set.

Each room of the school, with the help of the room mothers, is sponsoring a booth or is taking part in the entertainment. Scout organizations will also be presented. Prizes are to be awarded to the most attractive and appropriately decorated booth.

Eleven members of Christ Lutheran Church attended the installation service at Gethsemane Lutheran Church in Berkeley Monday evening. The Rev. Neil Pearson of Chicago was installed as the regular pastor of that church.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Giddings and small daughter Nancy Lou spent the weekend near Clair.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Quinn were honorees of a party following the weekly prayer meeting at the Community Church last Wednesday. The Quinn's plan to spend the next year in Florida. They were given a gift to take along. Refreshments were enjoyed.

Hatchery Employee Hooks Record Trout

Though Basil Hubbell's job is raising trout at Grayling hatchery for the Grayling district, employees of the Paris hatchery are not letting him forget that he had to go to Newaygo County in the Paris district to take the season's record fly-caught brown trout—a 27 inch, 7-pound 12-ounce specimen.

Basil's brother Arnold, who also is a World War II veteran and Grayling hatchery employee, tried unsuccessfully to beat his brother's record, fishing in waters of the home district. The family contest is to be continued next season.

Taking note of the disposition of "grass pike," commonly called pickerel" being taken from one of the lakes near Ludington, the public domain commission in January, 1917, officially declared that grass pike is not to be considered obnoxious fish within the meaning of the act providing for removal of obnoxious fish from the waters of this state.

Wild Game Must Be Prepared Properly

While most hunting is done for recreation, hunters this season are thinking of the value of the meat. Proper preparation of wild game is important. Game should be dressed soon after killing so it can be presented to the housewife in an edible and attractive condition.

Of valuable information to the sportsman and those called upon to prepare wild game for the table is a bulletin "Good Eating from Woods and Fields." The publication, Extension Bulletin 252, was published by the Michigan State College extension service and the Michigan Department of Conservation. It is available without charge from county agricultural extension offices or can be obtained by writing: The Bulletin Room, Department of Public Relations, Michigan State College.

The idea that a mink coat is a social asset didn't originate with the modern woman—the mink had it first. An explanatory note for a display at the University of Michigan Museums, showing a mink in a habitat group, declares that the "mink is a rather social animal who seems to enjoy meeting his fellows for a hunting excursion".

THE HILLTOPPER

MISS MARIAN MARTIN

The old saying "good things come in small packages" is true in this case. May we present Miss Marian Martin? A cheery smile and fine sense of humor help her make the first graders very satisfied with school these days.

Miss Martin graduated from Battle Creek High School. She went on to Battle Creek College, tried Central Michigan Normal, and ended up with a bachelor's degree from Western State. Since then she has gone to summer school at Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor where she is working on a master's degree in "sight saving" with the elementary special education department.

Although Miss Martin comes to us from Tecumseh where she taught fourth grade, she was well known to Mr. Brablec before because she taught in Britton before going to Tecumseh.

During previous summers she has done a great variety of things but most interesting was her work in the Neuro-Psychiatric Institute at Ann Arbor where she helped give mental patients the electric shock treatment.

Miss Martin says her hobby is sewing.

SPEECH ASSEMBLY

Last week Wednesday, Mrs. Clark's speech class presented its first assembly for the high school. Marian Emery, as master of ceremonies, introduced four pantomimes.

"The Movie" with a cast of Jennie and Jerry Schroeder, Dona Blivin, Lyn Kreger, and Donna Gobel was a wordless picture of two nasty little girls and their mother annoying another moviegoer. Betty Dewey and Eleanor Oswald illustrated the price of beauty by showing a beauty operator mauling a customer. In "The Knockout", Harvey Beach assisted Jack Roy, Jack Withington seconded Denny Warden and Ivan Rouse refereed in a boxing match in which Jack Roy went down for the count. "The Fly" was an episode in a restaurant where two teen-agers, Donna Gobel and Jenny Schroeder disturbed the other customers, Lorraine Kimmins, Lorraine Allen and Barbara Rioux and the waitress, Dona Blivin, with their gum chewing, spaghetti eating, and finally, by finding a fly in the food.

Clarkston's debate squad—Barbara Rioux, Pat A. Watson, Ken Hempstead, Harvey Beach and Dean Van Camp, accompanied Mr. Ridgley, debate coach, to Utica Wednesday at one o'clock to hear an exhibition debate between the University of Michigan and Western Reserve teams.

SENIOR SCOUTS

A troop of Senior Girl Scouts has been organized in Clarkston by Mrs. Walter Barrows. The girls will meet every Thursday night at 7:30 in the township hall. They have begun dressing dolls in the garb of a typical U. S. bobbi-soxer which they will exchange with dolls of foreign countries dressed by Girl Scouts or Girl Guides of other lands. Betty Wilson, Betty Nicholas, Ruth Thomas, Peggy Brown, Grace and Eleanor Oswald, Lyn Kreger, Melva Shiel and others have joined the group. Any girl fourteen years old or over is eligible to join.

EIGHTH GRADERS

Miss Kloock's eighth grade home economics class is busy helping Santa Claus. From the samples to be seen on the "home ec" bulletin board, members of the class's family will be delighted with their stockings Christmas morning. Dainty aprons made from feed sacks or handkerchiefs, South American flavored label pins, holders, stuffed animals in bright colors, and many other items are being made.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS

In alternate drizzle and mist the Wolves met the Bloomfield Hills eleven last Friday. Although the opponents went over the goal in the first quarter, a backfield in motion penalty gave the Clarkston the ball on downs and the touchdown did not count.

Since it was impossible to handle the ball on passes both teams kept to the ground and sloshed through two quarters with no score. In the third quarter

Bloomfield Hills scored and made the extra point after touchdown. This was the only score in the game. The final result was Bloomfield Hills 7, Clarkston 0.

Clarkston's starting line-up was Smith, Davison, Greathouse, Fell, Adams, Stitt, Anderson, Sutphen, Kidder, Dubats and Ludwig.

LAKE ORION

Today the Clarkston Wolves play their first game of the year. They meet the Lake Orion eleven there.

DR. JOHNSTON

Last Friday, Dr. Edgar Johnston from the education department of the University of Michigan visited Clarkston School. Dr. Johnston's report will determine Clarkston's eligibility for the university's accredited list.

CONFERENCE

Last Thursday Mr. Wallace Ridgley, principal, attended a conference at Ann Arbor. The purpose of the meeting was to study the school's responsibilities to business and industry.

ACCIDENT

Hallowe'en pranks have far reaching affects. Mr. Bob Boyens, in repairing the broken window in the door of Mr. Brablec's office, took a bad cut on his head from falling glass. Four stitches were necessary.

SENIOR PLAY

Tonight's the night! The seniors present "Seven Sisters", a play of romance and intrigue. For weeks Mrs. Clark has been coaching the cast in their lines and expression. New settings, something different in lighting affect, and expert supervision of the dramatic work should make this a production you won't want to miss.

That's tonight, in the Clarkston Auditorium, at eight o'clock. Don't miss it!

JUNIOR DANCE

The juniors of Clarkston School will sponsor their first dance Friday, November 22, in the school auditorium. It will be a combined dance and carnival with the doors opening at 8 o'clock and the dance beginning at 9 o'clock.

Jerry Kidder will preside as master of ceremonies and the general managers are Donna McDermott and Mary Jo Pettengill. Raymond Day is chairman of the advertising and Ellen Rockwell is chairman of refreshments.

Among the activities of the carnival are: CHS and World pins (Joyce Fosdick, chairman); shooting gallery (Dale Sutphen, chairman); ten pins (Ronald Pearsal, chairman); fun house (Pat A. Watson, chairman) and ping pong (Marjorie Jones, chairman). There will also be a popularity contest for the juniors managed by Mary Keelean and Jack Doyle, a mystery auction (Dean Van Camp) and a floor show directed by Joan Johnston, Shirley Powell and Mary Jo Pettengill.

Preparations Made For Deer Protection

Preparing for the time when a severe winter will succeed the three recent mild ones and catch the state's expanded deer herd short of winter food, the conservation commission has voted $25,000 for preparation of an emergency cutting program in state-owned deeryards.

The plan calls for cutting by private operators under the usual timber cutting permits, wherever possible, but cutting would be at the places and times where deer food—in this case the tops of cedar trees—was most needed.

The department's game and forestry divisions will select areas and make arrangements with timber cutters so cutting can be done this winter if necessary. While planning this "relief operation", game men emphasize that it is a temporary measure, and not a long-range solution to the problem of managing the size of the deer herd.

Under the one-buck law, deer in some areas at times have increased to the point of literally "eating themselves out of house and home" in the deeryards.

"Green" Hunters Disregard Rules

Chief gripe encountered by conservation department game men interviewing waterfowl hunters in the first week of the season was neither the weather nor the supply of ducks, but the green, ignorant, selfish, unsportsmanlike, sky-shooting novice hunters. Gunners in the field call them names considerably stronger.

Some beginning hunters were observed firing at ducks "coming in" when they were still 200 yards away. Old timers know that the consistent killing range of the average shotgun is about 45 yards, and that beyond that the hunter is lucky to do more than cripple a bird.

Neighboring hunters whose shooting is spoiled by the ignorant beginners have no legal remedy for the spoiling of their sport. They do say the honorable sportsman will find out in practice what his gun can do, use it intelligently in the field, and treat other hunters as he would like to be treated by them.

Ground water levels in north central lower Michigan continued to decline for the sixth successive month in September, when they were three-tenths of a foot below the 10-year average. This low stage still is four-tenths of a foot above the lowest September stage.

1. Any lump or thickening, especially of the breast.
2. Irregular bleeding or discharge from any of the body openings.
3. Any sore that does not heal.
4. Persistent indigestion.
5. Sudden changes in the form or growth of a mole or wart.
6. Hoarseness persisting for two or three weeks.
7. Regional pain.

Apple Juice is Now "Big Business" In Michigan

"We are sorry, but we are not making cider this year."

That's the way your inquiry about cider is being answered at Michigan State College this fall.

Dr. H. B. Tukey, head of the horticulture department, explains that behind that statement lies a story of success which centers around Dr. E. Marshall of the department. He is recognized as one of the nation's authorities in fruit processing and handling.

"To go back a few years," says Dr. Tukey, "cider was just cider." It was made from poor grades of apples of inferior and questionable quality. It was not an article that rated very high in polite society.

But we all know it is difficult for an apple grower to produce only large, highly-colored apples. There are certain to be some apples which are sound, but which are lacking in that bright red color and good size which helps them to sell on the market. What should be done with them? Should we throw them away?

Dr. Marshall envisioned a superior and standardized product made from those good apples, and he chose to call it "apple juice" rather than cider. Each year he worked in the laboratory in the horticulture building studying the best process. He tried different varieties and different grades of apples. He tried various methods of processing, filtering and clarification.

But the proof of the pudding is in the eating. No matter how fine the apple juice looked or tasted to Dr. Marshall, he preferred to rely on the reaction of the consuming public. Different batches and processes were offered to the consumer and the reaction and acceptance was noted. Those were the days when students and faculty and East Lansing people were able to buy apple juice at the college. They were being used as human guinea pigs.

Out of it all came the establishment of a process for making apple juice which now uses more than one-half million bushels of sound but small, poorly-colored, or slightly blemished Michigan apples. Other states played an important part too. In fact, the process has been so successful that the national apple juice pack reached nearly three million cases in 1944. That used more than 2,500,000 bushels of apples. In short, apple juice is big business.

"Now that the apple juice industry is established, the college, as its policy, has withdrawn from the possibility of competing with private industry and has turned to other lines of research and development," continues Dr. Tukey. "So if you look into the laboratory of the horticulture building at Michigan State College these days, in place of apple juice you will see fruits and vegetables under test in various transparent wraps and in small consumer packages. If these studies prove as effective as Dr. Marshall's work with apple juice has been, they may expect in turn to give way to other lines of research as 'science marches on.'"

Danger of Fire Alerts Game Men

A 30-acre fire of accidental origin at Rose Lake wildlife experiment station has made station attendants anxious for rain before hunters invade the area in numbers.

Cover on a wild land section, powder-dry after the summer drought, flashed into a fast-running fire. Lespedeza, a field crop grown on poor land for soil improvement, proved an exceptional fire hazard when dry. Some young pine plantings were lost.

Making the most of a misfortune, Rose Lake game men are making a special study area of the burn. They will observe the natural rate of return of vegetation, and the extent to which game animals use the scorched area.

Three "C's" Mean Cash for Dairymen

Although mathematics teachers may not figure it that easy, Dr. G. M. Trout, professor of dairy manufactures at Michigan State College, says three "C's" add up to make more of one large "C."

The three "C's" to which Dr. Trout refers are those of quality milk production. By keeping milk clean, cold and covered, the dairy department specialist says it will mean more cash. That's the large "C" to which he refers—and the one in which most farmers are concerned.

Contrary to opinions of many, the aeration of milk is not necessary. It is true that for years most farmers left the milk in open cans or vats where it was exposed to the air. Experiments show that aeration does remove some of the off-odors which may get into milk. But Dr. Trout says that's unnecessary if the farmer keeps the odors out of his milk.

Proper stable ventilation and the feeding of odor-producing feeds such as silage, after milking is completed is the best solution. Straining of milk on the farm should not be necessary, Dr. Trout adds. He reports that some plants require that milk is not to be strained before being delivered to the plant. These plant operators want to be sure the milk is produced under conditions which will not allow extraneous matter to fall into the milk.

People, when questioned why they drink milk, usually answer: "Because I like it." Dr. Trout reports. The good flavor and high quality of milk go hand in hand and the farmers can maintain their good market only by producing better milk, he explains.

Feeding Program Benefits Fresh Cows

It's good, sound business to prepare your cows for freshening with a good feeding program. Money spent on feed for a milk cow during her six-week to two-month dry period before freshening will return milk production in months ahead that will pay the costs many times.

Karl D. Bailey, county agricultural agent, says fall and winter freshening cows show good production record for the year is during the six-week to two-month vacation time the cow has before freshening.

Feeding of liberal amounts of bright high quality roughage and from 6 to 10 pounds of grain daily is recommended. It permits the cow to build up milk-making material which adds production after freshening time.

A good grain mixture to use is 800 pounds of wheat, 200 pounds of corn, 100 pounds of high-protein concentrate or other protein feed. In addition to the grain and roughage, the cow should receive salt, preferable iodized. In some instances cobalt sulfate is recommended. Always provide milk cows with plenty of water.

The county agent says records at Michigan State College for the dairy herd improvement associations over the state show that an average of 3,000 cows a day will freshen in Michigan from September to April.

Store Vegetables To Prevent Waste

Your garden harvest probably approached an all-time high this year. Now you are faced with the problem of storing those late vegetable crops so that nothing is wasted. Many of them can be stored "as is" if proper storage methods are used. Dr. Pauline Paul, foods and nutrition specialist at Michigan State College, offers some suggestions.

When you are preparing your vegetables or fruit for storage be sure to discard any which show signs of injury or decay. One poor apple can spoil a whole bin. For late cabbage, potatoes, parsnips, turnips, beets, carrots, apples and ears, choose a cool damp, well-ventilated spot in your basement. Outdoor storage cellars or root cellars are even better. Earth is the best floor, and with good ventilation, proper temperature can be maintained in outdoor storages.

Store dried beans, peas and onions in a dry, cool place. Beans are best stored in sealed containers. Moderately cool, dry storage is adequate for pumpkins, squashes and sweet potatoes.

Good ventilation is necessary to carry off odors and maintain proper temperature and moisture in any storage bin.

Tomorrow you'll be glad you waited today...

Waiting for a new motor car isn't exactly the easiest or most pleasant experience in the world. But the saying about patience having its own reward holds doubly true when your patience is rewarded by delivery of a gleaming, new Pontiac "Silver Streak".

Up to now Pontiac production has been limited for reasons beyond our control. Now production is increasing. As of today, it's still below anticipations. But the trend is definitely encouraging. Which means that your wait is being shortened every day.

And when you do become the proud owner of a new Pontiac, you'll be mighty glad you waited—and your feeling of gladness will grow with every passing month and mile. Because in every way, the new Pontiac measures up to the phrase, "Finest of the Famous Silver Streaks". In dependability and economy it lives up to its great war-won reputation. It looks, handles, rides and feels like the quality car it is. It's a value that will endure over the years—something well worth waiting for!

PRESERVE AND PROTECT YOUR PRESENT CAR
Until you are definitely assured of a new automobile, keep your present car in a safe, satisfactory condition. While we are prepared to service all makes of cars, we are PONTIAC SPECIALISTS—employing factory-trained mechanics and using highest quality parts. Make use of our low-cost service for your protection.

Andersonville News

The Andersonville Parent-Teacher Association will meet at the school on Thursday, Nov. 14, at 2:30. A program by the children is being planned. Everyone is asked to help with the waste paper drive being sponsored by the P.T.A. You are asked to tie all bundles and leave them in the carriage shed back of the church.

The Andersonville Home Extension Club will be organized at the church house on Tuesday evening, Nov. 19, at 7:15. All women interested are invited to attend. Officers will be elected at this meeting, which will open promptly and close at 10 o'clock. The lesson will be on "Christmas Gifts". Those wishing to make door decorations are requested to bring a coat hanger, some evergreen branches, green cord or light weight wire, pins and shears. You are also asked to bring note paper and pencil.

The Ladies' Aid of the Andersonville Church met at the church house on Wednesday. A delicious dinner was served at 12 o'clock. A business meeting was held in the afternoon. They voted to each donate a dress to the Ruth Alden drive, the dresses to be given to Mrs. Carl Ganther by Nov. 22. Roll Call was answered with a verse on Thanksgiving. Mrs. Henry Birge was in charge of a short Thanksgiving program.

The Halloween party sponsored by the Sunday School was a grand success. About 90 attended. The hayride created a lot of fun. The hay wagon carrying the older group was drawn by a tractor and the low wagon used by the smaller children was drawn by horses. When the crowd returned to the church house the costumes were judged and prizes were given. Several games were played and refreshments were served. The evening passed so quickly that many of the games planned had to be forgotten, consequently there were several prizes left. So, on November 22nd there will be another party at the church house and everyone is invited.
