FIRE DESTROYS COMMUNITY BUILDING

Loss Estimated at $25,000; Origin of Blaze Is Unknown

Waterford, Keego Harbor and Clarkston Fire Depts. Battle Flames for 4 Hours

Tuesday night, fire levelled the Community Activities Building in Waterford.

Waterford, Keego Harbor and Clarkston fire departments fought the stubborn blaze for four hours. The alarm came in at 10:21 p. m. but a strong wind fanned the flames, and a lack of water facilities caused the firemen to resort to pumping water from Huntington Lake, about a half mile from the fire.

There had been three meetings held in the building during the course of the evening, but the building was not occupied at the time the fire broke out. The blaze was first discovered by a passing motorist who did not reveal his name.

The property was valued at $25,000 of which only $12,000 was covered by insurance. The contents of the buildings, including some 2,845 books in the community library and two new ping-pong tables, were completely destroyed and were not covered by insurance.

The frame structure was converted into a civic center by the Community Activities, Inc. in March of 1944. Since then it has attracted considerable attention from far and wide due to the almost continuous use it has served in providing a community meeting place and entertainment spot for the public at large. Over 8,000 persons have used the building in a thirty-day period, which is believed to be somewhat of a record for a community house of this size.

Between 200 and 300 young people had used the building each Wednesday night. The Catholic and Lutheran churches had the use of the building on Sundays. It was also used by several other organizations, including the Rotary Club, community library, American Legion and Auxiliary, Woman's Club, O.D.O., Youth Groups, Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts.

The building will be sadly missed by the people of the community.

New Plans Being Made

Harry Harrup, president of Community Activities, Incorporated, has called a special meeting of the board of directors for 8 o'clock this evening (Friday). There will be a membership meeting in the very near future.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Waterford-Drayton Rotary Club will be held at the Township Hall at 8 o'clock this evening (Friday).

Services of Christ Lutheran Church will continue at either the Waterford Village School or the Williams Lake School beginning this Sunday. Members will be notified as to the correct location before Sunday morning.

Lloyd Gidley and Don Weaver have announced that they are attempting to locate a new building for the modern and old time dances that have been a feature every Saturday night. They hope to be able to continue these dances without interruption. At the time of going to press they were still negotiating for a building.

Mrs. O. L. Siegman, chairman of the Community Library Committee, is asking all persons having books out to turn them in at Jacob's Market. The committee is especially anxious to have all State Library books turned in. Plans are to continue the library project as soon as another location is available.

Ever Hear of a LAZY LAMP BULB?

PROBABLY NOT. Every year, electric lamp bulbs are doing a better and better job.

But lamp bulbs are often overworked in winter—when the days are dark and the nights are long. In fact, the average lamp bulb in the home is lighted almost twice as long in January as in July.

To spare yourself needless bother, be sure you have plenty of spare bulbs on hand. Your dealer has them—in all sizes—and all modestly priced.

Remember, too, that you can exchange burned-out bulbs for new ones at any Edison office. There's no charge, of course.

Mrs. Monzelle Clark was in Philadelphia and New York seeing some of the season's big time theatrical productions. Miss Campbell was in Chicago on a similar visit.

Miss Niblack, Miss Martin and Mr. Brablec spent a week in the country in the southern part of the state. Mr. and Mrs. Ridgley were in Kalamazoo and Three Rivers. Mr. Thayer and Mr. Bonner went to Ypsilanti, and to the northern part of the state. Mr. Lamb was at his home in Ann Arbor throughout the vacation and Miss Beck was with her parents in Monroe.

Miss Bachand visited her parents in St. Clair county. The rest of the teachers stayed in Clarkston.

NEW YEAR'S DANCE

1947 was ushered in with a bang at Clarkston High School when the school's Student Council, supervised by Mr. Ridgley, held its annual New Year's Eve Dance.

A diamond shaped string of bright lights trimmed with tinsel icicles surrounded the gym. Spike Masters and his band were seated on the stage. Returned alumni from the armed services and colleges made the dance a homecoming affair, greatly enjoyed by all. At ten minutes of 12 the grand march led by Frank Ronk and Kate LaPlante paraded through the halls and ended up at one of the doors where each person received noisemakers. After the grandmarch everyone sang "Old Lang Syne".

This year's student council consists of Harold Smith, president; Bill Ludwig, business manager; Shirley Burns, secretary; Gene Greathouse, Charles McGee, Marilyn Kennedy, John Adams, Carolyn Yoder, Jim Hack and Ken Senkler.

War Surplus Has Increase in Volume

Disposal of war surplus was definitely "big business" in Michigan in 1946.

A year-end report by H. F. Eckfeld, regional director of War Assets Administration for Michigan showed these figures:

Disposal of capital and consumer goods costing $149,000,000. Recovery in cash to the government held steadily at slightly more than 42 per cent.

A monthly increase in sales since April, when WAA was set up in the state. Totals of more than $6,000,000 were reached four times in November and December. In October, sales averaged $2,000,000 a week, but are more than $5,000,000 now.

Acquisition of $445,000,000 worth of surplus by the Detroit office in 1946. In addition to a cash return of approximately $62,000,000 from this inventory, sales and leases of real property returned $20,670,360 and $6,500,000 respectively; scrap disposals totaled $3,700,000, and items value at approximately $1,000,000 were disposed of without reimbursement, the latter accounted for chiefly by donations to educational institutions in all parts of Michigan.

December inventory, exclusive of real property and automotive parts, was $285,000,000. Disposals were only one and a half per cent in December. Disposals are now exceeding acquisitions for the first time and all operations are on a current basis.

At the end of the war, the government had an investment in Michigan of $361,780,000 in land, buildings and equipment.

Forty-two plants, valued at $36,522,000, have already been sold by WAA and have been converted to peacetime production. Return in cash has been $20,670,360. Fourteen plants have been leased for an annual rental of $1,313,307. Forty-two plants remain for disposal, including magnesium plants at Marysville and Bay City, an aircraft engine factory in Muskegon and installations at the Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn. These four properties alone represent an investment of $96,879,000.

Government-owned industrial equipment valued at $6,500,000 is still under lease to private operators in several plants, producing an annual income of $660,000.

Cost of sales in terms of man hours decreased from .040 man hours per dollar of sales in August to .016 in December, reflecting increased efficiency and sales activity.

Veterans of World War II have purchased surplus costing more than $6,000,000, paying $2,484,000 in cash. A total of 31,801 veterans are still holding certificates for purchases.

Governor Proclaims Co-operative Month

Michigan and the nation are hunting for a way to stabilize our economy, to give consumers of this country's vast production fair prices and necessary services.

This search underlines the importance of co-operation and understanding of each other's problems by both producers and consumers, whose needs today are so inter-woven.

For example, the farm dwellers, who make up nearly half our population, are consumers of much of our industrial production. The city dwellers are dependent for their food, their clothing and other necessities on the raw materials produced in the rural area.

In Michigan, nearly 60 per cent of the farm families are practicing co-operation already, through their membership in more than 200 co-operative enterprises. Last year, Michigan's farm co-operatives did $161,450,000 worth of business; and farmers, through their co-operative memberships, increased their buying power by $4,000,000.

The objectives of these agricultural co-operatives are to improve the economic and social position of the family-sized farm through efficient production and marketing, and reasonable prices. The effect is to help stabilize industry.

Therefore I, Kim Sigler, governor of the State of Michigan, proclaim January as co-operative month in Michigan and ask all Michigan citizens, in the city and in the country, to find a common basis for understanding and appreciation of the aims of the co-operative movement.

Grayling Now Has Additional Ski Slope At Sports Area

An additional ski slope west of the toboggan house will supplement the older ski slope east of the toboggan house when the Michigan Winter Sports Area at Grayling opens on the last weekend of the month, the conservation department's parks division reports. Both new and old slopes will be equipped with ski tows.

First skiers in the winter recreation area, from Grosse Pointe, had a pre-season tryout of the snows and slopes here December 13.

The parks division has announced that the toboggan slide, ski tows and other facilities will be operated full scale Friday, Saturday and Monday through the winter season, with the area open to individual activities on other days of the week. Limited supplies of skis and snowshoes are available for rent, but winter sports fans are urged, whenever possible, to bring their own.

Interest Increasing In State Land Sales

Popular interest in sales of state lands has continued so high that there has been a net reduction in state ownership of northern Michigan lands of 95,000 acres in the last two years, according to conservation department land division records.

Additions to state lands be reversion of 25,000 acres and purchase of 165,000 acres in the last two years has been more than offset by sales of 200,000 acres and exchange of 85,000.

Such a volume of inquiries has resulted from the unprecedented interest in northern state lands as potential cabin sites that the lands division now is asking inquirers, as the first step, to consult the state land circular before ordering maps and land lists. The state land circular describes the types of tax reverted lands available and the procedure for buying them.

FRUIT GROWERS' TO MEET AT MSC JANUARY 14, 15, 16

Michigan fruit growers attending the annual Fruit Growers' conference this month will have the opportunity to hear an authority on fruit marketing and packaging.

Mitchel Andrews, Detroit, has spent many years with marketing problems and will tell growers methods they may use to improve the marketing condition of their products.

Use of Game Seals Can Be Very Costly, According to Walker

Sportsmen thinking seriously of regulating the harvest of Michigan small game by means of numbered seals, such as are used for deer, are invited by Gaylord Walker, chief of the conservation department's operations division, to sharpen a pencil and sit down to some astronomical figures.

Michigan this year printed 870,000 small game licenses. Eight pheasant seals for each would mean a total of 6,960,000 seals. Fifteen different seals for grouse would add 13,050,000 for a total of 20,010,000. And some have suggested adding seals for ducks, too.

Small soft-metal seals of the type used on electric meters would require each hunter to carry a special pair of pliers for closing them. Boxcar type seals, such as are now used for deer, cost $6 a thousand. To be practical, small game seals would have to be strong, durable, self locking and usable only once, as deer seals are.

Keeping track of 20,000,000 numbered seals would be work for a battery of bookkeepers. Shipping them would not only greatly increase packaging, postage and express costs, but would require an enlarged shipping department in expanded quarters, working for months instead of weeks, as at present. Allowing one-tenth of an ounce per seal (including stringers and necessarily heavier packaging) would add 125,000 pounds or more than 60 tons to the shipping cost.

Keying printed licenses to seal numbers would boost printing costs. And there is ground for believing license agents would balk at the chore of seeing that each hunter got 23 correctly numbered seals, with no mix-ups.

The rabbit hunter with 23 bird seals he did not want would be in the same position as a man with plenty of blue ration points and a cellar full of home canned goods—but the merits of seals is a problem Walker is not discussing. His concern is with the production and distribution of licenses, and he wants sportsmen seriously considering the seal idea to know, before they go further, that the cost in Michigan would likely be upwards of $150,000.

Evidences of human occupation of the New World from 10 to 15 thousand years ago was discovered last summer by University of Michigan archaeology students, making excavations on the north shore of Georgian Bay in the Manitowlin district of Ontario. Their findings indicate that the men living on this ancient beach were among the first human inhabitants of the Americas.

Dairy Associations Give Good Service To Oakland Farmers

Records indicate that Oakland County's Dairy Herd Improvement Associations, having a total of 12% of the cows in the county, are rendering good service to dairy farmers.

E. W. Alchin, Assistant County Agricultural Agent points out that recent figures released by the Farm Management Department of the Michigan State College put United States milk production per cow at 4860 lbs. per year, with Michigan at 5244 lbs. per cow, while census figures show that cows in Oakland County are producing 5709 lbs. of milk. Although this spread does not look to be too important, incomes from a cow in Oakland County would show approximately $25.00 more gross per year than cows in all other counties in Michigan and nearly $50.00 more than the average cow in the United States.

The Dairy Planning Committee for Oakland County, which assisted the Extension Service in planning Dairy Herd Improvement work, believes that a good deal of this greater production for cows in the county is due to the good breeding program, culling of poor cows and through use of records established on farms by Dairy Herd Improvement testers.

Dairy Herd Improvement tester's records for 1946 indicate that those herds on test, although only 12% of the total are having a very great effect on the total increase of all cows over state and national cow averages.

Farm Records Can Add More Profits

Five minutes a day keeping farm records is the best spent time in all farming operations according to Michigan farmers who have had experience with simplified farm account books.

E. B. Hill, head of the farm management department at Michigan State College, reports an increasing number of farmers using the farm account system developed by MSC specialists. "Farmers who once get in the habit of keeping the book say it is an easy task. They say the time spent keeping farm records is the most profitable five minutes of the days work," Hill explains.

The start of the new year is an excellent time for farmers to begin keeping records. Many farmers have found their wives so interested in the farm account plan that they keep the records. Keeping the books handy to the dining room table, makes possible the making of entries each day after the evening meal.

The real value of farm account books is that the farmer knows what phases of his farming operations are paying a profit. Also of importance is the fact that figures are available to accurately figure income taxes. Records generally improve the efficiency of farming operations and add to the interest in the farm business.

The Michigan Farm Account Books are available from county agricultural agents or from the farm management department at Michigan State College. They are made available to farmers at the cost of the printing. There are two types of books. The brown book is especially adapted for those who have found it difficult to keep records in the past. The blue book, while not difficult, is especially helpful for the farmer who desires to make a farm analysis.

Order Chicks Now Poultrymen Advised

Will I buy chicks this year or will I carry my yearling hens over the second year?

That's a question that Michigan State College poultry department specialists often get this time of the year from farmers throughout Michigan. Howard C. Zindel, extension specialist, says it's an established fact that pullets lay more eggs than hens, and lay them when eggs are selling at the highest prices.

July to December is usually the season of highest egg prices. Early hatched pullets produce more eggs from August through December than will older hens. Older hens hit the production peak in their second year of laying between January and June—when egg prices are usually at their lowest.

Heavy breed yearlings should not be kept over for market eggs alone according to the recommendation of the poultry specialists.

Orders for new chicks should be placed immediately. Soon copies of a list of hatcheries operating under the national poultry improvement program will be available from county agricultural agents and the MSC poultry department. These hatcheries are inspected for control of pullorum disease and chicks are produced from eggs produced from tested and approved flocks.

Chicks should be ordered for early delivery to take advantage of early layers during late summer and early fall. When chicks have been ordered, farmers should then begin making ready a sanitary, warm and roomy brooding house to bring the chicks along in a method that will insure healthful growth.

Holiday Stains Can Be Removed

Holiday entertaining has very likely left you with cranberry, candlewax and other stains on your best linens. Michigan State College home economists advise that you remove them promptly before regular laundering.

Heat and soap may set stains permanently. The first step in removing food stains is scraping off any food dried on the cloth. If you use water or a grease solvent, alternately rub and sponge the fabric. Rub gently so you won't roughen the spot.

If candlewax has dripped on your linens, scrape off the wax with a dull knife. Then sponge the stain with a grease solvent alternately with gently rubbing. Small linen pieces may be dipped in the solvent and gently rubbed. Let the solvent evaporate until the cloth is dry. Then wash in warm soapy water and rinse thoroughly.

Cranberry or other cooked fruit stains should be sponged with cold water first. Boiling water poured on the stain also may be effective. If the stain does not come out entirely, try a drop of lemon juice followed by a thorough rinsing in cool water.

22 gauges in the upper peninsula registered more than a foot of snow on the ground.

The Michigan deer herd, now large partly because of three successive light winters, is "getting a break" as the fourth one starts, Bartlett said. If the deep-snow season should be so prolonged as to threaten deer with starvation in some browsed-out yards, emergency relief in the form of timber cutting is planned.
