Tips From A Tot

He's just a little, stubby boy Of few and tender years, Whose life possesses much of joy, And multitudes of tears. He came to visit us one day, While staying at the lake,

He was all set for lots of play And mischief he could make. The water lured him in to swim He dove right off the dock In water not as deep as him, And struck upon a rock. We thought he had a broken back, By all the fuss he made,

In this wild escapade. His pain was gone in minutes few, And soon there was a smile, His head was patched up good as The lake cleared in a while.

But he had hit his head a crack,

New interests made his sorrow leave. His day was far from spoiled; Young minds don't linger long to grieve · When clothes are slightly soiled. f older folks could just forget The sorrows of their past, And learn to smile instead of fret, Like boys—our peace would last. ROBERT C. BEATTIE

SEED PINE CONES TO SUPPLY SEED

The expanded reforestation program on farms has created a tremendous demand for tree seed in Michigan, according to W. Ira Bull, Michigan State College for-

He reports that in order to grow ment must have large quantities of seed from most of the native coniferous species. These include white pine, red pine, jack pine; and white spruce. This seed will be purchased in the cones by the bushel or extracted seed will be bought by the pound, Bull re-

This year prices which MSC will pay for the cones are: red pine, $8 per bushel; white pine, $1.50 per bushel; jack pine, $2.50 per bushel and white spruce $7 per bushel.

Other coniferous seed needed by the Forestry Department include Balsam fir, white cedar, Norway spruce and Scots pine.

Persons wanting more information on cone collecting should write to the Forestry Department, Michigan State College, East Lansing, Michigan, or the Dunbar Forest Experiment Station, Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan.

Cones collected in the Upper Peninsula should be delivered to Maurice Day, director of the Dunbar Forest Experiment Station. In handled by W. Ira Bull, Forestry book to the Michigan State Fair, Department, Michigan State Col- Detroit.

Fat cows and heifers and heavy bulls intended for slaughter may well be marketed any time now while prices are high and demand is great, advises George A. Branaman, animal husbandry specialist at Michigan State college. Sometimes steers and helfers ere kept on the farm after grass is short and dry and there may be ectual loss in weight. Prices for laughter cattle off grass will doubtless drop some in weeks to ome, Branaman believes. Second growth in hay fields is often used best by opening the gate and allowing cattle to go back and forth from the dry pasture. September rains are expected to start the grass again and additional gains on unfinished cattle continue until hard frosts and freezing. Cattle quit gaining and often lose weight after hard rosts. Cattle started on feed early will help ease the meat situation and also get in ahead of more liberal runs of hogs.

It is often best to start feeding green corn in the milk stage, or to feed oats, barley and wheat, rather than to allow cattle to drift or lose weight on exhausted pastures. Most complete use of a corn crop is obtained when fed green from the field after the corn has lented, Branaman advises. Cattle men in some Michigan areas turn steers into the corn field when kernels are well dented and they have been well pleased with the esults for several years.

Extremely heavy runs of cattle on the market are not expected unless severe drought areas develop. Herds have been culled closely with breeding stock sold out completely in some cases. The specialist concludes that grass cattle will soon be coming to market more liberally; but if a big corn crop eludes drought and frost, there will doubtless be strong demand for feeder cattle.

Conservation News

For the dyed-in-the-wool duck hunter, the later opening of the waterfowl season this year is fully compensated by the simultaneous opening of pheasant season, according to opinions expressed to conservation department game

Opening of the two seasons at noon October 15 will keep out of the marshes, the duck hunters hope, those novices who on opening days of recent years have gone "duck hunting" without boats, decoys or much knowledge of the sport. Their greatest offense has been firing long before the ducks were within range, spoiling the sport of others waiting patiently in nearby blinds,

Upland hunters, in turn, should girls as an evening attraction in find their favorite pheasant shooting grounds less crowded on opening day, with the duck hunters in the marshes.

FIND BLIGHT IN PARTS OF STATE

Reports of late blight on tomatoes and potatoes have come from southeastern parts of Michigan according to John Vaughn, plant pathologist at Michigan State College.

Severity of the infection will depend on the weather betwen now and harvest time, Vaughn reports. Conditions favorable for development of an epidemic include cool humid weather with day temperatures in the seventies and nights in the sixties.

Growers are urged to continue their spraying or dusting and to decrease the interval to every seven days. From now until harvest time, Vaughn advises, it is with a signature a federal migraimportant to keep a spray or dust tory waterfowl stamp.

PROTECTION

·This insignia of one of the nation's most outstanding cooperative organizations—the Michigan Milk Producers Association—is today recognized as a Symbol of Protection for both the consuming public and 15,000 dairy farmer members.

After thirty-one years of conscientious leadership and strict adherence to true cooperative principles, this association is highly esteemed for the vital services rendered in:-

- * Efficient marketing of all milk produced by members and guaranteeing prompt payment.
- Supplying distributors with adequate quantities of high quality milk at all seasons of the year.
- Enabling consumers to have ample supplies of pure, approved milk and cream at an equitable price.

Truly, a Service Organization

A DIMAN

Whether your child is going to school for the first time or just starting back after summer vacation, there is likely to be some dread mixed with his anticipation of school. He needs some "props" from you as he sets forth. Feeling ealthy and rested are of first mportance to him. This means that he needs to be adjusted to a routine schedule before school starts and doesn't come back from the lake late the night before he starts school.

New clothes are a helpful boost o a child's morale. Remember hat it is important to him to be like the gang so be sure that his clothes follow their pattern rathar than what you think he should" wear, Respect his judgment about school equipment; too. Another pointer -- just before chool starts isn't a good time for radical change in a child's appearance. Braids cut off, a new rizzy permanent, new braces on the teeth -- are no help for first appearances. The comment from another child, "Gee, you look different", may be quite upsetting. very embarrassing to him. And lon't go with him or take him inless he wants you to. Let him feel independent -- he probably is thinking of what the "other kids" will say.

Conservation News

Hunters will be able to tell the ock pheasants from the hens this nunting season. The conservation department's game division reports the cocks already are beginning to 'color up" with their distinctive plumage and will be more conspicuous from now on.

The late hatch and consequent carryover of cock birds that showed consistently in winter and spring population counts. The cock to hen ratio in January was one to two-and-a-half where in other years there has been as many as five hens to each rooster.

More than 500 rural mail carriers, reporting the pheasant broods they saw while on their regular runs, counted one-third more broods this summer than a year ago. Two-thirds of this year's hens had broods, where a year ago only about half the hens had broods

The great all purpose

Pontiac is the right car for so many people because it does all things—so unusually well.

If, for instance, you are concerned with economy -as most of us are-you will find that Pontiac is virtually as inexpensive to own and operate as any full size car you could buy.

If you like to tour and take long trips—you will find that Pontiac is one of the easiest-riding, nicest-handling cars ever built.

When you need to "put your best foot forward".

-go to a fashionable wedding or some other social event-you will find that your Pontiac looks "right at home."

A Product of General Motors

And if you have to make hard daily trips over rough country roads—you will find that Pontiac can "take it" like the thoroughbred it is.

Truly, regardless of what you want a car to do, Pontiac provides a splendid answer to your problem. And this is always true of Pontiac, year after year-for Pontiac is deliberately designed to be America's "all-purpose" car. 6 *GM Hydra-Matic Drive and White Sidewall Tires and Bumper Guards optional on all models at additional cost.
