CLARKSTON, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1949

FIREFIGHTERS' SPONSOR FIRST STREET CARNIVAL

The Clarkston Firefighters' Association is sponsoring a spring carnival on W. Washington at Main St. It will continue through Sunday.

In cooperation with the Cote Shows the firemen, with your help will try to raise funds to help them carry on their work.

The Cote rides and amusements are known here as they played in Clarkston last Labor Day.

This year they carry a show displaying a large variety of snakes. It is our understanding that this is not a show with snake charmers, but an instructive display of large and poisonous reptiles that one would rather see in a cage than run upon in the open.

The Cote shows have winter quarters at Utica.

Remember how much the firefighters do to protect you and then boost their first annual festival.

Many Pay Tribute To Honored Dead

Last Monday was a beautiful day, an ideal day for the folks in this district to go to Lakeview cemetery and pay tribute to those who made the supreme sacrifice that we in America might be free to observe just such days.

The parade headed by the colors and the Clarkston School Band arrived in the cemetery in time to start the service about ten o'clock. Reverend F. J. Delaney gave the invocation and the band played the national anthem. Lee Clark read the roll of deceased veterans and the High School Quartet sang "Tenting Tonight". A. E. Butters gave Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and the band played "America". Mr. Butters then introduced Reverend Frederick J. Delaney, pastor of Our Lady of the Lakes Church, who gave a very impressive talk on Memorial Day.

He stressed the fact that in honoring the soldier dead or the disabled veterans we must continue as true Americans to carry the torch for the principles for which they gave their all.

After the placing of the wreath by the Legion Chaplain, Neal Parker, the program closed with the gun salute by the Legion firing squad and Taps by Frank Ronk. Just before the regular program Clark Souby, Commander of the local Legion Post, dedicated the flag pole and the veterans' plot in a very impressive manner.

Science Club News

On Tuesday evening the Homemakers Club gave a surprise party honoring the members of the Domestic Science Club, group I, at the home of Mrs. Matthew Johnson in Clarkston. The members enjoyed a very lovely evening of dancing and playing cards.

On Saturday June 4, the meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Allen Brandau. A discussion will be held on "Manners and Social Customs for our great middle class as well as our best society". THE SAXON CHARM

Anti-Climax

In a lack-luster game Clarkston lost its first game of the season to Waterford 8-4. Both teams were handicapped by lack of players. Seven Clarkston seniors were away on the Senior trip. There were three players and the coach missing from the Waterford team.

Jacobs started on the mound for Clarkston and soon found himself in hot water. He walked the first man and then the next two batters were able to beat out bunts loading the bases. Webster dropped Tomlinson's fly in right field and three runs scored. Lamberton relayed a throw to third to cut off Tomlinson and no one was covering so he scored also. After two were out in the second Stamped walked and Parmenter and Larkin were each dusted off by Jacobs. This filled the bases and Tomlinson singled driving in two more runs. Waterford added two more in the six. These were scored on a hit, two walks, and a fielder's choice.

Clarkston scored one in the third on two hits and a walk. One in the fourth on two walks and a hit. One in the fifth on an error and a hit and one in the seventh on an error and a hit.

Conbear made a one handed catch of Ed Olson's hard drive which saved his team two runs. The Seniors felt bad to have their fine record broken, but they felt no worse than those who played and lost. Even with the one lost this has been the best season in baseball in the memory of this writer.

Local Man Cruises In Mediterranean

Leonard J. Blanz, electronics technician, third class, USN, son of Michael J. Blanz of 9380 Rattalee Lake Road, Clarkston, Michigan, arrived in the Mediterranean aboard the aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea for a six-month cruise which will afford him the opportunity to visit seaports of Europe, and Northern Africa.

First glimpse of the Old World was the Rock of Gibraltar, where he arrived May 14 for a three-day visit, prior to transiting the Straits of Gibraltar for Augusta, Sicily. Important Questions Before Voters

This issue of The Clarkston News contains three registration notices of importance to the citizens of this community. You should read and acquaint yourself with the issues in order to vote wisely.

The township will hold an election on June 30th to decide whether the township shall acquire the building and vacant land on the site now occupied by Seeterlin Bros., and owned by them. This property would be used, at present at least, as a fire hall and garage.

Also on June 30th the citizens of Clarkston will decide whether to purchase the Ford property, including the land, the present building is located upon on W. Washington, water rights, and a lot on M-15 by the waterway from the Mill Pond to Parke Lake. It will be remembered that voters decided to purchase at the first election last year and then at a second election, turned down the purchase by a few votes. The price then was $40,000. The price now is $22,500.

Now also is the time to register for the right to vote at the annual school election for this school district. What happens to the schools of this district is very important and you will want to attend the annual meeting—and if you attend you will want to vote. There are 4 positions on the school board to be filled this year.

It is to the advantage of the voters to be advised upon issues at stake and we are sure the Township Board, the Council and the School Board will be only too glad to answer any questions you may have.

SENIORS THANK CITIZENS FOR WASHINGTON TRIP

Dear Friends:

Pardon us for yawning, but we're so tired from our wonderful trip, that we just can't help it. Of course there's a smile on our faces, too, because we all had the best time ever. With the echoes of "Pittsburgh" and "Martinique" (hotel) still ringing in our ears, we will proceed to relate our story.

Last Wednesday noon (May 25), thirty-nine anxious and excited Seniors and their fine sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Bonner, squeezed themselves and baggage into the school bus and left for Detroit's Michigan Central station. Upon arrival at the station (and a couple of hours' wait) we boarded the B & O "Ambassador", and we were off. We began the trip with a big turkey dinner in the diner, and then played cards and fooled around, like kids always do. The time passed very quickly, and soon a few of the wearier ones dropped off to sleep. Of course there were those who stayed up all night and played poker (ahem!) and threw pillows. The average amount of sleep was about one hour.

Up for breakfast at 6:45 a. m. Our train rolled into the Washington station about 9:30, and as we sleepily stumbled off the train into our chartered bus we managed to catch a glimpse of the Washington Memorial. Then to the Martingue hotel (which was very nice) and preparation for the tours.

Our first stop was at the Bureau

By the Way . . .

Although summer has not arrived as yet, we have passed the first of our long weekends — Memorial Day. Somehow this is the official start of the summer season. In a month comes another long weekend—the 4th of July. Returning traffic was backed up from the Dixie through to Orion Road from about 4:45 until 10:45 p. m.—and we mean bumper to bumper. . . . The dedication of the veteran's plot and flag pole was a beautiful addition to the Memorial Day Program at Lakeview Cemetery under the auspices of the Campbell-Richmond Post No. 63, of the American Legion and under the direction of Clark Souby the Commander of the Post. . . .

Somehow the accounts of the shows sponsored by the Merchants failed to mention a drum solo by one of our town boys, Don Smith, a graduate of the Clarkston High School, who went on to attain heights in his music by working in Ted Weems' orchestra. The exhibition was enjoyed by everyone and many were amazed by the music one could get out of drums alone. . . . The citizens of this community were treated to a free street dance and it remains a question who enjoyed dancing the most — the dancers or the on-lookers. It was a chilly night and some dancers wore gloves. In fact one party had ear muffs with him but did not wear them. The boys in Dub Master's Band did the best they could to keep warm but they had to blow on their fingers to keep them supple enough to play their instruments. The free prize given away each night has not been claimed as yet. Better plan to attend the next party next week. No party this week on account of the Firemen's Festival. . . .

Now and then our friends send us a paper from those far away places. They are always interesting because sometimes they do things so different than we do here. This week Wm. Sharpe of the Sharpe Funeral Home gave us an English paper he had received and called our attention to an obituary it contained. We had understood that paper was rationed in England but now we kind of doubt it, even if an advance in it called attention as to how to obtain the latest ration book. This write-up was over two columns of small type. It mentioned interesting facts of the deceased; the lodges and clubs the deceased belonged to; the survivors of the deceased; the pallbearers and honorary pallbearers; in type sized to ten lines to the inch, thirteen inches of space were used to list those who sympathized (we imagine this meant attended the funeral); then followed in the same type, eighteen inches of those who thought enough of the deceased to send flowers. From carefully reading the news story we can think of nothing that was missing except how many carriages were in the funeral procession — but one has to draw a line somewhere. . . .

of Printing and Engraving where all of the paper money is made. After we finished drooping over this we went on to the Washington Memorial. . . . some bright souls walked up and down (ugh!). Soon we were back at the hotel for lunch.

Our tours for the afternoon included such places as the home of Robert E. Lee, the Lincoln Memorial, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Mount Vernon and other places too numerous to mention. All were extremely beautiful and interesting.

Thursday night we were free to do whatever we so desired. Some went to the theatre, others on a moonlight cruise on the Potomac (in the rain), and still others merely "took in the city". The hotel beds felt very comfy after sleeping in an upright position on the train. Most of us went to bed about 1:00 a. m. and had no trouble getting to sleep.

Breakfast Friday morning was at 8:00. We dragged ourselves out of bed and devoured the food put before us. . . . and on to more tours. The first stop was the spacious Pan American Building. Our guide, Mr. Smith, (who surprisingly resembled President Truman) very ably conducted our tours. He told us many things we would not have known had we gone alone. Also with us was the railroad representative, Mr. Marshall. We visited the Capitol, the Red Cross Building, the Zoo, the Smithsonian institute and many more breathtaking places.

Alas! Our trip was drawing to a close! It seemed we had no sooner arrived than we were going right back to the station.

We are proud of the fact that the hotel and railroad representatives told us we were one of the best groups ever to go on their trip. We had no misfortunes whatsoever, and everything went according to schedule.

We sadly bid adieu to Mr. Smith and took a last happy glance at our surroundings. . . . massive, clean, white stone, and marble structures representing our country. Old Glory waved goodbye from its place on the capitol dome. Remembrances of our trip to Washington will remain for a long time in the hearts of the Seniors of 1949.

And now, people of our town, we would like to thank you most sincerely from the bottom of our hearts, for making this marvelous trip possible, for it was you who helped us in every way you could. Along with the memories we cherish we shall remember you, also. You have done a wonderful thing, and we extend our most appreciative thanks.

Yours very truly
The Senior Class of 1949

The Need Of Our Time

The water ripples at eventide With beckoning call to me inside A-looking out across its blue, With ever changing shades and hue.

I look away from west to east At this great scene of calm and peace.

I see a swallow skimming by And hear the robin's bedtime cry; The squirrels run up and down the trees;

An unknown bird nests 'neath the eaves;

Wild berries bloom just past the door;

The boat rocks lazily at shore. What more is there man could desire.

Than scenes like this and open fire,

Whose flames a cheery radiance form

To add delight and keep us warm? The soul has need in days like these,

For quiet lakes and stately trees, For berry blooms where men don't tread,

And time to love the work of God.

HAYING CAN BE ADAPTED TO RAIN

June brings haying time and the usual prospect of rain on the half-dried hay. There's not much farmers can do about the rain but Ed Alohin, county agricultural agent, says the haying can be adapted to the rain.

Word from J. G. Hays, dairy extension leader at Michigan State College, says that the rain takes away leaves, protein, vitamins, and minerals. But more and more Michigan dairy farmers are settling the problem by not trying to make hay in June. This is particularly true with large herds.

The farmers grind the hay crop into the silo and make their hay from the second cutting when the weather can be counted upon to be sunny. And, by removing the first cutting early, these farmers have better second cuttings to harvest.

Hay points out that it is not particularly easy to make silage out of a soggy hay crop. It takes hard work, costly machinery, and so forth. It calls for the use of molasses or other "preservatives" to guard against the evil smelling milk-polluting butyric acid that comes when too-wet crop is ensiled.

All this is true, he advises, but it is also true that canning up the hay crop of early June "beats the weather hazards, and insures better second cutting for making into hay.

Demonstrations on making hay silage will be shown at many of Michigan's Grass Day demonstrations this June.

CAN PLANT GLADS UNTIL JULY FIRST

Gladioli may be planted any time until July 1st, reports C. E. Wildon of the Michigan State College department of horticulture. For full enjoyment of the blooms, he believes that succession planting should be made at intervals of one to two weeks. Many gardeners have had poor results from gladioli due to infestation by thrips. However, with the new insecticides available, the home gardener need not hesitate to plant gladioli.

Vacation time is once more here in Michigan — and with summer fast approaching many of you will be taking your family to the cottage week-ends . . . or using the trailer for trips about the state. And these coming events call for added safety precautions on the part of every driver!

Why? Because added traffic on our highways demands careful driving. Because a trailer added to your car means extra care on your part . . . and it means extra caution on the part of the other driver, too.

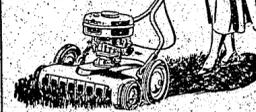

If you drive behind a trailer, take the same precautions you would for a truck. Watch for sudden stops that may make the trailer lurch to one side . . . the very unexpected, when that trailer might become detached from the automobile. And, be especially cautious when trying to pass — make sure the road ahead is perfectly clear and that there's a place for you up ahead in the traffic line. Be sure to sound your horn when passing . . . and never attempt to pass any car on a curve or when going uphill!

Children playing out of doors make your safety precaution doubly necessary! Your constant alertness and heed to the rules of good safe driving will help to keep Michigan's highways safe this Spring and summer. Do your part in keeping Michigan accident fatalities down!

June is Dairy Month

30 IMPORTANT DAYS IN MICHIGAN

June has been proclaimed Dairy Month in Michigan by Governor Williams—not as a good-will gesture to dairy farmers but because dairying is generally considered the state's most essential industry.

Milk provides Michigan farmers their largest cash income—more than 218 million dollars last year.

The million dairy cows on Michigan farms provide in excess of 2 billion 650 million quarts of milk a year.

These dairy herds represent an investment of 273 million dollars just in livestock alone.

But aside from these impressive figures, Milk has won a place in the "Hall of Fame" as the most essential item of food in the American diet—it is indispensable to the Nation's welfare.

More than 15,000 members of this Cooperative are working unitedly to provide their markets with the finest of milk and dairy products. This month they are setting aside a portion of their incomes to help finance both state and national programs of research and experimentation. These projects are carried on to improve the quality of their herds and products and find new uses for milk. All of which contributes to better health and a greater enjoyment of life by all of our people.

U-M ASTRONOMER REPORTS SUMMER IS DUE JUNE 21

Arrival of summer is scheduled for 1:03 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, on Tuesday, June 21.

This event will headline the astronomical calendar for the month, according to Dr. Hazel M. Losh, assistant professor of astronomy at the University of Michigan. The Milky Way and the planets Saturn, Jupiter, Mercury and Venus will be the objects of interest in the night skies during June.

"The sun has been steadily climbing northward since March 20 and on June 21 will enter the Summer Solstice, the point 23 and one half degrees north of the equator and the most northerly point reached by the sun," she explains. "Summer is then said to begin and on this date the northern hemisphere will have the longest day and shortest night of the year. In this area, the day will be about 15 hours long and night will last about nine hours."

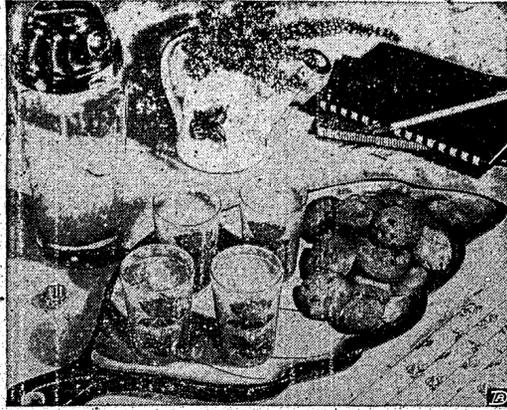

On that day, the sun will rise and set approximately 33 degrees north of the east and west points of the horizon, and the northern hemisphere will receive the most heat in any 24-hour period. This event won't produce the hottest weather of the season since the earth's surface will still be warming up from the winter's cold.

"This warming up process will continue each day until around the first of August when the amount of heat received from the sun and the amount lost by radiation will be equal," Dr. Losh explains. "Our hottest weather should arrive at that time. Thereafter, the amount of heat lost each day will begin to exceed the amount received and the long cooling-off process that will produce our winter weather will begin."

The Milky Way will come into view during the evening hours and be visible throughout the night during June. This broad expanse of light will stretch across the eastern sky from north to south during the early evening and move westward as the hours advance. Dr. Losh says field glasses or a small telescope will show this seemingly confused and hazy stream to be composed of numberless points of light, coming from thousands of suns.

Here are some easy directions to locate the planets visible during June. Locate the nearly quarter moon on June 2 and you'll see Saturn close by. Jupiter will be the brightest object in the southeast sky around midnight at the first

Frozen Orange Juice Concentrate Takes Chore From Breakfast Menu Planning

Courtesy "Birds Eye"

It's no chore to give the family fresh-tasting orange juice every morning if you take advantage of the new quick-frozen concentrated sort. This orange juice comes in six-ounce cans that can be easily stored in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator. When it's time for orange juice, just turn the contents of one of the small cans into a shaker or a pitcher, and add three cans of cold water. That is 18 ounces or 2 1/2 cups of water. Then shake or stir vigorously and pour. Without any of the mess of squeezing and straining, you will have six 4-ounce glasses full of juice that can't be distinguished from the fresh-squeezed kind.

It's not only at breakfast that the new quick-frozen concentrated juice is a convenience. When the children come dashing in from play with the cry, "I'm thirsty!" you can give them this wholesome drink in a jiffy. It's a delicious between-meal or bedtime pick-up for grown-ups, too. And it's an easy and flavorful addition to fruit juice and cold tea punches, and the basis of many tempting desserts.

Here's another point that makes quick-frozen concentrated orange juice easy to use: You will be spared that early morning worry about how many oranges are needed for the breakfast setup. Each little can, reconstituted with water, always gives just so much—six full 4-ounce glasses.

ORANGE JUICE FROSTING

1/2 cup butter
1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar (about)
1/2 cup quick-frozen orange juice, thawed

Cream butter. Add sugar and orange juice alternately, heating until of right consistency to spread. Makes 2 cups, or enough frosting to cover tops and sides of two 8-inch layers generously.

of the month and about 10 p. m. at the end of June. Venus will be easily visible in the western sky during the twilight hours. Mercury will be more difficult since it won't be visible in the east until just before sunrise during the last few days of the month.

WATCH YOUR CHILD'S POSTURE

One of the very finest gifts you can give your child is good posture and you can start helping him to have this precious gift when he's a baby.

Some important points to remember about the young child's posture are suggested by Josephine Hoke, Home Demonstration Agent. They are some of the rules that Elizabeth Page of the Michigan State College Nursery school staff insists upon following.

Let your baby use his sitting and standing muscles gradually. Don't leave him sitting for long periods in walker until his back or leg muscles are tired. Don't leave him for an extended period standing and holding himself up by the sides of the play pen.

Remember that crawling is a normal activity of the baby and a preliminary of walking. Buy soft soled shoes until a child is walking. Firm soles should be worn after a child is walking. Be sure shoes are purchased one inch longer and one-fourth inch wider than the child's feet.

Let children go barefoot on grass and sand but shoes should be worn for walking on hard surfaces.

Always lift children under their arms. Don't pull or swing a child by his arms.

CHERRY PIE CONSUMPTION ON HIGH GEAR

Reports from the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicated that on April 1, 34,340,000 pounds of frozen cherries were in storage while on May 1 the report showed the stock was 26, 185,000 pounds showing that the public had consumed 8,155,000 pounds during April, reports Lawrence O'Neill, Chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Industry, Michigan Department of Agriculture.

This is significant to both producers and consumers, as last year 52 per cent of the national sour cherry crop was produced in Michigan.

Mr. O'Neill states according to the present consumption trend, last year's crop will all be consumed before this year's crop is harvested. Some frost damage will tend to shorten the 1949 crop.

CAMPAIGN AIDS IN FLY KILLING

A catchy slogan—Kill That Fly Before July—is being used in a number of areas to spark fly eradication campaigns. It's a good community project, advise Michigan State College extension specialists.

A beginning point is often a volunteer check-up of fly breeding places. Thorough clean-up will aid in getting rid of these breeding places.

Some communities plan a spray campaign to cover the entire city. It's a program that draws participants from all segments of the community. And the freedom from flies this summer will be of benefit to everyone.

MACHINERY SHOW TO BE FEATURE OF GRASS DAYS

Displays of the latest equipment for the harvesting and handling of forage crops will be a highlight of the statewide Grass Day programs this month.

All major companies have indicated they will participate, reports Arthur J. Bell, extension specialist in agricultural engineering at Michigan State College. The exhibits will be prepared by local implement dealers in the different areas.

All machinery used in seeding, harvesting, and handling forage crops will be shown. These include: balers, forage harvesters, bale loaders, forage wagons, bale elevators, blowers, rakes, mow driers, tractors, grass seeding equipment, and field choppers.

Several companies have reported they will be showing new equipment for the first time. New designs in forage harvesters, rakes and wagons will be featured.

In 1948 an average of 70 pieces of machinery was displayed at each meeting. This equipment is displayed in the morning and then demonstrated in the field in the afternoon.

Factory representatives will be on hand to discuss their machinery with interested farmers.

Bell urges all farmers to attend the Grass Day in their area to learn how improved farm machinery can be used in their farming program. The programs are sponsored by the Michigan State College extension service in conjunction with county agricultural agents and local planning committees.

LISTS PRACTICAL CANNING RULES

Grandmother canned everything in sight and saved money—can you do the same? Do you know that your canning efforts save you money—or do you guess that they do?

Suggestions for practical canning come from Roberta Hershey, extension foods specialist at Michigan State College. She considers all the angles and does some practical arithmetic when deciding whether to can.

Records show that it costs at least five or six cents a jar to can most products. Higher than average fuel costs may make the canning cost even higher. Then there's the cost of the product to be canned to consider particularly if you have to buy it. Of course surplus garden products that would be wasted otherwise present a different situation.

Another consideration for canning is storage space for those beautiful jars of fruits and vegetables. If you haven't a good cold, dry place to store them they won't be nearly so tempting next winter and are much more likely to spoil.

Proper equipment for canning is a very important part to consider because it is necessary in processing foods that will keep. For fruits and tomatoes a large container that will work as a hot water bath is ideal. It should be deep enough so that the jars placed in it in a rack will be at least two inches under the top of the water.

All vegetables need to be canned in a pressure pan. To destroy all spoilage germs, foods need to be processed longer in a small saucepan than in a large pressure cooker. Oven canning is very dangerous and very undependable.

CHILDREN REVEAL GROWTH IN PLAY

When little Susy scolds her dolly and threatens her with punishment, Susy is not just playing, she is imitating the way she is disciplined.

Children's play is more than a pastime, it is a serious business to them and they will tell a great deal about themselves while they play. If you take the time to watch and listen you can learn much about your children.

Bernice Borgan who is in charge of the nursery school at Michigan State College warns against drawing sweeping conclusions about a child's feelings from his behavior at play. About one-fourth of his play has deeper meanings about his feelings and the rest of his time he is reflecting what he sees and hears.

A child who plays unfairly may be reflecting his feeling of having been so treated by others. Undercurrents of jealousy may be seen which in real life are not shown. Children cannot always tell you what is going on inside their heads but they may show you in their play.

In the scoldings which Susy passes on to her dolls or animals you may hear the same words and tone of voice that you once used in scolding Susy. Be alert and you can learn much about your child's growth as he plays.

EXPENSE CHECK WISE PROCEDURE

Falling income is something that is affecting all farmers these days. Cutting expenses is one good way to combat the reduction in income.

They advise farmers to use their account books to determine their major expense items. Then when it comes to cutting expenses they will know where it may be possible to start.

A general rule can be applied to expenses. If the proposed expense is to be justified as being anything except a luxury or contribution to better living, it should either increase farm income by more than the amount of the new expense or else decrease some other item of expense by more than that amount.

Conservation News

Forest fires continued to decline last week with only 515 burned acres, the conservation department reports.

District five, composed of the eight counties in the extreme northern part of the lower peninsula, had no fires to add to the week's total of 62. The extreme eastern and western counties of the upper peninsula had less than three acres gutted by fire.

More deer than sharp-tail grouse were spotted on Drummond Island for the first time in several years, a spring survey by conservation department game men shows.

Department game workers Arlo Boyce and Andy Ammann counted 310 deer and 231 sharp-tails. Last year's survey found the grouse the more dominant game, 233 to 230. Ammann believes heavy hunting pressure last year is partly responsible for sharp-tail numbers remaining about the same. Until this spring, the flock had increased in size each year since the original planting of 37 birds in 1941.

The deer population increase on the island is not exactly a blessing, I. H. Bartlett, department deer specialist, points out. There still are more deer in places in the state than the winter feed can support, he cautions.

Development of a public fishing site on Big Bay de Noc, heavy concentration area for walleyed pike the last two years, was completed in time for the season opener May 21.

The site, which will provide parking space and boat launching facilities, is located south of U. S. 2, about four miles east of Isabella, Delta county.

In these waters, where sport and commercial fishermen have taken unusual numbers of walleyes, the season runs from May 21 to March 31 of the following year, the same as in Lake Michigan proper.

Stubborn beavers and mischievous raccoons are leading conservation department field men a merry chase.

One upper peninsula beaver wore out his welcome as far as Ben Kelley of Altenville was concerned. The beaver roomed and boarded for two days and nights in Kelley's milk house and couldn't be prodded into shortening his stay. Conservation officer Ray Walker finally applied the "bag treatment" and removed the protesting animal to the Carp river.

Three Jackson raccoons went on a destructive toot in the Clark lake cottage of Phillip Reynolds. Gaining entrance from under the cottage, the raccoons moved in and chewed holes in the walls as well as wood from five window frames. Teltale evidence indicated the animals made themselves at home in every room in the cottage, Derrill H. Kniss, investigating officer, says.

Competing on the most difficult and spectacular archery range in the state, Lois Ketzler of Flint and Harold Doan of Adrian walked off with top honors at the Pontiac Lake recreation area course in the first state-wide meet of the year. The meet also drew Michigan Archery Association members from Detroit, Bay City, Saginaw, Algonac, Pontiac, Jackson, Lagrange, Ypsilanti and Hastings.

The course was developed by the Pontiac Archery Club with the help of the conservation department's parks division.

The Algonac state park course will be the site of a state-wide meet at a date to be set in August.

GARDEN TOOLS REQUIRE CARE

With gardening season in full swing, Michigan State College extension specialists advise care in the use of garden tools. Accidents frequently happen from the improper use of these common implements.

Replace split or broken handles, they point out. Carry cutting tools with blade or points facing down.

Pruning is much easier when you use the notch provided in the blade for cutting woody stems.

A word of caution is given concerning other tools. When you set aside the rake, hoe, spade or fork, leave them with tines and blades downward.

More deer than sharp-tail grouse were spotted on Drummond Island for the first time in several years, a spring survey by conservation department game men shows.

Department game workers Arlo Boyce and Andy Ammann counted 310 deer and 231 sharp-tails. Last year's survey found the grouse the more dominant game, 233 to 230. Ammann believes heavy hunting pressure last year is partly responsible for sharp-tail numbers remaining about the same. Until this spring, the flock had increased in size each year since the original planting of 37 birds in 1941.

INSPECT DRESS BELTS BEFORE BUYING
To clean or not to clean? That is the question about the average dress belt. If it is cleaned many things may happen to make it no longer wearable because of the way it is made. Yet, if it isn't cleaned, the soiled belt will no longer match the dress.

When you buy, advise Josephine Hoke, Home Demonstration Agent, look out for cardboard, rubberized and paper taping on belts. They will not withstand dry cleaning. An easy way to detect nonpermanent materials is to bend the belt. If the back of the belt looks as though it could be peeled off easily, you can be sure the belt will not dry clean.

Unless you see stitching on all sides of the belt and whenever the dress material and the backing are bonded together, you may be sure that glue has been used. Dry cleaning will remove the soil but it also dissolves the glue.

Price is no guarantee against poor belts. When you buy you need to examine the garments critically, look for labels and ask the clerk for information.

FIRST-AID KITS INCLUDED IN FARM EQUIPMENT

Modern farm equipment includes suitable first-aid kits located in the home and in convenient spots about the farmstead, advises Ed Alchin, county agricultural agent.

He points out that prompt and correct treatment of the minor injuries often prevents serious infection. It's a simple matter to provide homemade first-aid kits at low cost.

The following is a suggested list of requirements for first-aid kits:

Rolls of adhesive tape of varying width; sterile cotton; swabs and sticks; sterile white cloth for large bandages and tourniquets; tube of sterile white vaseline for minor burns; scissors; boric acid; compound tincture of benzoin; an accepted antiseptic; and aromatic spirits of ammonia.

These should be placed in a tight box, preferably metal, similar to a small cash box or fishing tackle box. The box should be thoroughly clean and well labeled.

It is particularly desirable to locate first-aid kits in such places as the house, the barn, the farm shop, or machine shed. Small kits might well be included as standard equipment on the farm tractor, combine or other equipment.

MICHIGAN Motoring

With the beginning of the vacation season, we Michigan citizens become increasingly aware of our own good fortune in living in one of the greatest vacation spots in America. With hundreds of beautiful lakes just a short drive away, the highways and county roads of Michigan will be teeming with vacationists—not only from Michigan but from all over the United States.

We welcome these visitors to Michigan, but these extra autos on the road demand extra caution on the part of every driver. Take Mackinac City, for instance, where you'll find autos bearing license plates from every state in the union—hundreds and hundreds of cars lined up to take one of the big ferries across the lake to St. Ignace. These crowds can be dangerous, if just one driver takes a chance. That one bad driver can cause a smashup involving the autos of ten good drivers. He can be the means of tragic injuries and death to many, many people.

So make your vacation trip a safe one. Make it an enjoyable occasion and a happy memory by playing safe—all the way, with good common sense safe driving. In summer-time more than ever you must be careful—you must drive safely to save lives!

ADVICE ABOUT KEEPING WELL
★ "The man who thinks to conserve his health by uselessness and ease does not differ from him who guards his eyes by not seeing, and his voice by not speaking; . . . Least of all it is to be assumed that laziness is healthful, if it destroys what health aims at; and it is not true that inactive people are more healthy."
This excerpt from Plutarch's essay Advice About Keeping Well, written over 2,000 years ago, might have been written yesterday. Had medicine and pharmacy been as well developed then as they are today, we are certain he would have stressed the value of a periodic physical examination by a qualified physician. By the same reasoning, it is wise to take your prescription to a registered pharmacist for expert compounding. We are prescription specialists.

WANTED — A correspondent in Drayton Plains. Call at The News office, 6188 S. Main St., Clarkston or phone collect, Clarkston 4321.

FORT ON ST. IGNACE SITE WAS BUILT 258 YEARS AGO

A symbol of French might amid thousands of volatile Indians, Fort de Baude was constructed in 1690 at the present site of St. Ignace. The outline of the fort's earthworks are still visible in "Old Fort Field" on a hill on Fort St., just back of Marquette Park, according to information in the Michigan Historical Collections at the University of Michigan. Its strong ramparts were intended to swing the Redmen from British influence and impress upon them the benefits of once more paying allegiance to the French. The fort was an effort by the new French governor of Canada, Louis de Baude, Count Frontenac, to indicate that the French still were vitally interested in the region.

Frontenac previously had been governor and had held the Indians to French allegiance with a firm hand. But after his recall in 1682, a succession of weak governors had let the British gain some influence in the area. King Louis XIV had renamed Frontenac governor to once again assert French dominance.

When the fort was put up, the spot already was fairly well populated. Two Indian villages, a settlement of traders and a Catholic mission were there.

At that time the entire Straits region was known as Michilimackinac, and the new fort was called Michilimackinac much of the time, Michigan Historical Collections material shows.

In 1694, the very able Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac became commandant at Fort de Baude. Michilimackinac then was the focus of vast Indian intrigue that existed throughout the west. It had also become the meeting place of several thousand Indians of various tribes, including the Chippewas, Ottawas, and Hurons, who continually were threatening war upon one another and the French.

It was Cadillac's job to band together this potpourri of savage hatred so as to stave off English advances in the territory. This he did to considerable extent by continually displaying French strength and by sending frequent parties of warriors eastward to fight the Iroquois. The Iroquois formed a common foe since they were enemies of the Indians in the Straits area and were considered as hostile to the French because they were friends of the British.

During the four years he was at the fort, Cadillac also found time to pen an exhaustive "Memoir" of the Upper Country which is one of the most revealing of its time.

In 1696, Louis XIV ordered all western posts closed as a means of reducing the production of furs which were a glut on the market and of protecting the Indians from what many claimed were degrading influences of the traders.

When the order finally reached him, Cadillac, who believed the French should hold the west, reluctantly abandoned his post and went to Quebec. Fort de Baude never again was garrisoned.

TELEPHONE EXPECTS TO COMPLETE TESTIMONY

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company expects to complete its direct testimony this week in support of its application for a $20,400,000 rate increase following a declaration from its president, Thomas N. Lacy, that the company is as interested as the public in "keeping rates reasonable."

As the first witness before the Michigan Public Service Commission at the hearing, which had been in recess since Jan. 26, Lacy said, "it is just plain good business for the company to be interested in reasonable rates." He said higher rates were necessary to insure the continuation of good service.

The company's request would mean $12,648,000 after federal taxes. Rate increases would average 4.5 cents a day per customer and 2.7 cents a day for home phone users.

At the outset of the hearing, Stuart B. White, Commission chairman, denied a pending motion by the city of Detroit to set aside the company's plea for immediate relief of $9,820,000. The Commission also denied a motion by the Michigan Hotel Association that the company's request be reduced by $12,000,000 on the contention that amount had been disallowed by previous action of the Commission in its order of last October raising rates $8,200,000.

Ferry B. Allen, assistant comptroller, testified to the greatly increased costs of business, pointing out that revenues have failed to keep pace with operating expenses.

Jean Allen, Kroger home economist, has prepared a special booklet to delight the heart of every bride. It contains seven Wedding menus, forty-three recipes, new ideas on how to serve and what to serve at a home reception. Just write Jean Allen, Kroger Food Foundation, 1212 State Avenue, Cincinnati 4, Ohio. Your copy will be mailed to you free. It's another Kroger service to present and future homemakers.

Conservation News

Conservation officers again are warning well-meaning but thoughtless persons against picking up helpless young deer they may find "lost" in the woods. First fawns of the season are being spotted in several places throughout the state.

Fawn kidnapers are subject to prosecution. Each year a number of fawns stolen from their homes in the woods become wards of the Ogemaw refuge, where they are bottle-fed until they can look after themselves.

No pet permits, the department emphasizes, are issued to any private persons to rear wild fawn.

Novice mushroom hunters out this spring, who may not know the difference between the tasty morels and the deadly poisonous amanitas, are advised to team up with veteran gatherers for that first field trip.

REGISTRATION NOTICE FOR SCHOOL ELECTORS

The first day of registration for electors in the Clarkston School District will be Saturday, June 11th. Voters may register week days between 9:00 A. M. and 6:00 P. M., at the O'Dell Drug Store or at Ainsley-Henry's and evenings after 4 o'clock at 6542 Church Street. The final day will be Saturday July 2nd, 1949.

Voters who have registered prior to June, 1947, must have voted in one of the last two annual elections or registered to remain a qualified school elector.

Petitions are available for replacing 4 members of the Board this year — 2 for a three year period; 1 for a two year period and 1 for a year period.
