Phone Co. Increases Long Distance Rates

A $4,800,000 emergency increase in revenues on long distance calls within the state has been granted the Michigan Bell Telephone Company by the Public Service Com-

The increase was ordered after evidence showed the company has been losing $2,000,000 a year on its intrastate toll business with the deficit increasing at the rate of $750,000 a year. The Commission noted the increase would permit a return to Michigan Bell of "not more than 5.3 per cent."

Terming the increase "much less than we feel is justified, Thomas N. Lacy, president of the company, said it is welcomed "because our need for it is so urgent.' He called for a prompt and expeditious determination of the company's overall request for a $20,000,000 increase which was filed last December, Until that time, he said the company is unable to proceed with its construction plans for the future.

Lacy pointed out that the company's return on investment has peen less than 4 cents on the dollar for the better part of the last 2 and one-half years.

After Federal taxes, the increase means less than $3,000,000 a year to the company and its overall of Northville will be the guest Clark Gable - Jeanette MacDonald $20,000,000 increase would become about $12,500,000.

Under the purchase agreement plan, the farmer receives a contract from the Commodity Credit the price support rate for his wheat after April 30, 1950, if he holds it until then because of inability to get the support price on the open market. The farmer is under no compulsion to hold his wheat until April 30, 1950, nor is he under any compulsion to sell his wheat then or at any other time to the government.

Under the loan program, wheat stored on the farm must be stored in acceptable storage structures approved by the county AAA committee and, in the case of warehouse storage; must be stored in CCC-approved elevators.

The details of the program ar practically the same as last year except that the closing date for eligibility is a month later this 3,000 acre Pontiac Recreation area year than last. COLORFUL STARS MARK JULY, U-M ASTRONOMER SAYS

Red, blue and orange stars will provide a splash of color in the skies during July nights, according to a University of Michigan

Almost directly overhead will be Vega, a bright blue star located in the constellation of Lyra. Another blue-white star, Deneb, will be visible in the early evening hours in the Northern Cross, just to the north of the zenith, or center of the sky.

The orange touch will be provided by Arcturus in the western sky while the red will come from the giant star, Antares. Antares is in the constellation Scorpius at the southern end of the Milky

"These variations in the color of the stars are due to their temperatures," Dr. Hazel M. Losh, assistant professor of astronomy at the University of Michigan, explains, "The blue stars are the hottest with perhaps a temperature of 10,000 degrees Centigrade. The orange and blue stars are somewhat cooler, perhaps 4,000 to 3,000 degrees Centigrade."

If crops are to produce maximum yields, the extra 650 to 2150 tons of water or 6.5 to 21.5 inches of rain equivalent must be added through the use of irrigation.

In an experiment conducted by Carolus near East Lansing in 1948, snap beans, tomatoes, and sweet corn all responded to irrigation. Beans gave the greatest precentage of yield increase when eight inches of water was applied during the season. Wax beans gave an increase of 55 percent, while green beans increased 31 percent.

Tomatoes and sweet corn gave the greatest increase in yield when four inches of water was applied. Tomatoes yielded 65 to 70 percent more and sweet corn gave increases of 110 to 142 percent.

In addition to increased yields due to irrigation, quality was also improved. Percentage of sweet corn that was marketable increased 58 percent.

Portable irrigation pipe and water from a nearby creek were used in these trials.

Not over seventy-five years ago a man of superior intelligence could possess a working knowledge of all of science. Now, however, the realm of the known is so vast that it is necessary for men to specialize in order to master one small but deep corner of scientific knowledge.

Thus we have the physician, who diagnoses unsease and prescribes medication and treatment. The pharmacist compounds and dispenses. Both the physician and the pharmacist benefit greatly from the researches of the biologist, the chemist, the physiologist, and the physicist, to name but a few.
